

This year's Fall Fair was a success as a crowd-pleaser but the figures are not in yet. It looks like a winner.

Action-packed fair drew crowd

There was more action than ever before at this year's Fall Agricultural Fair, held last weekend at Sunflower Downs in Princeton. The midway rides and games, the Re/Max balloon rides, the Little Britches Rodeo, the dog show, the sheep judging, the food and the stalls and stands kept everybody circulating. The exhibits buildings once again showed a small drop in the number of exhibitors, but arts, crafts and photography remained as popular as ever.

The outstanding contributions of south Similkameen growers and producers must be mentioned. When asked if they would support gate prizes, they outdid themselves. Over sixty bags of produce, fresh from orchards and farms, were given away as gate prizes and were fully appreciated by the winners.

Nothing inspires a new look at your old home town as much as the view from a hot air balloon. People lined up for a ride as soon as they saw the balloon inflating, and the line-up never ended until it was time to let the air out for the day.

Youngsters seemed really enthusiastic about the rides, which have never before been at the fair and have not been in Princeton for 15 or 20 years. It was great fun for the youth and some older "kids".

Armstrong says 'Take back the town'

Regarding a letter to Princeton Town Council inviting Councillors to join in the Penticton Women's Centre take Back the Night program on September 26, Councillor George Armstrong raised the issue of Princeton's rash of criminal activity this summer.

"We have to find a way to take Princeton back from the thugs," Councillor Armstrong stated.

Councillor Kathleen Clement had proposed applying for a federal crime prevention grant, and Councillor Armstrong was in favour of doing that.

Crews gain control of fire

Tulameen residents received good news on Friday afternoon — the evacuation alert had been lifted. Calmer fire conditions on the south end of the blaze near Tulameen, northwest of Princeton, allowed fire officials to lift the alert for residents of Tulameen and Otter Valley south of Frembd Lake.

According to Joe Schwarz, who attended the public meeting when Tulameen residents learned the alert was lifted, "Although it may seem inadequate, the Tulameenies gave a collective, relieved, heartfelt thank you."

The fire is considered well-contained and under control in the southern sectors while in the northern sectors of the 9,658 hectare blaze, fire crews are still working to establish containment guards.

Residents of Brookmere and Otter Valley north of Frembd Lake remain on a 10-minute evacuation alert. There are approximately 40 residents impacted by the remaining alert.

Heavy equipment operators have constructed control lines around 80 per cent of the fire's perimeter while crews are working to build handguard in the harder to reach sections at the north end.

Fire staff reported more active burning Friday as winds picked up and fanned the flames in the north, but control lines held and no additional ground was lost.

The alerts were lifted from Brookmere and properties north of Frembd Lake at 4 p.m. Sunday.

De Boice closes Forest District due to hazard

Merritt Forest District was closed completely last Tuesday.

Merritt Forest District Manager Rod DeBoice imposed a recreational forest closure at noon, September 8.

The closure restricted all recreational activities on provincial forest land in the district, including hunting, fishing, all-terrain vehicle riding, sightseeing, and horseback riding. Residents were free to come and go from their property, provincial parks remained open and supervised

"The fire hazard is extreme throughout the district and we are very concerned about the volatile fire potential," DeBoice said. "This past holiday weekend, our compliance staff found 24 illegal campfires. While there were thousands of people in the district who did exercise caution and abide by the campfire ban, we are concerned that one act of carelessness could trigger a devastating fire."

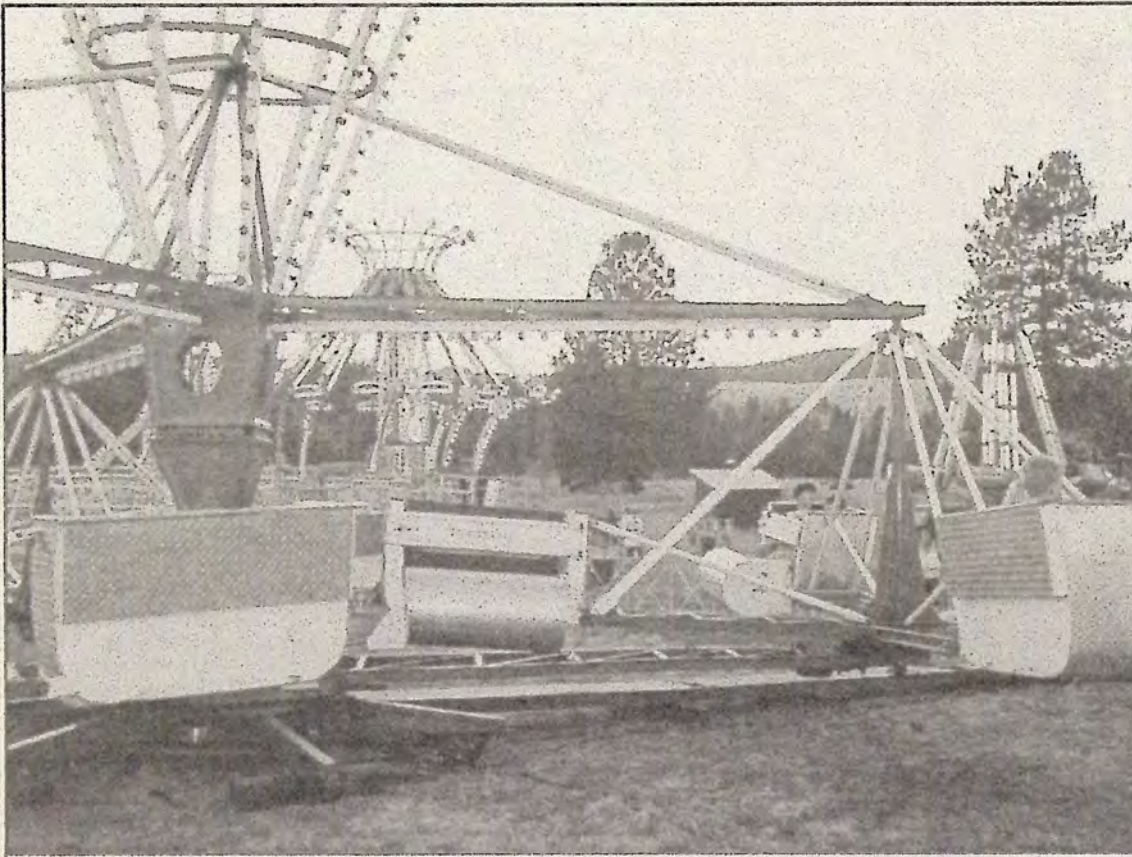

Keremeos movie delayed

Filming was scheduled to begin on location in Keremeos area this week, but has been delayed until September 20 or 21. The movie to be shot in Keremeos is "Shegalla" which stars such big names as Lynn Redgrave and Graham Greene, along with Tighe Runyan, the young leading man who romances the aging cowgirl played by Redgrave.

A bridge is under construction in the Ashnola Valley for part of the filming.

