

Cruisers prepare for Sno-X

PRINCETON - Timberline Cruisers Club is getting ready for their big Snowcross weekend at the fair grounds. Highway 40, northeast of Princeton, will see more traffic on January 23 and 24 than on most January weekends, as spectators flock to the grounds to see the snowmobile races.

This is the first time the club has held the races at the fair grounds. They will take over the race track (usually reserved for horse racing), and will race high-powered snowmobiles around curves and over jumps. Bob Reichert, to planned the racecourse, has placed the main jump right in front of the grandstand, so spectators can enjoy a close-up view of the biggest challenge of the course.

These Snowcross races are sanctioned by the B.C. Snowmobile Federation, and is race meet number three in the six back-to-back race weekends held in various locations.

Spectators will find facilities for their comfort, including hot drinks and food at the concession stand run by the 4-H Club and other refreshments in a "garden". Portable washrooms will be available and fire barrels will help keep spectators warm.

As spectators will have a grandstand in which to sit, they may bring cushions, blankets and comforters to help ward off the cold. From grandstand seats, they will be able to see the entire race.

The races start at 9:00 a.m. and run until 4:00 p.m. or later, depending on the number of races. Sunday may be a shorter day. Admission costs are $7.50 per day per adult, $5.00 for seniors, and children 12 and under will be admitted free of charge.

Worst cut ever

PRINCETON - Mayor Randy McLean has agreed to be sawed in half during the Abracadabra Magic Show on March 4. The show is a project of Princeton Business and Professional Women's Club to raise money for a student bursary.

Speed, booze put car in Similkameen

PRINCETON - At 9:45 on January 5, John Dentith, age 45, was travelling eastbound on Highway 3 near Bromley Rock when he lost control of his vehicle on wet pavement. The 1985 Plymouth Caravelle skidded across the highway on a curve. The vehicle went off the road to the left, down a steep embankment, and came to rest on rocks on the edge of the Similkameen River.

Dentith, a resident of Cultus Lake, B.C., was wearing a seat belt. He sustained a bruise to the head.

The vehicle was destroyed. Police believe alcohol and speed were a factor in the crash. Dentith was charged with failing to keep right.

B.C. cuts tax

VICTORIA - The provincial personal income tax rate decreases by two per cent to 49.5 per cent of basic federal tax on January 1, 1999. Since 1995, the B.C. personal income tax rate has been reduced by six per cent.

The top marginal income tax rate decreases to 52.7 per cent on January 1, 1999 and 49.9 per cent on January 1, 2001.

A two-parent family with two school age children with a $55,000 family income will pay $261 less.

A single parent who earns $30,000 per year and who supports two young children will pay $106 less per year, and will receive an $856 annual B.C. family bonus.

For more on taxes, see page 8.

Mayor commends Chief Forester

PRINCETON - Mayor Randy McLean is pleased with the Ministry of Forest decision to cut more timber in Merritt Forest District. The following is a press release in which he outlines his reasons for supporting the decision.

In a recent press release, Larry Pederson, Provincial Chief Forester, announced that there would be an uplift (which means an increase) in the annual harvest. Specifically, 550,000 cubic metres per year for two years would be added to the annual harvest. This uplift is a result of an urgent request by the District Manager of the Merritt Forest District, Rod DeBoice, to deal with recent adverse natural events, the 1998 Tulameen fire and the epidemic Mountain Pine Beetle infestations. As stated by the Ministry, if harvesting is not increased to salvage losses, much of the damaged timber will not be suitable for lumber manufacture and timber losses to the Mountain Pine Beetle will continue to increase.

Merritt Forest District contains a portion of forest over 120 years old (overmature timber), much of this age class of wood, which is highly susceptible to Mountain Pine Beetle infestation, is located in the Princeton area.

For some time, major licensees from Princeton and Merritt have been harvesting strictly Mountain Pine Beetle infested wood. This increased effort has still not been sufficient to contain the spread of the infestation. Approximately 3 - 4000 hectares (1.1 million cubic metres) of forest in the Merritt Timber Supply Area may be rendered useless if they are not harvested in time. There is also the danger that, if not logged in time, the infested wood becomes highly susceptible to fire, this situation will endanger adjacent stands of marketable, healthy timber.

Local forestry, local manufacturers and local governments have been working to turn this adverse situation into a positive one by ensuring that as much of this wood as possible is produced in the area. Credit must be given to local licensees who, even during these extremely poor economic times in the forest industry, have made a commitment to utilize this wood to maximum capacity.

This uplift is a necessary requirement to ensure that the timber is harvested in time to have marketable value. The danger of fire will be reduced in these areas and the aged wood which the beetle preys on will be replaced that much quicker by healthy young trees.

Information released by the Ministry of Forests indicates that the possibility of timber lost due to infestation would be greatly reduced by the end of the two year uplift, it would indeed read a manageable level by the year 2004.

Again, we would like to commend Weyerhaeuser Canada Ltd. and the other Licensees whose efforts will help ensure that the present long term Annual Allowable Cut will remain the same far into the future.

Lali delivers $12,500 for local victim services

PRINCETON - Princeton RCMP Detachment may seem an odd setting for awarding a provincial grant, but on Friday evening, it was the right place.

MLA Harry Lali presented a $12,500 cheque to Rosemary Doughty for victim services, half the annual grant.

Doughty is Coordinator of the services. She works with RCMP Constable Mike Fox, the RCMP liaison officer, and civilian volunteers. The service operates out of an office in Princeton Detachment.

The program has operated without money since March, but the grant received last week will be administered through Princeton General Hospital. Victim services in Princeton area demand the cooperation of more than one agency.

The programs are the responsibility of the office of Attorney General Ujjal Dosanjh. Victim services are paid for from a fund which receives money from fine surcharges imposed when a criminal is sentenced. More than $4 million has been allocated from the fund since April 1, 1998.

In Princeton, Doughty is called in after a crime has been committed. Police advise her when a victim is in need of assistance. In the event of a crime such as the break and enter of a home, Doughty will talk to the owners, help them fill out forms, deal with distress, and perhaps show them how their home can be made more secure to prevent further break-ins.

Doughty assists people who have been involved in motor vehicle accidents. She helps them in whatever way they require, from helping to deal with ICBC, providing transportation to a place to stay, visiting those who may be hospitalized, retrieving luggage and other possessions from a wrecked vehicle, and helps them to find the right resource people.

In one case, Doughty's dog, Sadie, worked for the service, helping to calm children traumatized by a motor vehicle accident.

Doughty may attend court with people who will be witnesses, or may be a witness herself.

In cases of murder, suicide or attempted suicide, Doughty works with families, directing them to the "right people at the right time".

Victims of crime may feel left out of the process of justice, and it is Doughty who can liaise with other police detachments and Crown Counsel.

In an emergency situation, Doughty and her volunteer staff may be called upon to assist police in evacuating people from their homes, or helping them apply for assistance from other agencies.

Doughty emphasizes that she is not a counsellor and not an investigator.

"I don't do police work at all," Doughty says.

The $25,000 per year grant will help pay the costs for the program in Princeton.

Private forest owners find new deal for future

VICTORIA - Forests Minister David Zirnelt, with Environment, Lands and Parks Minister Cathy McGregor, unveiled a new model to protect the environment and improve the investment climate on B.C.'s private forest lands. On January 6, with Maxine Haley, chair of the Private Forest Landowners Association, the ministers announced the signing of a memorandum of understanding that outlines a new model for managing about half of B.C.'s privately owned forest lands, nearly one million hectares of forests.

Owners of private forest lands will have the school tax rate permanently reduced by $3.6 million, based on the 1998 school tax rate and the assess value of the land.

Forest landowners must protect water quality, fish habitat, soil conservation and, where applicable, critical wildlife habitat. This regulatory regime is based on a results-oriented approach, the government claims, allowing private landowners to use innovation Princeton's 1998/99 Youth Ambassadors were introduced, and made the presentation of sponsor ribbons. Miss Princeton, Alison Aspinall, with Princesses Tina Costa and Laine Westran, and Miss Congeniality Amber Swanson will continue their duties until the new Youth Ambassadors are selected.

