

Poacher sentenced

PRINCETON - A Hedley resident was sentenced to three months incarceration on the electronic monitoring program following his court appearance in Princeton on November 19.

Joseph Fernand LeClerc pled guilty to killing a moose and three deer on July 23, 1996, while he was squatting in a cabin located near Osprey Lake.

A witness saw a plastic bag in a creek near the cabin, and found a fresh raw deer heart when he checked the contents of the bag.

Police went to the location, and found remnants of meat on ropes, saw, knives and so on. Samples were taken from the site. Later, they saw LeClerc in the cabin, along with young men, who had blood on their clothing. Some of the meat had been fed to dogs at the site.

A Mr. Gauvin was later apprehended when police learned he had stored game in his freezer. Gauvin proved to be cooperative and said he had stored the meat as a favour to LeClerc.

DNA testing of the meat samples taken from the cabin area and from the freezer meat showed the sets new sewer deal

KEREMEOS - After lengthy negotiations, the matter of development costs for the proposed multi level care facility has been resolved. In a news release dated November 20, 1998, Village Council states, "Under this Agreement, the construction of the multi level care facility can proceed on the basis of the Development Cost Charges (DCC's) as stated in the current Village Bylaw. However, a flow meter will be installed at the care facility to determine the actual sewage flows generated by the facility."

The DCC's will be paid to the Village in three installments. One third will be paid when the building permit is issued, one third will be paid one year later, and the final third a year after the second installment.

Before the third installment becomes due, the Village will conduct a review of the DCC's applied to the multi level care facility based on the actual flows as recorded. If necessary, the development costs in the Village's Zone 2 (future) Sewer Area will be adjusted to reflect the experience gained through actual flow measurements.

For Ministry of Health budgeting purposes, the DCC's for the multi level care facility will be less than what the Village would charge under the current DCC Bylaw.

The Village of Keremeos will acquire an interest in the current Keremeos Diagnostic and Treatment Centre. Any shortfall between the amount budgeted for DCC's and the actual DCC due will be applied towards the acquisition of the Diagnostic and Treatment Centre property by the Village of Keremeos.

This agreement fully protects properties in Zone 1 (current) sewered area from any increase in either development costs or sewer rates resulting from the building of the Keremeos multi level care facility.

The agreement has received preliminary approval from the Ministry of Health but still requires approval from the Okanagan-Similkameen Regional Hospital District with regard to the potential sale of part, or the whole, of the Diagnostic Treatment Centre to the Village of Keremeos. Permission from the Ministry of Municipal Affairs is required for the anticipated adjustment of development costs for the Zone 2 sewered area.

Council says "bill M.O.T.H."

PRINCETON - Councillor George Armstrong complained at the November 16 Town Council meeting that the Ministry of Transportation and Highways has not replied to questions regarding devolution of the Tulameen Road to the Town of Princeton within Town Boundaries.

Armstrong's resolution was to have Argo road maintenance do the work for the Town, and have the Town bill the Ministry.

SBC Firemaster is back up to 75 - 80 per cent production after a four-week rebuilding process following the fire on October 15. This is Firemaster's busiest time of year and owner Wayne Wiren says his employees will be working extra hours to meet the demand for Firemaster's product.

Legion wants street change

PRINCETON - Legion President Maria Walman attended the November 16 Town Council meeting to ask that Kenley Avenue from Bridge Street to Vermilion Avenue be changed to Veterans' Boulevard.

Walman told Council there is a need to raise public awareness, particularly among young people, about what the veterans did, especially now that the number of veterans is decreasing rapidly. Walman added that next year is the 75 year anniversary of the Legion, and she said the change in the street name would help raise the profile of the Legion in Princeton.

Councillor Dan Sulentic told Walman he was not in favour of changing the name of the street, as he did not like short streets. (The proposed name change would make it one block long.) He added that there is a cost involved in changing town maps.

Mayor Randy McLean questioned Walman's statement about young people today not knowing about the sacrifices the veterans made. He noted the number of young people who attended the Remembrance Day ceremonies.

Mayor McLean went on to thank her for her presentation and for the work done by the Legion. The matter was referred to the new business portion of the meeting.

At that time, Councillor Jim Manion commented, "I don't think it's too much to ask."

Mayor McLean said, "I think it's a great idea."

Councillors George Armstrong

and Sulentic moved to have an alternative - naming the cenotaph park Veterans' Park or Veterans' Memorial Park. The motion was defeated.

Councillor Manion moved to grant the request, and the motion passed, but Councillor Sulentic asked that his negative vote be recorded.

PXA wants $60,000

PRINCETON - The Princeton Exhibition Association annual general meeting included a report from newly-elected Vice-President Skip Jones. He told PXA members the grandstand roof is in "bad shape" and there is still work to be done to finish the agricultural building. There is money to roof the caboose in the heritage account, but Jones estimated a need for $60,000 for the grandstand and ag building. He suggested it should come from the Town.

The year end financial statement showed the PXA is in reasonably comfortable shape with $10,037 in the regular account, and $2,057 in the heritage account (most of which will be spent soon).

The big agricultural building has problems with moisture accumulations. There are no proper windows in the building and ventilation problems occur as a result of plastic covering the places where windows ought to be.

Other members suggested that the Town would not be enthusiastic about a request for $60,000, but Jones pointed out that the grandstand roof must be done soon, as it is in poor condition.

The grandstand was constructed 30 years ago and the roof has never been replaced.

Child poverty

Trustees lobby Commons

OTTAWA - The 75th anniversary of the Canadian School Board Association was honoured in Ottawa early this month with a reception at Rideau Hall by Governor General Romeo LeBlanc. Ten directors and the Association executive attended the reception at Rideau Hall.

During the visit to Ottawa, trustees attended House of Commons question period and visited individual Members of Parliament to lobby on a number of issues of national concern to trustees and school boards across Canada.

Gordon Comeau, Chair of School District #58 (Nicola-Similkameen) and executive member of BC School Trustees Association, focused his lobbying on child poverty issues.

Comeau states the Members gave trustees a fair hearing and he received "various reactions".

"There is an awareness in Ottawa that child poverty is a national issue that needs to be addressed," Comeau told the News Leader. "It's fine to acknowledge it, but we made the point that something must be done."

Comeau pointed out that 56 per cent of children from female lone parent families live on incomes below the poverty line.

"The impact on children and their learning environment isn't healthy," Comeau asserts, "When children are hungry, they don't learn."

Copyright was another major issue. The federal government wants to impose a tariff on school districts for every blank tape purchased. Trustees asked that schools be exempt. The government was considering a $2.50 levy per student, an idea Comeau referred to as a "huge tax grab".

Changes to the Young Offenders Act was another issue of concern to trustees. They lobbied to have the right to access information when a potentially dangerous student enters a district, in order to protect other students, and they asked for no changes that would restrict the rights of young offenders to have legal representation.

Village praises Chamber

KEREMEOS - Village Council granted a request to the chamber of Commerce for assistance with the Christmas Light-up parade. Mayor J.C. Stranart praised Village staff for continually "acting as members of the community."

Mayor Stranart explained that the public works department of the Village of Keremeos volunteers their time when erecting street barricades for these community events.

Town hears flower plan

PRINCETON - Mark Ludington, of DML Gardens of Cawston, appeared before Town Council to encourage councillors to think about hanging baskets for next year. DML supplied the baskets in 1998. Ludington asked about possible problems in 1998 and plans for 1999. He appeared confident he would be the grower of choice for next summer's street flowers.

meat in the freezer had come from the same animals butchered near the cabin.

