

Royalty wants rodeo ride with mayor

At the request of Princeton Royalty Committee, Mayor Randy McLean has agreed to share parade space with Miss Princeton and her princess.

Town Council received a letter from Princeton Royalty asking if the young women could ride with the mayor in the Keremeos Rodeo parade this year, as Princeton's royalty did last year. Mayor McLean appeared happy to oblige.

Search and Rescue make money plea

Cst. Tracy Ross and Jay Noppe made a presentation to Town Council on February 2. On behalf of Princeton's Search and Rescue Society, they asked for $5,100 for basic "ready" packs, $200 of which is for first aid kits. The 12 person crew needs ten new compasses, flashlights, and Geographic Positioning Systems (GPS). They would like enough equipment to train more people, and have people interested in taking the training.

Council asked how much they would like next year.

Cst. Ross told Council the group would like $7,500 for embankment equipment and equipment for swift water rescue.

Mayor Randy McLean asked whether Search and Rescue had approached service clubs such as Rotary or Lions to assist with the cost. He told them it is important to involve as many participants as possible.

No Hike in Provincial camping rates

Lands and Parks Minister Cathy McGregor announced last week there will be no hike in provincial campground fees for 1998.

Provincial parks offer affordable camping rates.

"Camping is a favourite pastime for thousands of families in British Columbia," McGregor said, "Our goal is to maintain an affordable and accessible vacation experience for as many people as possible."

Harvest begins in Town's forest

Three Councillors, Area H Director Linda Allison, and a few others had a close-up look last Wednesday at the harvest in progress in at the Community Forest. Councillors George Armstrong and Jim Manion were nonchalant about the operation, but it was new to Councillor Kathleen Clement, who asked a great many questions about logging and logging equipment.

The Community Forest is located on Smith Creek, on the high plateau south of Princeton, is divided into two cut blocks, one 62 hectares and the other 106 hectares. The forest is not high quality timber. It is a mixture of standing dead small diameter trees, over-mature lodgepole pine of various sizes, and some good spruce of saw log quality.

The 62 hectare block is estimated at 12,000 cubic metres, but no estimate of value can be made. Value depends on the market.

On the landing, logs are sorted into small diameter wood for sale to Princeton Wood Preservers, and saw logs for sale to Weyerhaeuser.

Mac Lind Logging is doing the harvesting, with Peter McDonald, of Weyerhaeuser, as logging supervisor. The operation is a clearcut, with a feller-buncher doing the cut, and a grapple loader and limber on the landing.

Revenue generated by the sale of Community Forest timber will be returned to the community, 25 per cent for the Community Skills Centre, and 75 per cent for cultural and recreational support, according to Councillor Jim Manion.

Logger humour was in evidence along the access roads, where intersections were marked with signs saying "Bridge Street" and "Vermilion Avenue".

Logging may be shut down by March 1, as the soil is not frozen, and the melt has begun even at the 5,500 foot (1,800 metre) elevation. At this point in the operation, there is no way to calculate the revenue.

"It may take a year before we know what it's worth," says Manion.

Reader claims first robin

Ramona Williams called last week to say she had seen a robin across from Rotary Park. She suspects it may be the first robin of spring.

If robins are here, can buttercups be far behind? Is anybody going to do a buttercup patrol for the News Leader?

Rotary selects town

Princeton's Rotarians have selected St. Cesaire, a town the size of Princeton, as a recipient for Princeton Ice Storm Relief Fund. St. Cesaire has a population of 3,057 in town, with 1,600 in the farm area surrounding the town.

St. Cesaire was out of power for 26 days, while the rural area was without power for 29 to 30 days. Town Hall was on a generator until January 28. The countryside began to receive power two days later, but as of February 5, 10 farms were still without power.

Losses are heavy and widespread. Farmers have lost cows, pigs and other livestock because of lack of water, heat or feed.

People within the town area suffered many losses.

Princeton people have an opportunity to help the people of St. Cesaire by contributing to the Ice Storm Relief Fund through CIBC or Valley First Credit Union.

Rodeo Club plans plenty of fun

Princeton Rodeo Club members often dwell on all the problems, but when it is time to make a decision, they opt for the fun of their lives. This year's annual general meeting was no exception. The club starts the year in slightly better financial shape than last year, but they are not a rich club. Despite lack of money, members decided to proceed with a rodeo, the Pony Express, a trail ride, and a dinner to honour longstanding local ranchers. The editor of this local newspaper tried to persuade the club to sponsor a "best butt" contest, but the butt idea was left to be considered.

A new executive was elected. Bob Wicks returns as President, Linda Allison is Vice-President, Secretary/Treasurer is Lori Thomas and Directors are Mona Willis, Stan Thompson, Ev Beale, Charlene Ferguson, Karen Beaupre, and Jack Thomas.

RCMP seek Hit and Run Offender

A black 1992 Ford 4 X 4 pick-up was struck in a hit and run crime sometime between 8:30 p.m. last Tuesday evening and 10:30 a.m. the following morning.