Each candidate gave a short speech about herself following the presentation.

Mary Bowden, representing Argo Road Maintenance, is age 16, likes sports, and looks forward to having fun in the program.

Jenni McConnell, a Grade 11 student representing Dairy Queen, is on the Youth Council and Student Council. She said she is looking forward to the experience she will gain from the training program.

Melissa Bowen, sponsored by Princeton Lions Club, enjoys sports and finds she is enjoying the Youth Ambassador training already, having fun and meeting new people.

Erica Timms is Miss Rotary Club. She is age 16, in Grade 11, enjoys reading and baseball.

Royal Canadian Legion Branch #56 is sponsoring Kayla Kinloch. She is a grade 11 student who plans a career in technology. She looks forward to meeting new people through the Youth Ambassadors Program.

The young women in the program studied SuperHost last weekend, and will continue their training with sessions with Toastmasters, learning to make a speech correctly. Other lessons will include self-care, improving appearance, modelling, and fashion. As the year progresses, they will participate in a number of public events.

and local knowledge to protect key public environmental values.

The Forest Land Commission will administer the new standards and associated requirements. The commission will actively support private land forestry in B.C. and work with landowners to increase the productivity of private forest lands.

The Private Forest Landowners Association was established in 1995 to represent owners of managed forests in B.C., to promote responsible forests stewardship on private forest lands, to advance public policies that encourage investment on private lands and to protect landowners' rights.

The harvest from B.C.'s private forest lands is about 10 per cent of the total volume of timber cut in the province each year. Timber harvest tend to fluctuate as landowners respond to market opportunities. Timber harvest over the past 10 years have ranged from six million to nine million cubic metres annually.

Man jailed for breach

PRINCETON - Donald Apps appeared in Provincial Court in Princeton on January 7 to be sentenced for breach of probation and for theft of a truck, on June 27, 1998, from Weyerhaeuser sawmill in Princeton.

In the breach charge, which was from a city in northern B.C., Apps failed to pay restitution, failed to report to the Probation Officer, and failed to attend alcohol and drug counselling. He had previously served seven days in jail for a prior breach charge.

Judge Stansfield sentenced Apps to 21 days in jail, plus 18 months probation, and ordered him to pay the $400 restitution.

In the matter of the motor vehicle theft, Apps asked for an intermittent sentence, to be served on weekends, so that he could continue his employment.

Judge Stansfield noted that the truck had been involved in a crash, and Apps had been drinking at the time. Weyerhaeuser lost $14,174.61, and Judge Stansfield felt they should be reimbursed.

Apps had stated he was young, hard-headed, and did not care whether he lived or died when he committed the breach. The 22 year old Penticton man said he had been addicted to cocaine. His defense counsel said the theft was "stupid".

Judge Stansfield remarked that he did not know why he had been asked to "cut you some slack" with an intermittent sentence, but did grant the request. Apps was ordered to serve 90 days on weekends in the Penticton lock-up, serve a one year probation, and pay restitution to Weyerhaeuser with interest charges payable as well as the principle.

Judge orders work

PRINCETON - In Provincial Court in Princeton on January 7, Trevor Hunt pled guilty to possession of stolen tools. The owner of the tools had reported the theft on October 20.

On October 29, a person who knew of the theft observed a transaction between Hunt and a local carpenter. The observer reported it to police.

The carpenter had purchased the tools for $35, far below a fair price, and had asked if the tools were "hot". Hunt had assured the buyer they were not.

Hunt had a prior record for theft, and could not give an explanation for why he had committed the crime.

Judge Stansfield called the crime the work of "a damn fool", then sentenced the 19 year old Princeton man to 100 hours of community work service and a one-year probation. He warned Hunt of the penalty for breach of probation should Hunt fail to complete his probation successfully.

Organic farming Crossing the border and road

SORRENTO - On March 4-7, the Crossroads Conference will bring together farmers, ecological and agricultural activists to find common ground and to create a brighter future for agriculture. The conference has two parallel streams, directed at building agricultural skills and at sustaining farms, farmers and farmland.

The conference is organized by the Western Sustainable Agriculture Working Group (WSAWG), COABC (Coalition of Organic Associations of BC) and IOIA (International Organic Inspectors Association). All three organizations are working together to create a vibrant and sustainable agriculture throughout North America.

The theme of "Cross-Border Cooperation" will be addressed directly by a panel of Canadian and American agriculturalists, and through a series of workshops dealing with issues like farm links, farmer cooperatives, marketing and corporate concentration. Local activists will present successful models of grassroots programs, ranging from food policy groups to local marketing networks. Additional inspiration will come from a tour of a local winery and an organic farm. The opening Leadership Workshop will help build skills like proactive organizing, developing analysis, and building collaborations, and will wind up with a consensus-building "playshop", designed to get people thinking creatively about how to work together. The conference is a great opportunity to get together with a diverse group of people to create viable, sustainable solutions - and to have fun doing it.

The Western Sustainable Agriculture Working Group is an association of 31 primarily non-profit, community-based organizations working in the western United States and Canada. Through networking and collaboration-building, the Western SAWG works to enhance the capacity of member organizations to promote sustainable agriculture.

COABC is B.C.'s umbrella group for organic certification and regulations. COABC's standards are adopted by regional certification bodies all over the province, and have served as a model for many other organic agencies. COABC uses only IOIA-trained inspectors in its assessment of organic farms and processors.

Jesse's Journey - A Father's Tribute

Father walks for children

SIMILKAMEEN VALLEY - John Davidson walked through the Similkameen Valley last week as part of his 8300 km. journey on foot across Canada. He was blessed with milder temperatures than usual this time of year, and enjoyed a little sunshine along the way. As residents watched him go by, many wondered at Davidson and his long, long walk for children.

Davidson is doing the journey for his son and for other people's children, as well as for other fathers whose children suffer from genetic disorders.

In 1995, John Davidson pushed a wheelchair in which his son, Jesse, promoted medical research into genetic disorders. Davidson pushed the wheelchair 3300 km. across Ontario. It was Jesse's Journey. The walk Davidson has made during the past year is called Jesse's Journey - A Father's Tribute.

Jesse Davidson suffers from Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy, a severe genetic disease. His father wants to generate $10 million to establish an endowment fund which will direct $1 million per year toward research to defeat a host of genetic diseases.

Jesse's father says Jesse would make this journey with him, if Jesse were still able.

In addition to raising awareness and money, John Davidson has dedicated his journey to "the daily efforts of fathers across Canada who work hard to ensure the best possible opportunities for their children."

How can money help children like Jesse?

The answer is: gene therapy. This is a new process which imports corrective genetic information into cells, then switches on the new genetic material so that its purpose is correctly expressed. In other words, cells are re-programmed to correct nature's mistake.

Anyone wishing to contribute to medical research into eradication of genetic disorders may use the donation form below to help the fund grow.

John Davidson walks west from Princeton toward his ultimate goal, the Pacific Ocean. He has walked 8,000 km. on Jesse's Journey - a Father's Tribute, to raise money for research into treating genetic disorders.

Hamper drive succeeds

PRINCETON - Ted Worthington, President of the Crisis Assistance Society, says the 1998 Christmas Hamper Campaign was a success. The Society delivered 104 hampers, and the hampers were well-provisioned.

"It was scary," Worthington recalls, when a great deal of donations did not arrive until the last four days.

Money donations were generous, so there was money to buy what food did not arrive.

"Princeton came through, as always," Worthington said, with a pleased grin.

He mentioned the people at Princeton Manor, who got together and filled boxes with food. He was delighted with the group of women who made up the baskets for presents to moms and teenage girls.

There was enough help, and he was especially pleased by the number of members of OAPO, the Youth Council and Senior Citizens who showed up to help, as well as the regular crew.

"We ran into a few glitches, but all were solved, and all the hampers were delivered," Worthington said.