Crown Counsel asked for jail for LeClerc, as the poacher had "a lengthy criminal record" and "this is one of the more serious cases of recent years" because it involved the illegal slaying of four animals.

The number of animals was considered by Crown Counsel as "more than necessary to feed a family".

LeClerc told the court he had been living there with several other people, and his welfare cheque had been inadequate to feed all of them.

He received a three month jail sentence per charge, to be served concurrently.

Village Council makes complaint

by Laura Lawson, South similkameen reporter

KEREMEOS - Keremeos Council responded to a letter from Mayor Don Bell of North Vancouver containing a motion to support a public inquiry into the $6 billion surplus in the Employment Insurance Program.

Councillor Mark Gurevitch said he heard from a Hedley resident that benefits were being denied persons without vehicles. Gurevitch called it "geographical discrimination."

Council approved his motion to "complain strongly" to Ottawa and the local Member of Parliament.

Senior Centre sees action

by Monty Raine

PRINCETON - A wide variety of activities or just plain relaxation and companionship are all available at the Seniors Hall.

More and more pool players are taking part in the pastime and fully enjoying it. The monthly ladies' tourney was won by Darleen Lind. The George Lind Memorial team winners were Bill Blanchard and Doreen Robbins. The next George Lind competition will be on Sunday, November 29 at 10 a.m.

While mentioning sporting activities, don't forget that darts, carpet bowling and table tennis are all available if the spirit moves us.

The Health Club meets Monday mornings at 10 a.m. and starts off with 'weigh in' and exercises. Hopefully, guest speakers will be arranged in the future. The quilting group have just finished a crazy quilt which will be on display starting on November 28. Painting is in full swing again on Friday mornings starting about ten o'clock.

The Movers and Shakers singing and skit group have regular practices on Wednesdays at 1:00 p.m. Last Tuesday saw about a dozen of the group perform at Vermilion Court for the residents. Entertainment is also arranged for the Oink Fest on Sunday, November 22 and the Pot Luck on Friday, November 27. Goodness me, we'll soon be practicing for Christmas again - already.

The Ways and Means Committee (those hardworking souls) are busy organizing the Flea Market to be held on Saturday, November 28. This event will include crafts, baking, and white elephants, as well as a $3.00 lunch (Christmas Tea) and probably some other secrets and surprises. Let's all try to support this fun event which starts at 11 a.m.

Sandy Peterson and Barb Ryan are now officially handling the bingo, which is doing very well on Monday nights. Good luck, Sandy and Barb, and a big thanks to Ray Jarvis for all his work in the past.

As usual, help can be used in all areas, but particularly for the kitchen and bingo.

For anyone not familiar with the 'goings on' at the hall, come down and investigate. Maybe there's something there for you.

Day of Disaster

The Flood of 1995

SIMILKAMEEN VALLEY - This week marks the third anniversary of the Flood of '95. On November 29, 1995, local people awoke to a rainy day. The rain had continued all night, accompanied by mild temperatures. There was over a metre of snow in the Tulameen watershed mountains. The snow was melting rapidly.

By 9:00 a.m., Tulameen River registered five feet above normal on the marker under the wooden bridge in Princeton. The river continued to rise one foot per hour for the rest of the morning.

By noon, the town of Tulameen was seeing washouts at creeks, and the water from the river backed into Otter Lake. One house, built along the river, had the land under one corner of the house washed away. Coalmont was flooded, and the debris coming downstream included a travel trailer, fences, small bridges, and huge amounts of trees and wood debris. The Woodford home in Coalmont was eventually torn down and replaced.

Princeton's Acting Mayor Betty Pilon declared a state of emergency, enabling Provincial Emergency Program personnel to go into high gear. By 1:00 p.m., the river had reached the 10 foot mark in Princeton. Coalmont refugees were arriving in town looking for assistance. Some needed dry clothing and footwear. Others wondered where they would eat and sleep that night.

The Ken Thomas ranch was covered with water during the afternoon as the river burst his dikes.

Emergency services were set up in the Elks Hall, with Ray Huey running the service. Volunteers who had taken emergency social services training were suddenly called upon to go into action. They did.

Hedley, Keremeos, Cawston and valley ranchers were the subject of radio broadcasts out of Penticton as warnings were issued about the rapidly rising water.

By 3:00 p.m., people in low-lying areas in Princeton were being removed from homes on Allison Flats, and water was flowing up the storm drains and onto the street near Allison Court and Silver Crest apartments. The rain stopped, but the river kept rising.

People in Cawston watched what appeared to be a forest of trees floating past. Jokes were told about free timber going to Washington, but there was nothing funny about the damage being inflicted on farmland as acres of bottomland, especially on Indian Reserve land, swept into the Similkameen River.

At 4:00 p.m., the Tulameen River had covered the top marker (13 feet) and was beginning to spill over the dike.

By 6:00 p.m., all of the lower level areas of downtown Princeton and Allison Flats were under water. Two hundred and fifty homeless people registered at the emergency services center in Princeton.

Santa's workshop, where toys had been stored for the Christmas hamper drive, was flooded. The toys went to the dump. As the situation reached the major media, other towns contributed toys for Princeton. In fact, a center was set up for household goods for flood victims, and many other towns sent furniture, bedding, dishes, and so forth, to help.

Flood victims received assistance in the form of money and labour. Some people came from the Fraser Valley to help with the work. The labour was most appreciated by older people, as they needed to remove the silt and spoiled carpets and furniture from their homes. Many tears were shed over the losses, but no lives were lost. Even a couple of stray cats managed to find refuge in Coalmont.

TOU COST PER KILOWATT HOUR

COST PER KILOWATT HOUR

The 'TOU' costs per kWh are also determined both by the Hour of the Day, and the Month of the Year, in which the electric power ("power") is consumed. These costs are determined by negotiated annual contracts and are generally stable for one year at a time.

SEASONAL RATES

The System loading also varies with the Seasons of the Year. Therefore, for the same reasons as with the Hour to Hour rates, the Month to Month rates vary as well. The Year is broken into three distinct Seasons = WINTER - SUMMER - SHOULDER - and the hours and days for - On Peak and Off Peak - vary for each Season. The following is the TOU Schedule.

TOU Purchase Costs

WINTER RATE	cents per KWH
On Peak Hours	10.582

MAKING THE CHOICE

It is not an easy matter to determine when you will be better off on direct TOU Rates. You will need PLP's help to analyze your present load profile to make an informed decision. Even if you choose to stay on the safe, Blended Rate, the more you can shift your usage to the 'off peak' times, the lower the Blended Cost will be. The Blended Rate will shift monthly as it is determined by the 'averaged cost' of the last 12 months power purchases by PLP. As power is now passed through at our cost, you the customer will be the winner.

Providing Power Solutions for your Future

The dark line along the edge of the river shows where acres of good bottomland were swept away on this Indian Reserve land. Dikes are a provincial responsibility. Reserve lands are considered federal. There were no dikes to protect the Indian Reserve land.

After the water went down following the flood of '95, the damage to the road leading from the wooden bridge to Riverside Intermediate became obvious.

bridge and Riverside Intermediate School collapsed, and eventually over $1 million was spent in two collapses. Roads were restructured up and down the valley, dikes were built higher, and the government eventually approved removing rocks from the bottom of the river, a process called "scalping".

One of the good things to come from the crisis was the formation of a strong group of elected officials from the valley - the Similkameen River Management Committee - which included all Regional Directors, both Mayors and both Chiefs. As a vocal lobbying group, it has been highly effective because it is evidence of united purpose. Government listens when this group speaks.