The damaged vehicle was parked along the road on Second Street, in front of a residence by the Fire Hall. The driver's side of the vehicle was damaged.

The suspect vehicle is believed to be blue. Parts of the offending vehicle were found at the scene.

Anyone with information regarding this hit and run incident is asked to call Princeton Detachment office at 295-6911 or CRIMESTOPPERS

The club welcomed Bert and Geri Beeman, of the Tonasket Comancheros, who came for information on the Pony Express Ride, and offered some advice based on their own experience.

A tentative date, May 29, has been set for the Pony Express. Roy Harker volunteered to hold a welcoming barbecue at his home for the riders, who will come from Tonasket to Princeton this year.

May 30 is the tentative date of a Princeton rodeo. The type of rodeo has not been decided.

March 25 is the tentative date set for the dinner. Tickets will be sold

B.C. gains from Latin America Trade Mission

B.C. companies signed more than 13 contracts worth a total of $68 million on the Team Canada trade mission to Latin America last month.

Memorandums of agreement worth an additional $41 million were signed. These include lines for credit, working agreements and tourism packages with the potential for even greater future deals.

Westcoast Energy has a memorandum of agreement to jointly explore pipeline and power project opportunities in Mexico's natural gas sector. Fording Coal Ltd. signed two contracts in Mexico to ship coal to Mexico from its two mines in B.C. The Bank of Hongkong of Canada and Northstar Trade Finance of Richmond, B.C., have established lines of credit for Latin American interest to purchase Canadian products and services.

for the dinner as soon as details have been worked out.

Members want to see more people take part in the Pony Express, not as riders, but as drivers and passengers, to see how much fun the ride can be. If interested, contact a Rodeo Club member.

Attorney General Ujjal Dosanjh presents a long service award to Charlene Longdo at a ceremony in Victoria. Longdo has been with the local Government Agent's office for 25 years.

Longdo receives Award

Charlene Longdo attended a banquet in Victoria on November 10, 1997, at Government House. She and approximately 120 other government employees received Long Service Awards.

Longdo receive a 25 year certificate and pin. She began working at the Government Agent office in Princeton on July 17, 1972.

Longdo plans to continue working until she has 35 years in service.

"That will be good news for Cheryl (Government Agent)," says Longdo, "I keep teasing her that I'm going to retire anytime."

Change Heritage to History

Chris Pond says he thinks he knows why there is little enthusiasm among some people for a "heritage" walk around Princeton. "I think people are scared off by the name "heritage", Pond says.

The concept of a heritage walk may bring to mind some restrictions imposed if a building is designated a heritage building. The idea of the heritage walk around Princeton is to provide tourists with an activity of interest. There would be a map of the town, and plaques on buildings saying how old the building is, and some of the history of the building and the people who occupied it.

"There may be a better reaction if we call it a historical walk," Pond says, "People seem to accept 'historic' better."

Trucker admits guilt

Stanley R. Copperthwaite was driving a tractor trailer unit on September 21, 1992, when he lost control of it. The truck loaded with over 37 tonnes of zinc ingots went over an embankment on Highway 3. A passerby stopped to check on the driver's condition and smelled alcohol on Copperthwaite's breath.

Copperthwaite was later arrested for driving while impaired, after breath tests gave a reading of .13.

Copperthwaite had given police a false name when he was arrested. He had a prior impaired conviction just one month before the highway mishap. When released from custody, Copperthwaite went to Alberta.

While in Alberta, Copperthwaite did time for an accumulation of driving charges. He told the court that he had requested all charges against him be taken to the court in Alberta and dealt with at the same time. The Princeton area charge had been left in B.C.'s jurisdiction. When he returned to B.C., he was apprehended.

In the meantime, Copperthwaite had dealt with his alcohol abuse problem, and had not touched alcohol for three and a half years. Judge D.B. Overend considered the circumstances of the 41 year old Coquitlam man, who is employed and has a family. Copperthwaite was given a 4 month conditional sentence on the charge of driving with a blood alcohol level over .08, a four month concurrent sentence for giving a false name, and a 12 month probation with community work service. Copperthwaite loses his driving privileges for one year.

Ice storm cripples Orkneys

Canada's recent experience with ice storms was repeated in the Orkney Islands in northern Scotland last month. An ice storm swept in from the North Sea, straight out of Russia, knocking out electrical service for a week.

The islands were literally crippled, as the islands were inaccessible during the storm. Most homes depend on electrical heat sources. The emergency situation experienced in eastern Canada was duplicated in the Orkneys.

Grizzly hunt shuts down

Environment, Lands and Parks Minister Cathy McGregor announced February 2 that the 1998 spring grizzly bear hunt has been closed in three areas of B.C.: Tumbler Ridge, Fort Nelson and Pink Mountain.

The government has reduced the number of grizzly hunting authorizations issued in some parts of B.C., including much of the Kootenays, as well as areas near Bella Coola, Atlin and another area near Pink Mountain.

Although overall grizzly population remains the same, with a provincial estimate of between 10,000 and 13,000 grizzlies, there are conservation concerns in some areas.