POINTS OF VIEW

OUR VIEW

Health picture is not brighter than before

There is an ongoing problem in British Columbia with health care. Nurses' and hospital employees' unions continue to make waves through the health care system, patients are not happy with what they experience or hear in the news. In our own area, Hedley home support clients are now receiving care from the Keremeos end, when they had clearly sent the message three years ago that they would prefer service from Princeton. They feel that their preferences have been ignored.

The Hedley situation comes from budget limitations in the Princeton area. Hours for home support were cut back due to the budget having been cut. Reassessments of clients resulted in minimizing home support hours. The health region is divided into areas, and Keremeos area budget had enough money to cover the Hedley clients. In addition, Hedley had been included in the Keremeos health area to begin with, regardless of what Hedley residents preferred.

The disputes, the changes and the problems in the system make people uneasy. Perhaps the system is not all that bad, and perhaps it is, but the major factor in how people see the system has been caused by the radical changes to the system. There is a feeling that the system is not stabilized, and therefore is no longer trustworthy. People are not confident the new system works, and they have severe doubts about the new system saving money.

Perhaps we would be better off with an assessment of the system's costs and services provided now as compared with the health system before the changes took place. We suggest this because, when a company does not satisfy its customers and its employees are unhappy, we need to start analyzing the way the company does business. In this case, the consumers are the public. Unfortunately, we do not have the option of shopping somewhere else.

Governments should be ashamed

Governments, both federal and provincial, should hang their heads in shame, for abandoning the helpless elderly, who now find that after working hard in younger years, paying taxes and medical insurance premiums prior to turning 65, the new system, with its non-elected, faceless bureaucrats, are cutting off the help they so desperately need.

Some of these people don't need sheltered housing, just a little help in their own homes, Home Care as provided by Community Services, far cheaper than lodge care of palliative hospital care. With the cuts of some 1000 hours to home care, we are finding doctors and nurses complaining of understaffing and too long hours. Elective surgery, backlogs of months, closed bed space, patients dying before getting proper diagnosis and emergency care, emergency room horror stories - it's not just Princeton. Hospitals at the coast and in Toronto report these same conditions.

Some patients are leaving the Princeton care area, thus causing further problems in the area they go to, caused by the cuts to home care. Clients, patients - call them what you like, now have to wait months to get into facilities like Ridgewood Lodge, where help is available at a much higher cost. Home care was the answer.

Trying to do things alone at home has caused many an accident. Often, osteoporosis has set in, and a fall while doing housework causes them to go to the hospital for extended recovery periods, and maybe never to leave hospital care.

But consider another scenario. An 80 year old patient sent home with little or no help available. Families can help some, but jobs not easily found in the area hinder that care system. In a wheelchair, trying to look after themselves, much of the time alone, Home Care was the bridge to the future. Now, with no help available, they could die, helpless and alone.

It seems the elderly, when it comes to funding, are the last to receive what few dregs filter down from the top. The stam-pede of our faceless bureaucrats to the money trough may be the cause of these horrors. In one year, these appointed bureaucrats skimmed of a hefty amount, including the CEO of the Okanagan Health Region increase from $167,000 to $171,000. The Region's corporate human resources officer went from $119,000 to $125,000 over one year. The corporate regionalization officer had a whopping increase from $100,200 to $151,200. It is also reported that starting salaries are $6,000 more than those whose places they take.

There is more. How about the perks? A trip to China at $4,500 each to attend a conference? The CEOs ask the taxpayers to pay their annual dues of nearly $1,600 each. Another conference in Florida in January, $150 to attend a golf tournament. How can these managers justify these pay increases - exorbitant to say the least?

We, the public, want more beds, more nurses, more Home Care resources, instead of accepting these frivolous perks and hefty pay increases. Under these circumstances, nurses are leaving the job and going elsewhere. Fair compensation is in order, and Mr. Clark should see to this: pushing Ottawa for the return of the confiscated money from transfer payments.

Sincerely, R.W. Bouvette

Letter to the Editor

A story of times long past

The following letter is a point of view established by Kay Hardy on the basis of her family history dating back over 400 years.

We hear a great deal about how the Indians have been mistreated by the "white man" in the twentieth century but very little is said about the conditions under which the Indians were living in North America when the Europeans came here several centuries ago. There is so much rhetoric about the white man stealing the land from the Indians, but next to no reference to the way in which they pioneered and developed this country on both sides of the 49th parallel, which brought better living conditions for the small number of Indians who existed then.

When Europeans came to this vast wilderness we now know as Canada, the best country in the world to live in, the Indians were (described as) a primitive and often savage people who warred against each other and resented the intrusion of the "pale-faced people".

The history of my maternal ancestors was obtained from the Public Library in London, Ontario and reveals the facts about the confrontations between the early settlers and the Iroquois and Sioux Indians who wore animal skins for clothing and lived in tepees covered with animal hides. This is a far cry from the way present-day Indians live.

My grandfather, several generations ago, was John Richards, a Welshman who went to France and had a job as a guard at the king's palace. He was killed on Bartholomew Day in 1572 while helping King Louis escape out the back kitchen door. He had married a French girl and they raised 10 children.

John Richards, Jr., was 18 years old at the time and was conscripted into the French Army and shipped over to New France to establish a French colony. The Indians did not welcome them.

The vast wilderness gave the Indians a great advantage with their bows and arrows as their mode of warfare. By perseverance, the French army established themselves from the mouth of the St. Lawrence River to the mouth of the Mississippi River. In one of the confrontations with the Indians, John Jr. was wounded in the thigh and left to be taken prisoner along with several other soldiers. The Indian chief's young son had been killed that day by the French and there was no mercy shown by the Band Council when they met to make plans to dispose of the prisoners.

The chief's daughter appeared and begged for the life of John Richards Jr. to replace her brother. The chief said he would be nothing but trouble for the Indians. The Indian princess insisted that she would adopt him, cure him and teach him their ways. The chief finally consented, but the others who were taken prisoner were scalped, making John Jr. feel very uneasy.

For three years, John was kept a prisoner but learned three different languages and covered a lot of territory to the west with the Indian tribes. There was a lot of talk of war and the chief called a council of several other Indian tribal leaders to discuss their actions. A big feast was planned for the gathering of chiefs from different parts of the country.

They killed off most of their dogs for the feast and for three days they all ate, drank, danced, sang and played their drums, but a watch was kept over John Jr. The women who were assigned to keep watch grew weary and one by one they fell asleep. When the last young woman nodded off and started to snore, John said, "It is now or never. I must escape."

John expected the few remaining dogs would give an alarm but like their masters, they were fast asleep. He ran as fast as his legs would carry him but soon heard reports of gunfire. During the day, he crawled into a hollow log, but ran by night, pulling leaves and grass to eat. His only guide was the sun, moon and stars. He soon grew weak and weary. For six weeks, he forded rivers and climbed mountains, the Indians in hot pursuit. He knew the white man was living in the east and to his relief, he stumbled into a Dutch settlement at a place called Scoharria. They were good to him, but he couldn't speak Dutch.

He learned of a British Colony further on, where he later found them a very sympathetic and kind people. He met and married a young widow and they raised a very large family of which I am the thirteenth or fourteenth generation.

The white man built roads and a communication system and traded with other countries to import good foods and other necessities of life. My mother's father pioneered in the Georgian Bay area and would walk on a trail 50 miles from Meaford to Barrie, Ontario, to carry a fifty-pound sack of flour and trade it for a sack of sugar that had been imported. He bought one of the first boxes of Eddy's wooden matches and people came from miles around to see him light up his coal-oil lamp.

This pioneering spirit still exists in the descendants of the early settlers. There are many Indians who have chosen to live like the white man and have earned Old Age Pensions and Canada Pension benefits, and regard themselves as Canadians. Why can't all of the Indians be equal in status accordingly?