People recovered some of what they lost in the flood and put their lives back together as best they could. Courage, hard work and community spirit, not only from our own communities but from others as well.

The Flood of '95 was one of the historic events people will talk about for generations.

Riverside students plan school activities

PRINCETON-Riverside Intermediate School continues to buzz along with an array of activities. The Student Council has shown their strong leadership qualities and ingenuity. They organized a dance and stuffed animal day and led the Remembrance Day ceremony. We hear that Lollipop Days are just around the corner. A healthy thank you goes out to Karen (our Prime Minister's mom) and Cathy at Garden Pride who once again donated a box of various fresh fruit. It was a tasty and nutritious midday snack!

The school-wide fundraiser was a huge success. Riverside appreciates all of the people in the community who supported the school by purchasing gift wrap and accessories from a Riverside student. The gift wrap has already arrived and you should receive it soon.

First term report cards went out last Thursday. Watch for Mustang Honour Roll list! Early dismissal for conferences will be on November 24 and 25 at 2:00 p.m. Staff is available for conferences Non Wednesday, November 25 in the evening from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m. in the gym. Riverside hopes to see the parents for interview.

School volleyball teams are busy four days each week at noon. The staff and students really like the energetic girls from the high school who help at noon to equip our students with proper skills.

The Christmas concert planning is currently underway. Auditions were held last week and rehearsals are taking place Tuesday to Friday. This year's concert is titled "Santa's Holiday Hoedown" and will be worth seeing.

The Knitting Club is back by popular demand. This keen group of knitters took the initiative to start on their own. The meet at noon in the library and have a variety of creations taking shape! Any students may bring their needles and join in.

OAPO elect new officers

PRINCETON - A new slate of officers was nominated at the November 13 Old Age Pensioners meeting and approved by the membership.

Eric Goodfellow returned as President, with John Golovin as First Vice-President and Betty Golovin as Second Vice-President. Kay Hardy will serve as Secretary and Margaret Stoneberg as Treasurer.

Directors are Bob Stewart, Ruth Goodfellow, Myrtle Garbutt, Bert Blanchette and Jim Fensom.

Installation will take place on December 11.

Flu virus can be fatal

VANCOUVER - The influenza virus is poorly understood and potentially life-threatening, says the senior health education with the British Columbia Lung Association.

"People don't understand how acute influenza can be," says Kelly Ablog-Morant, Director of Health Education and Program Services for the Lung Association. "They often mistake it for a cold, because the symptoms are similar. But when not properly diagnosed and treated, influenza is dangerous, especially among the high risk groups: people older than 65 years, and younger adults and children with respiratory problems like asthma, chronic bronchitis and emphysema."

Ablog-Morant notes that the flu vaccine is now available in public health units, but "immunization reduces the impact of infection because the symptoms are severe."

People in high-risk groups should contact their local public health units or physicians about immunization as soon as possible, she says. "The influenza virus is acute, it's severe, and it can be fatal."

OUR VIEW

We now enjoy taxation with no controls

The trend is toward ever-increasing gambling options and opportunities, sponsored and promoted by our provincial government. This growth in government-sponsored gambling should cause each of us to ask how much we pay in taxes, because gambling revenues are, in fact, another form of taxation.

The government, with its lotteries and scratch games, is like a bookie or a numbers racket. All of us know that gambling always makes the "house" richer than the gamblers. In today's world of gambling, the government owns the den and takes the profits.

The only difference between paying taxes and gambling is that the citizen does not have to fill out complex forms and mail them to Revenue Canada. Paying taxes via gambling makes paying taxes seem like fun.

Is there a danger in this game of paying taxes for fun?

In addition to the government's efforts to turn citizens into compulsive gamblers, there is an inherent danger.

When we pay taxes through gambling, we lose our ability to identify how much we pay and how it will be spent. The worst news about this situation is that we pay all of the other taxes on top of the gambling. We have seen increases in property taxes, utility taxes, permit fees, hospital taxes, income taxes, and we continue to pay GST and PST.

We can identify the percentages in all of our taxes, except the gambling profits. Where does the government gaming profit go? How much is going there? Who knows? Most forms of taxation are readily calculated and controlled, but not government gaming returns.

Of course, if you don't play, you don't pay.

If you do buy lotto tickets, keep reminding yourself you are paying taxes and enjoying every minute.

Aboriginal Affairs Minister slams Campbell

An open letter to Gordon Campbell, Leader of the Opposition, BC Legislature.

Dear Gordon Campbell;

In all my years of public service, I have not read a more cynical attempt at political opportunism than your November 12 letter to the Honourable Jane Stewart regarding the outcome of the Nisga'a vote. It is clearly a desperate attempt to scuttle the deal by appealing to the same paternalistic thinking that led to the creation of the Indian Act in the first place.

Your questioning the validity of the election process before the final votes were even counted suggests you were planning to challenge the vote regardless of the outcome. If you were sincere in your concerns, one would expect that you would wait at least until the last vote was counted.

Your "questions" are an attack on both the credibility of the Nisga'a Ratification Committee, an independent body set up to oversee the vote, and the Nisga'a people themselves. This is comparable to challenging Elections BC or Elections Canada over a vote. The difference is that the Nisga'a Ratification Committee was established by aboriginal people. Does this have anything to do with your questioning of the process, the outcome and their integrity?

Would you dare make the same allegations if these were not abo-original people?

I find it nothing less than hypocritical for you to question any vote where 85 per cent of the registered voters turned out and 72 per cent of those voted in favour. May I remind you that the turnout in your own riding in the last provincial election was 71 per cent.

Obviously, we disagree on this treaty: I support it, while you oppose it. However, I, like the vast majority of British Columbians, was hoping that the debate over the Nisga'a Final Agreement would be conducted at a level that respects both aboriginal and non-aboriginal British Columbians. Your letter proves that you are willing to go to any length to stop the treaty-making process in B.C.

Shooter kills owl

Dear Editor;

I hope this does not apply to a local hunter, but if it does - is it fun to shoot a Great Grey Owl? I used to find it fun to see him alive!

Beth Norman, Princeton

Correction

In last week's issue, in the photo of the veterans from Keremeos, Michael Kupiak's name was misspelled. We apologize to Mr. Kupiak for this error.

If successful, this action would throw our province into continued conflict, litigation and uncertainty, as would your equally cynical court challenge of the treaty. Fortunately, our government has chosen a different path. We have chosen to negotiate a fair and honourable settlement that will help our province to build for the future.

I also want you to know that I will be calling Minister Stewart today to request that she not give any credence to your highly political and unsubstantiated allegations. This issue is much too important to the people of B.C. to put at risk by this kind of irresponsible political posturing.

Sincerely,
Dale Lovick,
Minister of Aboriginal Affairs

The Winds of Change

by Joe Schwarz, local philosopher and humourist

When the mine whistle blew indicating an underground accident or problem in Copper Mountain, there would be absolute silence in the classroom. You could hear a pin drop. You would think what member of your family was on shift that day. Would it be that person?

This was in the 1940's. Later, as a teenager working at the Vancouver Canadian White Pine sawmill (H&R Macmillan's flagship) one encountered dangers and hard work. It was all that some of the oldtimers could do to make it to the parking lot after shift.

A series of outhouses lined the wharf above the Fraser River rather than facilities as we know them now. That's how it was with the resource industries of the day. Much, of course, has greatly improved. Now you can't get fired or suspended on the spot for some alleged triviality. This came about with the formation of unions, which ultimately translated into legislation.