Mark Flett, B.C. Film Commissioner in Kelowna, has been extremely pleased with the choice of Keremeos as a location for a film shoot. His job is to promote the Okanagan and Similkameen Valleys for movie-making. The film industry is one of those 'clean' businesses that brings a temporary shot in the economic arm to any location used.

Midway rides were a special treat for youngsters attending the Fall Fair this year.

The millenium: what will follow?

By 1906, the world's population was growing rapidly. London had 4.5 million, New York boasted 4 million, Paris 2.7 million, Tokyo and Berlin approximately 2 million, and Vienna 1.3 million.

Armies were growing, too. Russia had 13 million soldiers, Germany had 7.9 million, Austria-Hungary had 7.4 million, France had 4.8 million and Italy had 3 million.

Amundsen went to the North Pole that year, night shift work for women was forbidden by law internationally (that would end in 1914), San Francisco had its biggest recorded earthquake with 700 dead and $400 million in property loss.

Franco became Prime Minister in Spain, and U.S. troops occupied Cuba.

The Americans were building the Panama Canal and Holland began to drain the Zuider Zee.

Britain forced Turkey to cede the Sinai Peninsula to Egypt.

The shifting political scene and build-up of armies continued into 1907. It seemed that anybody who had any national identity was ready to fight.

Good things happened: Lord Baden-Powell founded the Boy Scouts, an organization that has outlived all of the politics of that time and will undoubtedly go into the next century.

number of divisions, with some stiff competition from Heather Carl.

Top exhibitors in Home Baking were 1. Heather Carl and 2. Ron White

Mary Mogge was top exhibitor in Vegetables.

Commercial Fruit top exhibitor was Parson's Fruit Stand.

Home Canning saw Mary Mogge and Heather Carl take first and second spot as top exhibitors.

John Sandness walked away with the trophy for Leisurecraft, Art and Photography, cleaning up the prize money in three divisions.

In the Fruit (non-commercial) division, Benny Mazzarella was top exhibitor.

In Flowers and Plants, Mary Mogge took top spot.

Top exhibitors take home trophy plaques for their efforts as well as prize money for winning entries. There were many more winners in each division, who took home prize money according to the number of wins.

In the pet show division, Diana and Amethyst Cavalier won the Obedience class with their dog Taylor. Korby, a large pet owned by Kendra Elliott, won the prize for the biggest feet. Roman Szczepanik's dog, Grunt, won a first for best dog in the show.

Megan Lee displayed a pet lamb, as did Clara Coyne. Both won a prize.

The prize for "different" pets went to the Cleggett family, who operate the fallow deer farm.

Candice Smith, and Debbie Thomas won prizes for pet cats.

Melissa (no surname) won a prize for her pet guinea pig, Cassy.

Ross Chaston won second prize overall for his dog Sparkie, and first prize for Sparkie's having the biggest ears.

Other winners were Christina and Ricky Creek, Nora Young, and Crystal and Robert Baxter.

Life at the Grist Mill is gentle, and Fall Apple Day spent at the Grist Mill is one of the finest experiences people can have. The autumn weather is perfect for a Sunday Mini-Fair of old-fashioned entertainment.

Fall Apple Day is surrendipity

by Dawn Johnson
News Leader staff reporter

If you have never been to Fall Apple Day at the Grist Mill, you have missed a wonderful experience. There is nothing quite like it. The blend of oldtime peace and quiet, the mill wheel turning in the gentle creek, and the warm feel of sunshine on a Similkameen autumn day combine to give you the feeling that more days should be spent this way.

The Grist Mill is located on Upper Bench Road in Keremeos

The Grist Mill

Take a trip to the past

by Laura Lawson, staff reporter

Imagination and creativity are overflowing at the historic Grist Mill this year. A visit to the site is a trip into the past so authentic one feels out of place dressed in 1990's clothing.

Using interpretive ideas such as the replication of an old schoolroom, complete with slates bearing the names of actual pioneers who lived in the valley, staff and manager Cuyler Page charm a subtle education into the experience.

The number of visitors is up 20 per cent and six to eight hundred are expected for Apple Day on September 20. The popular event was first held eleven years ago and offers adequate parking. During Fall Apple Day, there are plenty of good things to eat and drink, all of them related to apples! This is the eleventh annual Fall Apple Day. The mini-fair began as a fun thing to do to promote all of the things you can do with apples. Apple juice, apple pie, apple jelly, dried apples, apple dolls and apple games have been features at the fair.

Bring a lawn chair or a blanket to sit on the lawn while you enjoy oldtime music in the afternoon. Take a look at the Heritage and has since mushroomed into a mini-fair as a "celebration of the ordinary". Communities all over England also began organizing this event eleven years ago.

A summer kitchen has just been built and on any given day Mrs. McPherson can be found scrubbing the wash and doing ironing there. In her role as school marm, she gives two classes daily after raising the Union Jack and leading "God Save the Queen".

Whether it is learning, rest or fun you're after, a visit to the Grist Mill is a sure escape from our own time and modern difficulties.

Gardens, the exhibits of local garden produce, the arts and crafts, and the Grist Mill reception centre. There is a great deal to see and do at this great little fair.

Still, the best part is the lush autumnal ambience the Similkameen Valley does so well.

New vines take root in Cawston

On the hillside sloping down toward the river, a new vineyard has sprouted this year. Rocky Ridge, located on Highway 3 across from the former Dankoe Mine site, is owned by Roger Hol and his wife.

If you are curious and hopeful about tasting this vintner's wines, you will need to go to Port Moody. Hol said that even though productive harvesting will not take place for three to five years, he is not a wine maker and plans to send all of his grapes to Bighorn Vineyards and Peller Estates.

Parks wins Town tender

Princeton Town Council accepted a $23,562 bid from Parks Construction to do the renovations to the front of the library/museum building.

There was only one other bid, which was several thousand dollars higher.

Gold comes to Keremeos

The O.A.P. Branch 65 can be justifiably proud of our members who participated in the Senior Games held this year in Port Alberni.

Gold medals went to the 5-pin bowling team of Veronica Brooks, Fanny and Peter Podhorodeski, with Keith Belleveau, George and Marylin Young, three seniors from Oliver.

Lois Rickard once again captured Gold and Silver in the Badminton Doubles.

Mary Graham and Dan Rozell finessed a Silver medal in Social Bridge.

Special congratulations go to John Thornton on receiving a Silver medal in Horseshoes at the National Senior Games, in Medicine Hat, Alberta, and to Louise Lamb and Hilda Watson in Social Bridge - top 7.

A hearty vote of thanks goes out to those members who participated but came away without a medal. They were Ina Vikner and Doug Hemphill, a cribbage team, and Isabelle Torgerson and Margaret Barker (subbing for Edna Brown) a second cribbage team.

We have another team that was at the Senior Games, but they were there only to liven up the participants after the games. We have George and Louise Murphy, now members of Keremeos O.A.P. who belong to the Bulkley Valley Old-Time Fiddlers. George plays the harmonica and Louise sees that the crew is well-supplied with coffee. George has been with the group for 11 years and they have always played at the Senior Games voluntarily.

