

Deadly new drug hits valley

SIMILKAMEEN - The call it "black tar heroin" because it looks like dark manure. For those addicted to it, this drug turns their lives into manure. Black tar heroin is a combination of heroin and mescaline.

Black tar heroin has been in the valley for three months that authorities know about, which means it has been here six months or longer. The group most likely to start using the drug is the 18 to 25 year old age group, but they will soon begin selling to support their habit, because this is an addictive drug. The usual pattern is to start pushing to the younger people, down to age 14, and the pushers like to target girls.

Alcohol and Drug Counsellor

Paul Huycke, says this heroin is "extremely addictive, right up there on par with crack cocaine." Crack cocaine is known as the most addictive drug.

The very minimum user will pay $25 a day. Because the drug is so addictive, usage will increase over time. If the user is unemployed, he or she will support the habit through selling (pushing) or through stealing goods that are easily converted to cash. Employed people who begin to have trouble paying their bills may soon turn to selling drugs or stealing goods.

Police are aware of this drug in circulation. Huycke estimates there are probably 100 users in the valley now.

Black tar heroin is extremely debilitating. It is physically debilitating, sapping the user's energy. This drug causes dehydration and premature aging of the circulatory system. Habitual users have trouble raising a vein to "shoot". Most users take the drug through a needle, but a few smoke it. Either way, it is deadly.

Users lose their sexual feelings, although many users prostitute themselves to support their habit. Between the needles and prostitu-

New highway corridor plan links B.C. Interior to Mexico and Alaska

Imagine driving from the Similkameen Valley to the Mexican border simply by pointing your car south and following the freeway. This is a vision of the future being promoted by a joint task force of B.C. and Washington State personnel.

Harry Lali, B.C. Minister of Transportation and Highways, says the task force is an important step toward better cross-border transportation.

"This is an opportunity to examine all modes of transportation between B.C. and Washington and look at possible improvements."

Princeton Town Council and Keremeos Village Council were invited to send a delegate to Spokane for a planning session on July 16 for what is being called the Cascadia Inland Corridor.

There are a number of good reasons to consider a Canada-U.S. inland transportation corridor, according to a report from the task force. Interstate Highway #5 (I-5), which is the corridor from Vancouver to Los Angeles, goes through many congested areas, such as Seattle, where low average speeds are detrimental to long haul economics (the cost of operation for a tractor/trailer unit is $100/hr. U.S.). I-5 is affected by visibility-reducing weather conditions, long periods of rain in the north (Vancouver/Seattle) and heavy ground fog (California in winter). This is because I-5 is primarily a coastal highway.

John Peluso, a local long haul truck driver with decades of experience on all of the major routes in North America, agrees with all of the reasons. He likes the idea

Kamloops arrest relates to local crime

On July 5, Princeton RCMP responded to a break and enter in progress at a residence 12 km east of Princeton on Highway 3. The residents had returned home around 9:00 p.m. and found two males in the residence. The men attempted to leave in their own vehicle and were blocked by the resident's vehicle. The suspects drove their own vehicle into a fence, then left on foot.

Penticton dog services assisted in a search for the suspects and several neighbours patrolled the highway in search of the suspects, but failed to find the two men.

A search of the suspect's vehicles uncovered stolen items obtained in a break and enter at Round Lake on Highway 5A earlier that day. The search revealed the name of the owner of the vehicle. Sometime after 1:00 a.m. July 6, thieves stole $14,000 worth of electronic office equipment from Princeton Wood Preservers, then stole a three ton unlicensed water truck used for fire protection. The truck was recovered in Merritt without the office equipment in it.

"We beefed up our security immediately," PWP owner Bill Everitt told the News Leader, noting it was the first time PWP had had an incident of this type.

RCMP continued to investigate leads they identified as connected with this crime. On Thursday, July 8, an arrest was made in Kamloops in connection with these crimes.

Princeton RCMP request that anyone with any information related to these incidents contact 295-6911 or Crimestoppers at 1-800-222-8477.