Simply put, the dignity and respect and rights of the working person were recognized. However, there seemed to always loom an atmosphere of confrontation between labour and management. The main tenet held in negotiations was "don't kill the goose that lays the golden eggs". In other words, don't destroy the industry or company that provides for their mutual existence.

Today we face our most serious economic crisis of recent times. Out of a variety of reasons, two stand out. One is the confrontational atmosphere between the government and business. The second is the lack of the party in power to manage the economy, though they had many ideas and positive vision articulated by well-reasoned, sound priorities based on solid financial principles.

This has led to an understandable frustration, cynicism and lack of confidence in present leadership. As an example: how would you feel if you were living in a one-mill town in a remote area with a growing young family and your funds tied up in your home, car, etc. and suddenly the mill closes because of high taxes and stifling regulations. Where do you go? What do you do?

Change has always come about not only in government thinking, but probably in the leadership which may be in the wind.

The next time business holds a summit, it should be in conjunction with the B.C. Federation of Labour, using as its mutual model "small business". Small business has an idea, has to risk its capital wisely, has to be flexible, has to work diligently, dependent on a staff that has its own positive incentive and drive. If it fails, there is no bailout.

The winds of change were recognized and implemented by the NDP premier of Saskatchewan and British Labour leader Tony Blair and now acknowledged by Federal NDP leader Ms. McDonagh and former Premier Rae of Ontario.

Heart Food

by Dave Machin

This is the day and this is the hour when Almighty God wants to show forth His power to you personally. You might say, "How do you know that?" The answer is: because it is written all through His word, particularly in the New Testament, for these things were not just written to fill up the pages, they were recorded and put into a book to reveal to us the character, nature and goodness of a loving God toward people on earth. What He did in Matthew, Mark, Luke, John and the book of Acts, He is still doing today, for He has never changed, and He is no respecter of persons. In John 11:33, 34, it is recorded that Jesus raised a dead man named Lazarus back to life. You might ask, "What does that have to do with me?" I'm glad you ask. First, let's look at this story a little closer. Lazarus and his two sisters were close personal friends of Jesus. Verse 35 says Jesus wept. Why? Because then, as now, He was touched with compassion for tragedies that take place in people's lives. This compassion leads His desire to show forth His glory (goodness) on behalf of people who are hurting. He wants you to take Him to the place in your life where you need Him and are willing to look to Him as your source of help. The people took Jesus to the cave where Lazarus was entombed, in front of which was a large stone. Jesus said to take away the stone. Over the sisters protests, He answered and said, "Did I not say that if you would believe you would see the glory of God?" He is saying to you today that if you will remove the stone of doubt, unbelief, fear, or whatever holds you back, you will see that same glory manifested on your behalf. And just as surely as He brought Lazarus back to life, He will do what you want Him to do for you personally. His sisters doubted, but He brought them to a place where they began to believe. Today He is crying for you in whatever situation you find yourself in.

Why not allow him to show forth His glory to you? God is good all the time.

Little Scoop: view from our youth

Have you ever had anyone go on and on with the old conspiracy theory that goes a little something like this: "Nothing you read in the papers or hear on the news can be trusted because all media is controlled by the government!"

I have heard this, and I always shrugged it off, guessing that person slightly off the rocker, but what I read in the Globe and Mail (the only other paper you should read besides this one!) today made me a little more open minded.

I don't have time to go in the specifics (I recommend you read about it yourself), but Terry Milewski, a reporter for CBC was doing a story on the APEC incident and was in close contact via e-mail with Craig Jones, the APEC protester at the head of the investigation.

Well, the government got their hands on the e-mail and found some of the contents "concerning". This brought a formal complaint from Peter Donolo, director of communications for the Prime Minister's Office claiming bias. Milewski was subsequently suspended and taken off the story.

Lise Lareau, president of the union that represents CBC employees, brings up an interesting point: "I am afraid that it appears now that we at the CBC are more accountable to the Prime Minister's Office than to the public."

The CBC is funded by government money, but does that mean every time the CBC starts to point a story in a direction that the Prime Minister's Office, or any sector of our government for that matter, find "concerning" that story will be scrapped.

This is the government sticking their nose where it does not belong and bullying our freedom of speech. I believe that the APEC protesters do have a case against the government, and I also believe that Terry Milewski has a right to tell his story. I believe this, not because I hate our government but because I love our country.

RCMP ask for watchers

PRINCETON - On November 15, 1998, there was a theft from a motor vehicle parked at Kal Tire. The thief smashed a passenger window to enter the vehicle, and stole a set of Pioneer speakers and a case of cassette tapes.

Police ask the public's assistance in keeping an eye out for suspicious occurrences or persons. If anything out of the ordinary is seen, citizens are asked to make note of it and call the RCMP and tell them.

Vermilion Artists

Artists elect new club executive

by L. Neumann

PRINCETON - Vermilion Artists held their annual general elections at the Belaire Restaurant, where they enjoyed a pleasant atmosphere where three members' recent paintings were hung.

The new officers elected are: President - Linda Neumann, Vice-President Jacqueline Chaston, Treasurer Guadalupe Ogrinc, and Secretary - John Sandness.

Classes:

Vermilion Artists are now in the middle of two successful eight-week classes in "watercolours". Students for these sessions are driving from as far away as Cawston. The classes are conducted in the Art Room at Princeton Secondary School, an ideal location.

Linda Anderson, of Hedley, teaches the class. She is an experienced artist and excellent teacher who has high expectations of her students. Her work is on display at The Hitching Post in Hedley.

One of our members, Merrilyn Huycke, held a full-day watercolours class in October. This class, promoted by Happy Crafters, drew full attendance, and everyone produced an interesting piece.

Membership fees to Vermilion Artists are $10.00 per year. Anyone is welcome to join. The membership fees help pay for the courses offered by the club.

PXA talks biosolids

PRINCETON - A biosolids application is under consideration for Sunflower Downs.

John Braman, from Greater Vancouver Regional District (GVRD) Waste management Division, was a guest at the annual general meeting of Princeton Exhibition Association. Braman has been part of the planning group for all of the biosolids applications in the Princeton area during the past four years. He received a warm welcome from PXA members.

Nutrifor, the GVRD sewerage by-product, was the subject of a proposal for Sunflower Downs three years ago, but the project never went beyond the planning stage. Braman wanted to bring the situation up to date.

"We feel we have a strong commitment to the community to go ahead with projects we've started," Braman explained.

He had some concerns about putting the high grade fertilizer on the grounds when there were so many weeds growing at Sunflower Downs. He did not wish to see healthier weeds, and suggested an application of Tordon prior to using biosolids and seed.

The seed would be a mixture of hay grasses used successfully in test plots on the tailings in the Princeton area.

Stan Thompson expressed having "second thoughts" about the Nutrifor after having seen the "stuff" used for mine reclamation.

Braman told him the application levels for mine reclamation were geared to providing an organic growing base over solid rock, and Sunflower Downs would use a much different type of application. He passed around bags of the material that would be used.

Braman addressed another issue, related to "germ" content in the material. He reviewed the process of preparing Nutrifor, explaining that it was cooked at temperatures that killed 99.9 per cent of pathogens (bacteria, viruses) that would occur in human manure.

Skip Jones, PXA Vice-President, said he had no problem with Nutrifor after seeing Fraser Valley farmers spraying raw livestock effluent on their fields.

The high grade Nutrifor has an ammonia scent that dissipates rapidly in ordinary weather conditions.