Keremeos Elks start new season

Keremeos B.P.O. Elks members started their new season last weekend with a family camp-out at the rodeo grounds for District 6 members.

The first regular meeting of the Elks is on September 17, but "non-smoking" bingos continue on the second and fourth Sundays of the month at 1:30 p.m.

On Saturday, September 26, preparations and registrations will be underway for the Interior Desert Circuit Horse Show, co-sponsored by Keremeos Elks, featuring hunter/jumper competition classes.

On Sunday, September 27, the action starts at 8:00 a.m. at the rodeo grounds. This is a good day for spectators to see the horse trials. There is no charge for spectators, and a concession stand is open.

Keremeos Elks will join with the Cubs and Scouts to help put on Hallowe'en activities, including fireworks.

The Elks appear to have a really busy fall season ahead, fully involved in the community.

Council commends Chamber

Princeton Town Council took time to comment on the historic walk and plaques project completed by Princeton and District Chamber of Commerce.

Trails group talks issues

Vermilion Trails Society hosted a meeting of local people and government officials on Saturday, September 12. Representatives from Crown Lands, Land Use Co-ordination Office, TransCanada Trails and affiliated government departments discussed what they do in connection with trails planning. MLA Harry Lali and assistant Millie Mitchell attended primarily as listeners, to hear the issues.

Bob Brodie from Crown Lands stated his position, "We're trying to set up an organization capable of managing a section of the KVR (Kettle Valley Railroad)."

Crown Lands is responsible for management of the railbed, which B.C. acquired when Canadian Pacific abandoned the right of way.

The Land Use Co-ordination Office (LUCO) is responsible for co-ordinating land use initiatives throughout B.C. and working with government ministries and private agencies.

After some descriptions of land use conflicts related to the use of the railbed as a trail, Barry Montgomery, who is working on the local initiative, introduced Pam Thomas. The Thomas ranch is impacted by the trail, as it runs through the Thomas property between their house and the farm outbuildings and fields.

The LUCO representative acknowledged that there are problems and issues to be resolved between agriculture and trail usage.

"We know these issues exist," he remarked, adding that there had been ongoing confrontations with people who own land adjacent to the proposed trail right of way.

"Whenever possible, we want the trail to be an asset to the community and to the adjacent landowners," he said.

When questioned, he admitted that the government would consider "trading easements" to resolve conflicts "when it makes more sense to go around a property than through it."

At the same time, it was clearly stated that the KVR would become the trail, although there could be "small local adjustments for specific legitimate issues."

Funding of the trail was a major topic of discussion. TransCanada Trails has $5 million to disperse but cannot give it to a group until a trail is designated as a portion of the TransCanada Trail.

Designation can be made section by section, but B.C. has not moved quickly to designate any sections. In the meantime, other agencies and groups have assumed responsibility for a project by project development of the trail. Regional districts, B.C. Parks, and local societies have found ways to achieve development without designation.

The LUCO representative stated that designation was slow due to the need for consultation with a variety of agencies and individuals in all areas affected by the trail initiative.

Two hot spots spark valley

The fire at Tulameen has sparked everybody's interest since September 1, but Keremeos area will spark just as much interest in coming weeks. Stars are going to be in Keremeos making a movie.

As a business dedicated to gathering news, we are amazed at how many exciting things happen in our valley. With a major fire burning at one end, and a movie being filmed at the other end, the Similkameen Valley is a hot spot for news hounds anywhere.

We wish the big city media people could see our valley from our perspective.

There is a spirit of co-operation that sparks our admiration for the people who live here. We saw the volunteers, the loggers, and Forest Service personnel, Tulameen Fire Department help fight fire to protect homes, and help people with evacuation concerns.

They worked at essential duties while trying to contend with media and, believe it or not, would-be spectators wanting to view the fire!

Keremeos will undergo the same kind of attention with the filming of "Shegalla". People will want to see stars and a real movie crew in action. The city media will want their own footage of what is going on. They will be impressed by names made famous by Hollywood.

What will impress the movie crew is the spirit of co-operation and consideration of Similkameen Valley people. We saw it during the filming of "Malone" in Hedley and Princeton, and we will see it again in Keremeos.

Media attention can be fun. Experts say even the mention of a community's name on national television is worth around $20,000 as people's interest is sparked.

As we have two "hot" spots in the Similkameen Valley right now, let's hope somebody sees this valley as a great place to spark our economy!

Parent objects to school fees

Open letter to Princeton/Merritt School District:

I would like to voice my concern to the new "performing arts" charge being demanded by our School District.

I believe we pay enough school taxes as it is. I have no objection to paying extra for field trips for bus fuel and driver wages. I can always say "no" to voluntary activities like sports. If these performances are part of the school activities, I should not have to pay extra and refuse to do so.

I also object to my son's locker being held ransom to this fee being paid. I understand that the breakdown of the $25.00 is $5.00 for performing arts, $5.00 for used padlocks, and $15.00 for school activities.

This $25.00 per student, multiplied by 250 students, comes to $6,250 extra, over and above our tax dollars.

I would like to know how many times we need to purchase used locks that can be bought at Pharmasave for around $3.49 new. I understand that the $15.00 portion of this group of fees stays totally in Princeton Secondary School as part of student activity fees. I have no problem with this part.

I am, and have been, involved in grad activities, so this letter is not coming from a couch potato who doesn't get involved.

I am deducting the performing arts fee from the group of fees, not for monetary reasons but for the principle. No pun intended.

Thank you.

Oldtimer recommends alternate voting

Dear Editor:

The following is the gist of the most important economic and political article I have ever studied.

"Since the average person only deals with money after it is brought into existence, perhaps it is not surprising that the cause of the ever-increasing debt is not perceived. But it must be widely perceived if there is to be any hope of correcting it.

Since the method of money-creation is itself the cause of the ever-increasing debt, it is not possible, under the present system, to correct the problem using any method that deals with money after it has been created.

Over the years, many corrections aimed at fairly putting more money in the pockets of the consumers have been tried.

Longer or shorter hours of work, higher or lower wages, more or less spending, higher or lower taxes, etc., you name them. None of them have solved the problem.

The only thing that will correct it is the one thing that is sacrosanct in the large media, in education and in politics.

The only thing that will correct it is to strip private companies of their power to create money as a debt at interest, and adopt a method of money creation whereby it is created as a credit, to be used by individuals to purchase basic human needs.

Reforming this dishonest practice is the key to the future of our nation and the well-being of the world.

We must turn an entrenched, centuries-old financial establishment on its ear!

Read about it. Study it. Understand it. Talk about it. Then act to see that government by the majority of people, for all of the people, will prevail."

We need not act according to the will of a minority. We need not tighten our belts or train ourselves to compete with the rest of the world. All we need to do is own our own money system and not let other people use it or us and our resources.

"As ever, less than 45 per cent of the popular vote is not a majority. No matter how many seats it wins, neither is it a mandate. Alternate voting is a better way.