Interior Lumber Manufacturers ask for support against tariff

US Customs Service threatens softwood lumber exports again, and Interior Lumber Manufacturer's Association (ILMA) is asking for support in lobbying our government to send the matter to arbitration. Town Council received a message asking for support, and agreed to send a letter to Hon. Sergio Marchi, Minister of International Trade.

ILMA states, in a letter to Marchi, "If we acquiesce to the arbitrary reclassification of rougher headed facia, a product that was outside the agreement at its negotiation in 1996, US

Customs may well endeavour to reclassify another 15 to 20 value-added products."

The letter points out that the BC southern Interior is extremely dependent on the forest industry, with 40 communities where lumber manufacturing takes place. Interior sawmills employ 12,000 directly and produce $3 billion worth of lumber products annually.

"Forest product companies in this region have been struggling in recent years and cannot withstand further trade restrictions or Meghan Barrie (left) and Meredith Porter are the co-ordinators of a new service for young people seeking employment and employers seeking new employees. See story below.

Youth serves jobs to youth

SIMILKAMEEN - Two enterprising young women from Princeton approached the Community Skills Centre with an idea and they received approval and funding for a new service for youth.

Meredith Porter and Meghan Barrie are co-ordinators of the Youth Employment Resource Centre, located at the Community Skills Centre on Vermilion Avenue in Princeton. Their goal is to reach out to youth in the area to make them aware of opportunities available in employment and skills enhancement. They will serve young people age 19 and under 19.

Porter and Barrie are busy. They have begun establishing a database on computer, linked to Princeton's online website so young people looking for jobs can search for opportunities, and employers can search the listings for young people looking for work.

They have done a telephone survey of employers to find out what employers want. The Youth Employment Resource Centre will do more than list employers

ALC expected here this month for land hearings

PRINCETON - The Agricultural Land Commission expects to be in the Princeton area this week to review Agricultural Land Reserve boundaries in the field, and to hold a public hearing on an application by the Town of Princeton to vary the boundary on the Business Park and the airport.

Under consideration is making exclusions of all ALR lands within the Town boundary south of the Similkameen River and all ALR lands along the north side of the Similkameen River within Weyerhaeuser mill site.

The Commission will be holding a public hearing on Tulameen and Coalmont issues.

and potential employees. They want to list as much information as possible. For example, a young person looking for a job will be listed with name, address, phone number, skills, education and experience and the kind of work they seek, as well as whether it is permanent, temporary, casual or contract.

Porter and Barrie intend to do a course in entrepreneurship for youth, and a course on how to hunt for a job - how to make a resumé, do a successful interview, and so on. There are many resources available to young people who are interested in registering with the Youth Employment Resource Centre, including information on where jobs will be in the future.

An Open House on Tuesday, July 20, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. will display what the centre can offer both youth and employers. Porter and Barrie will have information as to where and how employers may obtain grants to train inexperienced young people.

Everyone is invited to attend the Open House to see what is available and how it can be accessed.

tion, many users have contracted the AIDS virus.

There are many side effects to the use of black tar heroin. When veins shrink, users shoot the drug into muscle tissue, where it eats away the flesh and causes abscesses. Even when a vein can be found, the puncture point may remain visible for months due to the drug dissolving the fatty tissue around the puncture point. Many habitual users break out in severe rashes and blemishes that will not heal.

Black tar heroin users can be identified by extreme mood swings. They have almost no energy when they are not high, will have temporary "high" energy right after using the drug, and spend long periods of time in a stupor after the high wears down. A peculiar effect of the combination of heroin and mescaline is that, after many uses, the drug appears to lose its ability to give the pleasant feeling, and the user increases the dosage in order to bring back the good feelings. The absence of the drug brings pain, but the presence of the drug no longer brings pleasure, just the absence of pain. Continual use brings death, either from AIDS, infection, or overdose.

"Dealers and sellers are getting away with murder," says Huycke.