The PXA agreed to proceed with a spring application if possible.

Police seek hot bike driver

PRINCETON - At approximately 6 p.m. on Wednesday, November 18, a motorcycle was discovered in the ditch about 1 km off Highway #3 on Darcy Mountain Road. Police believe the motorcycle was discovered within minutes of being crashed into the ditch.

The bike was a 1996 Yamaha FJ1200 red and white motorcycle. Further investigation revealed that the motorcycle was stolen from the coast.

Exercise in the pool by Dr. W. Gage

A health issue that is gaining attention over recent years concerns sports related type injuries being seen in a new age group. Previously, sports injuries were mainly limited to the "under 40" age group due to their higher activity levels; however, health care providers are beginning to see an increase in athletic-type injuries, especially knee injuries, in older individuals. This is mainly attributed to the fact that the large portion of the population - affectionately labeled the "baby boomers", is aging while continuing to lead an active lifestyle.

Unfortunately, along with this increased activity level, comes an increase in sports injuries, especially knee injuries.

Those wanting to exercise regularly may have painful joints due to arthritis, old injuries, or even currently healing injuries. With these problems, individuals must begin to change their routines to a less traumatic form of exercise. A way which I often suggest is to begin exercising in water. It has been demonstrated that in shoulder deep water, 90 percent of your body weight is supported; virtually eliminating the pounding forces on your joints compared to "dry-land" activities such as jogging.

Exercising in the water, or aquatherapy, is suitable for almost anyone. Many elite athletes include pool work in their post-injury rehabilitation in order to maintain their physical conditioning while not over-working the injured area. Arthritis sufferers have long known that water fitness also allows them to exercise regularly without worsening their symptoms. Elderly individuals concerned about falls while exercising find this risk to be virtually eliminated while in the water and pregnant women benefit from this type of exercise as it reduces stress on the joints from the added body weight.

There are many different forms of aquatherapy. Water aerobics classes are a lot of fun and offer a good workout while still being "low impact". Aquatic walking is another good way to burn those winter calories and can even be increased to water running. The best way to find out what suits you is to simply start any form of aquatherapy and experiment with it.

Dr. Warren Gage is a chiropractor practicing in Princeton Tuesdays and Thursdays who may be reached any day at 295-7015.

Childhood Diabetes

REGIONAL HEALTH, PENTICTON -Do you have a child with diabetes?

On November 28, there will be a special session with the B.C. Children's Diabetes staff. Call 1-800-707-8550 to register. There will be no registration at the door so call early to avoid disappointment.

Most people who develop Type 1 diabetes are typically less than 30 years of age. Some may be as young as two months and upwards to any age. Of the people who have diabetes, 10 per cent have Type 1.

In Type 1 diabetes, your body makes little or no insulin. When this happens, sugar (glucose) cannot get into the cells for energy and stays in the blood. Symptoms of Type 1 usually develop quickly and include increased hunger, excessive thirst, frequent urination, significant weight loss, blurred vision and fatigue.

No one knows what causes Type 1 diabetes, but the following may be linked to the development of Type 1 diabetes: viruses which may damage the pancreas, autoimmune response, or stress like an injury or illness. No matter what the cause, the person who develops Type 1 diabetes could not have done anything to prevent it.

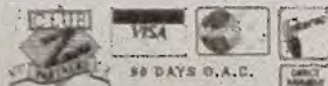

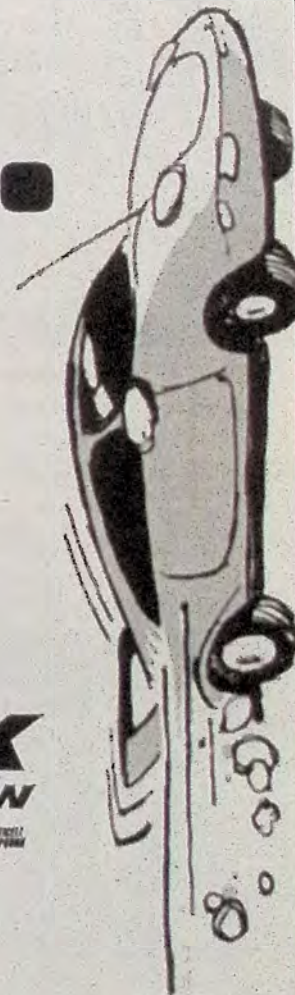

If you are a parent of young children or teens, you are aware that child-rearing can be a challenge at any time, but the task may be even more difficult if your child has diabetes. Many parents will feel overwhelmed for a period of time.

If a child is a baby, toddler or preschooler, the first few weeks or months are particularly difficult, but fortunately, these feelings go away in time. A good education program will enable parents to learn successful management techniques for their child and themselves. As the child grows, he or she will be eager to join school sports, attend birthday parties, sleep-overs and camp. At this time, the parent will need to provide support and direction. This means that letting go and ensuring the safety and health of your child becomes a balancing act. Flexibility with your child's routine is key. As well, teaching others (childcare workers, teachers and other significant family members) about the care of your child is essential. By the time a child reaches the teen years, most will be on their own, although living at home, and will be seen less and less. Socializing with peers is an important part of growing and dealing with diabetes can interfere with a child's social life.

Making a teen feel "different" from the rest of his or her friends and family may make good control a challenge. Some of the concerns young people with diabetes need to contend with are insulin shots, home blood glucose monitoring, urine testing (if blood sugars are high), regular visits to the doctor and diabetes clinic, eating regularly, and restricting intakes of candy and "junk" food, all of which can make a child or teen feel restricted. Because diabetes does not go away, there may be frustration as well.

Get a grip.

November 17 to 24

- ARIES - There will be a major shift in your ideas about your hopes, dreams and goals. This year has been a learning experience and you may just now be getting the point of what it was all about.
TAURUS - Surprises await you this week, mostly from what women say and do. Your energy is good up to the weekend, when you need to rest and enjoy life. Have some fun.
GEMINI - If the world seems against you, it is because of the interaction between you and those you consider friends or partners. It could be time for a serious talk.
CANCER - Life is hectic this weekend, very challenging. Use your energy well. Pace yourself and you can enjoy everything. Otherwise, you feel out of harmony.
LEO - Home life improves, but you have plenty to do. Surprises related to a partner may upset you tremendously. Nothing goes as planned so make sure you prepare yourself to cope with odd happenings.
VIRGO - You may have to eat crow over mistakes you made, so pay attention to details early in the week and double check everything. Make sure your money picture is in order.
LIBRA - What was under the surface of your mind starts to come out of your mouth this weekend. You may have to bite your tongue, eat your words, or get everything out in the open at last.
SCORPIO - Watch your spending. By this weekend, you will feel irritable. It seems to come from nowhere. It is your subconscious trying to tell you something. Listen.
SAGITTARIUS - You are in your element now, but you will have to face those inner changes and bring them to the surface. Think back to February. Who were you then? Who are you now? Push for progress.
CAPRICORN - The next two months prove to be challenging, much like last spring. Setbacks this week prove temporary, but watch what is going on. You may have to force some progress.
AQUARIUS - Decisions made last week need some reinforcement. Pay close attention to what life tells you this weekend.
PISCES - The turmoil of the past two months eases, and you face another set of challenges, this time from your own goals in life. Set plans in motion.

Bureaucratic bogdown haunts trail plan

PRINCETON - "We're into a bureaucratic bogdown," Councillor Jim Manion stated at the November 16 Council meeting as he commented on the lack of progress on the TransCanada Trails project.

"Princeton leads in the process," he reported, "We're setting the trends for the others."