Yours respectfully,
Roy Thomas

We need nurses but the system forgot about them

Sometimes statistics can be very scary. A recent poll of B.C.'s nurses found that two-thirds of them would quit their job if they could. Does that scare you? If not, here is why it should:

• When it comes to running a hospital, sure a doctor does what needs to be done, but what about everything else, who takes care of that? Answer: the nurses.

Nurses must do everything from cleaning rooms to assisting with surgical procedures, in conditions where they are understaffed, underpaid, and dealing with extremely high levels of stress. Nurses are the glue that keep hospitals together.

If you needed a nurse, wouldn't you want her to be feeling secure in her position, calm, relaxed and available to help? Of course you would, but in these conditions, that is not what we are seeing.

Today, we see women (and men) once excited and eager to do their jobs and educated to do so, now wishing they had never even heard of nursing. The system has forgotten about them and now we are going to have to deal with the mess we have created.

Nursing is a hard job, where your day to day responsibilities are caring for people who are ill. Stress is high when one has to deal with patients in pain and their families asking why. Our health care system has taken this already rough occupation and made it even harder.

Why should you be scared? Because one day you or your father, mother, sister, brother, grandparent, or friend may need the assistance of a nurse and there won't be one there.

Area 120 needs adults

The Area 120 (teen centre) meeting was held September 7. There was some doubt as to whether it would be held, as the adult members of the management committee failed to appear, but the teens went into the business of trying to plan the next two months of activities.

They dealt with the issue of lack of adult supervisors. These volunteers are required before the teen centre may be opened. Under the agreement with the Town of Princeton, the teens must have an adult volunteer on each floor of the building or the event must be stopped. Teens feel they must establish a reliable roster of adults.

The committee explored ideas for attracting more teens to the centre. One of their real needs is good machines for playing tapes and CDs. The existing machines "eat" tapes and scratch CDs.

Ideas for fun events were listed for future reference. Those teens who attended the meeting continued to express real commitment to making the centre "our" place.

Manion urges action on Rough Guide remarks

"Let's go after them," Councillor Jim Manion urged Princeton Town Council members.

He asked for Council's support in taking action against Rough Guide, a publication which describes Princeton in what Manion calls "unflattering" terms.

"It's not flattering and it's not factual," Councillor Manion said. He wants letters written to Rough

Walk helps people know The Bible better

Auditorium floors turned into "maps". People sitting or standing near "Bible lands and waters." Vibrant teaching punctuated with hand movements and laughter. Group recitations increasing in fervor and length as the six-hour seminar moves rapidly. Delight, gratitude and excitement are evident as participants head out to their homes - and then to their local churches on Sunday. Changed lives

The cause? A Walk Thru the Bible Old Testament Seminar. And one is coming to Princeton on Saturday, September 19.

Walk Thru the Bible, a unique education ministry whose objective is to bring people all over the world to a new excitement about the Word of God, has found that its unusual seminars attract even those who have never read the Scriptures. As a result, those seminars (co-ordinated from WTB's International Headquarters in Atlanta, Georgia) are in demand and being taught all over the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Singapore, Spain, Germany, England, Brazil and Spanish-speaking Latin America.

To achieve this objective, WTB not only creates and utilizes the above fun atmosphere ... it gives people an overview of the flow of God's Word never before experienced. Even seminary graduates find the chronology, events, and people of the Old Testament falling into place in a new easy-to-understand and easy-to-remember pattern.

For further information or registration forms, please call the church at 295-7951 or the Pastor at 295-3963. The cost of the seminar is $16.00. It begins at 9 A.M. and runs until 4 P.M. and includes a noon hour lunch and coffee breaks.

One of the early autumn projects may be a special evening of fun and food to welcome Grade 8 students to Area 120 in a way that makes the youngest students at Princeton Secondary feel a part of what is happening at Area 120.

Guide in order to have the description corrected.

"They're on Internet, and translated into about 20 languages," Manion said.

Councillor Manion mentioned the possibility of "court action" if Rough Guide proved unco-operative.

Town Council agreed to pursue the matter.

Tulameen was well-treated during crisis

by Joe Schwarz

TULAMEEN - The little Tulameen Community Hall which once was a general store is owned by the Tulameen Community Club and is operated through fundraising by its volunteers. It does concerts, dances, weddings, funerals and meetings. Because of the vision and efforts of many it stands proud as the "Emergency Social Services Reception Centre" during the Tulameen fire crisis. It is under the umbrella of P.E.P. and its Zone Manager Rod Salem who is present to assist or advise.

Ray Huey, Regional Representative and Earl Driver, alternate E.S.S. director (and interim Tulameen Manager) Doris Driver and Connie

Shopshire were called in and had the centre operational in 1 1/2 hours. All are volunteers and spent long hours in all aspects of services and training of Tulameen volunteers.

The centre could provide service or direction or advice to anyone whether injured, aged, or left destitute and homeless, to the placement of livestock or a severe case of laryngitis of a pet parrot.

I was astounded and moved by the services available, all done by volunteers out of the goodness of their hearts. Their work included setting a pleasant atmosphere as a drop-in centre and keeping it clean and tidy as the public information meetings were held there.

I was most impressed by Connie

Shopshire as she gracefully performed the French Minuet while wet mopping the hall floor.

Volunteers were recruited from Tulameen and trained. They assumed their duties and now have their own ESS core group with Gina Hall as their director.

Ms. Hall works with 10-plus new Tulameen volunteers. She is a housewife, mother of three small children, and President of the Tulameen Community Club, personable and qualified. If you want a job done now, get someone who's busy. Most of the volunteers are women and use the "Good Samaritan" as their motto. In the parable, the Samaritan was a man, but who knows? He could

The special forest fire interface team went to Tulameen to teach residents how to protect their property during the recent emergency situation. Above, the team shows the type of equipment residents can use and later showed them how to use it. The team came with their own fire trucks and was prepared to douse flying embers.

Joe Ritlop picks his crop of the sweetest grapes in years. They will all go to wine.

The Summer of '98: a wine to remember

by Laura Lawson, staff reporter
If you are going to buy wine, choose a '98 vintage. Similkameen vintners are raving about the quality of the their grapes this year. As of September 10, both St. Lazlo and Crowsnest wineries began harvesting, three weeks earlier than usual.

According to Andrea McDonald at Crowsnest, the hot summer with warm nights has created the sweetest grapes since 1994.

"It's a fantastic year! The quality and flavours will be excellent." At St. Lazlo, Joe Ritlop is busy with daily crushing and pressing, although he is having problems with birds despite his "firecracker gun". Ritlop stated this is on of their "best years".

Unfortunately for grape lovers, neither business will be supplying local fruit stands. Joe Ritlop explained that grapes are too "perishable" and Andrea McDonald feels "most customers prefer seedless". All of the winery fruit will go into wine, which should be on the shelves in late 1999.

well have been a woman dressed as a man.

