

On Monday September 21, at approximately 11:15 am, the pick-up truck driven by Ken Mansfield of Princeton was struck by a van travelling west from the blue bridge on Highway 3. Mansfield says there should be a light at the Bridge Street - Highway intersection. R.W. Bouvette agrees with Mansfield. Bouvette had an identical accident 6 months ago. There were no serious injuries.

Keremeos Council looks at local bylaw enforcement costs

by Laura Lawson,

South Similkameen reporter
On Monday, September 21, Mayor J.C. Stanart and Keremeos Village Council hear a presentation from Don Moore, general manager of South Okanagan Security Systems Ltd. Moore attended the meeting to discuss the possibility of gaining a contract for bylaw enforcement services. The company currently patrols in Oliver and for Regional District.

Mayor Stranart commented. "Keremeos is a small place and there's no way we could justify a full-time person."

He asked how it could be "financially attractive" to Moore.

Moore stated that in keeping with the four-hour minimum daily standards set by labour law, his company would spend at least 10 to 15 hours a week in Keremeos. He added that the company is non-union and flexible, depending on what level and type of security the Village needs.

Councillor Gurevitch asked if any of S.O.S.S. employees lived in Keremeos and was told one would be hired if possible.

Moore noted that all employees must have occupational First Aid training.

Councillors Holley and Hecoeks had no problem with the idea, but Holley wanted a cost quote.

Council decided that Clerk/Treasurer Eileen Oliver-Bauer would discuss current bylaw problems with Moore at a later time. Mayor Stranart told Moore to explain how the 10 to 15 hours would be spent in the village.

No justification for anti-Nisga'a, says Clark

"I cannot think of a single justification for Mr. Black's complete disregard for freedom of the press," said Premier Glen Clark, speaking to the council of media locals of the Communications, Energy and Paperworkers Union on September 24.

The Premier commented that the media's responsibility to provide accurate and unbiased coverage is being eroded by the recent anti-Nisga'a directive from News Group owner David Black to the editors of the 54 newspaper he owns in B.C.

"Mr. Black has issued an edict to his editors that they must run anti-Nisga'a commentary, regardless of their own position on the issue," Premier Clark said. "Beyond that, he is paying a political opponent of the treaty-making process to provide a series of anti-Nisga'a articles, and he will not permit his editors to run counter-arguments. And Mr. Black has said he will supply anti-Nisga'a editorials for those editors who are unwilling to write them themselves."

The Premier went on to say, "I am not shying away from criticism of the final agreement. I accept criticism - in fact, I welcome it. But we cannot have a debate if people are denied access to the facts about this treaty. Mr. Black openly admits that he has not read the agreement, and I don't think it is too much to expect critics of this agreement to at least do that. But despite his lack of detailed knowledge of the treaty, he somehow feels comfortable in bring the weight of his company to bear in a political fight against this treaty. I think that is reprehensible."

Break-in thief steals church crosses

Sometime during the evening of September 22 and the early morning hours of September 23, thieves stole two crosses from St. Paul's United Church in Princeton. One cross was a large brass cross approximately .75 metres high and the other was slightly smaller, approximately .5 m. high. A pair of brass candlesticks presented in memory of Mabel Burr were taken from the church altar. Intruders threw a praying hands plaque, presented to the church in memory of a child who died, into the choir loft.

Members of the congregation were most distressed by the thefts and the invasion of the church.

Anyone having any information pertaining to this break and enter are asked to phone Princeton RCMP at 295-6911 or Crimestoppers. (See letter to the editor, Page 7.)

Health Board

No solutions offered

There is no more money.

This fact was made abundantly clear at the Annual General Meeting of Okanagan Similkameen Regional Health Board, (OSRHB) held September 23 at Princeton General Hospital.

Murli Pendharkar, Board Chair, offered to resign if that would help the situation, but said there is no way to fix what is wrong.

The Catch-22 bothering everybody is that the nursing staff complains of having too few staff for the number of patients, yet they cannot reduce the patient load because there is no more money for more staff nor for more home support. If there were more nurses, the load might be lighter. If there were more home support hours available, there would be fewer patients to care for. If there were more beds in Ridgewood Lodge, there would be fewer patients to care for. However, there is no more money to solve any of these problems.

Pendharkar and Murray Ramsden, Chief Executive Officer of OSRHB, told the thirty-plus people at the meeting that every hospital and every home support group in the region has the same problem because the region is underfunded.

Pendharkar outlined the challenges of the region as diversity, increasing demand for services, an increasing population (especially the number of older persons) and advancing technology in medicine.

The region is underfunded by $15 to $20 million.

Nobody denied there was a problem. Some short term measures for easing the problem locally were offered by Dorothy Cobb, who administers all community health care in the Princeton area. Ray Huey, Chair of the Princeton area Advisory Committee, said he would like to see more feedback from the community.

The meeting was definitely not satisfactory from the point of view of solving anything, but it did clearly outline the problems and there was recognition that the problems cannot be solved at this time by the people responsible for solving the problems. In that respect, all of the reports were honest.

Seniors gain support

Ray Jarvis, President of Senior Citizens Branch #30, made a presentation to Princeton Town Council on September 21. Jarvis asked for approval for the Older Person parade to be held Friday morning in Princeton, and for support in principle for activities planned for 1999 Year of the Older Person.

Jarvis told Council about the parade, saying it would be led by an 'old horse with an old rider' and outlined the route. Council approved.

Jarvis added details of activities such as a ball game of seniors versus kids, and a dance at the high school with young people and old people dancing to each other's brand of music.

"We want to move toward a society of all ages," Jarvis said.

Mayor Randy McLean likes the idea of mixing senior citizens with young people in a variety of activities.

"It's a great idea to show kids today you can have a lot of fun - just good, old-fashioned fun," said Mayor McLean.

Ken Rogoski and Wendy Nargang are the new managers of Princeton Mini-Mart on Allison Flats. The small convenience store which has served Allison Flats residents for approximately 60 years, was closed during the summer months. Ken and Wendy have painted and cleaned the interior of the store and put it back in business.

Success strikes again

by Laura Lawson,

South Similkameen reporter

Fall Apple Day at the Grist Mill was another success. On September 20, hundreds of people strolled the lawns under a beautiful blue sky.

The event has clearly expanded into a mini-fair. Fewer apple products were on display compared with years past. The change has brought jewelers, potters and papier maché artists together with vendors selling packaged toys and frozen fruit yogurt. Authentic Thai food from "Jampee's Kitchen" was available.

As always, there was something to interest everyone, including the traditional fiddle music, children's games and apple contest. Winners received $5, $10 and $15 gift certificates as well as items from the gift shop.

Winners of the Apple Pie contest:

1. Diane McIver - Keremeos
2. Lisa Gumpert - Keremeos
3. Emily Taylor - Cawston

Runner-up: Sally Taylor - Cawston

Winner was Vanessa McIver - 3,673

Youth Council

Mayor Petschl elected

At a meeting held September 23, the election of the 1998-99 Youth Council saw Sheryl Petschl go from Interim Mayor to Mayor for the year. The Youth Council decided to elect five Councillors: Alisdair Reid, Tina Costa, Victor Darel, Jennifer McConnell and Ian Elko. Sarah Liberatore is Secretary.

The new Youth Council has established a priority project: a survey at Princeton Secondary School to discover what issues the young people would like the Youth Council to address.

A.G. pledges support to fight racism against

First Nations

Penticton - Proactive government support to combat widespread and systemic racism against aboriginal people was promised by Attorney General Ujjal Dosanjh in Penticton on September 22. Dosanjh was speaking at the Okanagan Aboriginal Forum on Hate Crime, the fourth in a series of such forums co-sponsored by the Ministry Responsible for Multiculturalism and Immigration.

"As a society, we have made strides toward reconciling injustices that have occurred against First Nations people. But before we can begin a true process of restorative justice and healing, we must face the ugly truth about racism and inequity that continue to exist for aboriginal peoples," said Dosanjh. "I pledge to you here today that I will do my part, as will my ministry staff, to aggressively launch and support programs to counter racism and facilitate your goals and aspirations."