Manion had been at a BC Trails regional board meeting in Kelowna. He told Council the Vermilion Trails Society had identified a "major liability in this" trail project, and added, "We don't want to be responsible."

Manion expressed being "a little discouraged" because not one business person attended the trails meetings.

"The economy must be good, because there were no merchants there, and they would benefit most from this project," Manion remarked, "This isn't for a few, this is for everybody. Right now, we can do with a lot of support from within our community."

New parks future planned

VICTORIA - The future of B.C. parks is embodied in a set of recommendations made through B.C. Parks Legacy Project. The recommendations spring from a public participation process, and is now ready for public review.

The recommendations include:

- adopting the concept that the main purpose of protected areas is to safeguard their ecological integrity and encourage public appreciation and enjoyment in appropriate locations
- confirming governments role as a trustee for protected areas and ensuring core funding is provided from general revenues. The panel recommends B.C. Parks be allowed to operate as a legislated special agency so as to better retain and carry forward revenue, and that a provincial parks board be established.

- creating a B.C. parks foundation at arm's length from government to solicit donations for provincial parks
- ensuring certain industrial uses and large-scale commercial facilities remain banned in parks, and strengthening legislation for the long-term integrity of the system
- helping provide opportunities for job creation in communities near parks and strengthening the link between communities and their parks

• enhancing opportunities for people to appreciate and enjoy B.C.'s natural and cultural resources

Since 1992, more than 250 parks have been added to the province's protected areas system, which includes 523 parks and protected areas and 139 ecological reserves. The total protected area in B.C. is more than 10 million hectares, or 10.6 per cent of the province.

The public is invited to comment on the recommendations and to obtain more information or a copy of the key recommendations by calling (250) 387-1968

Exchange student learns about The Market

by Sarah Broad

Dear Princeton Rotary Club; Hello again from the Philippines! I hope this letter finds everyone in good health and happiness. I imagine you are all preparing for the snow to come, although I hear you have had pretty good weather lately.

I cannot say the same, as the weather here has been rather exciting lately. Over the last two weeks I have experienced two typhoons! The most recent one being the most destructive though. We were stuck inside the house here for four days without any electricity. In a nearby province 72 were killed, and in my town alone there were over 120 evacuated from their homes. Today was actually my first day back to school, and I arrived to find my classroom flooded with about six inches of water, as our floor has a big dip in it and all of the water runs to the middle. So our class spent much of the morning cleaning it up.

I recently celebrated my 18th birthday at the resort which my family owns here. My Rotary Club bought me a huge birthday cake, and I had some of the exchange students from my district come and stay the weekend with me.

Next week I will be changing host families for the first time which I am looking forward to now. At first it came as a surprise, as I was told earlier in the year that I would be here in this home for six months, but it is only a short walk away and I will be able to visit often.

I am now using the language a lot, especially at school, but I think I will always be able to understand more than speak.

I haven't experienced too much homesickness lately, although it is harder than I thought it would be to be so far away from family and friends for so long.

My days at school here seem like only minutes compared to how it was in the beginning. It seems as though every time I look at the clock, another week has gone by, without my noticing. I don't worry about little things so much anymore, as I've found that everything works out in the Philippines, as they are a very laid back culture.

I did visit, or rather "experience" THE MARKET, which I was warned about several times. One afternoon, I went there with my sister and one of our maids, to go grocery shopping. As we passed through, I suddenly smelled the absolute worst smell I think I've ever smelled in my entire life, and I looked over to find that it was the meat section. Freshly butchered pigs were dangling the air with tons of flies literally "pigging out". The butcher placed fresh meat on a wooden stump for people to pick and choose from. The stump appeared to have never been washed. The fruit and vegetable section was pretty much controlled by ants and other flies.

But out of all of this, I am learning how picky and stressed out us Canadians are! Here in the Philippines, it's OK to be late for work or school. All you have to do is blame it on the traffic (which I may add is absolutely the most unorganized thing I've seen). People here are dependent upon their families until basically whenever they want. People have a hard time believing me when I tell them that the average age to move out of your parents' house is 18 or 19.

But in conclusion, I don't think there is any way of measuring how much I've learned here so far. I know that if I keep living each day here to the fullest, I will have no regrets. I only wish everyone was as lucky as I am to have an opportunity like this. Until next time,

Sincerely, Sarah Broad.

Atoms host Princeton - Coquitlam Friendship

On the weekend, Princeton's Atom Flyers hosted the Coquitlam Cobras for a spectacular, fun-filled weekend! The teams played Saturday afternoon in a closely matched game, until Princeton went on a scoring binge and boosted the score to a 7-2 final. At the end of the game, the boys exchanged friendship gifts before they headed upstairs to a pizza party. After dinner, the herd of boys dominated public skating.

On Sunday morning, the boys met their new friends at the bowling alley. The owner had some interesting ways to jazz up an ordinary bowling game and had the boys bowling on their knees, one-legged, backwards and normally, too! The boys rested for a bit until they met again on the ice. This match was another exciting 6-3 finish, again in Princeton's favour.

The boys and parents had a great weekend full of so many activities and laughs. They compared their near 200 player Atom division to our 13 player Atom division. Their parents stared in disbelief at the empty ice time before public skating and mentioned how their boys practice at 5:30 a.m. and the ice is used 24 hours a day. Although there were differences, there was certainly much in common between the boys. All the laughs and smiles meant everyone had a great time. A big thanks to Michelle Wilkinson and Mandy Bicknell who organized this memorable weekend for the two groups of new friends.

Scoring for the weekend went as follows: Jake Greening - 4 goals, 3 assists; Patrick LePoidevin and Lewis Smith - 3 goals, 1 assist; Josh Scarpelli - 1 goal, 2 assists; Kevin Blank and Beau Wilkinson - 1 goal; Reid Bicknell, Shaune Clifton and Brandon Adams - 1 assist. Great games were had by James Ferguson, digging hard along the boards on his wing and Donavin Costa, who helped out on forward and on defense when the team needed him. This weekend, our two goalies, Tanner Gunn and Rylan Mogge, were finally tested with a number of shots. Usually they are quite idle during games, not facing many shots, but both boys rose to the challenge and showed their defensemen they can stop almost anything if given the opportunity! Maybe the defense don't have to be so reliable since they have "brick walls" for goalies.

New beds

VICTORIA - The Ministry of Health will provide an additional $2.14 million to the Okanagan Similkameen Health Region this year to fund long-term care beds and reduce the demand on acute-care beds, Health Minister Penny Priddy announced today.

The funds represent 60 long-term care beds, to be distributed among hospitals and care facilities throughout the region. This will address short-term demand in the region, and partially address long-term pressures.

This $2.14 million will fund transitional beds, which will be transferred to a new long-term care facility in the region when construction is completed. This is in addition to the ministry's funding of 50 beds in 1997/98.

"We are committed to working with the Okanagan Similkameen regional health board to find innovative solutions for the challenges posed by the growing and aging population in this region," Health Minister Penny Priddy said.

Fruit growers have new insurance deal

VICTORIA - The crop insurance program for tree fruit growers will be streamlined and the deadline for 1999 coverage extended two weeks, Agriculture and Food Minister Corky Evans announced on November 10. The changes were developed with the BC Fruit Growers Association and meet the commitment made by the minister to growers at their annual meeting in January.

One key change in Basic crop insurance policies for 1999 crop year removes the complex calculations that had been required for crops that were damaged but not lost. Another improves hail and rain coverage. The changes make better use of existing resources and do not increase program costs.