"The number of recent bear mortalities has already reached the sustainable level for that population," McGregor stated, "Temporary hunting closures and reductions are needed to allow time for grizzly populations to recover in these areas."

Season closures apply to the spring 1998 hunt only. The ministry will review the latest data available before setting regulations for future hunting seasons.

Youth pleads guilty

A female youth pled guilty to a break and enter charge when she appeared in Young Offenders Court in Princeton on February 5.

She had participated in a theft of $659 worth of beer from Princeton Hotel on September 8, 1997. Police investigation of the break-in led them to a large backyard drinking party, where questioning implicated the youth.

The youth admitted to police she had been drunk when she happened on the theft in progress, and had assisted thieves with carrying the beer to a waiting vehicle.

Judge D.B. Overend stated to the youth, "You have to get your life in focus."

She was ordered to serve an eight-month probation, with conditions including drug and alcohol abuse assessment and counselling if required, to take a job or further education, to apologize in writing to the owner of the hotel, to perform 80 hours of unpaid community service work, and to have no contact with David Goulet.

Hart's riding approves Medicinal marijuana

Okanagan-Coquihalla residents are 80 per cent in favour of the legal use of marijuana for treatment of people with terminal illnesses. Jim Hart, Member of Parliament, revealed the results of a recent riding survey on the decriminalization of marijuana for medicinal purposes.

Survey results indicated 65 per cent in support of the use of medicinal marijuana for the treatment of diseases which might not be immediately terminal, such as glaucoma, nausea in cancer, and AIDS patients.

The survey polled 298 adults, randomly-selected, who reside in Okanagan-Coquihalla. The five minute telephone survey was conducted between January 12 and January 16.

POINTS OF VIEW

OUR VIEW

We need future guardians

Who will care for the future of our town?

This question is raised again and again, in one organization after another. The Legion, Elks, Lions, Rotary, Hospital Auxiliary, and Community Services members ask themselves what will become of their organizations in the future. As our population ages, members of these organizations become older and older, but they are not being replaced by younger people.

Discussions take place about how to recruit younger people. In many cases, "younger" means people in their forties and fifties. Who are the volunteers needed to carry on, to ensure a continuing quality of life in our community?

Some of the discussion centers around the selfishness of the baby boom generation. Some people say this generation is not interested in community life, but is just interested in looking out for number one. Is this true?

Others say that people in their twenties and thirties are just too busy raising a family to volunteer in community organizations. Is this true?

We know the boomer generation is faced with a real problem: aging parents. In order to be a community of value, we must provide care for the older people as well as for the youngsters. There is a crisis in care for the elderly in B.C. In a small town like Princeton, the crisis is more visible. We have created groups who help solve these problems, but the groups who give service to the community are becoming older.

The boomers will one day make up the greatest wave of elderly we have ever experience in our society. If our service organizations fail, who will care for them? If it is true that the boomer generation is motivated by self-interest, then they should ensure the continuance of the service organizations out of self-interest.

We suspect that the reasons for lack of volunteers are many and varied, but things must change soon.

Reader says

gun control cost too high

Dear Editor;

Re Bill C-68, the gun registration law. This piece of legislation so much promoted by this Liberal government as a cure for all criminals using guns, was not supposed to cost more than $85 million, Mr. Rock told us. Yet, without one gun being registered, the cost has already exceeded $250 million.

The regulations of Bill C-68 have been put on hold and the police as yet do not know when registrations will start. Oh, some regulations have been implemented. Mostly in terms of handguns and automatic weapons. These should have been if they were not, a part of the Criminal Code. It has been said by the Justice Department that they will train 60 to 70 thousand people to do the registration. This cost is on top of the $250 million already down the tube.

It is also nice to note that more loggers were killed in B.C.'s forests in one year than were killed with guns in the seven preceding years (recent statistics). Another note is: smoking has killed 5,000 persons a year in B.C.

Yet we fight to keep on smoking? How many thousands are killed by breast cancer?

I would hope that our local gun club members are still in this fight to have this bill rescinded in its present form.

Sincerely,

R. Bouvette, Princeton

Reader expresses concern for Princeton doctors

Having just read Dr. Bosomworth's excellent letter in the February 3, 1998, issue of the Similkameen News Leader, and having listened to the comments on TV by doctors in the northern parts of our province, we surely could be faced with the same situation here in Princeton.

Having been in my doctor's office last week, it struck me that 'grumping' over the fact that I, as a senior, am growing older. We need our doctors - the traffic in and out of their offices and the hospital gets busier all the time - just sit in the lobby at PGH and watch all the medical staff racing to and fro.

As suggested by Dr.

Bosomworth, it is up to all of us to support them by faxing the Minister of Health, in Victoria, at 250-387-3696. There is a fax machine in the News Leader, so why not take advantage of it when you are in to collect your paper.

With the steadily increasing elderly population in our community, we need to encourage younger doctors to come to our rural areas, but they have to have some incentive.

It only takes a few minutes and a few lines to voice our concerns to Victoria - "the squeaky wheel gets the grease" so let's go for it.