Heart Food

by Dave Machin

There is an absolute about God that I would like to establish in your thinking, and that Absolute is this: God is good all the time. Bad things never come from Him, or through Him, nor are they His fault. God is not a human being like we are, nor does He change from day to day as we do. He is always the same, and remains constant and consistent, and His inherent nature is always good. God desires to reveal His goodness to you. Everything Jesus did was for the benefit of the people whose lives He touched. It was always to improve their quality of life. James 1:16 and 17 says, "Do not err (be misled, deceived into thinking differently, or make no mistake about this), every good and perfect gift comes from above and comes down from the Father of Lights, with whom there is no variability nor shadow of turning." Let me make this offer to you. Are you in bondage to fears, perceptions, or habits that cripple your life? God, the Almighty One, who is goodness in action, wants you to experience His goodness personally, if you will allow Him to do it for you. It is hard or almost impossible for our minds to grasp the concept of someone who always thinks good things, especially when that someone is thinking of you. In Jeremiah 29:11, the Bible states that God's thoughts for you are for your good, to give you a hope. People every day die without any hope, and many have hope stolen from them. God wants to give you a hope and a plan for living and He wants to do it now, not tomorrow, for He is a "now" God. Now is the day of your salvation (meaning health, safety, peace of mind, etc.). Tomorrow may be too late. There are no guarantees that you will see tomorrow. You can think, "I don't believe this, it can't be true that God is always good to you. But what if it is true? What have you got to lose? His goodness is waiting to touch you. All you have to do is taste and see that the Lord is good.

Mentat's Law Six:

If you cannot make a profit from it, don't buy it

by M. Edward Muckle
Copyright 1998 Growers Press Inc. All rights reserved.

Excerpted with permission from the 'Handbook for Successful Self Employment'.

Readers who follow this column will find immediate business benefits by applying the principles outlined to an existing or proposed business.

LAW SIX:

IF YOU CANNOT MAKE A PROFIT FROM IT DON'T BUY IT.

A business buys only two types of commodity; those things which be resold for a profit and those things which you can actually use to produce a profitable saleable commodity.

Businesses have no use for toys and luxuries. The newest or the latest is not necessarily of value to a business. It doesn't matter what everyone else is doing nor how they are doing it. If you have a clear definition of your business and its goals, you will make fewer mistakes in purchasing goods and services. A great price on a product that you normally do not handle and your consumers do not expect you to have can cost you a lot of money. You have to finance the inventory until you can sell it.

You have to spend money to educate consumers to buy a product which you will not get again at the same price. The same applies to products which are a great idea but which do not fit your business definition.

A classic example of buying for no profitable return is the requirement to upgrade electronic equipment for Y2K compliance. If it were not for that requirement, a majority of businesses could easily continue to operate computer systems 6-10 years old for the next many years. I know my 6 year old 386 notebook computer was quite adequate to my needs.

No business should invest in new equipment of any type without a very thorough analysis of the real economic return. Not the benefits the salesman is praising. Can you prove to yourself that the equipment under consideration will directly result in increased profitability? If not, don't buy it. Wishful thinking is the stuff of fairy tales. You are running a business. In my business it is a common occurrence for clients to request highly specialized computer systems when they don't own the equipment the computer is designed to run. Definitely a case of the cart before the horse.

Regarding: Bill C-68

An open letter to Jim Hart, MP

Dear Sir;

Re: your letter dated December 1, 1998, third paragraph, quote: "and should Reform be chosen to form the next government, we have made a commitment to repeal Bill C-68, including the registration and licensing requirements called for in this legislation."

Mr. Hart, is this the same type of commitment when Mulroney said that he wouldn't run against his friend, Joe Clark, and did, or when Mulroney said he wouldn't de-index the Old Age Pensions - and did?

Would Reform's commitment on Bill C-68 be like John Chretien's commitment prior to election time, saying that he would do away with the G.S.T. and scrap the Canada/U.S. free trade deal, then didn't or when Preston Manning said he would not take the keys to the limousine or the Stornoway Mansion - then did? Or when you lobbied in Not taking the gold-plated pension plan for MPs - then did?

Mr. Hart, it's kind of like standing at the the altar, isn't it, and saying "I do" - and didn't.

Families with one or two children and net incomes up to $33,450 are eligible for the B.C. Family Bonus. Families with more children are eligible at higher income levels. To qualify, an applicant must submit an application for the federal Child Tax Benefit program.

Low-income families may also receive the B.C. Earned Income Benefit on their cheque. This provincial benefit replaced the federal Working Income Supplement on July 1, 1998.

Safe driver bonus

Effective January 1, 1999, B.C.'s safest drivers will save an additional $40 to $70 on their optional ICBC premiums.

Tuition

Tuition fees for university and college students have been frozen at 1995/96 levels.

Small Business taxes

The small business income tax rate will be reduced by 11 per cent over two years, beginning on January 1, 1999, to a rate of eight per cent by January 1, 2000. This will reduce the corporate income tax burden for approximately 40,000 small businesses by $20 million. With these cuts, the tax rate will have been reduced by 20 per cent since 1995.

Corporate Capital Tax

The corporate capital tax threshold increases from $1.5 million to $2.5 million in paid up capital on January 1, 1999, resulting in $20 million worth of tax savings this year. The threshold will increase to $5 million in 2001, at which time 90 per cent of businesses will pay no corporate capital tax.

Corporate Income Tax Holiday

Since May 1996, corporations that have started new small businesses in B.C. may be eligible for a two-year holiday from provincial corporate income tax. If a company applies and is eligible, the Commissioner of Income Tax will issue a certificate to submit when filing corporate taxes. (Note: a new certificate of eligibility is required for each year.)

The Mining year in review: 1998 saw no improvements

by Gary Livingstone, President and CEO, Mining Association of British Columbia

1998 was a very difficult year for BC's mining industry. While we remain a vital economic engine of the province, we have been plagued by a combination of circumstances that have had a traumatic effect on our industry. Slipping commodity prices and the Asian financial crisis helped push production volumes down. Add to that the general lack of investor confidence in BC and you have a recipe for a very tough business environment for mining. The good news is there were no mine closures in 1998. Unfortunately, though, only one new mine was opened. With several projects at various stages in the mine development review process, every effort must be made in the coming year to see those projects advanced toward the construction stage.

We began the year with high hopes for Bill 12 - The Mining Rights Amendment Act. The legislative package included a welcome exploration tax credit as well as a new Mineral Exploration Code. It was also designed to ensure access to land and to provide fair market compensation to those mineral tenure holders affected by the creation of parks, two essential ingredients to survival and future growth. Once introduced however, the bill suffered a couple of setbacks. First, government watered down the land access components, in deference to the environmental lobby. And second, discussions between government and industry stalled over the concept of fair market value. After more than nine months of discussion, we are finally near to agreement and a positive announcement in this regard may yet be made in the early days of 1999.

Mineral exploration expenditures in the province this year will hit

Christmas bird count

Cold weather does not deter birders

by Madelon Schouten

PRINCETON - Like the posties, birders are out in all kinds of weather - rain, snow or sub-zero temperatures - nothing deters them. Fourteen observers went out on December 20, braving the Arctic cold of that day. When the sun gained some strength by noon, frozen toes and noses returned to normal and there was more bird activity, which had been lacking earlier. Snow cover was light and made more areas accessible.

Fifty-eight species were tallied, probably the rarest bird found in winter was the Band-tailed Pigeon. This handsome represenrecord low levels - estimated to bottom out at just $40 million. It takes approximately $75 million in exploration spending to find one mine and we need annual exploration spending to be in the $200 million range to sustain our industry.

Why is exploration spending so low? Two reasons: first, the general lack of investor confidence in BC makes attracting capital extra difficult. But perhaps the biggest barrier to mineral exploration investment is the current provincial land-use planning process. Amongst the leading resource industries, particularly mining and forestry, there is agreement that the current land use planning and decision-making processes are not working well; some suggest not working at all. It started with the goal of turning 12 per cent of the province into parkland, but now that the 12 per cent has been reached, the objective seems to extend beyond. The Land Resource Management Plans (LRMPs) are now zoning lands across the province, in many cases zoning mineral exploration and development into extinction. It is a serious situation that government must address in the months ahead. The full impact the land use planning process is having on the province must be considered. Economic and social impact analyses should be an integral part of all land use planning decisions in the province.