The deadline for applications for coverage for the 1999 season has been extended to Friday, December 11, 1998, to allow time to explain the changes to growers.

Starting with the 2000 crop year, the grower price index for apples and pears will be replaced with a simpler, individualized pricing system, and improvements to the cherry program will recognize new split-resistant varieties.

Basic crop insurance provides a low-cost safety net for producers, with costs as low as $175 for the first insured crop and $75 for each additional tree fruit. The Basic policy guarantees 60 per cent of the average yield at 80 per cent of the market price, as well as protection for tree survival and hail and rain coverage. More than 80 per cent of the tree fruit industry takes advantage of the Basic policies make sure that natural disaster does not mean financial disaster for producers.

Basic Plus coverage allows producers the options of increasing their coverage to a maximum of 80 per cent of normal yields and 100 per cent of market value, reducing the deductible for tree damage or increasing hail and rain coverage.

New plan pays youth

VICTORIA - The provincial government is investing $3.4 million this year in the Youth Community Action program. This innovative pilot program is the latest of 12 programs offered under the umbrella of Youth Options BC and will provide more than 1,000 youth, aged 15-24, with job experience and credit for post secondary tuition fees.

This program benefits youth by allowing them to earn credit - at an equivalent of $8 per hour up to a total of $2,400, or one full year of studies - that can be applied toward their post secondary tuition fees: Youth gain valuable work experience. Opportunities range from a minimum 100 hours ($800) to a maximum of 300 hours. Credits are redeemable at eligible B.C. post secondary education and training institutions. Initial findings from the program show that, by earning tuition credits, students are encouraged to plan their post secondary education.

For more information on Youth Community Action or other Youth Options BC employment programs, call 1-877-BC-YOUTH or visit the Premier's Youth Office Web site at www.youth.gov.bc.ca

Prepare a child's vision for school

Parents want the best education for their children: good schools, good teachers, good grades. However, many don't realize that their child can have 20/20 vision and still have a vision problem. And good vision is essential to good learning, since an estimated 80 per cent of what is learned comes through the eyes.

Good vision involves many coordinated vision skills that allow a child to see clearly and understand what he or she is seeing.

Reading: A Complex task - A child first learns to read, then reads to learn. To achieve both stages of learning, the child needs to integrate different vision skills. Clearness of vision (i.e. acuity) both at near and far is only one of these skills. Tracking, eye focusing, aiming, eye alignment and eye-hand coordination are other skills which are equally necessary to learn.

School Vision Screening Is Not An Eye Exam - When a school-age child's vision is not functioning properly, learning and participation in recreational activities can suffer. However, children can pass a school eye chart test with 20/20 sight (i.e. normal acuity), and still have undetected vision problems affecting their school work and play activities.

Don't assume your child has good vision because he or she passed a school vision screening. Although it provides a valuable service (for instance, school nurses often refer children to an optometrist for a complete eye exam) a screening is no substitute for a thorough optometric eye examination that includes an eye health check, and tests for nearsightedness and farsightedness.

Weyerhaeuser Flyers win again!

PRINCETON - Princeton Bantams visited Summerland last Saturday to meet the Jets for their second league game. Weyerhaeuser Flyers immediately took complete control of the game. They overpowered Summerland through all three periods allowing only 26 shots on net. Justin Antonick was exceptional in net, making terrific saves. Princeton won 12-4.

Sunday's game was at home versus Westside #1, Princeton was well-prepared for a tough match against this strong, hard-playing team. Both squads played well, moving the puck up and down the ice, keeping the game close right to the finish. With less than two minutes on the clock, the score was 6 - 5 for the home team when Westside was awarded a penalty shot. Fans held their breath as Westside's player bore down on netminder Justin Antonick. Justin stood his ground, robbing Westside of the tying goal.

Weyerhaeuser Bantams have 7 wins and 4 losses.

Season stats: Tyler Gunn - 23 goals, 5 assists; Justin Hennenfent

- 10 goals, 12 assists; Bobby Nault - 6 goals, 10 assists; Philip LePoidevin - 5 goals, 7 assists; David Holloway - 4 goals, 5 assists; Devin Huff and Tyler Hogg - 2 goals, 4 assists; Erik Luchsinger - 1 goal, 4 assists; Jared McDonald - 5 assists; Nigel Bertrand 2 goals, 2 assists; Chance Lintick - 4 assists; Chris Mowry - 1 goal, 2 assists; Craig LeMottee and Katie Norman - 3 assists; Sarah Liberatore - 2 assists. Aaron Banks - 1 assist.

Fans response to their performance: Way to go, Flyers!

Trout Talk

"My biggest catch ever!"

by John Sandness, Similkameen Valley outdoorsman

I want to catch a fish that weighs more than I do. I think I have had a couple on the hook, but those big ones got away. Both were halibut, one Atlantic, the other Pacific. The Atlantic was hooked in the fjord off my grandfather's birthplace - Valsøyfjord, Norway. Per and I were jigging for codfish (torsk). I jigged up. Nothing happened. I told Per, in my broken Norwegian, I was stuck on the world, snagged. When the 18 foot skiff started moving, Per and I knew the "world" was not towing us!

"Storre havfisk," Per told me. Just a few seconds later, my line went limp. I was one sad fisherman. I found the hook had been torn right off the lure! Some "storre havfisk" (big halibut)!

I hooked the Pacific halibut in the South Bentnick Arm off Bella Coola, B.C. My son, Carl, and I were on a charter sailboat with a couple of Albertans. That was quite a trip. We had gone after salmon. A storm came up. It was so windy a forward hatch cover blew off and sailed right over our cabin. The skipper decided he better not risk his 90 year old wooden sailboat in the pounding waves, so we sailed into the lee of an island.

In the calm of the leeward side, I said I would jig for some ling cod. I caught a couple of red snapper and one four foot gray cod, a real beauty. Then I hooked something that would not move. As the boat moved up and down, the halibut (?) lifted and settled. After a couple of minutes, my line slacked. My large lead jib was still on my line and intact.

I did catch a "big one" once, a 160 pound scuba diver, my biggest catch ever!

I did not actually land him. He crawled out of the water with my size 6 hook embedded in his neoprene wet suit. He looked at me, a 15 year old sitting above him on the Railroad Pool bridge abutment and said a few unkind words.

He had been swimming in the pool, spearing red horse suckers. I was fishing on the opposite side of the pool, and all went well until he moved. I had a real good bite and reeled back on my rod. I encountered heavy resistance! About three seconds later, the diver porpoised out of the water below me. I slacked off and he swam ashore as fast as his flippers would take him.

When I last saw him, he was on the shore removing my hook from his leg. I had broken my line and was scrambling up the hill. I left him the hook.

I am pretty sure he outweighed me at that time. He looked pretty big to me. I did not ask his weight. He was in no mood to tell me.

Nowadays, I weigh a lot more than 160 pounds, so I am going to have to land a tuna, swordfish or one of those big halibut if my ambition is to be fulfilled. Or, I am going to have to go on a diet.

Billboard promotes great country

PRINCETON - The billboard promoting the great Similkameen outdoors is now in place. Located along the TransCanada Highway west of Hope, the billboard displays an exciting photo of snowmobiling on one half and people bicycling on the other half.

Councillor Jim Manion Stated at the November 16 Council meeting that the billboard went up on November 13, and he thanked other members of Council for their "progressive thinking".