Sincerely,

J. Kolbe

Seniors keep busy with activities

by Monte Raine

All activities have had good attendance during the past few weeks.

The January George Lind Memorial Tournament enticed many players to the Sunday event. The winning team after round robin play was Darlene Lind and Ray Jarvis.

The new pool committee is composed of: Darlene Lind, Herb Kolm, Betty Jarvis and John Golovin. Much thanks must go to Eric Erickson for his organizational ability over the last three years. Eric was instrumental in the purchasing of the second pool table, handled the trophies and initiated the Keremeos Tournament.

The January Potluck supper was highly successful, having an attendance of over 70. Many thanks to all of the volunteers who pitched in to make the evening go smoothly.

Monday night bingo is thriving, and will hopefully continue to do so as long as enough volunteers are available. The Superstar bingo, beginning on February 16, will result in an added workload.

VITAMINE For Your Heart

There has been 6,000 studies published on the benefits of Vitamin E. Vitamin E's main function is preventing bad cholesterol from forming or adding to cholesterol plaque. It is thought to prevent break-offs of plaque, which can cause heart attacks. One blind double study showed the results of 2,000 patients with heart disease. Half the patients received 400 to 800 iu of Vitamin E daily, and were followed for an average of 810 days. Those in the Vitamin E group had a 75% reduction in heart attacks. However, to get 400 iu of Vitamin E from our food, you would have to eat 8,000 calories a day.

A Local Look

What our people are doing

by Lori Thomas

JOE SCHWARZ

Joe grew up at Copper Mountain. As a boy he worked in the Chinese Laundry, packing water and cutting wood, and delivered papers. Joe left Copper Mountain (a small boys and girls school with grades 1-12) in grade 9, to go to Vancouver Tech, a boys school with 6 other grade 9 classes. It was a big change for Joe but he had no scholastic problems switching to the new school and he enjoyed taking the tram each day. Joe's new school was strict, but it taught him respect, about discipline, loyalty and pride.

Joe had a variety of jobs after he finished school. He worked in saw mills, then the pulp mill in Ocean Falls. Joe decided taking a boat to Ocean Falls was too much trouble so he quit his job. When he got home there was a note on the mantle from his parents saying "Before you open your suitcase, get a job". He got a job at a meat packing/slaughter house and describes it as the worst job he's ever had. It taught Joe that jobs were not all good and sometimes not that easy to come by, so hold on to the good ones while you can.

Joe worked in a bank, a steel foundry, did Hwy construction for 10 years and built trucks at Canadian Kenworth for another 25 years. His most satisfying job was setting up workshops and working with the Mentally Challenged. But his favourite job was working in the Bank in Vancouver because that is where he met his wife Shirley (he says he really cashed in there).

In 1971 Joe was granted a Russian Visa and was given a 6 day visit to Stalingrad and the USSR. He also visited Franco's Spain, Lourdes in France, Fatima in Portugal and the first Nazi concentration camp in Germany. Things were so primitive, he felt like he had gone back 50 years in time. The restrictions and rules made him realize what a wonderful country we live in and that we should appreciate it.

In 1986 Joe and Shirley went into business for themselves - they bought the Tulameen Trading Post. His son and daughter-in-law have since taken over the store.

Joe says he is hibernating in Tulameen and since his family has all left home, he and his wife are enjoying their second honeymoon. Someone once asked Joe how it felt to be retired and he said he honestly didn't know he was. Joe keeps busy with his family, helping with the store and writing his entertaining column. Joe is currently taking a course at the Bridge, he is learning all about computers.

Joe started his column by writing a letter to the Editor at the Spotlight. Ed and Lynn enjoyed it so much they asked him to do another and another ... the rest is history.

Dawn Johnson, our Editor, describes Joe Schwarz as an observer and philosopher of humanity - but Joe says he's just full of baloney. That's our Joe!

Look for Joe's Column "Dateline Tulameen" in this paper.

was incredibly tall. Chris, who was working alone, but wishing he had witnesses, said they were very friendly, loved the country and the snow. For the curious, Uma had a BMT, Ethan had a Club, both on brown, no mayo, no cheese.

Hart supports ruling

Once again, the Liberal government's Young Offenders Act (YOA) is the topic of much discussion and criticism. Lately, the talk has centered around the recent ruling of a Kamloops judge in the case against Leon Florence, 17, who is charged with the first degree murder of Fred Rix, 88, in his Merritt home. Judge Terry Shupe has concluded that young offenders, charged with a crime serious enough to be tried in adult court, can no longer hide behind the antiquated, obsolete and archaic Young Offenders Act.

This ruling does more than just allow the public the right to know the identity of those charged with serious offences. It also enforces what you have told me loud and clear the Young Offenders Act is out of touch with reality and needs to be changed. We need to replace it with measures that hold young criminals accountable for their actions, and better addresses the serious problem of youth crime. The Young Offenders Act is a proven disaster and it's time to stop talking about changing it and start doing it. That is why, in this session of Parliament, I re-introduced my Private Members Motion that, among other changes, will allow for the publication of the names of individuals convicted under the act.