The Penticton forum was co-sponsored by the En'owkin Centre, an educational institution located on the Penticton Indian Reserve. The Centre provides education and race-relations programs and services.

Penticton Chief Stuart Phillip says government-facilitated forums like these, which acknowledge and counter racism in the aboriginal community, are an important building block toward reconciliation.

"There is rampant poverty in First Nations communities. Our formerly thriving society and culture have been eradicated," said Phillip. "Before we can begin to solve these problems, we must acknowledge racism exists within all levels of today's society. I welcome the support the ministry is offering, because I believe life's successes and failure depend on building relationships."

The forum series recommendations and final report will be utilized to provide the B.C. Hate Crime Team, the Ministry, and the B.C. Human Rights Commission and other government agencies a better understanding of issues facing members of the aboriginal community.

Community forests

Pilot project goes next step

Communities and First Nations are invited to present their local forest management proposals under the community forest pilot project, Forests Minister David Zirnelt announced on September 17.

Under the Jobs and Timber Accord, government committed to design and pilot a new community forest tenure to increase the direct participation of communities and First Nations in the management of local forests and to create sustainable jobs. In February, the minister of forests received over 80 expressions of interest from communities wanting to take part in the pilot project.

Details on how to prepare and submit proposals are set out in a request for proposals package. The package also sets out the process and criteria by which the proposals will be screened, evaluated and selected. Communities will have until January 15, 1999 to prepare submissions.

Proposals will be screened and evaluated based on the criteria developed by a sub-committee of the community forest advisory committee. The sub-committee will recommend to the minister a short list of pilot candidates. Early in the new year, the minister will select and award at least three pilot agreements. Criteria include:

- confirmed potential land base and availability of Crown timber
- demonstrated broad-based support from all sectors of the community
- clearly identified management objectives for the community forest and strategies for how these objectives will be achieved
- a developed business plan for operations under the community forest.

Women plan magic

A magic show to be held next spring was the major topic of discussion at the Princeton Business and Professional Women's dinner meeting on September 22. The club plans to bring in Abracadabra Productions, a magic show with dancers, on March 4. This will be a fundraiser for a bursary for the graduating student.

A tentative date has been set for the fiftieth anniversary celebration. The proposed date was taken to the fall regional conference held in Penticton on September 26, where it was considered for approval among the region's clubs. The problem the local club faces is that their anniversary date conflicts with the BPW International Congress to be held in Vancouver next September.

Members agreed to participate in the Museum flea market on November 21 and to have a pie sale.

Merrilyn Huycke will write to the St. Catherine's, Ontario, BPW Club to introduce the Princeton club in a twinning process.

Crime wave keeps on rolling

Princeton has never had a summer season so filled with petty crime. The number of break-ins and thefts continues to climb weekly. Last week was no exception to the rule of several per week.

In addition to the theft from St. Paul's United Church, there were other invasions of private property.

The bus depot was broken into and the parcels rifled through. It is believed the thief or thieves stole a parcel containing a set of

Little Scoop's Two Cents

On the cover of one of last week's Province newspapers was a story about the fish situation in the Georgia Strait. The story told of how if the commercial and sport fishing in the Strait did not stop, it would turn into an ecological wasteland much like the Dead Sea. Later that week, in discussion with some friends, we realized that there is no way that the complete ban on fishing in the Strait would ever happen. In today's provincial political system, the importance isn't what happens 10, 20, or 50 years down the line, the importance is put on what happens between today and the next election.

This is a great example of how our corrupt and ridiculous provincial political system works. It is an example of a problem that threatens our environment and has a clear and simple answer. Sure, it will hurt some people but there is no way around it. When it comes to problems like these, here is how our politicians will play it: First, they will say that they think the problem is very serious and they will have some of "their" people look into it. This will probably take at least a year. Secondly, they will admit there is a problem and make a trivial move, like limiting the number of fish allowed to be caught in a day. Thirdly, use this move as part of their next campaign, exaggerating its importance and making it look like they really care about the environmental issues. Meanwhile, the fishermen are happy to still be able to fish, so all parties are pleased.

We can't let our elected officials work on these four year, please-as-many-people-as-you-can-so-you-get-another-term sprees. To build for the future, economical, environmental, educational and all interests of our government have to make long term goals and sacrifices have to be made. We, the voting community, have to stand behind these sacrifices, knowing that they are there what it is going to take to make things better in our province. Enough bandaid politics, let's roll up our sleeves and do the right thing for once, our children deserve better.

false teeth and one containing an address book. Several packages were removed from the building.

The Western Feed and Supply was broken into, with major damage to the building. A thief or thieves took the following: a pink nylon horse lead, a pair of spurs, garden shears, other small items.

The Princeton feed store was entered an a small amount of money taken.

These happened on the evening of September 22 from 10 p.m. to the morning of September 23. RCMP request assistance from the citizens of Princeton in finding the thieves. Call 295-6911.

THE NISGA'A TREATY

It's important for all British Columbians to have the facts about the Nisga'a Treaty.

Does the Treaty create a separate Nisga'a nation?

NO The Treaty allows the Nisga'a people to govern themselves in a way comparable to a municipal government.

The Canadian Constitution, the Charter of Rights and Freedoms, and the Criminal Code will apply to the Nisga'a people.

Is there a cost to delaying treaties?

YES Delaying treaties delays economic certainty. KPMG and Price Waterhouse - two national accounting firms - have found that the prolonged uncertainty of unresolved land claims has cost B.C. billions of dollars in lost investment and jobs.

Do I get a say in the Treaty?

YES A free vote by your elected representatives will be held in the B.C. Legislature. This allows all members to vote with their conscience, not along party lines. A vote will also be held by the federal Parliament in Ottawa.

The Nisga'a people will hold their own ratification vote.

One year later: their vision is alive and well

Cathy Montgomery and Karen Allen went to lunch together in July, 1997, and came up with a vision of what their future could be. The two women wanted to see a good produce market in Princeton.

"Somebody should start one," they agreed. By the time lunch was over, they had decided to do it themselves. A year has passed and they are celebrating the first anniversary of Garden Pride Produce Market.

They became partners in enterprise: making a business plan, travelling to see what others were doing, finding the right rental space, finding the capital to start. By September 30, they had opened Garden Pride Produce Market.

"We went through a lot of growing pains," says Montgomery, "We learned a lot of lessons, especially about being partners. We could give lessons on successful partnership."

Allen and Montgomery believe in community supporting community. They believe a town survives by mutual support and the dollars staying at home.

"Doing business locally serves everybody's interest," Montgomery says, "whether you're trying to sell property or make more opportunities for your children. We keep the jobs at home."

Karen Allen admits they have a different approach to doing business and to handling employees. She believes it is because women have a different view of how to handle relationships. Garden Pride sees their customers as friends and the owners want to be of service. The Garden Pride employees are part of a team working with the owners.

Allen and Montgomery went through times when they were frustrated and disheartened, but they learned that is part of the ups and downs of starting and operating any business.

The action at Garden Pride has never stopped. It is now expanding and the name has changed to Garden Pride Farmer's Market.

"We are going to offer a lot more to our customers," says Allen, "More healthy alternatives, a bigger bulk food section."

The expansion is still based on their biggest drawing card - the freshest produce. They have offered Princeton the best in fruit and vegetables that they could obtain, and have added dairy products, specialty items not found anywhere else, such as Italian cookies, and quality bulk foods.

Would they do it again - launch a brand new business in Princeton? Yes!

"I've learned so much about myself and what I can do, I would do it again," Allen says as Montgomery nods in agreement.

Garden Pride Farmer's Market is located in Princeton Plaza, another new venture in Princeton.

"We offer our customers healthy food, plenty of parking space, convenient store hours and no long line-ups," says Montgomery, "We want our customers to be our friends."