Manion has done a great deal to promote snowmobiling in the Similkameen, as this popular form of recreation brings hundreds of winter tourists to the area. The Similkameen Valley offers some exceptional snowmobiling, and Tulameen offers enthusiasts the opportunity to step onto a snowmobile right outside their motel unit.

Grads plan prom night

by Laura Lawson, South Similkameen reporter

KEREMEOS - Teenagers at Similkameen Secondary School are busy preparing for the last high school graduation of the 20th century. Students held their first meeting with parents at the end of September. Discussions centered around how much and what kind of assistance was needed from parents.

In a nearly unanimous vote students decided to take full responsibility for prom and after (dry) grad celebrations. Parents agreed to provide ideas and emergency "back-up" if and when necessary. The class of 1999 has been running with the ball since.

Principal Brett Lawrason is impressed. The principal was dubious about the grads taking charge. The class of '98 went in the hole financially and others in the past needed to be bailed out of debt.

Although it has become tradition for SESS graduates to raise their own money, Lawrason said, "No other districts do it."

According to Lawrason, "It is always the parents."

Finding ways to raise money is difficult, especially in a small community. The effort of researching options, prices and choosing dates and times for an event is a challenge. Achieving consensus among 40-45 people is hard. In between, there is homework, exams and for some students, jobs to go to.

The grads voice their opinion that they will be "on their own soon anyway." Understanding they have to be able to manage their own lives and money they believe the experience can help before it is necessary to leave home.

Robin Prest, a student member of the grad committee, said two successful fundraisers have been held so far. On December 2, the public is invited to a lip-sync show at the school. A bottle drive is scheduled for January. The Sycamous boat has been reserved for prom night and a vote will be taken next week to decide on after-prom activities.

To date, students have raised $4-500. Prest said they need $6,000.

Principal Lawrason said he finds it hard to believe the class of '99 is "so well organized". He sees the students as "unmaterialistic" and said, "There have been no arguments. They are very good at compromise."

Lawrason feels that the grad class this year is closer than past classes.

Lawrason is relieved.

"It is the first time it hasn't been painful for me," he commented.

Museum closes

KEREMEOS - The South Similkameen Museum was able to stay open until the beginning of November this year. There were 456 visitors to the museum, some from England, France, Germany, Holland, Korea, Sweden and the U.S.A., as well as from Canada. Visitors included a group from the Similkameen Day Camp, two classes from the Cawston School and local Brownies. Museum directors, reviewing the numbers, found it interesting that 70 per cent of the visitors were from outside the local area.

The volunteers who helped keep the museum open during September and October were Tina Dunham, Mable Beaulieu, Dennis Gustavson and Bob Dunham. The Museum Society would like to express their thanks to these volunteers for their assistance. Several museum directors assisted in keeping the museum open.

The Museum Society appreciates the people who donated artifacts, pictures, papers and books to be added to the museum collection. It is important to remember that the museum belongs to the people who live in the Similkameen Valley, and is operated for the benefit of the community. Local continued interest and financial support is essential to ensure that the museum is able to do its part in displaying the history of the area to the world.

KEREMEOS - Cpl. Bill Lindsay reported the detachment responded to two false alarms at residences in the village. Police secured a business building when a window was left open after hours. Two suspicious vehicles were reported, but had left when police arrived.

There were three incidents of mischief. A glass door was damaged at a residence on Middle Bench. A vehicle was scratched in Cawston. Two boys under age 12 were caught throwing rocks at a residence on Sparks Drive.

Two vehicles left the road on November 17, two miles north of Chopaka at 9:46 p.m. There were no injuries and no charges laid. In a separate incident, one vehicle was impounded due to no insurance.

On November 18, a minor was removed from the K-Mountain Inn. Police responded to the downtown area after a call about a drunken man who was disturbing the peace.

Keremeos author is 'an ordinary guy'

by Laura Lawson, South Similkameen reporter

KEREMEOS - A new author in Keremeos recently had his first book published. Bill Keith's biography is a Christian testimonial, titled "The Life and Times of an Ordinary Guy". Keith and his wife, Jean, received a shipment of 1,000 copies on November 10 and immediately sold 22 books.

The book is currently for sale locally at the Keremeos Hardware and time tunnel. It can be found at the Lifesong Book Store in Penticton.

In 1988, Keith was diagnosed with Parkinson's disease. Two years later, the debilitating effects forced him to retire at the early age of 48 years.

The author left his job as Dean of Briercrest College at Caronport, Saskatchewan and in 1995, he and Mrs. Keith moved to the Similkameen Valley. The couple's daughter, three grandchildren and son-in-law live in Keremeos and during visits they found the climate and scenery beautiful.

The Keiths quickly joined the Similkameen Christian Fellowship Church and in 1996, Bill Keith began writing his memoirs. Keith said his prime motivation was his grandchildren. He wanted to ensure their knowledge of him while he still has the ability to communicate and control his limbs. The author said he is "excited" to finally have the book in print. Verbalizing his history has helped him put his life and disease "in perspective."

Keith's condition is temporarily under control with the aid of a synthetic dopamine. Other drugs are needed to combat the side effects. The main symptom of Parkinson's disease is extreme fatigue. Keith said he used to be able to work 16 hours a day. Nowadays, one or two hours spent planting a tree in his yard require days of recuperation. Keith's wife said that without dopamine, her husband could be in a wheelchair.

Jean Keith suffers with fibromyalgia and jokes that they "move at a snail's pace together". Still, Keith says writing his book in longhand was "easy, but emotionally difficult."

The 140 page story begins with comical adventures of Keith as a boy growing up in the United States. He was born in South Dakota. His family moved to the back woods near Auburn, Washington, and Keith spent his early school years in southern California. As a teenager, Keith attended Briercrest boarding school where he met his future wife and discovered a calling to the pastoral ministry. Later chapters describe struggles particular to that vocation while the Keiths are raising three children and coping with family tragedies.

Final chapters tell of a doctor's diagnosis of a fatal disease and Keith's poignant, sad delivery of the news to his wife. In the end, he faces the difficult decision to accept his illness and retire. Drawing on his Christian faith, Keith writes about gained hope and new insights into the lessons in his life.

Keith originally planned to provide only family members with copies of his book, but while typing for him, his sister, Claudia Branham, shared his story with others and had a positive response. She convinced Keith to print more copies.

Keith has written 20 pages of a western novel and counsels a local youth group. In addition to these tasks, he gives a sermon occasionally at his church.

Before they invented drawing boards, what did they go back to?

Garden Club

by Laura Lawson, South Similkameen reporter

KEREMEOS - The Similkameen Garden Club has volunteered to sponsor the residential Christmas Light-up competition this year. In the past, the group has provided five judges but the Keremeos Chamber of Commerce awarded the prizes.

Marie Cannon, a Garden Club member, said the winner's money is being donated from club funds. She warns that "Hedley really works at it." At least six homes in that community "wowed" her and the other judges last year.

The contest is open to all residents of Olalla, Cawston, Keremeos and Hedley. The winners will be decided on December 18. First place receives $75, second $50 and third $25.

The Chamber is continuing to sponsor the business competition and will donate framed plaques to the winners. Anna Bartlett, Chair of the Light-up Committee, said local seniors judged businesses in previous years and will do so again.

Gas startles kids

PRINCETON - On Wednesday, November 18, a bus loaded of students from Penticton stopped at the Princeton PetroCan station. As the bus was being refuelled, some of the students wandered around the premises. They were fooling around with a gas bottle and inadvertently opened it. Halon gas under pressure erupted into the air and formed what appeared to be a huge explosive cloud. It was harmless but certainly brought a sudden reaction from everyone in the area.