I must also emphasize that legislation is only one part of the answer to violence among young people. We also need to introduce programs for the early detection and prevention of youth crime, and there needs to be more effective rehabilitation programs that emphasize education and literacy, skills training, discipline, and community service. Crime prevention starts with our children as stronger families mean less crime. We need to make families a priority to ensure our children become productive and law-abiding citizens.

Since young people themselves are the greatest victims of youth crime, we should enlist their support and input on reforming the Young Offenders Act.

What do you think? Write to me, postage free, at 301 Main St., Suite 203, Penticton, B.C. V2A 5B7.

Kathleen Turner narrates Science of Sex: To Have and to Hold, an hourlong special that examines lifelong monogamous pair-bonding, airing Friday on the Discovery Channel.

To Have and to Hold:
That is the question

By David Migicovsky
9TVData Features Syndicate

With Valentine's Day right around the corner, you may want to check out Science of Sex: To Have and to Hold, the final installment of a four-part series, airing Friday, Feb. 13, on the Discovery Channel.

Watching it won't make the lines at the florist and candy store any shorter, but at least you'll know why you're waiting.

The hourlong program, narrated by Kathleen Turner, looks at "lifelong monogamous pair-bonding," a term that includes married couples and unmarried couples who live together.

In Canada, such couples are the fastest-growing demographic, especially in Quebec, where more children are born to unmarried couples than married ones.

While scientists consider pair-bonding an adaptive strategy requiring special circumstances, Helen Fisher (Anatomy of Love) believes it is a natural consequence of walking upright.

"I don't see how a female could have carried the equivalent of a 20-pound bowling ball in one arm and sticks and stones in the other arm and protect herself," she says. "She began to need a mate to help her rear her young."

These days few mothers need protection from saber-toothed tigers. As a result, many no longer see marriage as a prerequisite to having children.

But despite the evidence that the concept of long-term monogamy has lost popularity, To Have and to Hold almost reluctantly concludes that it is the best situation for child-rearing.

And flowers and candy on Valentine's Day are still a good place to start.

Most people are familiar with such legendary Canadian newspaper publishers as Lord Thomson of Fleet and Lord Beaverbrook. Chances are, however, they have never heard of Mary Ann Shad.
Hopefully, that will change when Canada's first female newspaper editor is profiled in "Breaking the Ice: Story of Mary Ann Shad," an episode of the documentary series Scattering of Seeds airing Wednesday, Feb. 11, on History Television.
Shad, who was born in Wilmington, Del., in 1823, was a woman of many talents. In addition to working as an editor, she was a teacher, abolitionist, suffragette, integrationist and the first black female lawyer in North America. That she remains almost unknown in Canada, where she relocated in 1851, is not surprising: The history of both women and blacks largely has been ignored in our school systems.

"Breaking the Ice" director Sylvia Sweeney's attraction to the project is not surprising either. Her own accomplishments liken her to a latter-day Shad: A two-time member of Canada's Olympic women's basketball team, Sweeney has anchored local news and sports in Montreal, hosted W5, served as Canada's assistant chef de mission for the 1996 Olympics and was producer-director of In the Key of Oscar, a biography of her uncle, the legendary Canadian jazz pianist Oscar Peterson.
Shad was born free, but the Fugitive Slave Act of 1850 put her and many other free blacks in the North at risk. The act provided for the return of escaped slaves to their owners, even in states that had abolished slavery. For those unlucky enough to be mistaken for escaped slaves, there was little or no recourse.
So Shad headed to Canada, where she developed her theory of integration

- a heretical concept at the time among both blacks and whites; "separate but equal" was the prevailing school of thought.
But Canada was no paradise for blacks in the 1800s, though to many American refugees it may have appeared that way. As one refugee recalls, "I like the laws which leave a man as much freedom as a man can have. Still, there is prejudice here."
Sweeney tells Shad's story through a blend of photographs, re-enactments, interviews and the many letters preserved by her relatives in Canada - to whom it is evident that even a century after her death, she remains a source of inspiration and wonder.
"Breaking the Ice: Story of Mary Ann Shad" tells a uniquely Canadian tale and clearly illustrates that Black History Month shouldn't be overlooked in Canada.
The history of black Canadians has been ignored far too long.

NBA All-Star Game
should be a ball

By Ted Shaw
OTVData Features Syndicate

Michael Jordan and Grant Hill lead the attack for the Eastern Conference at the 1998 NBA All-Star Game Sunday, Feb. 8, at Madison Square Garden in New York.

CTV televises the game in Canada. Jordan and Hill are among the leaders in fan balloting for the game. Other top vote-getters include Dikembe Mutombo, Karl Malone, Gary Payton and David Robinson.