There is an excellent documentary film available to any group wishing to see it. Paul Huycke comes with the video to answer questions. Both Paul and the video come free of charge. Paul suggests the group allow one hour to view the video and half an hour for questions and answers. Call him at 295-6776, Tuesday through Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rick Jones came to Princeton from England to be married. See story.

English couple weds in Princeton

Jackie Parsons lived in Vancouver 20 years ago. When her marriage went sour, she returned to England and raised her children there. She often told Rick Jones, her companion of eight years, about Canada and British Columbia.

When Jackie decided she wanted to come to Princeton on a holiday and visit with her aunt, Pat Ross, Rick suddenly announced, "Good! We'll be married there."

Despite being unprepared for such a proposal, Jackie decided to go ahead with the plan. With the help of Pat and Chuck Ross, who contacted Marriage Commissioner Eric Goodfellow, the paperwork was taken care of. Organizing the wedding by long distance took months.

Jackie and Rick arrived on July 4, and Goodfellow performed the marriage ceremony on July 8 at the Ross residence.

The newlyweds are touring the area this week, then return to Malvern, Worchestershire, to a big wedding party with family and friends in England. They expect 250 guests.

In the meantime, the Joneses are very appreciative of all that has been done for them here in Princeton.

"The hospitality we've had is brilliant," Rick told the News Leader.

The couple returns to England with the good wishes of their friends in Princeton.

Victoria finds more money for unemployed

A re-employment services program launched July 5 by Forest Renewal B.C. will invest up to $30 million over two years to help long-term forest workers facing permanent displacement.

Financial assistance under this program will be available only to workers for whom a gap in service can be demonstrated, such as a previous lack of access to the service, or the inability of the program to meet the worker's needs.

To be eligible, a worker must be a British Columbia resident whose primary occupation or activity had been working at forest industry employment in harvesting, manufacturing or silviculture. The worker must have put in five full consecutive prior to date of application and a minimum of 3,500 hours worked in the forest industry within a five-year period prior to the date of application. To be eligible, displacement from employment must be due to permanent shift reduction, closure or workforce reduction, or indefinite or involuntary job loss of more than 60 days (not seasonal break) and the worker must demonstrate there has been displacement.

The re-employment program will run until March 31, 2001.

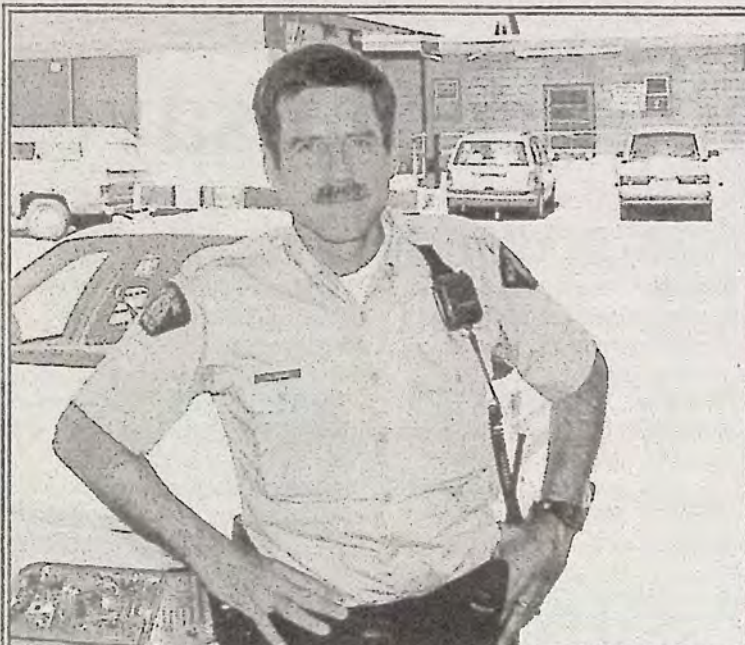

For the service provider nearest your area, call 1-800-319-3883.

duties," says ILMA Chair Gary Crooks in his letter to Marchi. "We urge the government of Canada to refer this issue to arbitration. We also urge Canada to defend the interests of producers who have worked over many years to develop markets for bona fide rougher headed facia products. If US Customs believe abuses are occurring, they must deal directly with the alleged abuses, without penalizing manufacturers of bona fide products."