THE WAR ROOM

When I came around the corner into Tulameen and saw all manner of vehicles around the fire hall, police, forest service and official's cars, water trucks, etc., I knew things must be pretty bad, especially when I saw the mobile emergency command unit, a white square panel truck.

The police, fire commissioner, forest Service personnel, P.E.P., our Fire Chief Loretta McDiarmid, and Alan Craigie, set up their respective command posts in the Tulameen fire hall under the overall authority of Area H Director Linda Allison.

The fire hall, now the "war room", is owned by Regional District, and came about by a local referendum and vision and volunteers. We have a volunteer fire department which augments its equipment through volunteer fundraising and has prevented numerous possible disasters in the past.

We were given daily public information meetings by the command centre personnel at whatever time we requested.

Every means of communication and education was offered: maps, video, detailed reports of the fire. They were very open, all questions were answered in a most courteous, clear, polite and at times, humorous manner. It couldn't be much better. The meetings were extremely well chaired by the very able Linda Allison.

The FM emergency band on radio, and the sight of equipment coming and going, plus the aircraft, was very reassuring.

I guess it was a war against Mother Nature's fire and smoke, an awesome enemy.

I can only say Shirley and I, and I'm sure many others, were very grateful to know there were those faceless people who had the expertise to do their thing, or operate equipment and aircraft, on our little town's behalf, and we trusted in the decisions made in the "war room" at our fire hall.

Bears versus people must be reduced

Conflicts between bears and humans this year have grown to alarming numbers. Ministry of Environment officials stated last week.

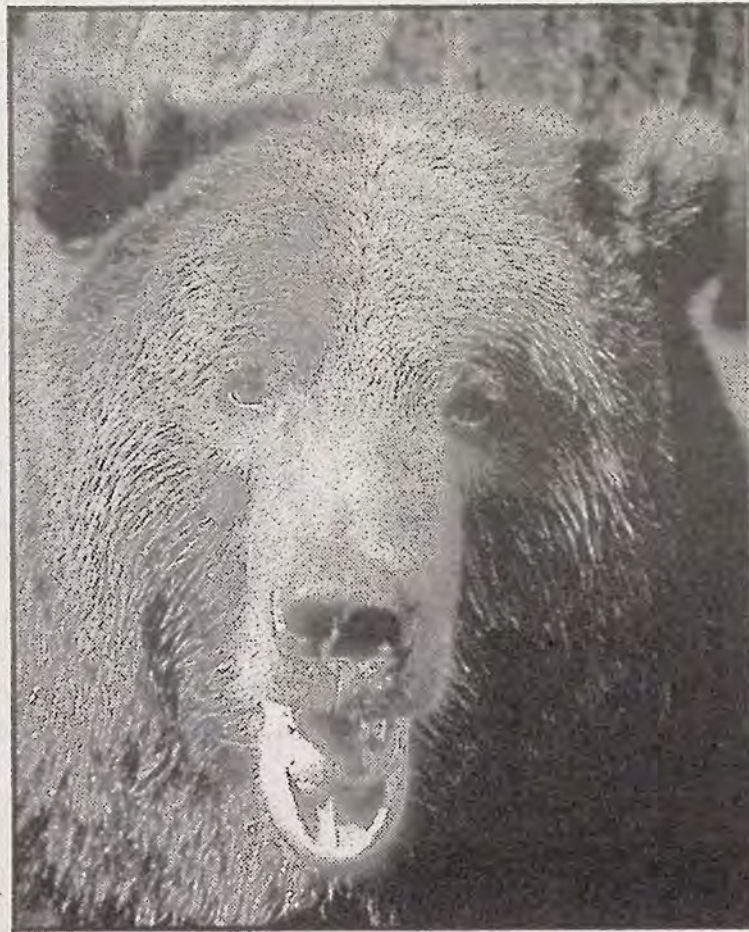

"Bears are being needlessly killed - close to 1,000 this year - because of people's carelessness. The situation in some areas has become critical," says the Ministry. "It is an extraordinary situation and the public's help and co-operation are needed to ensure that as few 'problem garbage bears' as possible have to be destroyed to maintain public safety."

According to the Ministry, Bears are being starved out of their usual food sources by the unusually hot and dry summer weather, and they are moving in increasing numbers into populated areas in their search for food. People's carelessness and negligence in handling their garbage attracts bears into what too often becomes a fatal conflict with humans.

Conversation officers are extremely reluctant to destroy bears that are getting into garbage due to human negligence, but they are forced to take steps necessary to protect the public. Officers continue to report cases of people feeding bears, a misguided action that poses a serious threat to public and bear safety. These bears are not good candidates for relocating.

Once bears are used to finding food in a populated area, they can become very aggressive in pursuing food. Bears have been known to climb through an open window to eat a fresh berry pie cooling on a kitchen table. One bear climbed three flights of stairs and ripped through a screen door to find food. Bears this aggressive have lost their fear of humans and have to be destroyed.

People - especially in the current situation - must take extra care with potential food sources that attract bears to their homes, such as garbage, fruit trees, beehives, pet food and barbecue grills.

Bear-Proof your home:

- Securely store garbage indoors until pickup
- Ensure compost bins and other potential food sources are secured in containers
- Wash barbecue grills after use. Cover and store barbecues securely
- Pet food should be securely stored.
- Don't put meat, fish or animal parts in compost bins.
- Don't throw cooking oil/grease outside.
- Pick fruit as it ripens. Don't windfalls accumulate on the ground.
- Thin trees to create a break in natural pathways.
- Protect beehives, compost, livestock and fruit trees with electric fencing if possible.

BEAR FACTS;

- Bears that become used to garbage and human food sources lose their natural fear of people and can become aggressive in their pursuit of food.

- Relocation of bears is seldom successful; often the translocated bear returns to the food source, becomes a problem to people in its new location, starves to death or is killed or driven away by other bears.
- Often, a bear is simply passing through and will leave the area if no easy food sources are available.
- Call conservation officers only when a bear is aggressive and threatening life and/or property.
- If a conservation officer is called out to respond to a bear complaint, it may result in the bear being destroyed.

Police seek thieves

On Thursday, September 3, just after midnight, an attempt was made to gain access through a rear door to the Belaire Restaurant, located on Vermillion Avenue. The potential invaders activated the audible alarm system and police were quickly alerted. Nothing was taken, but the rear door required repairs.

Princeton RCMP are asking the public's assistance in immediately reporting any suspicious activity around local area businesses. Thefts and break-ins affect all citizens of the community in terms of higher costs of goods, higher costs of insurance and loss of local businesses.

Police responded to a break and enter in progress during the early morning hours of September 8. Three unidentified males kicked in the rear door of the Similkameen Taxi office and made off with $350 in cash. One of the suspects was wearing a plastic mask, similar to a clown's. Anyone with information concerning this incident are asked to contact the Princeton RCMP or CRIMESTOPPERS.

Believe it or not, this is the Tulameen River near Tulameen. It clearly shows what the hot dry weather has done to our countryside.