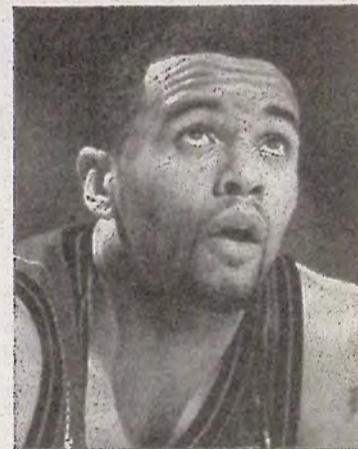

Standout guard Damon Stoudamire of the Toronto Raptors also is expected to play.

Canada's 153-member team competing at the 1998 Olympic Winter Games in Nagano, Japan, could be the most talented group of athletes assembled by this country.

Bill Warren, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, is expecting big things from them.

"All I'm going to say is this will be better than Lillehammer," says Warren, referring to the 1994 Olympic Winter Games in Norway, where Canada won an unprecedented 13 medals.

Warren wouldn't predict how many

medals the team will win this year, but with nine medal winners from four years ago returning and several newcomers who are among the world leaders in their events, it seems almost certain Canada will at least match its 1994 total.

Canada's team includes strong medal contenders in bobsledding, hockey, long-track speed skating, figure skating, curling and skiing.

Hand to Hand Combat Against Germs

by Colleen Maloney, Public Health Nurse, South Okanagan Similkameen Health Region

From the latest 'superbugs' invading our hospitals, to seasonal flus and colds, the best line of attack is basic handwashing. In fact, handwashing has probably saved more lives this century than all of the new vaccines and antibiotics combined.

Scientific research supports the need to get back to the basics of handwashing. Children who wash their hands at least four or more times during the day get sick less than other kids, according to one study. Colds and flus are reduced by 25 per cent and stomach flus by 50 per cent.

Last year, as a judge at the local school science fair, I was able to view a piece of local research that attempted to examine local handwashing behaviours. The student took swabs to culture both the inside and outside bathroom door handles of a selection of family restaurants. There was an alarming amount of bacterial growth in her petri dishes. The inside door handle in some situation had the highest bacterial count!

Any amount of handwashing is good, but thorough washing is better. Here are a few tips on cleaning up your act:

1. Always wash your hands before eating or handling food, after handling raw food, after going to the bathroom, after handling garbage, after sneezing or coughing, after changing a diaper, after cleaning up body fluids, after caring for a sick child, and after handling pets.

2. Use warm running water and soap. Warm water cuts through grease better than cold. Any kind of soap will do. Soap loosens the germs from your skin and helps the water wash away the germs. Antibacterial soaps are overkill in most situations. Milder soaps are easier on your skin.

3. Rub your hands together for 5 - 10 seconds including the back of hands, wrists, between fingernails and under fingernails. Rinse well under running water.

4. Dry your hands with a paper towel, turn off the tap with the paper towel, and discard the towel in a lined, covered wastebasket.

5. Use hand lotion if necessary to help replace the moisture necessary to keep your skin healthy.

Washing your hands is the single most effective way to stop the spread of germs at home, school, work and play. A little bit of soap, water and time may be your best defense against cold and flu bugs circulating this time of year.

Money goes to kids with eating disorders

The Ministry of Health has approved $1.5 million for a residential facility for children and adolescents with severe eating disorders.

Health Minister Joy McPhail announced February 2 that the eight room facility will be operated by Children's Hospital. Six of the rooms will be for patients, and two for visiting family members. Patients will take part in the hospital's multi-disciplinary treatment program during the day. At the residence, they will receive continuing specialized support, including 24-hour nursing care, meal support and family therapy.

An estimated 4,800 people in B.C. suffer from some form of eating disorder. Approximately 90 to 95 per cent of those who develop eating disorders are female. The effects of these illnesses on individuals and their families can be devastating. Eating disorders severely impact the development of children and adolescents and may become severe, chronic illnesses.

Lali joins India Trade Mission

Harry Lali, MLA Yale-Lillooet, will join Attorney General Ujjal Dosanjh to lead over 20 representatives from B.C.'s business community on a trade mission to India. The mission begins February 16 and continues through February 28. The goal of the mission is to find new markets for British Columbia goods and services.

"India has been called an economic 'sleeping giant' and will no doubt emerge as a serious world trading nation in the near future," Lali predicts, "Their growing middle class of 300 million people need products and services from a number of economic sectors including the forest industry. We intend to establish trade and investment links to ensure continued economic growth and job creation in B.C."

The trade mission will capitalize on a recent economic reform and trade liberalization program launched by the Indian government. Tariff and tax rates have been slashed and the Indian rupee has remained stable in relation to other southeast Asian countries.

"It is very clear that in order to maintain the economic health and stability of our economy, we must expand and diversify B.C.'s global wood market," Lali said, "A recent Indian Supreme Court decision, banning logging in six northern Indian provinces, has created a shortfall in India's wood market and we intend to explore this, and other opportunities."

The trade mission is particularly important to the Yale-Lillooet region, which relies heavily on the forest industry for its economic health. Of the 20 or so business representatives on the mission, six are from the forest industry. Three of these representatives are from Yale-Lillooet: Dick Jones, representing J.S. Jones Timber in Boston Bar; Rav Sandhur, from NMV Lumber in Merritt; and Paul Ghog, who is with Aspen Planers in Merritt.