Many ILMA member companies are urging their employees to write to Sergio Marchi and ask the Minister to fight for their best interests. Town Councils throughout the Interior are being asked for letters of support. Ordinary citizens may lend their support by writing to Hon. Sergio Marchi, Minister of International Trade, Parliament, Ottawa, ON.

Cst. Chris Newel joins Princeton RCMP detachment for general duty. He comes to Princeton from Cranbrook. He is a family man, with three children. When he finds time for hobbies, he enjoys the outdoors, biking, taking photographs, camping, and cross-country skiing in winter.

of a freeway north on Washington State highway 97 because it follows the high desert country.

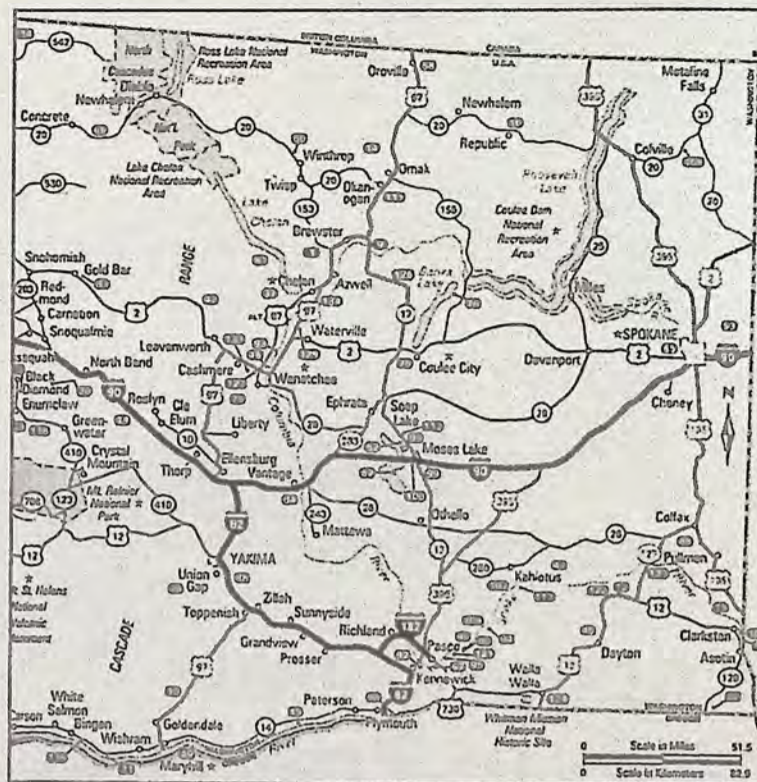

"My preference is staying on the high desert," Peluso says, adding there is no way of avoiding some hills, because we live in a mountainous area.

The high desert avoids the worst weather conditions most of the year, and offers a more level route. Level means time and money to the trucking industry.

Peluso knows highway 97 has a few hills, but they are not bad. If the highway came north through B.C., he can visualize a strong link through the Similkameen Valley to join with the Hope-Princeton and 5A to Merritt. Merritt would tie into Kamloops and both the Cariboo Highway and the Yellowhead Highway, both good winter routes linking to the Alaska Highway.

The existing corridor, I-5, is a less direct route to southern California and Mexico. Los Angeles is actually east of Seattle. (See map at right.)

A more direct route would be an inland corridor using U.S. 395 connects Spokane and San Diego via Central Oregon and Reno and provides easy access to Los Angeles through California Highway 14 and to Las Vegas (a center of warehousing and distribution for the southwest U.S.) via I-5. U.S. 395 is linked to I-5 via I-90 and I-82 in Washington State. U.S. 97 connects central Washington and central Oregon with I-5 in northern California, and I-82 in Washington and I-84 in Oregon conveniently link it to U.S. 395, making flexible system with multiple route options.

The inland corridor would have an overall higher elevation with more snow. However, precipitation is lower and clear weather is much more prevalent.