Crown land comprises 94 per cent of BC. The rules governing access to that land have a huge impact on mining and several other of the province's most important industries - forestry, oil and gas, and agri-food. We account for roughly 30 per cent of the provincial GDP; we form the backbone of most regional economies outside of south-western BC and we must have access to the land in order to survive.

In looking ahead to next year, the tative of the Columbidae family frequented a local feeder. Classified as "uncommon" on the region's bird checklist, it might well be the first winter record in the Thompson/Okanagan region, according to Richard Cannings, one of the province's foremost ornithologists.

Other fairly unusual birds were three Goshawks, Common Snipe, a wader found in wet meadows, bogs and marshes. The mild weather until count day, almost certainly detained this migrant, which usually heads south in the fall. Flocks of Pine Grosbeaks were found in many locations, the males in their handsome rose-red provincial government must prepare for the closure of the Snip mine and the possible closure of Endako and the loss of tax revenue that goes with those closures. The coal industry, already facing tough times as a result of just a five per cent drop in coal prices, are invoking temporary shutdown procedures to stem financial losses. With some in the industry forecasting a further significant drop in coal prices next year, things are likely to get worse, much worse before they get better. The coal industry in the Elk Valley alone accounts for annual revenue in excess of $1 billion. When revenue of that size is threatened, it becomes a problem that can affect everyone in the province.

Despite the government's continued claim that job creation is their top priority, our industry, which generates the highest paying jobs in the province - an average of $74,600 per year - remains stymied by policies that inhibit growth and discourage investment. This, more than anything else, is what pushed us to become leading advocates of the BC Business Summit. The Summit was an unprecedented coming together of business interests large and small from across the province, a remarkable show of support from a group that can rightfully claim representation for the interests of 1.4 million employees in the province. The government would be well served not to dismiss the Summit recommendations as being a "business only" agenda. We are all in trouble in BC, not just mining.

Business and industry drive investment, which in turn drives job creation, economic growth and stability. For education, health care and other social program priorities to thrive, the economy must first thrive.

plumage were easily spotted, feeding on grass seeds. Three-toed Woodpeckers, American goldfinches, a few waterfowl species and three representatives of the owl family all added to the list.

Apart from the 14 field observers, three of them from the Lower Mainland (were they ever surprised at the temperatures!), 13 feeder watchers assisted in the count.

The Princeton Count Coordinator thanks everyone who participated in this event and looks forward to next year's event. Maybe we will beat this year's total!

Saxology - Points in Time

by Mary Bedford

Princeton Concerts Society is proud to present Saxology, a dynamic group of four saxophonists, for this final concert of the 1998/99 series. The three boys from Winnipeg have been joined by Julia Nolan, who is an adjunct professor of saxophone at both U.B.C. and Western Washington University. She has performed with the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra, the Vancouver Opera Orchestra, the CBC Jazz Orchestra, and in concert with husband and fellow saxophone player David Branter is the ensemble the call Saxduo.

When "Saxology" was founded in 1996, Russian-born music director Sasha Boychuk and his friend freelance musician Shane Nestruck, wanted to put together a group of musicians who were willing to make a commitment for the long term to rehearse for several hours every second day on top of their other performance and teaching responsibilities. The idea was to combine the talents of each member, to develop a sum that was greater than its parts, and to explore new possibilities of music for the saxophone. Chuck McClelland, who had studied with each of them, was invited to take the tenor chair.

The Saxophone quartet requires a great deal of skill as well as commitment. This group is said to have performed exercises such as playing Bach Chorales, sometimes for hours, trying to capture the sound of a cathedral organ or a string vibrato.

All in all, Saxology takes musicianship very seriously, showing a remarkable concentration of group skills and discipline, and adding a keen sense of fun. Program selections could include works by Mozart, Bach, Joplin or Oliver Nelson.

The concert begins at 8:00 p.m. on Saturday, January 23, at the United Church Hall. For further information, please phone 295-6778. We would like to have a good turnout for the last concert of the Season.

ARIES - This frustrating time is relieved only by the care and attention of female friends. In career and partnerships, you are thwarted at every turn. Watch your temper. Without patience, you could blow it.

TAURUS - You can produce good creative work at this time if you focus your efforts. You may feel lazy and out of sorts, but these feelings arise from lack of focus. Discipline yourself.

GEMINI - Some things go the way you want, other things seem to go against you. You are changing: others react to the changes in you. Try to define yourself.

CANCER - Many messages come to you from other people. This is a good time for effective dialogue. Do not be discouraged: talk it out. This is a good time for planning.

LEO - Relationships are a source of happiness up to month end, when your life becomes full of events demanding your attention. Enjoy the now. Your spouse pampers you, friends adore you.

VIRGO - Your mind is on business these days, or should be, as business is where you are most effective now. You have concerns about money. Solve them with a plan.

AQUARIUS - Something good comes to you this week, opening possibilities you had not considered. However, take very good care of your health for the next two weeks.

Where are my slippers?

by Patty Ann Peal

"I've got to have a drink!" thought Kelly Ann, as she came in the back door and took off her coat and boots. She got her favourite glass out of the cupboard, the one with all the bubbles painted on it, and filled it with some apple juice.

"Boy, are my feet getting cold," she thought as she stood there in front of the fridge drinking her juice. "I guess I should find my slippers."

Kelly Ann wandered into the living room looking for them. She looked under the couch. She didn't find her slippers, but she did find a Rubiks Cube puzzle so scrambled up that it looked like a pile of confetti. She picked it up and twisted it around for a while. She rubbed her feet against the carpet, feeling the soft, plush fibers tickle her feet. Her cold feet. "Where are my slippers?" she wondered.

Kelly Ann went into the bathroom. She looked all around for her slippers. They were not there. But her hairbrush was there. She picked it up and brushed her hair, very carefully untangling all the knots. She stood on the ceramic floor and felt the smooth, hard tile under her feet, which were getting colder by the minute. "Why can't I find my slippers?" she thought.

Down the hall Kelly Ann went, toward her bedroom. "They must be in there," she said. She looked in her closet. Her slippers were not there, but there was a box of crayons on the shelf above her shoes. Kelly Ann picked up the crayons and put them on her desk with her colouring book.

Judge says

"Cowardly act"

PRINCETON - Steven Robin Fekete appeared in Provincial Court in Princeton on January 7 to answer to an assault charge. On April 7, 1998, at Princeton Secondary School, Fekete had struck a student on the head with a skateboard.

Judge H.C. Stansfield remarked, "What a cowardly act", and referred to Fekete having struck the student from behind.

The judge said it was "about as low as you can get". He said Fekete would have shown "a measure of decency" if he had settled their dispute face to face.

Fekete had apologized to the student and felt bad about what he had done. That was a plus in the judge's view.

Judge Stansfield sentenced Fekete to 18 months on probation, with conditions including anger management counselling, and a firearms prohibition, for three years. In addition, Fekete is to perform 100 hours of community work service.

She looked under her desk for her slippers. They were not there either. "I wish I knew where to find my slippers," she said. She sat in her chair at her desk and began to colour a picture. Kelly Ann was very careful to stay inside the lines printed in her book. As she concentrated on her colouring, she wound her legs around the bottom of her chair and let her feet glide over the polished wooden braces underneath. Her feet were very cold feet now.

"I guess I'll put some socks on," said Kelly Ann. "That may warm my feet a bit until I can find my slippers." She opened the bottom drawer of her dresser where she always kept her socks and chose her warmest winter pair. She sat down on the floor to put them on. Kelly Ann was able to see underneath her bed. What do you suppose she saw? There were her slippers, right where she had left them this morning when she got dressed for school!

Judge orders 'No booze'

PRINCETON - A Penticton resident has been put on a probation with a special condition that he abstain from consuming alcohol. If he is known to have taken one drink, he will be put in jail.