POINTS OF VIEW

OUR VIEW

There is a way to fair play

The Nisga'a agreement in principle has a third political power in the picture these days.

The owner of a large B.C. newspaper has decided to take on the provincial government, Premier Clark and the Nisga'a nation in his opposition to the Nisga'a agreement. He has instructed the editors of his fifty-two newspapers to write editorials against the deal, or he will provide them with editorial materials questioning the wisdom of the deal. We do not believe editors should be told what opinions to print in their newspapers, but when the boss owns most of the newspapers in home territory, the boss can impose his opinion on all. That is the way chains are: they hold you down.

That is one part of the issue. The other part of the issue is about whether the power of the press is being used wisely and fairly. The greater the power a person has, the more wisely that power must be used. Power is a responsibility, not a privilege, according to our view.

This newspaper does not oppose the Nisga'a agreement, not because two of the partners are descended from chiefs of the Similkameen, but because we believe that those who negotiated the agreement for so many years did so in good faith. In our view, if the Nisga'a people and the governments of British Columbia and Canada are pleased with the deal, then it is probably a good deal for everybody.

We are not opposed to the treaty process because this province had so few treaties. We do not believe, when Canada took over B.C. and forced the native peoples onto reserves, that action constituted any kind of treaty. Treaties are not made at gunpoint.

The Nisga'a and other First Nations peoples are struggling to enter into equity with other Canadians, and our provincial government is attempting to live by laws broken in B.C. over the past hundred-plus years. Let's give ourselves a chance to finally recognize and abide by the law.

Lali comments on home support

Dear Editor;

Re Home Support Funding

I would like to open by thanking your paper for keeping this issue in front of Princeton area residents and on the agenda in my office. Without your efforts, and those of people like Joyce Fraser and George Armstrong, we would all be less informed on this crucial issue. You have raised some serious concerns and I would like to take this opportunity to address them specifically.

Despite a funding cut of $750 million per year from the Federal Government in Health and Social Service transfers, my government has increased healthcare funding each and every year of its mandate. The Okanagan-Similkameen Health Region saw an increase of $2,000,000 - figure provided by Okanagan-Similkameen Regional Health Board (OSRHB) - to its Home Support budget last year alone. That funding was added to a budget which was more than adequate when the Home Support budget was managed from Victoria in 1996. However, the OSRHB states that the demand has continued to grow and, as a result, the board is no longer supplying housekeeping services through its Home Support program.

All clients are being reassessed to see if hours allocated to cleaning and dusting can be better used by seniors with needs for assistance with any number of conditions due to their inability to help themselves. Services being provided are varied but the basic guidelines are that the person in need is helped to perform functions related to health care needs. Dorothy Cobb, the local administrator for the Health Care Region, has a list of those types of needs the Regional Health Board is able to cover.

The board, through Ms. Cobb, is not blithely reassigning hours from one person's housekeeping to another person's health care. They are working with local community groups to try to assist in setting up a service that will provide housekeeping for seniors. While government funds are limited, there are some programs related to youth employment and volunteer initiatives that may well fit into this service.

In the meantime, I am working with staff at the Ministry of Health to examine all aspects of health care in the Princeton area. There are many concerns besides the apparent problems the Regional Health Board is experiencing in administration of Home Support programming. Your readers are, no doubt, aware that the demands on the system are many and varied. While my office has received a significant number of letters on the issue of Home Support, they lag behind the letters we have received calling for an increase in pay and benefits to local physicians (this when B.C.

already has the highest paid physicians in Canada). Then, too, many are calling for a rise in the number of extended care beds while others are pushing hard for inclusion of full pharmacare and non-traditional medicines in the provincial healthcare plan. I doubt we will ever be in a position to fulfill everyone's desires. We shall continue, however, to address immediate and life-sustaining issues in our health care system.

Sincerely,

Harry Lali,

MLA Yale-Lillooet

"I am tired of this mess," he says

Dear Editor:
Well, the Clinton tapes are on the Internet: complete, full details of this sordid affair. Has it proven anything we suspected was being done with powers of high office? The lady, or ladies, involved (it seems there were several) all had one idea: use their bodies to further enhance the possible monetary gain. I wonder just how many of our people in high places are using their positions for sordid affairs?

Church member disgusted over theft of crosses

Dear Editor:
God has been robbed!
The thieves who broke into St. Paul's United Church sometime Tuesday or early Wednesday September 23 destroyed a brand new door, removed symbolic artifacts, two brass crosses, a pair of brass candlesticks, a microphone, and threw into the choir loft a plaque of The Praying Hands, in memory of a little boy who passed away.
I was horrified when I discovered the break-in. The artifacts can be replaced but to me and others of the congregation, it was a devastating experience. The altar of our church was destroyed! The crosses, so simple yet beautiful, represent our faith as Christians in Jesus Christ; the candles, the light of the world (symbolic).
The thieves must answer to a Higher Being. What goes around comes around. God have mercy on their souls.

are being addressed. I once again wrote Mr. Ramsden April 29 about the issues and when they would be addressed. I did not receive a response.

Nurses have continued to document and submit concerns to management about the inability to meet standards and provide safe patient care.

I attended the community meeting August 6, 1998, and once again asked for a response from Mr. Pendharker (we were assured that questions that could not be answered at the meeting would be addressed by letter within two weeks) and I received no reply.

The situation has become increasingly worse as the patient load and acuity increases. More staff are off ill, further stressing the remaining staff.

As a nurse, patient advocate and community member, I would like to know when these matters will be addressed.

Yours truly,

Clinton has been caught in lies. His wife stated "I stand by my man". She is not alone. Would she seek divorce and cut off her nose to spite her face? I think not. For, out of fear of losing her own little power base, she turned a blind eye. I would say there are many wives who are in the same predicament.

Personally, I think there are deeper issues over the months this soap opera has continued. We have found that politicians at all levels are a bunch of prevaricators. Wasted tax dollars, be it U.S. dollars or of any other country in the world. They deceive and coerce their way to get one thing: MONEY! In our present corrupt society these are mere tools of the game. It is this tool that sets one up as a target.

Politics this last number of years has been a dirty business. There are numerous persons that aspire to join the upper echelons of power. Anything to one better than their fellow man or woman.

When that woman writes her memoirs after this sordid affair is over, would the title be The Seduction of the President?

Personally, I am tired of this mess. R.W. Bouvette

Council talks dogs again

Dogs on the downtown streets of Princeton were once again a topic of concern for Town Council. A bylaw of the city of Nelson, B.C. on dog control interested councillors, but the key question was "who will enforce it?"

Mayor Randy McLean said he had received numerous complaints about dogs on sidewalks. Councillors admitted having received complaints about dogs.

The question of enforcement of any bylaw regarding dog control seemed to stymie Council.

Another concern was the use of motorized vehicles on downtown sidewalks. Complaints had been received about the lack of consideration shown by drivers of such vehicles for pedestrians using the sidewalks. Councillors had no guidelines nor information about these vehicles nor regulations governing these vehicles. It was noted that drivers of the small motorized vehicles had been a safety hazard among regular motor vehicles on occasion. No information was available as to whether the drivers were required to be licensed.

Heart Food

by Dave Machin

We need to be careful not to be misled or deceived in our thinking about God and His nature. He is not and never will be the author/giver of anything that is evil, in fact, He never even thinks about it. Why would He cause hurt or bad things to happen to His own creation. Would we do that to our own children? Of course not. People say all the time, "Look at all the bad things that are taking place in the world, wars, fighting, child abuse, starvation etc. If there is a God, where is He?"

What is really being said/thought is that it is all God's fault and He is responsible. In our own lives, when we get ourselves in a mess, we say 'How come God let this happen?'

The fact remains that we all have a free will and the right to make choices. These choices need to be carefully thought out, because sometimes they can be very costly.

When people choose to hate or do things their own way the results can be disastrous. Does a war affect only the two parties that started it? Not usually. Most often it affects innocent people all around, sometimes whole towns or nations. Yet God cannot make people love each other nor force them to work together, because it would violate our freedom of choice. When a drunk driver kills an innocent victim, is that God's fault? Did God make him do that? No. It is due to choices made. These choices come from a heart that needs to be repaired.