Schwarz discovers "Dozy Syndrome"

by Joe Schwarz

TULAMBEN - You get up in the morning, go outside and look towards the lake to see how the smoke is. It has been 12 days now, and Mother Nature's equivalent to gas warfare - smoke - has abated so far and for the last while it has been clear. Each day that you go through this procedure you say the same thing, "It sure is pretty country, so very-quiet, serene and colourful."

Usually, I am greeted by a squawk from "Cecil", the crow, or I see "Herbert", the squirrel, skitter across the power lines. We always glance around to see if "Alooyshis", the little black bear, is around. He's sort of taken up residence and been accepted in the town. These are some of our other citizens named by the little people. We have become so used to this that when it is disturbed we have a tendency to feel resentment or blame toward somebody or something. The world is turned upside down.

In our present fire evacuation alert, we are anxious. We do not want to leave our residences. It is difficult for me to concentrate on what I am doing. Sometimes I don't feel right, and become edgy or grumpy, sort of just going around in circles, and maybe numb. I just want it to be over, so I can carry on with life. I call this the Dozy Syndrome.

Renee Willis wins All Round Cowgirl

The youngsters who compete in the Little Britches Rodeos need to be seen to be fully appreciated. They depend on their ability to handle their horses as well as go out into the rodeo area and perform the tasks required to score points. Every competitor is a winner if he or she can make the horse do what it is supposed to do. Many youngsters have not yet mastered this most difficult aspect of rodeo competition and there are always a few tears of frustration as horses have minds of their own.

Little Britches competitors travel widely to score points. At the end of the rodeo season, their overall standing is calculated and those at the top receive trophies. In the Princeton competition, winners received prizes ranging from small items for fifth and fourth, to more expensive prizes for firsts and the best prizes for All Round.

Senior Girls All Round Cowgirl went to Missy Downey, of Savona, with Runner-up Ashley Waterston of Kamloops. Falon Laroye, of Princeton, competed in the Senior Girls division this year.

Senior Boys All Round Cowboy award went to Justin Buhler of Chilliwack, with Tyler Elliott of Vernon as Runner-up.

Renee Willis of Princeton was Junior Girls All Round Cowgirl, with Ashley Hilbrander of Chilliwack as Runner-up. Renee took first in Barrel Racing, Pole Bending and Goat Tying.

Nadine Price of Princeton placed fifth in Goat Tying and sixth in Poles. Princeton's Emily Eccott also competed in the Junior Girls Division.

Clay Thibeault of Douglas Lake was Junior Boys All Round Cowboy, with Jake Sherman of Quilchena as Runner-up. No Princeton boys competed in this division.

There were no Keremeos or Cawston youngsters in this Little Britches competition.

Barisoff questions farm policy

MLA Bill Barisoff (Okanagan-Boundary) Liberal Agriculture Critic, recently challenged the government in the Legislature regarding a number of issues including the state of the food processing industry in British Columbia.

Referring to the Supply Management Five report "Agriculture: B.C.'s forgotten industry", Barisoff cited the massive exodus of food processors out of BC in recent years.

"At a time when the Alberta and Saskatchewan governments are taking active steps to attract BC processors, the report indicates that there is a lack of interest on the part of this provincial government," Barisoff stated.

He went on to say that the same report documents higher labour rates, labour militancy, environmental regulations and bureaucracy as some of the reasons that food processing is leaving BC.

"Does the Minister understand that if farmers have no place to process their goods and their produce, it won't be long before thousands of them join the exodus", he asked the Hon. Corky Evans, Minister of Agriculture.

"Agriculture is a very important part of the BC economy but unfortunately it's also feeling the negative impact of this NDP government policies," said Barisoff.

Local man wins 'armchair architect' award

Glen Weissbach of Princeton is featured in the September issue of Inside Golf, a golfing publication distributed in B.C. Weissbach competed in designing a ninth hole with a par 5 rating, and won the Armchair Architect award.

The magazine comments, "This is a beautiful par 5 that leaves many options to the player. The first is a shot uphill to the landing area that is sloped into the hill, which leaves a second shot with the ball well above your feet.

The second landing area is relatively flat with some mounding just before the green. The landing areas are quite generous in size, making the hole more enjoyable for the high handicapper."

The article covers a full page of the magazine and gives a graphic portrayal of Weissbach's design.

Keremeos publication

New magazine due soon gives local writers a chance

Magniview Press of Keremeos has just sent the first trial issue of the new writer's journal, All Write, to the printers and hopes to have it out by the third week of September.

All Write features the poetry and prose of writers from Osoyoos to Summerland and OK Falls, from Cawston to Princeton.

"I want to thank the writers who sent material. It was great to see the more than thirty submissions that came in for consideration," says All Write editor Mike Stanley. "In fact, I had more than enough material for the first trial so some of the submissions will appear in the second trial issue slated for early December."

Stanley is now making some preliminary plans for the first regular issue slated for next spring.

"First things first," says Stanley. "I want to get the trial issues out there before committing myself any further."

Commitment certainly has not been a problem for Stanley. In the past three weeks, he has spent countless hours, writing letters, preparing material for the publication and writing more letter, news releases, working the phones trying to drum up support from potential advertisers.

"It hasn't been easy. A lot of businesses kindly declined to buy ad space so I'll have to get trial 1 without them for now. I certainly don't have deep pockets, but I'll scrape by somehow because I love what I'm doing and hope to do more with it in the future," says the forty year old writer and publishing enthusiast.

Anyone wishing to submit material for All Write trial issue #2, the deadline is October 16. For more information, contact Mike at 499-2564 or write to All Write, c/o Magniview Press, R.R.#1, Site 5, Comp. 83, Keremeos, B.C. VOX 1N0.

Mr. and Mrs. Rees Eyre.

Chadney-Eyre nuptials

July 11, 1998, was a perfect sunny day for the wedding celebration of Rhonda Lee Chadney and Rees Anthony Eyre. Rhonda is the daughter of Don and Doreen Chadney of Kelowna (formerly of Princeton) and Rees is the son of Jim and Marg Eyre of Princeton.

The wedding took place at 4:30 p.m. at St. Paul's United Church in Kelowna. The bride was radiant in her floor-length satin gown studded with pearls on the bodice. Her veil was mid-back length and she wore a drop pearl necklace with matching earrings and carried a bouquet of Stargazer lillies, freesia and lavender roses.

The groom was very handsome in a black tuxedo, white shirt and silver vest. Matron-of-Honour Renae Magner, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids Kyra Olson and Brenda Hooper, wore burgundy sheath dresses and silver shoes. They carried of freesia and lavender roses. The groom's attendants were best man Andy Munro and groomsman Todd Wold and Thane Murray wore black tuxedos. Ushers were Randy Chadney and Richard Magner.

Mother of the bride wore a calf-length beige sheath with matching jacket, while the mother of the groom wore a long yellow sheath with matching jacket. Both wore corsages of white roses. Both fathers were handsome in their suits sporting boutonnieres of freesia.