According to the report, the inland corridor would be a supplement to I-5 rather than a replacement. It would be a relief valve for congestion west of the Cascades, and would contribute to the development of the Interior B.C. and Washington.

The task force will focus on four objectives:

- Transportation - making the right highway connections
- border issues - development of a border business plan, standardization of load limits
- growth management - this is a coastal issue

• Tourism - focus on cross-border tourism, the "Two-Nation Vacation", focusing on links between a viable tourism industry and an effective multi-modal transportation system, fostering rural economic development by enhancing regional cooperation and global competition (website for inland corridor and travel guide).

Estimated cost of the inland corridor would be $1.7 billion over a five-year period.

Town Council moved to allow "somebody" to attend the meeting, but there were no eager volunteers who expressed a desire to attend.

Recycling Society

Princeton saves tonnes

Princeton residents saved tonnes and tonnes of paper, glass and tins last year. Recycling helps save tax dollars that would otherwise be spent on landfill costs, and helps save the environment by wise use of our resources.

Princeton Recycling Society processed 30 tonnes of newsprint paper, and shipped 18.9 tonnes, receiving a low of $49 per tonne to a high of $69 per tonne.

Over 10 tonnes of magazines came into the depot, and 5.1 tonnes were shipped out at a value of $20 per tonne.

Mixed paper, which has no market value, is collected. This consists of packaging boxes, such as detergent or cereal boxes. The depot collected 2.5 tonnes and shipped 1.6 tonnes.

Office paper is worth $70 per tonne, but the depot received only .9 tonnes and shipped only .4 tonnes.

Glass is valued at $45 per tonne. Last year, the depot shipped 26.3 tonnes, but that amount will drop this year due to the new refundables legislation. Liquor and beer bottles can be returned to the liquor outlet and all beverage bottles are returnable for a refund. In fact, people have stolen returnables from the depot.

The depot collected 16,092 litres of used oil, and 280 barrels (11.5 tonnes) of tin.

Money paid for some of the recyclables helps to pay the costs of running the depot, but does not pay all of it.

Office paper, the most valuable paper, can be saved at home as well as at the office. Computer paper, ordinary letter paper, and envelopes (even with plastic windows) should be recycled. Do not include any brightly coloured paper, nor any brown or unbleached colours, no sticky labels and no shiny paper. Fax paper is acceptable, and staples do not have to be removed.

Newsprint can include magazines that are newsprint on the inside with only a shiny cover. Newspapers DO NOT have to be in a bundle.

Mixed paper includes all colours, paper with sticky labels, unopened junk mail, paper bags, telephone books and packaging boxes.

All magazines, catalogues, shiny flyers and brochures can be recycled in a separate container from newsprint.

DO NOT INCLUDE carbon paper, wax paper, aluminum foil, dirty and/or wet paper, plastic of any kind (such as spiral bindings), paper towels or tissue, nor milk and juices boxes.

Glass must be clean bottles and jars (labels are okay) in clear, brown green and light blue. NO OTHER GLASS: no lightbulbs, window glass, ceramics, mirrors, drinking glasses, crystal).

All beverage containers, except milk, may be returned to a bottle depot for a refund.

Tins must be clean, both ends opened, labels removed and the tin must be flattened.

Reusable items going to the landfill which do not fit into a recyclable category, such as old chairs, pots, or other household goods, may be obtained from the landfill operator. Please request permission if you wish an item from the landfill.

New executive takes charge

Princeton Minor Ball sets plans for next year

They are on the ball. Princeton Minor Ball Association held its annual general meeting on July 6 at the arena mezzanine and began the planning process for equipment, tournaments, and teams for 2000.

There is money in the bank for some new equipment, and decisions about tournament dates must be sent to Softball B.C. in September. A committee is looking at next year's calendar.

There was discussion of feelings about the Provincial Squirts tournament. Princeton's team had won all its games and was in the final when the game was rained out in the middle of the fourth inning. Everyone was told Softball B.C. would contact the two finalists and decide how to determine which team would place first and which second. A game might be arranged in the lower mainland area, and if that was not possible, the winner may be decided by the toss of a coin. Princeton Minor Ball will write a letter to Softball B.C. to express disappointment in the way the situation was handled.