The heart is the most deceitful thing there is and desperately wicked. No one can really know how bad it is. God always has a desire to deal with the root of the problem - which is what is in our hearts. His desire is to give us new hearts that will show his ways. His ways are love, joy, peace, longsuffering, goodness, kindness, patience, gentleness and self-control. We cannot do these things on our own but He will do them through us. Proverbs 4:23 says "Out of the heart come the issues of life." What is in your heart today? Whatever is in your heart will eventually show itself. If we make the choice to come back into relationship with God by accepting His son Jesus as our own personal Lord and Savior, He will change our hearts and we will see how truly good God is. Princeton's Tess Lawrence was among 252 people who cycled 200km and raised an estimated $175,000 at Trek 98 on September 12-13. Lawrence is seen here with mother Marilyn Lawrence, volunteer President of the British Columbia Lung Association. Now in its fourteenth year, Trek is a fundraiser for the B.C. Lung Association. Participants seek sponsorship in their communities before riding the 200km route through the Fraser Valley and Washington state. The ride is over for these cyclists, but their fundraising continues until October 16, when the B.C. Lung Association hopes to have raised $250,000 from Trek. The money will be used to fund medical research, educational programs and patient support activities throughout B.C.

Senior Citizens host Zone meeting

Princeton Senior Citizens Branch #30 hosted the nine branches of the Central Okanagan Region of the B.C. Association on September 25. A total of 37 people attended the meeting, which began with a social hour, then went to business. The meeting was followed by a Roast beef dinner courtesy of the Princeton branch.

The meeting, chaired by Regional Director Helen Burnell, and recorded by Secretary-Treasurer Marg Heather, heard the reports of activities of all of the branches. Plans for the International Year of the Older Person were reviewed. The special year will be the theme of the provincial conference next May.

Everyone enjoyed the lunch, and the luncheon music by Dave McMow. The gathering ended with some entertainment by the Movers and Shakers, the seniors' own master entertainers.

Mayor says Library "torn apart"

Princeton Mayor Randy McLean has some concerns about what is happening to the regional library system. He spent a great deal of time at a meeting of regional library representatives, hearing Vernon's desire to pull out of the system.

Mayor McLean commented on the work done in the past to create a strong regional library system, noting the cost as $23 per year to local taxpayers for the service.

"It's a shame to see it being torn apart," Mayor McLean said.

Thief steals car speakers

On September 20, Princeton RCMP received a complaint that a set of car audio speakers were stolen from a pick-up truck parked on Edgewood Drive overnight. The speakers were encased in a 1 X 1 wooden box. If anyone has any information regarding this theft, please contact Princeton RCMP at 295-6911.

Archer will be missed

Jim Archer moved to Princeton area as a child. He died in Princeton General Hospital on September 24 after a lengthy illness.

Jim was a student at the One Mile School and Princeton Elementary. When he left school, he worked and trained as a pipefitter at Granby Power Plant on the Similkameen River near Princeton. He went from there to refit a fish cannery at Namu, then returned to Princeton to work at Northwood Mills as a mechanic. From Northwood, he went to the school district as a maintenance man and school bus driver. Jim Archer was meticulous in his work, maintaining buses, operating heating and ventilating systems and doing just about anything needed. He loved automobiles, having rebuilt his first Model T Ford when he was still a kid.

He was forced to retire due to poor health in 1993.

Jim made many friends. He turned his talents to helping elderly people who needed a bit of maintenance around their homes. He will be missed.

Hedley hosted an excellent Slow-pitch Tournament on September 19 and 20. Above, the finalists battle it out at the Hedley ballfield.

Hedley hosts tournament

by Laura Lawson,

South Similkameen reporter
The Hedley Community Club sponsored a slow pitch tournament held during the weekend of September 18. Eight teams from Langley, Merritt, Surrey, Keremeos, Cawston, Princeton and Hedley participated.

In the final game, the Flintstones from Surrey/Langley met the Hedley Blasters. The score was 7-1 all at the bottom of the fifth inning. The Flintstones were batting and already had two out when the last batter hit a home-run, winning the tournament by one point.

Following the Flintstones overall #1 win, the Hedley Blaster placed second, the Princeton Pumpkins places third, and Keremeos Young Guns were fourth.

Council opposes election

by Laura Lawson,

South Similkameen reporter
A letter from the Okanagan Mainline Municipal Association concerning elections of UBCM executives stirred a great deal of discussion at the Keremeos Village Council meeting held September 21. The letters states that, at a June executive committee meeting held in Kamloops, it was moved that the committee "support any member of OMMA who run for the UBCM executive".

Councillor Gurevitch asked for a discussion, stating his objection to "a blanket recommendation" of candidates "regardless of background".

Councillor Holley agreed it "should be an open and fair election".

Council will send a letter objecting to the OMMA proposal.

Phone call makes friends

Telephone reassurance is a program sponsored by the Lower Similkameen Community Services Society in Keremeos. It offers an opportunity for people living alone, at risk and who may be socially isolated, to have personal telephone contact with another community resident.

The original intent was to have the client receive a daily call, but most are happy to talk with their telephone partners two or three times a week. Past client surveys found that these friendly calls are very much appreciated. The clients reported feeling better after the call and they enjoyed the opportunity to talk with a person about whom they knew very little.

The calls are an excellent opportunity to exchange life experiences and histories while meeting the needs of the clients. The risk of living alone is reduced. Callers have expressed great satisfaction in being part of this program. All had some apprehensions at first, but once they made their initial call they realized that it is not so difficult and looked forward to their next call. They reported the same benefits as the clients!

With major cutbacks in Home Support, we find we have many clients who may benefit from our Telephone Reassurance Program. If you are interested in volunteering for this program, we need more volunteers. Please call Mary-Anne at 499-5692 or 499-2352 for more information. The program is funded by the Continuing Care division of the Ministry of Health.

Arena skating schedule set

Lyle Thomas, manager of Princeton's arena, has an opinion about the ice design he created this year.

"I think this is the prettiest ice we've ever done," Thomas says.

Face-off dots have number 7 included in memory of local hockey player Kurt Krenn who lost his life in a car accident last March.

The ice was ready for September 20. Figure skating has begun and public skating is available on schedule, with Weyerhaeuser providing free public skating on some Sundays (watch the schedule which will be printed weekly in this newspaper).

The first hockey tournament is set for October 10 and 11, when the Minor Hockey Jamboree takes place. The Jamboree will continue on October 17 and 18.

More people, more money

B.C. expects more than $100 million will be added to its coffers as a result of recently announced increases to B.C.'s population.

According to the latest Statistics Canada release, B.C.'s population has surpassed four million people, entitling the province to additional dollars from the Canada health and social transfer payments. The $100 million is in addition to the $1.7 billion transfer estimate in the 1998-99 provincial budget.

This news does not reflect a change in the federal funding policy for social programs such as health, education and social services, even though B.C. has suffered over $650 million in cuts during the past three years. This adjustment is simply a redistribution of existing funding between provinces.

Account to be set up for piano and Culture Centre Fund for Princeton

by Patti Harrower

Interested individual community members along with the Princeton Concert Society and the Arts Council are working together to establish a fund to be used to purchase a new community piano. The fund will be administered by and under the umbrella of the Arts Council, with a representative of the Concert Society or other committee member to collect and deposit the funds into the soon to be established account.

A separate fund to be used to build a Culture Centre has also been set up by the Arts Council. The Centre will be used for art shows and other community performances such as the Annual Cheesecake Concert and the trio of concerts put on by the Concert Society each year. Perhaps the Culture Centre could be used as a movie theatre as well, eliminating the cost of a separate facility for this purpose. This community building would also house the new community piano.