The reception room at the Ramada Inn was beautifully decorated in shades of pink with silver. The three-tiered cake held lillies on each tier.

Guests came from as far away as Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario, Mississippi, Texas and Japan.

The happy couple spent their honeymoon on a camping trip in the Shuswap, Banff and Calgary, Alberta, before returning home to Coquitlam.

Heart Food

by Dave Machin

For this purpose was the Son of God manifest, to destroy the works of the evil one. (1 John 3:8)

The whole purpose of Jesus Christ coming to this earth was to restore man's relationship with God by showing people the goodness of God. Essentially, what He did was to expose the works of the evil one, which was sickness, disease, fear and every other type of bondage, by setting people free. His final act of dying on the cross finished God's plan for man's total salvation.

He was the example of what the "church" was to be today. By church, I am referring to all the body of believers who have made the choice to accept Jesus Christ as their personal Lord and saviour. The church is supposed to be imitating what Jesus did. Jesus never came to condemn people, but to show them God's love. Jesus never came to destroy life, but to give more abundant life.

Somehow, down through the years the waters were muddied, but we are beginning to experience a great change.

I have become acquainted with a local businessman who told me that he had a long time pain in his back. I talked with him about the goodness of God and that Jesus would heal his back. He said he believed that, so I simply laid hands on his back where the pain was and prayed for him. About a week later, I stopped by to see him and he gladly informed me that his back was great. He could do things he had not done for a long time and had no pain. I am not writing this to bring attention to myself, but to witness to the power and goodness of Jesus. He is the same yesterday, today and forever. That same power is available to you today, whatever the need. God is good all of the time.

If you would like payer, call Dave at 295-3338, Pastor Similkameen Christian Center.

In Memory of
Andy Nielsen
Sept 14, 1997

No more sickness, no more pain
Not that suffering again
No more pills, no more Tests
We tried our very best
It was hard to see you go
Every day we miss you so
And it's no fun trying to play scrabble alone, Andy.

Love Doreen, Ken, George,
Juleen (& Emmy)

In Memory of
Lawrence LaRoche
September, 1919 to
September, 1984

Gone, dear father gone to rest,
Away from sorrow, care and pain;
May you rest in peace, dear father,
Until we meet again.

Love the LaRoche Family.

Crowd at the corn roast watches canoe races on Osprey Lake.

Osprey Lake corn roast attracts hundreds for long weekend fun

by Patti Harrower

There were over 300 people on hand for the The Annual Osprey Lake Corn Roast, which took place on Sunday, September 6th at Ron Reid's place at Osprey Lake, with nearly perfect weather conditions for the event.

The Corn Roast began about 30 years ago when Ron Reid's father, Al Reid brought a load of corn from Chilliwack and invited all the neighbours for an afternoon of socializing around a wood fire, roasting the corn. From these modest beginnings, the corn roast has evolved into a major Labour Day Weekend festival complete with raffles, a fishing derby, fish pond, horseshoe tournaments, canoe races, a cake walk and even Bingo. Folks come from all over Canada to join with the neighbours in the celebration.

Each year, the proceeds from the raffles are donated to different area organizations such as Seniors Housing and the Princeton General Hospital. This year, proceeds from the firewood raffle will be matched by the Osprey Lake Ratepayers Association, and will be donated to the Princeton Search and Rescue.

Fishing Derby Winners: Adult male, Gord Kilpatrick of White Rock. Adult female, Arlene Bevilacqua of Burnaby. Junior male, Josh Nadeau of Bluffton Alberta. Junior female, Kayla Stewart of Port Moody.

Horseshoe tournament Results: "A" Event: 1st place, Dennis Watson and Gord Chadwick. 2nd place, Lou Dilorenzo and Kevin Hoy. "B" Event: 1st place, Bill Brunner and Audrey Hohn. 2nd place, Dale Beaton and Rick Theriault. Turkey Shoot: 1st

The show at the airport may have been expensive, but the value of having an airport available was not lost on Council.

An unusual catch for a young fisherman

by John Sandness, Similkameen Valley Outdoorsman

Morgan is from Burnaby. His grandparents, Bill and Audrey Salter, invited him here for a holiday before school started - an eight-day stay before the school-room took the place of the outdoors which Morgan loves. Like the author, Morgan is nuts about fishing, and I'm pretty sure he has been over to the Tulameen River every day that he wasn't out at Allison Lake with Bill, his "Papa", as he affectionately calls Grandpa.

Morgan, who is 12 years old, started fly fishing this summer. He has learned what a nymph, dry fly and wet fly are. I know this for sure, because as he purchased these flies, Morgan has brought them over to me to identify.

Morgan asks me the questions older types have: "What lake do you think this nymph fly would be good for; do you think I can catch a whitefish in the river on this one?" I try to answer them as best I can, and I'm also learning from Morgan.

For example, it doesn't take a lot of fancy, expensive tackle to have fun and to catch trout. His tackle is a wooden block with 30 feet or so of 40-pound test salmon line wound on it! His brown halfback nymph (his favourite fly) is firmly granny-knotted on the end. That's it! No 8 1/2 foot long fly rod, no fancy fly line, no $50 reel. As for waders or fly vests, Morgan needs none. He does quite well with a pair of well-worn runners, a pair of shorts and a tee-shirt. His "fly box", a piece of foam rubber with his 15-or-so trout flies, is tucked into his shorts.

Nearly every day, we heard the knocker on our back door and there was Morgan. One day, he had an 11-inch Tulameen River rainbow (in an Overwaita bulk food plastic bag) held up for us to admire. An 11-inch fish from the river is a pretty good one these days! He had caught two other small ones, but "released them". He would have had a big whitefish, but he missed it when it struck and "dropped off".

I gave Morgan a couple of shrimp patterns to try, one a mottled, and the other a black. I figured he might have some success on the black one, but no, "They swam up and looked at the shrimp, but would not bite it," said young Morgan.

He noted that when he granny-knotted his brown halfback fly back on again, he caught a fish. (You might remember that my theory is to stick with a favourite fly/lure. You will Catch More Fish was the name of that column.)

The knocker went on the door just as I was writing that last paragraph. Morgan was there, and had just seen a fish over at the pool below the wooden bridge. He wondered if it was a whitefish.

"It sparkled in the water," when the sun's rays struck it.

But after we looked up the fish in the 1998-99 Freshwater Fishing Regulations, the photo didn't quite match Morgan's fish.

Puzzling over that one for awhile, I said, "Was it sandpaper-feeling?"

Of course, I hadn't thought it out too well; Morgan hadn't actually landed the fish. But he said it was "different" in that it had a larger mouth than in the photo, and it was kind of "smiling".

I'm sure Morgan will be back again as he was going to try to catch a fish and show it to me.

In between trips, Morgan had been visiting all the fishing tackle stores in town. He had purchased a book about fly tying at Pharmasave and even a package of guinea fowl feathers at the V &

Drink boxes will not be recycled

Polycoat paper containers known as drinking boxes will not be part of the expanded beverage container refund system when it is launched on October 1.