Kurt D. Bille pled guilty to charges of assault of Pearl Driver and mischief (breaking her window), in an incident that took place on November 11. Bille was under the influence of alcohol at the time.

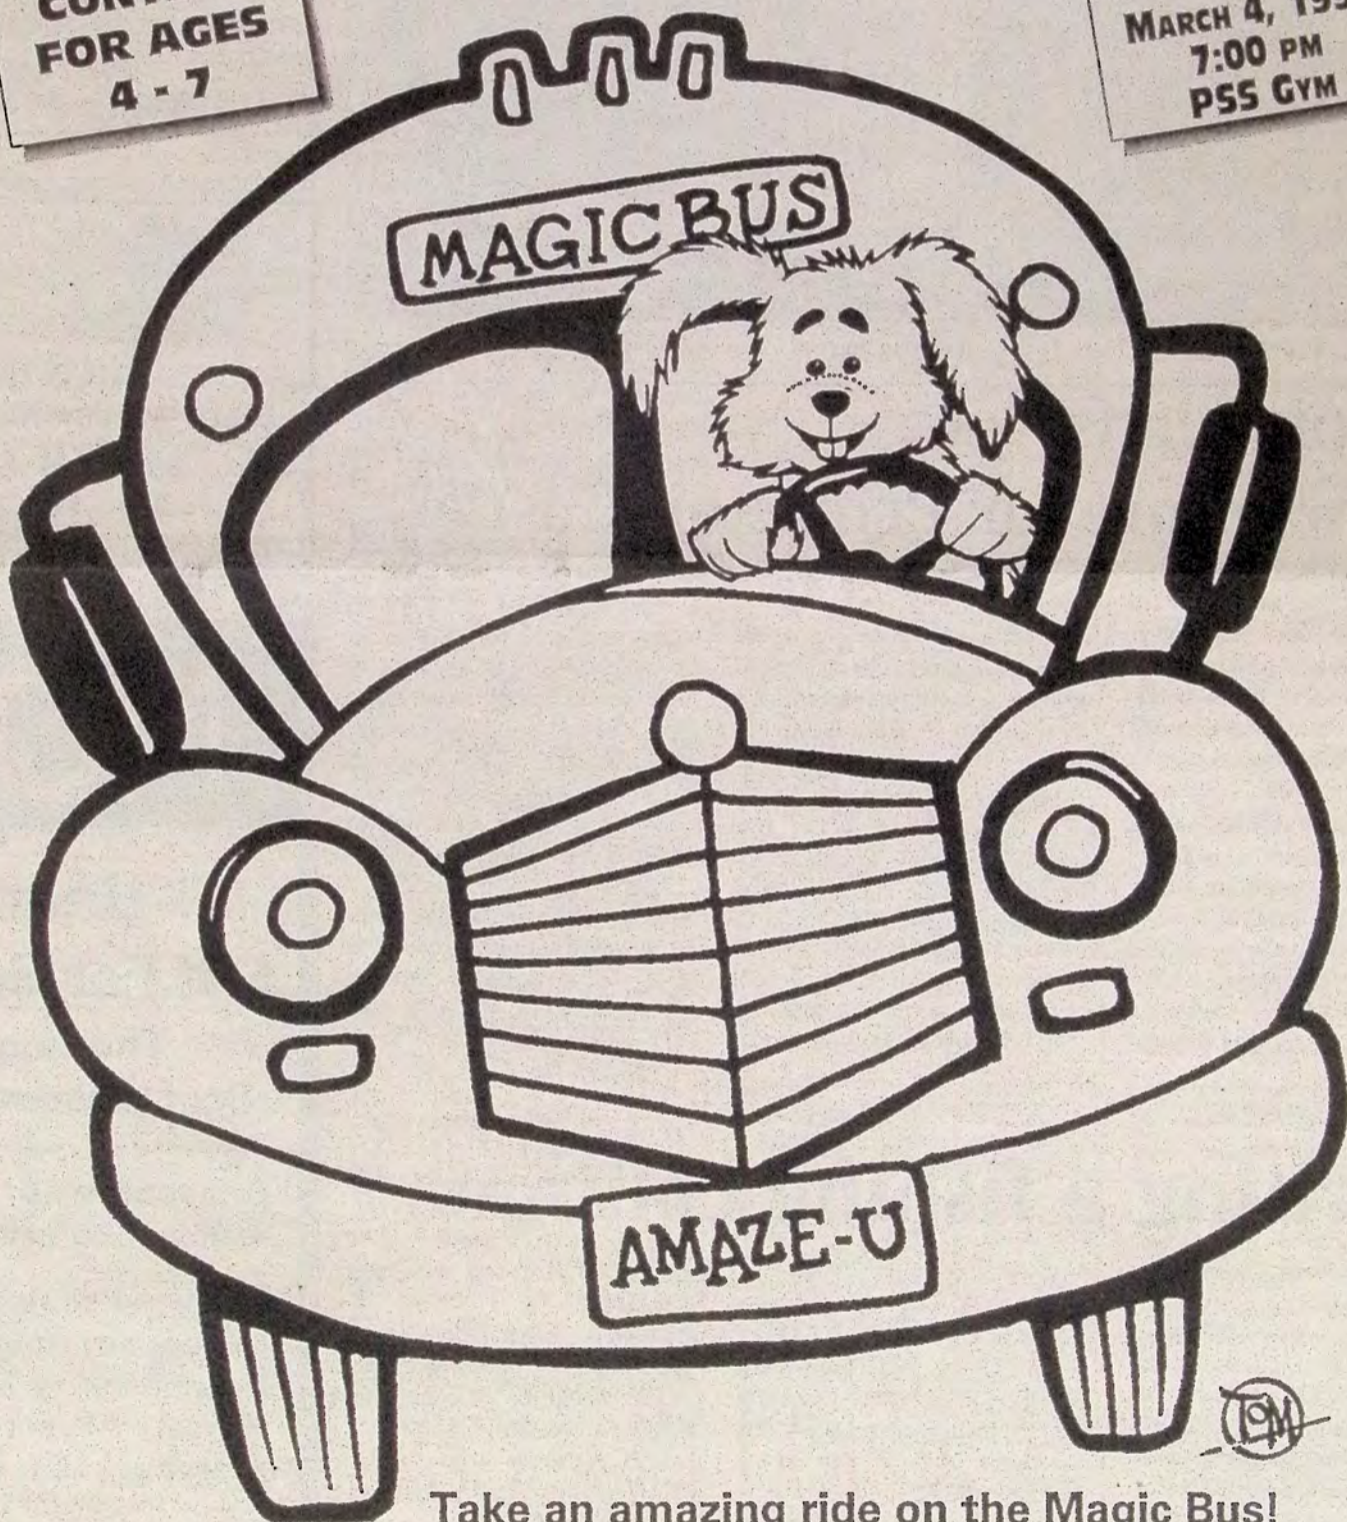

Bille told the court that he had come to recognize that he had a criminal record associated with alcohol, and alcohol had "destroyed my life". He had joined A.A. and had not had any alcohol in two months.

"It's a terrible addiction," Judge Stansfield said, adding praise to Bille for having quit.

Bille was placed on probation for two years, with condition that he attend and complete alcohol counselling and treatment, to abstain from alcohol, and pay restitution to Pearl Driver in the amount of $200.

Chad and Lynn Dixon, new managers at Princeton Castle

Couple plans a new future for Princeton Castle

PRINCETON - Chad and Lynn Dixon are newcomers to Princeton, but were married at Princeton Castle. They began to see real possibilities for an enterprise at the Castle and returned from Penticton frequently to review the situation.

Trout Talk

Writing a fishing column

by John Sandness, Similkameen Valley outdoorsman

When I sit down to a blank pad of paper, it can be a little intimidating. What to write, what to write? When will the inspiration come?

Many inspirations come from talking to you fellow fishermen. Some come from my fishing trips, and some from reading books or columns by others.