These are projects which complement each other. Local performers using the old piano at the CE hall have agreed that it is in very bad shape and can not hold a tune. A new piano, housed at a new Culture Centre, would have a permanent place. The old piano could possibly continue to be used for other functions requiring it to be moved.

The Princeton Concert Society held a garage sale at Madelon Schouten's place in Pinewood Crescent last Saturday to contribute to the Piano Fund, with items donated by various individuals. The sale netted $200 toward the community piano.

The Arts Council and the Concert Society would like any interested persons to feel free to hold fund-raisers for the purpose of purchasing the new piano and building the Culture Centre. Any donations toward the Culture Centre can be given to Ross Chaston, Treasurer of the Arts Council. To date, there has been nearly $800 in donations toward this project. The representative for the Piano Fund is yet to be determined. The account for this project will be set up within the next few weeks at the Valley First Credit Union.

A visit to the 'Shegalla' circus

by Laura Lawson,

South Similkameen reporter
On September 23, a film crew was shooting at "Carrie's" cabin on the banks of the Similkameen River in Cawston. "Carrie" is the name of the lead character in "Shegalla" played by Lynn Redgrave.

behind the cabin completed the authenticity of the scene. The wires, cameras, lights and head sets worn by the crew were forgotten. Dressed in costume, Redgrave was Carrie and not the same woman locals have seen about town. In character, the actress' clothing and demeanor brings memories of a silent "Rosie" played by Katherine Hepburn in "African Queen".

At a glimpse, one is left with the impression of a very compelling movie in the making.

Anyone visiting the set would believe the cabin and dilapidated barn had been there for at least 50 years. In reality, both buildings were recently constructed for the movie.

The sight of Lynn Redgrave

Easy does it: Making movies in Keremeos

by Laura Lawson,

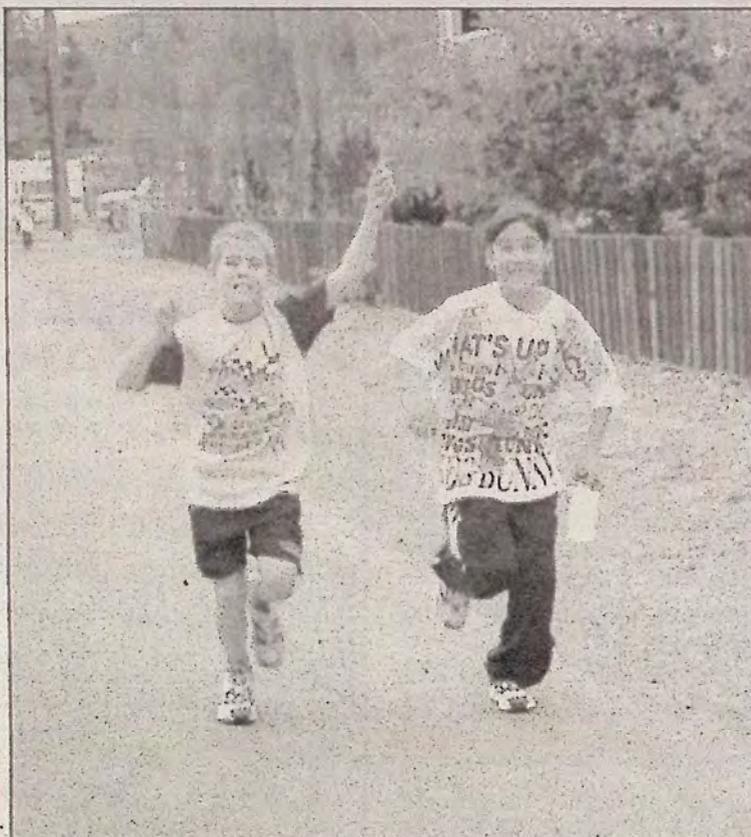

South Similkameen reporter
Keremeos residents seem to be accepting the arrival of movie stars with surprising aplomb.

Last week, Tighe Runyan, who plays Carrie's (Lynn Redgrave's) young love interest, was chatting with teenagers at the Hilltop while choosing a movie to rent.

Lynn Redgrave was recognized by many when she arrived at the local watering hole to hear "Sillustani". The actress has been shopping at the IGA and looking for collector spoons at Zack's.

Even though no one is begging for autographs, an undercurrent of excitement is in the air. The general attitude in this community of hard-working people is that taking a minute to socialize is welcome, but when someone has a job to do, you leave them alone.

Graham Green, the actor who starred as a medicine man in "Dances With Wolves" should be arriving any day.

These youngsters from Vermilion Forks Elementary school participated in a Terry Fox Run held Friday September 18. A number of people participated in the run, held annually in B.C. Total amount of money raised in Princeton is not available at press time.

Keremeos Junior Girls volleyball team travelled to Princeton last Thursday for the season's first tournament. They played well and had a lot of fun.

Local Junior Girls start season

Princeton Junior Girls Volleyball Team, The Rebels, played well in a season first tournament held in Princeton on September 24. The Rebels beat Glenfir (Summerland) 22 to 17 in one game and Keremeos 22 to 13 in another game.

Keremeos girls played well, giving strong opposition on serves and bouncing back quickly on lost serves.

Candace Low, of Princeton, had an outstanding tournament. She was very strong in her role as key server for the team and as a power hitter.

Natasha Martindale, Falon Laroye, Sarah Liberatore, Ticia Stacey and Aleena Lay played their positions very well, and Jennifer Arthur, Michelle Arthur, Jana Greeley and Shana Wright had good games.

It was a good start to the season. The next Princeton tournament will be on October 22 from 4 to 6:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend and enjoy the competition.

Sillustani rocks Keremeos

by Laura Lawson,

South Similkameen reporter
For three consecutive nights the K-Mountain Inn rocked with the unique sounds of "Sillustani", a visiting Peruvian band. Hired to play for the annual "Picker and Packer" Ball held on September 19, the group gave a preview on Friday night and stayed for an encore on Sunday. During all three performances, the house was packed, and despite the fact that the lyrics were foreign to most ears, the music brought out the dancer in nearly everyone.

Currently based in Vancouver, "Sillustani" has four members from Peru and one from Ecuador. A sister group was founded eight years ago in Peru by Roosevelt Santos who has been playing mandolin for 25 years. Other instruments used by the band include a vertical flute called a klena, a bamboo sikus, bombo and wan'kara drums and a 10-string charango.

Singing in two languages, Spanish and Aymara, the group's sound is a mixture of Spanish and native Andean cultures. The name "Sillustani" comes from the old ruins of Macchu Picchu, home to the ancient Incas.

Roosevelt and other family members followed his sister Nellie Santos-Dawson after she married Brian Dawson, an orchardist in Cawston, and immigrated to Keremeos several years ago.

The band has often played in Penticton at both malls and performs regularly at Granville Island and during occasional festivals. Their third CD is scheduled to be released next spring.

Some locals may remember the stunning impression "Sillustani" created three years ago during a performance at the Ashnola pow-wow. The musicians were not only honoured by the endless dancing of participants but by elders blowing of eagle whistles.

A tentative date has been set for another appearance on October 17 at "Mis Amigos", the restaurant owned by Roosevelt's sisters, Nellie and Wilma, who plan to have an evening of dinner and dancing.

Spinners, Weavers, Dancers gather for 'A Celtic afternoon'

by Patti Harrower

Pinewood Pottery and Gift shop located 28 km. up Highway 40 hosted their annual "Celtic Afternoon" last Saturday under cloudy skies and off-and-on rain.

On display were various items of knitted goods, both finished garments and spun and unspun animal fibres. Almost any kind of animal fur may be used to spin, although some require a mix of fibres in order to bind into a strand of yarn. There were a few different kinds of spinning wheels and carders on display. These were demonstrated, and in some cases, a mini-class was taught.

Kathy Chapman demonstrated dyeing of fibres using marigolds. To dye fibres with plant components, water and plant is boiled for about an hour until the water is the proper colour. The plant matter is strained out and a mordant, or colour fixative, such as allum, copper, tin, or vinegar is added. Any substance containing a metallic crystal will do. The fibres are then added to the now coloured water and left to absorb the colour for maybe another hour. The timing is not as important as the way the colour looks both in the water while it is boiling, and the strength of colour on the fibre as it becomes absorbed. Timing is a judgment call based on preference.