Robbie Burns was not forgotten

The economic situation in our fair town did not permit the Royal Canadian Legion Ladies' Auxiliary to hold their usual 'splendidorous' Burn's Night, but a few enterprising youngsters, Kailee, Patrick and Alisdair, encouraged by their parents, put on a delightful mini-Burn's Night for their families. They are learning to carry on the traditions of those of us who now reside in Canada but who, like other ethnic groups, do not want to lose touch with our roots.

The enthusiasm of the youngsters is much appreciated and I hear that the young Scottish Highland Dancers are going to have a function in the early part of May, 1998, location as yet unannounced.

Let's encourage them and all others of ethnic origin - better to learn their customs firsthand than to only watch them on television.

Judge Dismisses Charge

Richard John Krenn stood trial in Provincial Court in Princeton on February 5 to respond to a theft charge. The charge was laid on May 8, 1997, when Jim McLachlin reported Krenn to RCMP, accusing Krenn of theft of McLachlin's rifle case.

The story that emerged in court was that Krenn had given McLachlin a ride to McLachlin's ranch from Princeton, at McLachlin's request. Krenn had expected to be paid $20 for his trouble, and asked McLachlin for the money. McLachlin refused, so Krenn reduced the amount to $10. McLachlin refused once more.

McLachlin told the court, under oath, that he had not expected to be asked for money, but Krenn testified that McLachlin had offered him money for the ride, which had included an errand run for McLachlin.

Krenn told the court that he took the rifle case because McLachlin had not paid him, and planned to confront McLachlin in the future and bargain with him. When Cst. Tracy Ross had gone to his home and asked about the incident, he had surrendered the case to her.

Judge D.B. Overend stated his opinion that there was reasonable doubt, and dismissed the charge against Krenn.

Panthers pick up Simmons

Clay Simmons, son of Murray and Debbie Simmons of Princeton, is now a player on the Penticton Panthers hockey team. Simmons played on the South Surrey Eagles last year.

His rights were acquired by the Prince George Spruce Kings, but he never went to play for the Kings. Penticton Panthers wanted the 19 year old right winger, and after weeks of haggling, the Panthers sent an undisclosed sum to the Spruce Kings for the rights to Simmons.

Panthers coach Bryant Perrier was eager to obtain Simmons, considered to be one of the top six forwards in the B.C. Hockey League. Simmons was a major factor in the Surrey Eagles' success last year in the Royal Bank Cup play-offs.

Simmons made his Panthers debut January 30, with family in the stands to cheer him on.

Jay La Perrier at right welcomes Clay Simmons to the Penticton Panthers in Penticton on January 30.

Friar Fidelius

Joe Schwarz

Without a doubt, the most unreported significant story of the decade was the recent meeting between two history-making men. The longest leading survivor of the communism and an atheist Mr. Castro, and man of the century Pope John Paul II. Mr. Castro's Cuba was to be the earthly workers' paradise whereas the Pope's spiritual agenda extends into eternity. Though similar in age, they could not be more opposite in almost every respect. During moments of their intimate conversations, which no one could hear but was fascinating to watch, the media commentators were very curious as to what was being discussed. We can only guess.

"John Paul, park your Popemobile under that palm tree. Follow my philosophy, enjoy yourself, soak your feet here on the beach and I'll bring you a shot of Cuban rum mixed with a little coconut juice. You can have the whole island."

"Sorry Fidel, you've got me mixed up with that ancient Nero. Do you want historians to record that Rome burned while the Pope fiddled with Fidel? Sorry, Fidel, got to go and thanks, time is running out. However, here's a gift for you to show my appreciation. It's a portable personalized fire extinguisher for you in case you run into the unexpected. I was going to give you a miniature coal shovel but the place I thought you might visit is automated."

Effects from a Pope's visit usually occur sometime after he is gone. It wouldn't be surprising if Mr. Castro, a former student of Jesuits became somewhat perplexed and uneasy upon examining the fire extinguisher, and entered a monastery to become a monk and be known as "Friar Fidelius".

Across the water from where Fidel and John Paul have been visiting is the U.S. Whether it is considered a paradise depends on the individual. However, a drama is unfolding producing a considerable amount of smoke and affecting its citizens. The President, Mr. Clinton, is under siege for, among other things, alleged sexual indiscretions. The paparazzi who pursued the late Princess Diana were amateurs compared to the high-powered media paparazzi hounding President Clinton and publicly trying him by injudicious speculation. It would seem the media has set a couple of standards for future presidents: a. extramarital experience an asset for maximum TV coverage and 2. a newly-elected president should be eunuchized before taking office to maintain its integrity.

One should remember this behaviour is not new. It started long ago when Adam and Eve discovered their fig leaves were missing. The world has never been the same since. Perhaps everyone should step back and seek the services of a spiritual director and confessor. Enter Friar Fidelius.

Capricorn - Life is a little smoother and improving steadily. Your energy increases. Look for positive developments coming gradually.