I'd like to ask anyone who has a particularly interesting story to contact me. Have you any stories about your grandparents (or grandchildren)?

We would enjoy reading them. Any photos of fishing trips or "big ones" would be appreciated. Do you know how some of the local lakes got their names?

The Princeton and District

ples who want a wedding at the Castle.

"I want to offer a service where the couple simply calls us, and we arrange for the ceremony, the photographer, the cake, the invitations, the decorations and the reception," says Lynn.

Chad loves to cook, and like most chefs, loves to sample cooking of all kinds. He intends to have theme nights at the Castle - offering Cajun dishes or a Japanese, Punjabi or mediaeval evening with appropriate food.

On ordinary nights, -pub-style food will be served in the 40-seat lounge area, and west coast, Italian and beef dishes will be served in the 100 seat restaurant

The young entrepreneurs have spent a month doing renovations, and plan to open on January 16 and 17. Reservations are not necessary most evenings, but to request a reservation, phone 295-0222.

The restaurant and lounge, with the wedding service, promise to fit in well with Castle Resort's bed and breakfast, chalets, cabins and campground.

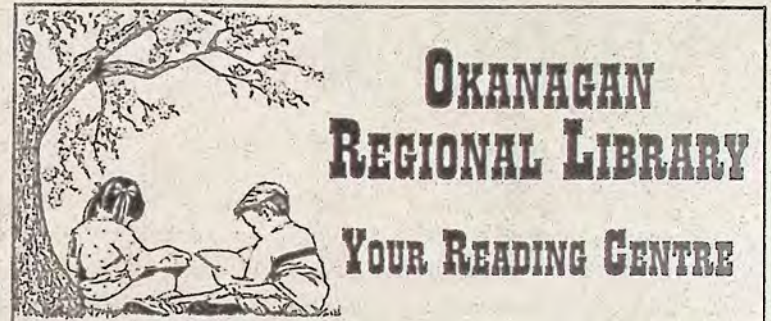

Pioneer Museum members recently showed me columns written by T.O. Lessard for a local paper. T.O. operated a sports shop in Princeton for many years. He was active in the Princeton Fish and Game Club. Written during the '50's, the columns show how our local lakes were producing. The stories are about Allen Gill, the Gibsons, Antonicks, Curries, Mountfords, Merralls, and so on. Many people have contributed to his columns, telling him what lures, what lakes or streams produced the big ones - and the pan fries - those just right for eating, even those that got away, or how the anglers were "skunked". I would like to hear from people who live in the South Similkameen. Perhaps I could arrange to visit and we could "talk trout".

It would be great to talk about the "good old days" in this column.

If you would like to contribute, please contact me at 1-250-295-7827 or e-mail me at sandness@nethop.net.

Chlamydia - Disease of the '90's

by Jane Beulah, Public Health Nurse, Okanagan Similkameen Health Region

Sexually transmitted diseases (STD's) have been around since time began but through research, improved medication and contact tracing, we have been able to almost eliminate some of the diseases such as gonorrhoea and syphilis. Today Chlamydia is the most common STD and on the rise. Statistics from STD control Vancouver, to date in 1998, show a 15 per cent increase since 1997, perhaps due to increased testing on males, as it is a simple urine test, and in conjunction with increased contact tracing through Health Centre.

Chlamydia is a bacterial infection which is spread sexually and attacks the reproductive organs. The good news is that there is a relatively easy cure. The problem is that the disease goes undetected, especially in females, who suffer the worst consequences. Even one incidence of chlamydia can cause scarring of the Fallopian tubes, resulting in tubal pregnancy, ectopic pregnancy or infertility. Sixty-five per cent of PID (pelvic inflammatory disease) is caused by chlamydia. The results are devastating when a young woman becomes sterile. The outcome for the untreated male often does not have long lasting effects, but can be consequential: epididymitis, infertility and arthritis.

Eighty per cent of females and 20 per cent of males experience no symptoms - by the time the female has symptoms such as burning with urination, bleeding on Pap smear and bleeding between periods - the damage may have been done. Symptoms for the male include burning on urination and mucous discharge from the penis. Symptoms can occur as early as two weeks after intercourse to four weeks. If a female has chlamydia at time of delivery, she can spread the disease to the new infant - pneumonia and eye infection.

Atoms score New Year victory

PRINCETON - The Princeton Lynch Bus Lines Atoms Hockey team travelled to Oliver on January 2 for their first league game of the new year. Custom to form, the teams played a close end to end game until Princeton's Tanner Gunn was able to capitalize on an up ice pass from Kevin Blank. Once Princeton was on the scoreboard, there was no turning back, an onslaught of goals was to follow.

Wilkinson, Reid Bicknell, Jake Greening and Kevin Blank kept many Oliver chances from materializing. Princeton Atoms won this league game with a 13-2 score. The next league action for our boys will be at home vs. Summerland at noon sharp. So far, these boys are undefeated in league action. Come out and cheer them on.

With Rylan Mogge securely placed between the goal posts, Tanner Gunn played out and he was outstanding. Tanner notched four goals and an assist in a highlight game for himself. Patrick LePoidevin also played possibly his best game of the season and scored three goals, scooping another three assists. Also contributing to the scoring were: Leis Smith (3 goals, 2 assists), James Ferguson (2 goals), Josh Scarpelli (1 goal, 1 assist), Kevin Blank (4 assists), Shaine Clifton (3 assists), Jake Greening (2 assists). Princeton's first game against Merritt Hillside was an easy win for Princeton with Chantelle Vermette opening the scoring at 16:38 and Princeton never looked back. Final score was 23 - 0. Scoring for Princeton was Chantelle Vermette - 3, Todd Gereau - 6, Dwayne Costa - 4, Colby Huff - 4, Kiel Dodds - 2, Clayton Vermette and Logan McKenzie, assists going out to Clayton Vermette, Colby Huff, Mitch Gunn - 4, Todd Gereau, Ashley Aitchison - 3, Logan McKenzie - 2, Ryan Brewer - 2, Chantelle Vermette, Chris Stewart - 2, and Dwayne Costa.

Princeton second game was held at 7:00 p.m. Sunday against Merritt Herald. It, too, was little competition for the mixed Princeton team. Once again the girls showed that they had a spot on the team when Ashley Aitchison opened the scoring at 16:10. The Princeton Flyers went on to score 15 more unanswered goals. Scoring were Ashley Aitchison - 2, Colby Huff - 2, Logan McKenzie - 2, Kiel Dodds - 2, Dwayne Costa - 2, Clayton Vermette - 2, Todd Gereau - 2, Mitch Gunn - 2. Assists going to Mitch Gunn, Clayton Vermette, Todd Gereau - 3, Kiel Dodds, Logan McKenzie, Keith MacWhirter, Chris Stewart, Chantelle Vermette.

Noon Monday was the meeting of the final Merritt team, The Knights of Columbus. This game was not a runaway like the two previous games, but Princeton still out-played the opposition in the final game of the round robin. Merritt opened the scoring at 15:12, it wasn't until 7:12 that Todd Gereau put the puck between the pipes. Princeton went on to score three more goals in the first period. Merritt once again opened scoring in second period. Merritt once again opened scoring in the second period but Princeton was playing great defensive hockey and went on to score three more goals to Merritt's two in second period. Third period was "all Princeton" as they went on to score four goals to Merritt's single. Final score was 11 - 14 for Princeton. Scoring for Princeton were Todd Gereau - 3, Jared Tarswell, Mitch Gunn - 2, Logan McKenzie, Jeremy Caouette, Kiel Dodds, Chantelle Vermette and Clayton Vermette. Assist went to Clayton Vermette - 3, Jeremy Caouette, Kiel Dodds, Colby Huff - 2, Todd Gereau - 2, Mitch Gunn, Jared Tarswell and Ashley Aitchison.

After each game, one player from each team was awarded a bag for Most Valuable Player (MVP). Congratulations were due for Mitch Gunn, Dwayne Costa, and Ashley Aitchison for being chosen MVP.