Kathy also taught a mini-class on Scottish Country Dancing, the steps of which are very different from Highland Dancing. Several of us attending, including this reporter, enjoyed learning some of the simpler steps of Scottish Country Dancing.

Princeton's Highland Dancers arrived in perfect timing between rain showers to entertain the group in the early afternoon, joined by our newest piper, Patrick Le Poidevin. The dancers performed nine numbers, including the Highland Fling, a Jig, a Lilt, a Chantreus, the Hornpipe, a Johnnie, and a Pas De Basque. Patrick played pipes for a few of the dances, and then played solo two beautiful numbers, "Highland Cathedral," and a Canadian contemporary number called "Blue Cloud." All the performances were wonderful and extremely well received.

Rainy weather notwithstanding, the afternoon was an entertaining and interesting way to spend the day while learning something new in the process.

The Interior Districts of the Freemasons have added two more vehicles to the Cancer Car Project for the Rotary Cancer Lodge in Kelowna. Above, Freemasons gathered for the formal presentation of the vehicles.

Freemasons donate cars for Cancer Lodge

The Freemasons of B.C. have just added two more vehicles to their Cancer Car Project, this time for the Rotary Patient Lodge in Kelowna.

The Freemasons are still furnishing free transportation for the Canadian Cancer Society's patients on the lower mainland and Vancouver Island as they have been since 1989.

In the Okanagan, one of the cars will be based in Penticton to provide free transportation for cancer patients to and from Kelowna. The other car is to be based in Kamloops to take care of the northern portion of the valley.

All active Freemasons in B.C. contribute to the capital fund to assist in the purchase of necessary vehicles. In Kelowna, extra contributions were master-minded by Very Worshipful Brother Lorne Donaldson, aided by the Masonic Brethren in District #9. In Penticton, under the direction of Very Worshipful Brother Egon Ruetters, aided by Masonic Brethren in District #10, raised in excess of $55,000. The money raised in Kelowna was in excess of $80,000.

On Thursday, August 27, at the new Rotary Cancer Lodge in Kelowna, the two vehicles were formally donated to the Canadian Cancer Society manager of the Interior District, Diane Slater, by the Grand Master Most Worshipful Brother Harold Nordan who lives in Langley, B.C. The volunteer drivers then drove the two vehicles to their respective base communities, where they will be ready to transport cancer patients to and from the Cancer Clinic in Kelowna at NO cost to the patient.

The vehicles are dispatched from the dispatch office located in the Rotary Cancer Lodge in Kelowna. Patients needing transportation can call the Freemason Dispatch Center 1-250-712-1101 or the Canadian Cancer Society office at 1-250-762-6381.

The drivers are mostly Freemasons, and they are all volunteers.

NVIT joins UCC

Merritt received a $6 million shot in the arm on September 17 with the development of a new joint campus for the Nicola Valley Institute of Technology and the University College of the Cariboo.

Andrew Petter, Minister of Advanced Education, Training and Technology, and Harry Lali, MLA Yale-Lillooet, made the announcement as they unveiled the campus master plan in Merritt. The design shows the new campus covering 17.5 hectares of Crown land on the North Bench and sharing facilities with the University College of the Cariboo.

"The campus plan brings us one step closer to expanding access to education to aboriginal people by aboriginal people," Petter said.

Lali added, "This new campus will replace the leased campuses currently being used by NVIT and UCC, saving money and improving services to students."

The new campus has a mandate to be a First Nations institute with a national scope.

"Today's announcement is great news for the people of Merritt and the Nicola Valley. The benefits, both these schools bring to our community are economically significant, but do not end there," Lali said. "The value of NVIT goes beyond the logic of dollars and cents - it's about the preservation and growth of culture, of language and tradition."

When fully developed the campus will have space for 1,000 students and will provide for self-financing student housing on campus with maximum capacity of 348 family resident units and 87 single student units.

Sue LePoidevin raises the bottle to swing it against the helicopter at John Allison Elementary to christen it.

John Allison School christens play 'helicopter'

John Allison Elementary School received a Healthy Schools grant of $400 last year through a project to provide more and better playground equipment - a unit called a 'helicopter'. This project would help the neighbourhood, as many of the youngsters go to the school after hours and on weekends to enjoy the playground equipment.

Students held a cupcake sale and earned $50, but they had a long way to go to raise $2,583 plus tax needed for the helicopter. The Parent Advisory Group held sales of hot dogs, pizzas and other treats to raise a total of $2,000, and all students in the school raised $405 through a can and bottle drive.

From the school's own budget for new equipment, the project received the remainder needed for the helicopter.

Students gathered around the new equipment to hear it dedicated, and see Sue LePoidevin christen it with a two-litre plastic bottle full of something blue (ink?).

Registrations for the 1998-99 figure skating season are going well. Implementation of the new program is running smoothly. The main goal of the new program is to have as much continuous movement as possible on the ice and as little time as possible spent with youngsters standing at the boards.

Ms. Barchard donated her time as Program Assistant on the ice. Her dedication and knowledge will be a big help to Coach Patty Wilson. Princeton Figure Skating Club is always looking for volunteers to help with the children. There are volunteers who do not have children, and more are welcome. Volunteers are especially helpful in preparing for the spring carnival and fundraising. Anyone wishing to help should call Thalia Darel at 295-3310.

APPRECIATION

THANK YOU

"Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted." Matthew 5:4.

This past week these words took on special meaning for those of us who mourn the passing of Helen (Gi Gi) Slager, our mother, grandmother, great grandmother and mother-in-law.

Words will never be able to express our deep, heartfelt, gratitude for your special acts of kindness, prayers and support displayed through beautiful flowers, plants, sympathy cards, telephone calls, delicious food and masses offered. Your attendance at the funeral to help celebrate her life gave us great comfort and support. There are so many people to thank; Dr. Adams and the wonderful nurses and staff at Princeton General Hospital who made her last days comfortable;

Princeton Ambulance Crew; Lois Haffey for bringing her Holy Communion; Father Chris Byrnes for celebrating the mass and emotional support; Special thanks to the Vermilion Court Home Support Workers for the special care that you gave her;

Dietary staff, staff and residents at Vermilion Court for your expressions of love, friendship and the donation to Vermilion Court and Princeton & District Community Services; All the Home Support Workers who cared for her over the years; Staff and Board of Directors for your special acts of kindness and love.

Special Thank you to the LTC assessors and staff at the Princeton Health Unit; Sally at the funeral home. To the pallbearers: Albie Thompson, Dale Andall, Doug Cotter, Earl Sinclair, Ronnie Dueck, and Earl Corsi; And finally to God who blessed us with her presence and long life.

Helen Slager passed away peacefully at Princeton General Hospital on September 14, surrounded by her loving family and special friend Lois Haffey. She left us gently, like a butterfly's kiss. The Fraser, Slager and Dueck families.

Andre and Susan Patry would like to say a hearty "thank you" to Thelma Krieger of Lazy K. Ranch for taking our 43 horses into "respite" during our "smokey days" at A.P. Ranch. It was a big relief to know that they were well cared for by the hands of such a very competent ranch lady. Words can't explain how grateful we are.

ATTENTION

Attention: Alec Basaraba, could sure use some school clothes/supplies. Hope to hear from you soon. Love your children. 492-0133

Eleanor and Don Porter have received many words of appreciation from members of Princeton Golf Club during the past two weeks as the Porters prepare for retirement after 20 years of service to local golfers.

Porters spent good years

When Don and Eleanor Porter first went to work for Princeton Golf Club, they thought they would try it for one year. The first year went well, so they thought they would try it for another year. Twenty years later, they are retiring from their jobs as managers and greenskeepers.