Jim Emmons remains as President, with Dani Leochko as Vice-President, Syl Potter as Secretary and Treasurer remains to be filled. Connie Howe is Past President and Director for Midgets. Tournament Director is Jewel Manion. Cary Coleman is T-Ball Director, Teresa Wilson is Mites Director, Linda Boyd is Peewee Director and Registrar, Wanda Gibbons is Bantam Director, Jim Boyce is Equipment Director, April Rykers is Concession Director and Lori Dodds is Uniforms Manager.

Division directors will be responsible for recruiting concession volunteers next year.

Darrell Leochko dropped out of the grounds crew, and a new grounds crew must be found. Emmons sounded confident there would be a commitment by the September meeting date.

The meeting ended with very positive feelings about the plans and organizing to be carried out, a really upbeat improvement over the way this year began.

POINTS OF VIEW

OUR VIEW

Washington and B.C. need the Inland Corridor

The idea of an "inland corridor" holds tremendous potential for the future of our area. The plan is sensible, especially for Oregon and Washington, but those of us who have travelled down the Okanagan Valley to Wenatchee to connect with the east-west interstate parkway, know there is potential for our valley. A four-lane parkway up through the Okanagan Valley from Wenatchee offers a good year-round route. Carry that highway through the border at Nighthawk and up the Similkameen Valley and on to Merritt, then branch it out from Merritt to the Cariboo on one side and to Kamloops on the other side. From Kamloops, one can take the driest, most level route to Edmonton, and there is a connection to the Alaska Highway en route. Kamloops adds a link to the Trans-Canada Highway.

On our end, we offer a branch to the lower mainland as well, via the Hope-Princeton.

Perhaps this does not sound terribly encouraging, but think of the spin-off: warehousing, truck stops, refuelling centers, motels.

There is another major consideration: any community with a major international truck route running through it will be guaranteed to attract industry. The Okanagan, as crowded as its highways are now, would still benefit. Every location within an hour's drive of this international corridor would benefit, from Mexico to Alaska.

We could take the attitude of "why bother?", but we ought to look at where we live. We are dwellers on the Ring of Fire, and when (not "if") a major earthquake hits the coast, the coast highway will be hit, too, and perhaps too congested or too cleared of traffic for goods to go through.

We depend on that coast highway almost as much as people at the coast depend on it, simply because most of the goods now follow that route. In an emergency, a logical alternative route is the inland corridor.

Hart hesitates on US dollar

Dear Editor:

Ever since summer recess began, I have had the opportunity to talk with many people in the communities of Okanagan-Coquihalla. It is always eye-opening to learn what is on the minds of grassroots Canadians. As I travel through the constituency, I have found, to my surprise, one of the first issues folks want to know about is the idea of a North American common currency. Further, after watching Maude (the sky is falling) Barlow on Canada AM recently, I am compelled to find positive reasons why a Pan-American monetary union should be considered.

For example, the falling loonie has lowered Canadians' standard of living. The dollar hit a low of 63.45 U.S. in August 1998 and now sits around 68 cents U.S. We now watch the dollar's movement in much the same manner we watch weather patterns on the evening news. Also, there is no doubt the Euro, which has eliminated 11 currencies, will be good for Europe. It makes good sense that we should watch this development carefully.

One may also look at the advantages for small and medium-sized businesses that do much of their business with our largest trading partner, the USA. Certainly, a common North American dollar would reduce the costs associated with currency conversion.

Having said that, I, for one, am not willing to adopt the US dollar as that currency. As Canadians, we would lose the ability to set economic policy and would be at the mercy of the US federal reserve. What's good for the goose is not necessarily good for the gander. This is truly and interesting academic exercise, but what it doesn't do is address the immediate concern of the Canadian economy.