Aquarius - New information, new places to go, surprising events: these are your mainstays this week. It's a mixed bag, but good.

Pisces - Tie up loose ends, put your ego under lock and key, and prepare for all hell to break loose next week. You are going to have to be accountable for choices you have made. Circumstances call for soul-searching.

Senior Girls Deserve credit

Mac Lind Logging Senior Girls hockey team played their last league game on February 1 in Penticton. The team of eight skaters and a rookie goaltender played an outstanding game.

Even though they were physically exhausted by third period, the girls still continued to press the much more rested Penticton squad. Ashley Aitchison did a terrific job as the substitute netminder. Forwards Kristen Boyce, Jennifer Greening, Sarah Liberatore, Colby Logan and Amanda O'Bea worked hard trying to create some offense. Double shifting every second shift tested the defense trio's (Allison McDonald, Katie Norman and Hannah Clarke) endurance. Although the Princeton girls lost the battle, they should be proud of themselves for a fine display of teamship and extra effort.

The girls will be attending the play-offs in Kamloops February 28 and March 1. Their supporters wish them the best of luck.

Season statistics: Courtney Lind, 9 goals and 4 assists; Laine Westran, 6 goals and 5 assists; Sarah Liberatore, 5 goals and 6 assists; Colby Logan, 2 goals and 9 assists; Hannah Clarke, 5 goals and 3 assists; Kristen Boyce, 3 goals and 5 assists; Allison McDonald, 7 assists; Jennifer Greening, 3 goals and 3 assists; Janine LeMottee, 3 goals and 2 assists; Ashley Aitchison, 1 goal and 4 assists; Danielle Naylor, 3 assists; Amanda O'Bea, 1 goal and 1 assist; Michelle Ashley, 1 goal.

DANIEL KRAETOR

Danny was born June 17, 1919, in Hillcrest, Alberta. He moved with his family to follow work in the mining industry to Coalmont, Princeton, and then Copper Mountain. After a term in the army, he returned to mine coal in Princeton, and then worked at Allenby. He started working for the town of Princeton in 1957, and became works foreman until his retirement at sixty-five years of age. Danny always supported our community as a member of the Volunteer Fire Department and ambulance service. He could always be depended on to assist his neighbors and friends at any time there was a need. This was so much a part of him, that he thought nothing of always giving to others.

During his retirement years he pursued his love of golfing, gardening, walking, curling, fly fishing, skating, classical music, and as a sports fan, especially hockey.

His years living in Princeton totalled

69. He is sadly missed by Norma, his loving wife of 54 years. His two daughters, Barbara (Tom) Johnson of Princeton, Mary Ann (Bob) Proctor of Vancouver. Five grandchildren, Cindy Johnson of Victoria, Debbie Johnson of Kamloops, Dan, Matt and Gene Proctor of Vancouver. One sister, Kay Parnell of Naniamo. Nephew, Jim Rogers of Naniamo, and neice, Joan Davidson of Courtenay

SCHULZ, IRMGARD (IRMA) CHRISTEL

It is with deepest sorrow that we announce that on the Morning of February 7, 1998, at the Princeton Hospital, at the age of 72. My wife and our mother, Irmgard (Irma) Christel Schulz, after a short courageous battle with cancer, passed away peacefully, while holding the hand of Gerry, her husband of 48 years. Irma, devoted wife, mother, and grandmother will be missed and remembered for her peaceful and caring nature, free and easy laugh, devotion to her husband, children, and home. She enjoyed taking care of her home, gardening and especially african violets, visits from her children and grandchildren, trips to visit her daughter in High River Alberta, times she spent with her girl friends and friends at Osprey lake and the quiet times knitting.

Gramma will live on in the memories of her husband Gerry Schulz (Princeton, B.C.), daughter and son-in-law, Renate and Jack Visser (High River, Alta.), son Manfred Schulz (Richmond, B.C.), son and daughter-in-law, Thomas and Victoria Schulz (Red Deer, Alta.). Grandchildren, Christina and Michael St' Amour (Calgary, Alta.), Michael and Sarah Visser (Calgary, Alta.), Sonya and Ken Perkins (Angola, Ind.), Lisa Visser (Lethbridge, Alta.), Louise Tat (Calgary, Alta.), Marissa Schulz, Justin Schulz (Richmond, B.C.) Erika Schulz, Christopher Schulz (Red Deer, Alta.). Great grandchildren, Michael Jacob Visser, Monique Visser, Melanie Tat. Brother, Cal Heinz Becker (Berlin, Germany). Sister-in-law, Rosurtha Betzold and family (Berlin, Germany). Sister-in-law, Lisbeth Becker (Berlin, Germany). And her many close and dear friends. Memorial Services will be held at 1:30 pm., Friday, February 13, 1998, Princeton Similkamien Funeral Service, 133 Bridge St., Princeton, B.C. Reception to follow at the Princeton Seniors Centre, Angela St., Princeton, B.C. In lieu of flowers, donations to the Princeton General Hospital and Ridgewood Lodge Foundation would be appreciated.