They have no regrets about the time they have spent working for, and with, members of Princeton Golf Club. They feel their work, and the friends they have made, was rewarding in giving them special satisfaction through achieving real progress.

Their retirement is official on October 22, but they received a "total surprise" when club members honoured them by naming the Fall Classic after them. They had a lot of laughs and tears during the roast and presentations.

"It was very emotional," says Don, "Everybody was emotional."

Porters feel the club has been good to them.

"The members were always there when we needed them," Don affirms.

Porters needed the members a great deal of the time as one project followed another. When Porters first began keeping the greens, some of the "greens" were sand! Don recalls preparing the sand to perfection, then having a wind come up and shower the sand with pine needles and cones.

Both Don and Eleanor worked the greens for the first 10 years, so there was often nobody to take the fees and rentals.

"People paid on the honour system," Don says, "and they never let us down."

Eleanor would make lots of sandwiches and leave them in the refrigerator at the old clubhouse.

Members would take a sandwich and leave the money.

"In all those years, there was only one sandwich we didn't get the money for," says Eleanor.

Porters watched the club grow and the greens improve. Originally, there were just the Porters as employees, sometimes backed up with workers hired on grants. Now there are 12 to 14 employees, with a golf pro starting in November.

"We progressed within the economics of the club," Don recalls, "Everybody has been good and worked at it."

The Porters are going to spend retirement travelling, going south for the winter as usual, and back to Princeton in the spring. They have no big plans.

"We're going to take her one day at a time," Don says.

They feel they had good, productive years at the golf course.

Don sums it up, "You're only as good as the people around you. We didn't waste our years. If we had another ten years, we'd do it for ten years more."

Moviemakers call for extras draws 400 applicants in Keremeos

by Laura Lawson,

South Similkameen reporter
On September 20, hopeful locals lined up inside the Keremeos packing house to register as extras in "Shegalla", the movie being filmed in Keremeos area.

Each person filled out a form describing personal attributes and the vehicle driven. Photographs were taken of each applicant, and many were singled out to practice script lines.

Organizers took at least 400 photos and applications throughout the day. Only 25-30 extras are needed.

The line-up moved fairly quickly and most people showed up just for the fun of doing something different. Although rumours circulated that the pay for extras was $18 an hour up to $90 per hour, one organizer said it is less than $8 per hour.

Names of the lucky people should be available next week. Casting director Linda Theodosakis has confirmed that Charlie Fleming and Shane Kruger definitely have parts in "Shegalla".

Keremeos Village Council reviews several issues

by Laura Lawson,

South Similkameen reporter
Keremeos Village Council once again reviewed current signage bylaws. The deadline for removal prohibited signs has been extended to October 30. After that date, business owners will be charged $50 if Village staff have to remove their signs and $5.00 per week storage fee.

On the matter of the multi-level care facility, Mayor J.C. Stranart announced, "It is not Council's intention to transfer development cost charges to Phase One taxpayers."

Council approved the use of Memorial Park for Hallowe'en fireworks. They will allocate one judge for the costume contest.

Trustee race

Candidates run in Keremeos

by Laura Lawson,
South Similkameen reporter

On October 3, School District #53 will elect a new trustee to replace Pastor Victor Payne, who had one more year to serve. Sally Mennell and Moses Brown are seeking election.

Both Mennell and Brown have two children attending Similkameen Elementary-Secondary School. Mennell's older daughter graduated last June.

Each candidate is familiar with the changes to education since school district amalgamation. During recent interviews they expressed similar knowledge and points of view.

Mennell's previous experience includes two two-year terms on the school board. She was President of the Cawston Primary Parent Advisory Committee for six years. She chaired the committees at both Keremeos and Cawston schools. She spent two years as secretary of the Parents Advisory and was President of Keremeos Playschool. She has been a school volunteer and a CUPE member.

Mennell's concern is "protecting what we have had so far". She feels local education has been "as good as any in the province". Since the amalgamation, the Keremeos School Board Office has been closed and meetings are no longer held here. She fears a lack of representation for Hedley, Keremeos and Cawston.

Mennell admits to a continued resistance to amalgamation personally. Mennell says she has not seen any positive developments because of it. She does not like the direction the Ministry of Education is going, and claims there is no evidence that money has been saved. Although she wants to avoid an antagonistic approach "as far as Oliver is concerned" she, like Brown, would prefer some meetings returned to the Keremeos school board office.

Dump has little life left for fill

by Laura Lawson,

South Similkameen reporter
Mayor J.C. Stranart of Keremeos reported to his council that, for the third time in a row, there was no quorum to hold a public works meeting. The mayor has been talking with Regional District representative about geological studies to be conducted when the old dump is closed.

Mayor Stranart stated, "There is not much life left" at the current location, and the Village will be paying monitoring costs for the next 20 years.

"The staff find it difficult to attend meetings in Oliver and we had the biggest public turnout here."

Brown is concerned that the education of Similkameen children will suffer if past standards are not maintained. Though he is "happy now with our administration", he worries local children will be "left behind".

To Brown, the new learning centre has a lot to offer the community in its diversity, but he wonders why the centre is in a rented building downtown when the school board office "our asset" could be used instead.

Brown believes "there must be savings" as a result of amalgamation which caused the loss of seven trustees in the old school district #16, yet he has seen "no return". He wonders about the distinct lack of certain programs offered. He recalls when he went to school, there was an agricultural course. He would like to see it returned along with other programs such as forestry, drama and skiing.

Brown's main concern is safety. He sees a problem with Hedley students being so near the highway. Cawston children need to be careful of speeding drivers on Main Street, he said. He thinks bus stop signs on the highways would improve the situation.

Brown is currently completing his Grade 12 at the Learning Centre and has past experience to bring to the position of trustee. He is familiar with replacing old systems and implementing improvements. He was a member of the Hedley Fire Department as a training officer for two years and was Chief for three years. Brown spent two years as Chair of the Hedley Improvement District. He has participated in numerous school field trips and volunteered his help during soccer and other ball games.

Composting

How and when to use it

by Carla Mumby

As time passes, changes occur, and the changes inside your compost have probably gone from organic material to humus. This means it is time to use your compost. If your compost is only half finished, apply it in October or November. By spring, decomposition will be completed. For general soil enrichment, apply your finished compost a month before planting.

If you are an organic farmer or gardener, you will most likely apply in the fall or winter. This will help equalize your work load in the spring. This is also good because it won't interfere with the rest of the crop program, and there will be less chance of damaging soil or injuring crops.

Apply at least 1/2 inch to 3 inches of well-finished compost over your garden each year. This will bring fertility to your soil. For most applications, it is important your compost be well-finished. Unfinished compost has been found to retard germination and growth of certain plants. Some plants such as corn and squash seem to thrive on partly finished compost.

When applying either finished or half-finished compost to your soil, turn the soil thoroughly and mix the compost into the top four inches of the soil.

To protect your plants from drought, you can put compost deep in the soil. This will hold in the moisture, giving your plant roots moisture in dry weather.

The application of your compost will build permanent fertility into your soil naturally, and will in turn become your soil's "bank account", adding natural minerals and humus to feed your garden.

Hart meets with blood injured Canadians

Jim Hart, Member of Parliament for Okanagan-Coquihalla, returned to the House of Commons on September 21 as the 36th Parliament of Canada resumed sitting following the summer recess.

Said Hart, "I know the Prime Minister will be facing some very tough questions on some very important issues facing our nation."

During the summer, issues such as the economy, Senate appointments, and the influence of the Prime Minister's office in security at the APEC conference, became front and center.

The matter of compensation for victims of tainted blood continues to be a priority as well, and Hart welcomed the Gibbenhuck family from Penticton to Ottawa, as he prepared to host a gathering of the Canadian Blood Injured Coalition on Parliament Hill.

Hart stated, "This will be an opportunity for blood injured Canadians, like the Gibbenhucks, to meet with other blood injured Canadians, along with the media and those Members of Parliament who have fought so hard for them."