Monday evening was a great show as spectators were treated to a skills competition. Each team had six players' names pulled out of a hat to compete in three skills of speed, accuracy and a shootout, each team having two players in each category along with the team goalie. Representing Princeton was Kyle Fraser, Chantelle Vermette, Todd Gereau, Jared Tarswell, Clayton Vermette, Logan McKenzie and Noah Naylor in goal. After many tie breakers, Princeton walked away with the skills competition. Noah Naylor was top goalie, Chantelle Vermette won the shootout, Todd Gereau won the speed competition with Jared Tarswell in second place. In the accuracy competition, Logan McKenzie was top scorer, with Clayton Vermette placing third.

The final game of the tournament saw Princeton match off against Abbotsford. Both teams were coming into the final with three wins and no losses. Princeton came onto the ice amongst cheers and waves from the many families and friends in the stands. Princeton opened the scoring at 15:47 on a goal by Mitch Gunn. Noah Naylor in the net made some unbelievable saves and showed Abbotsford why he won the skill competition the night before. Princeton continued to play well and their efforts paid off at 9:28 when Clayton Vermette managed to get the puck past the goalie on a pass from Todd Gereau. Todd scored again at 3:16 on a pass from Logan McKenzie, Princeton looked like they would end the period with a three - zero lead but Abbotsford scored with 23 second left in the period. After the break, Abbotsford came out playing very rough and aggressive hockey which caught Princeton by surprise, Abbotsford went on to score three unanswered goals in the second. The score after two periods of play was 4 - 3 for Abbotsford. The third period saw the same aggressive hockey as the second and Princeton's frustrations began to show. Abbotsford went onto score four more goals to Princeton's two, scored by Todd Gereau. The final score was 8 - 5.

Princeton came in second in the tournament. The PeeWee Flyers did an excellent job of representing Princeton.

Bill Reichert

Bill Reichert has been racing the pro circuit for four years. In 1997, he placed second in the Pro 600 Class. Bill was born and raised in Princeton/Tulameen and has ridden a ski-doo all his life. In 1998, he placed third in the Pro 600 and fourth in the Pro 440.

Bob Reichert

Bob has been racing the Pro Circuit for four years. In 1997, he was B.C. Snowmobile Federation points champion in both the Pro 440 and the Pro Open. In 1998, he won the Pro Open again. Bob Reichert has been thanked by his peers for promoting clean, fair racing in their sport. He was born in Princeton, raised in Tulameen and has ridden a ski-doo all his life.

Scott McDiarmid

Scott McDiarmid, a Tulameen resident, has been riding snowmobiles all his life. Up until 1997, this 21 year old had been riding for pleasure only. When he started working for Reichert Sales and Service, he had the chance of a lifetime - the opportunity to try the thrill of racing.

He missed the first points race of that season, but made a great showing for the hometown crowd, racing the semi-pro category. He went on and finished the 1997 race circuit with second place overall in Semi-Pro Open and third overall in Semi-Pro 440. Scott also travelled to Calgary in 1997 and brought home a third in the 440 class.

In 1998, Scott moved up to Pro Class to go against the more experienced riders. The competition was strong, but he did very well. He finished the season with first overall in Pro 440 and second overall in Pro Open. Scott did extremely well in Prince George and was awarded the trophy which is given out each year in that meet for the rider with the most points accumulated that weekend.

Cody Robinson

Cody is 10 years old. He has been riding snowmobiles since he was five, and doing Sno-Cross racing since he was seven. He is the son of Cliff and Marlene Robinson of Princeton.

In 1997, he ended with second place overall in his age group for the B.C. Championship. He competes in the Juniors Class for age 7 - 11.

In 1998, he won first overall in his class for the B.C. championship.

Last weekend, Cody competed in Wenatchee, Washington. He does the same course as the adults, but does three laps compared with the adults' five laps. His ambition is to achieve "big air" on his jumps.

Vermilion Forks Field Naturalists

A cookout on Otter Lake

by Don Burbidge, Similkameen Valley naturalist

TULAMEEN - The clouds were lowering gloomily on Saturday, January 9, when a cheerful host of twenty-five naturalists enjoyed a wilderness feast prepared by Irene Logan on the shores of Otter Lake. The site was approximately four kilometres up the Kettle Valley Railway from Tulameen, and the track was icy and slippery. Fifteen of the more venturesome covered the distance on skis, while the remainder trudged gingerly along the trail on foot. The only birds seen were a couple of Steller's Jays and a Whiskey Jack, but the views of Otter Lake, and of Jackson Mountain, looming over Tulameen, were pleasing.

The lake was frozen with glare ice and looked inviting for skiing or skating, but a series of dark areas indicated that anyone who wished to trust its surface had better be extremely careful - or a very good swimmer! We thought it better to look at it rather than test its strength.

The hike was well worth the effort! Magnificent hamburgers, grilled to perfection on an open fire, stuffed in buns with a lashing of onions, tomato relish and Irene's famous horse radish sauce, washed down with tea boiled in a billy can, all pervaded with the unforgettable taste of wood smoke - food for the gods. Some say the tea had a distinct flavour of rum, which went down well with Nanaimo bars and tarts. Through it all, the conversation raged with the utmost conviviality. The feast ended with a rousing three cheers for the hostess, and demands that she do it again next year.

This is an easy, comfortable walk, which begins close to the beach at Tulameen, at the old Kettle Valley Rail bridge, newly resurfaced by members of the Rails to Trails Society, and local residents. We thank those who have preserved this piece of history. The January meeting of Vermilion Forks Field Naturalists will be held on Monday, January 18, at 7:45 p.m. in the basement of Princeton Public Library. Denis St. John, of Oliver, will speak on Lepidoptera - butterflies and moths - using slides. Anyone may come to enjoy the evening.

The next hike is scheduled for Sunday, January 24, covering the Osprey/Link Lake circuit. This is an easy hike or ski, and should be a rewarding winter experience. If you wish to come, call Madelon Schouten at 295-7078, and meet at the bus station in Princeton at 9:00 a.m.

Valemount Sno-X

On Saturday, January 9, local SnoCross racers Bob Reichert, Bill Reichert and Tyson Leduc travelled north to Valemount for their first meet of the season. Race conditions were good, but the track deteriorated fast. This race was a "B" Class race. There were no points, cash prizes were paid. Bob placed first in Pro Open, 4th in Pro 440. Bill was first in Pro 600, 2nd in Pro 440. Tyson had some hard luck but pulled through with third in both Semi Pro 440, Semi Pro 600. Scott McDiarmid came home from Wenatchee, WA, on January 10 with a first in Pro 600 and second in Pro 440.

Braydon Scarpelli (left) and Shelby Mack were the two Princeton Novices to enter the Super Series evaluation process.

Local Novices enter Super Series

PRINCETON - The South Okanagan Super Series evaluation camp took place in Princeton arena early Sunday morning for the Novice division. Two Princeton Novices, Braydon Scarpelli and Shelby Mack, participated in the camp.

Sunday's camp saw 15 of 34 hopefuls out on the ice. Players came from Merritt, Summerland, Westside and Penticton to try out for 14 positions open for the Super Series team. Each region involved in the Super Series will send a team to Burnaby in July for a week-long tournament. Teams from Washington State and Alberta will participate.

Shelby Mack, age 8, and Braydon Scarpelli, play for Princeton's Mac's Auto Parts Novice team.

Braydon described one of the drills this way, "We did this drill where one guy has the puck, he goes to the blue line, and this other guy goes after him and tries to get him."

Shelby is more definitive in her description, "They're called 'skating with puck' drills."

Randy McKinnon, an organizer, said he is happy to see camps held in more outlying areas, and to see the talent available.

"Last year, it was all Kelowna, but this year, we are going to other communities."

The players are interviewed with their parents to determine who is keen on being on the Super Series team. Players will be selected at a later date. McKinnon will be back for a tournament in Princeton on January 23 and 24, when the Novices and Midgets will be playing (but not against each other).