The industry and government have agreed to a one-year extension to implement a recycling plan to meet both industry and government's goals to recycle the containers. A made-in-B.C. solution could translate into a new industry and jobs for the province, the government claims.

Even with the one-year extension for drinking boxes and gable-top containers, more than 166 million additional beverage containers will be diverted from municipal waste streams and recycled annually when the beverage container stewardship regulation goes into force. This regulation ensures that all producers of beverages in B.C. take stewardship responsibility for their empty containers. The regulation going into effect on October 1 expands the deposit-refund system from soft drinks and beer to include wine, spirits, juices, water and other ready-to-serve drinks, with the exception of milk and milk substitutes.

An industry committee made up of representatives from the American Forest and Paper Association, International Paper Co., Weyerhaeuser Canada Ltd., Sun-Rype Products Ltd., Dairyworld Foods, Juice Council of B.C. and Tetra Pak Canada will begin work immediately to develop and deliver a solution within the agreed upon time frame.

S store. He is getting ready to tie those Doc Spratleys and other favourite "trout killers", and, of course, his brown halfback!

Oh, yes - what was that unusual catch? Papa took Morgan out Allison Lake in late August, and Morgan was trolling a Doc Spratley behind the boat "about 30 feet back". All of a sudden, he had a terrific strike. Looking back, Papa and Morgan saw a Mallard duck on the line. It was a struggle but Morgan got it into the boat.

Bill said it weighed about 2 1/2 pounds and the Doc Spratley was a little hard to remove from the indignant duck's bill. When Papa let it go, it was "headed south", how far he didn't know.

My wife and I are going to miss the knock on the door and the visits from our friend. We wish him the best as he returns to school. I'll bet he will have some interesting things to tell when the teacher says, "What did you do this summer?"

If the #2 pencil is the most popular, why is it still #2?

The Princeton Senior Ladies Golf Tournament saw a lot of winners. Above, this foursome turns the bend on their way back to the clubhouse after a perfect day on the links.

Gee takes over as club champion

by Sharon Blower,

Women's Club Captain.

A field of nineteen women competed on Thursday, September 10, for the opportunity to have their name engraved on the Eleanor Hicks Senior Ladies Trophy. The late Eleanor Hicks had been a long-time golfer with our local club and is fondly remembered for the fancy hats she wore at our "In the Pink" fun days, as well as her good golfing and enjoyment of the game.

Joan Gee won the Overall Low Gross and is the new Senior Ladies Club Champion. Myrt McLaren is the Overall Low Net Winner.

Given the number of participants, it was decided not to divide the field into flights for scoring purposes. All of the golfers were winners!

Gross Winners were: Arlene Turner, Beryl Mullin, Jean Trewella, Betty Jarvis, Elaine Harwood, Marg Masson, Lorraine

Kirby, Sharon Blower, and Maria Walman (new golfer, first tournament, watch out for Maria next year!)

Net winners were: Linda Angstadt, Beth Norman, Joy Wallace, Donna Currie, Phyllis Conway-Brown, Marion Marsel, Inez Wilkinson, and Sheila Young.

The Overall Low Net winner is awarded a beautiful golf sweater or vest made by Donna Currie. The Ladies Club has a policy that no one can win twice until everyone has had a turn to have one of the much-coveted sweaters! Myrt McLaren had won a sweater in the past, so the luck recipient of the sweater this year was the next low net winner, Linda Angstadt.

Long drive winners were: Jean Trewella, Phyllis Conway-Brown and Lorraine Kirby.

Proximity (KP) winners were: Arlene Turner, Beth Norman and Lorraine Kirby.

Birdies were recorded by Myrt

McLaren and Joan Gee, the latter having two of them to her credit. Betty Jarvis had a chip-in, the only one of the day.

The weather was fine, the company was great, the lunch was good, and the golf? Oh yes, the golf. Well, it was good, bad, and indifferent, but you can bet we'll all be right back out on the course to work on improvements because we know we can be better.

Critters in your compost

by Carla Mumby

Inside your compost there are many organisms helpful to decomposition. Getting to know the cast inside your compost will help you become a better composter.

The invisibles are micro-organisms you won't see, but you can be sure there are lots of them around. There are over 10 million micro-organisms in each gram of compost. Micro-organisms such as bacteria and fungi are directly involved in the decomposition of organic material. They help to free up many nutrients that are needed by plants.

The hunters in your compost move throughout the compost pile looking for other organisms to eat. They are usually gaster than other organisms. They help to aerate the compost and keep it loose.

They also keep the population of the other organisms under control. Some of these hunters look like tiny scorpions, others are called "springtails" because of their ability to jump into the air. Other hunters include mites, centipedes, beetles and earwigs.

The decomposers include worms, sow bugs, and multipedes. These decomposers are usually larger organisms that feed on organic material in the compost and help break it down.

The fungi are organisms spread throughout the compost in fibrous strands. You can often see them as a collection of white/grey fibrous strands that are located in older areas of the compost pile. Fungi also help to decompose organic materials.

"BUGBUSTING"

by Diane Araaki,
Public Health Nurse

Region

Every year at this time I write an article on head lice as it seems as soon as students return to school, head lice calls start coming in. This is not to say that school is the only place where children come into contact with these pesty creatures but they seem to like a captive audience.

Over the summer, Public Health Nurses have received many calls of anguish from frustrated parents who have been battling head lice all year. It seems head lice knows no time or season!

Parents particularly become frustrated after they have used head lice treatments as indicated by the manufacturers instructions and the head lice persists. Some speculate that these creatures are becoming resistant. There are not a lot of choices out there and some "alternative treatments" such as tea tree oil are also proving to be quite harmful when used in large amounts.

Public Health Nurses are now recommending "BUGBUSTING" as a new way of inexpensive method each week the problem of head lice may not surface. "Bugbusting" is as follows:

1. Wash hair with ordinary shampoo. Rinse. Put lots of inexpensive conditioner on the head and with a regular wide tooth comb, untangle the hair. Do this in the tub, over the sink or sitting with a towel over the person's shoulders.

2. Leave the conditioner in, switch to a metal, beveled fine tooth comb (available at the drugstore for approximately $8.00).

3. Divide the hair into sections. Place the teeth of the comb next to the scalp and firmly draw it through to the end of the hair. If the comb tugs the hair you either have to comb upside down or too little conditioner is on the hair. Check the comb for lice after each stroke and clean it by wiping it on a towel or rinsing in a bowl of warm water. Continue section by section until the whole head is done. Make sure the hair stays soaked with conditioner during the combing.

4. Rinse the hair. Leave it dripping wet. Untangle with a wide tooth comb. Repeat the entire procedure again.

5. Make checking for head lice with the "bug busting" method part of your weekly routine.

6. If you find lice you must repeat the combing and conditioning (bugbusting) every 3 to 4 days for 2 weeks. This will remove the lice as they hatch and break the cycle. If you would like more information about "BUGBUSTING" stop by your local Health Center or call your local Public Health Nurse.