Hart predicts many spirited debates in this fall session and is again eager to keep pressure on the Liberal government to make them accountable to all Canadians.

Trout Talk

Fishing the Tulameen River

by John Sandness, Similkameen Valley Outdoorsman

I haven't been fishing the Tulameen River as much as I used to, and I think that is too bad, because the Tulameen really offers some great fishing. The two gamefish found there are the Rocky Mountain whitefish and the rainbow trout.

Neither of these grow much more than 16 inches in length, and as they are river fish, they are not fat. What they lack in size, they make up in fighting spirit. I have found that river fish anywhere are in much better condition than most lake fish, probably due to constantly fighting the current.

Special rules and seasons apply on the Tulameen River. It was closed for two years after the flood of '95. The river took a real beating and the bottom was badly scoured. But nature is resilient and the Tulameen has come back in good shape. I have had at least two fishermen in the last month tell me how good the fishing is.

One of the regulations is "no live bait allowed". Another regulation requires the use of barbless hooks. To get a barbless hook, just pinch the barb down with pliers, and you are legal. The two fly patterns that have always worked for me are the Tom Thumb and the Quill-bodied Mosquito. The more ragged looking, beat up and fish-chewed the Tom Thumb became, the better it worked for me.

The river is low now, so you will have to be careful not to scare the fish as you approach the water's edge. One tip I would like to pass along is this: don't let your shadow cross into the water! Sounds funny, perhaps, but it makes sense when you think about how trout and whitefish have always had to avoid enemies like mergansers, mink, kingfishers, etc. These all mean death — and those fish who avoided the moving shadow are still alive.

Whitefish have tiny mouths in comparison to rainbow trout. While a size 8 or 10 fly hook is fine for a trout, use a 12 or 14 for whitefish. You may keep any

The Federation of British Columbia Writers invites short fiction entries (to 2,500 words) for its 11th annual Literary Writes Competition. All B.C. writers and residents are eligible to enter. The competition closes December 31, 1998.

"Literary Writes has a history of attracting some of the best writing and writers in B.C. Past winners include J.A. Hamilton, Eileen Kernaghan, and an exciting new voice, Claire Mulligan," says Federation Executive Director Corey Van't Haaff.

whitefish, but in some areas of the Tulameen River and Similkameen River, rainbow trout which have no clipped adipose or pectoral fins must be released. This regulation is meant to help the native (unclipped) trout stock build up.

Regardless, you will have lots of fun catching and releasing the native fish. The barbless hook also insures that the released fish have a better chance of surviving the experience. Many will be the wiser for it and a greater challenge for the next fisherman.

I hope you will try the Tulameen — it is an underfished and beautiful river.

Fall Golf Classic honours Porters

by Sharon Blower

The sun came out after two days of clouds and damp weather and shone on the first tournament of what is expected to become an annual event at the Princeton Golf Club. The Fall Classic, which will be known in the future as the Don and Eleanor Porter Fall Classic, was held on Sunday, September 20. Seventy-two members of our local club participated in the tournament that was created to honour our retiring Manager, Don, and his helpmate and partner, Eleanor. These two people have been the cornerstone of the development of our club and have been the biggest part of making it what it is today.

The Porters were presented with lifetime memberships and complementary RV parking. Following the presentation of prizes to tournament winners, club members had the opportunity to roast Don and Eleanor with some favourite stories from the past twenty years. Club members who were not able to take part in the Fall Classic were given an opportunity to add their anecdotes and farewell messages for the Porters at the Fall AGM held September 27.

The format of the tournament was somewhat different from previous mixed events. Two-person teams were put together, determined by individual handicaps (low/high). Scoring was based on points for bogey (1), Par (2), birdie (3), eagle (5) performance. Cash prizes were awarded to the teams finishing in the first six places.

- 1 - Clint Clifton and Jeri Hilton
- 2 (tie) - Glenn Weissbach and Sherry Wright, Fred Gee and Georgina Longstaff, Dinny Mulling and Sharon Blower
- 5 - Bill Montgomery and Joann Roberts
- 6 - (tie) Jack Angstadt and Marlies Deiter, Frank Deiter and Darrel Brewer

In addition to the cash award for finishing first in the tournament (an 88 using the "par point" method), Jeri and Clint will be the first team to have their names engraved on the Don and Eleanor Porter Fall Classic plaque, donated by John Welde.

The Men's Low Gross was a tie between Clint Clifton and Bill Montgomery and awarded to Clint by retrogression (74). The Men's Low Net was a tie between Dinny Mullin, Tip Anderson and Jack Angstadt. It was awarded to Dinny by retrogression.

Barb Fraser was the Women's Low Gross winner with a score of 90, and Linda Angstadt turned in the winning Low Net score.

Tom Paterson and Jeri Hilton were honoured as the most honest golfers of the day.

KP's went to Tip Anderson for the men and Sharon Blower for the women. Al Dubuc won the men's long drive and Barb Fraser won women's long drive. Five deuces were recorded during the tournament, earned by Betty Jarvis, Jesse McLean, Tip Anderson, Monty Raine and Clint Clifton.

Luck of the draw produced four-person "hidden teams" and the winning combinations were:

- 1 - Glenn Weissbach, Sherry Wright, Dinny Mullin, Sharon Blower
- 2 - Clint Clifton, Jeri Hilton, Keith Later, Betty Jarvis
- 3 - Fred Gee, Georgina Longstaff, Frank Deiter, Darrel Brewer
- 4 - Jack Angstadt, Marlies Deiter, Al Dennill, Betty Paterson
- 5 - Ray Jarvis, Linda Angstadt, Bill Montgomery, Joann Roberts.

Club members especially appreciate the efforts of Bob Paterson, the chief instigator and organizers of the "Classic", and the clubhouse kitchen staff who provided a great lunch for the hungry golfers.

Center ice at Princeton Arena sports a wild-looking dinosaur this year "Hungry for the game". The face-off spots (lower left) have number 7 in the center in honor of Kurt Krenn who intended to finish off the season of Gentlemen's Hockey last spring. Although his season was cut short due to his untimely death, the number 7 he wore will keep him there in spirit this year.

Home Sweet Home with the fire out by Joe Schwarz, local philosopher and humorist

The recent deluge of rain officially ended the great "Lawless Creek" Tulameen smoke and fire. A moment in time which saw a tear, a refugee exodus and a vision of a burnt barren ash moonscape are now a memory. Luckily, we retained our Light and Power.

What is the next potential disaster to disturb our mundane life here in paradise? Hurricane rains and winds/ earthquakes? volcanos? meteorite showers?

We now have a well-earned opportunity to promote some genuine ideas, like establishing the "Ember Springs Sparkling Water Company". The Tulameen Valley ranches could promote smoked beef on the hoof.

Garden Club beautifies village

by Laura Lawson, South Similkameen reporter
Marie Cannon, Vice-President of the Similkameen Garden Club, reported to Keremeos Village Council that the club had a successful year. Over 500 volunteer hours were spent on downtown beautification. Cannon said the club would like to extend the flower planters beyond the drug store next spring.

The Garden Club received $500 from the Village this year, and requested $1,200 for 1999.

Every spring, the club holds a yard sale at the Victory Hall and Cannon said they had raised $1,250 at the event this year.

Although no commitment was made by Council, Mayor J.C. Stranart and councillors thanked Cannon.

Mayor Stranart said they were "extremely grateful" to the volunteers.

Making use of our flying ash that landed in Kelowna's vineyards and is a distinguishing additive to their grapes, they could bottle the new "Tulameen Select Limited Edition" wine.

Not to forget the literary aspects, will Ms. Myra Brewer, whose ranch hosted the helicopter fire-fighting fleet, write her novel "Strictly for the Birds"? And, of course, production of a couple of new CD's, one because of a wedding that took place at this time, titled "My Heart Burns for You", and another if we could get Tony Bennett to sing "I Lost My Spark for You in Otter Valley" (this has no connection to the Bill and Monica series).

The entrepreneur potential is wide open, just depends which way the wind blows.