Reducing the debt and lowering taxes of hardworking Canadians would immediately increase our spending powers. This, in turn, would stimulate the domestic economy and create a more attractive environment for investors. By addressing the fiscal fundamentals at home, we can create an environment where entrepreneurs would be attracted to investing in Canada and consumers would keep more of their hard-earned dollars to spend as they pleased. Because of the federal Liberal's indifference toward the depreciation of our dollar and toward lowering taxes at home, our economy has suffered.

The fiscal irresponsibility of the Liberal government has resulted in a devalued dollar and a shaken economy. Maybe it is time to change the government, not the dollar?

What do you think? Write to me, postage free, at 301 Main St., Penticton, BC, V2A 5B7.

Sincerely,
Jim Hart,

Member of Parliament for Okanagan-Coquihalla.

Little Folks thank press

Dear Similkameen News Leader:

The children and staff of Little Folks Nursery School thank you immensely for your sponsorship of our Little Folks Fundraiser Golf Tournament on June 6. The tournament was a big success, and we believe that was due, in a very large part, to the fantastic community support we received. We could not have done it without you!

The tournament raised approximately $1,400 for the preschool, which will purchase the deeply needed supplies and toys which make Little Folks a wonderful place for preschoolers to begin their educational years.

Again, from the bottom of our hearts THANK YOU!! We have enclosed a picture, framed by the children's artwork, of only a few of the children you've helped with your donation. We hope you will join in the fun again next year!

Sincerely,

Christa Thompson, Fundraising Co-ordinator, Little Folks

The News Leader apologizes for the unsolvable puzzles appearing in the June 29 issue. We do not know the answers to the puzzles. All we know is the computer broke down, we had it repaired, and some of our programs were not functioning properly. The programs now work correctly and we hope you are still enjoying our TV Guide puzzles.

Omega recalls faulty sprinklers

VICTORIA - British Columbians should replace their Omega fire sprinklers, which the manufacturer is recalling due to failure to activate during fires. U.S. test results show 30 to 40 per cent of Omega sprinklers failed to activate properly.

Recall forms must be submitted by August 1 to qualify for reimbursement of labour costs as well as a free replacement sprinkler.

Owners of public buildings should be aware that, as of June 1, 1999, Omega sprinklers do not comply with B.C. Fire and Building Codes. The fire commissioner recommends all building owners, including owners of single-family homes, replace their Omega sprinklers to ensure fire safety.

To obtain your reimbursement forms or for more information, call Omega hotline 1-800-523-6512 or www.omegarecall.com

June tourist stats

During June, 2,899 visitors stopped at Princeton's Tourist Information Centre. They came from a variety of areas, but a large majority came from Europe and British Columbia.

Most tourists inquired about Kettle Valley Railway, fishing, and the Tulameen area.

When tourists stop with questions, they are given local tourist guide books, maps, and information as to where their specific needs may be met, for example, where a fishing licence may be purchased.

the horizon is B.C. Day. There is no doubt that B.C. is in the worst economic state it ever was under the present day free enterprise system. The ordinary person's standard of living has fallen dramatically and is burdened by an ever-increasing yoke of taxation. I believe we can hold Mr. Clark responsible. Unfortunately, the high principles of the NDP, such as social and financial responsibility have not been upheld or the concerns for all segments of society equally addressed. Note the cut backs for children with special needs, the closure of schools and the multi-million dollar Vancouver waterfront convention mess, not to mention the adverse relationships between Ottawa and the U.S.

The people on the street - the polls dramatically and clearly underscore the fact there simply is no confidence in our present leadership. Any organization, whether business or sports, wouldn't put up with it. It would be an unprecedented act of charity, kindness and even mercy if the NDP would address its leadership problems, call an election for this fall, and give the people of British Columbia a new government with which to enter the year 2000 with new hope and confidence. We deserve no less. The way things stand now is an embarrassment to B.C. and Canada as a whole.

Mayor Randy McLean signs the document recognizing Steven Tory, left, as a member of Princeton Youth Council. Tory was elected in late June to serve for 1999/2000.

Heart Food

by Dave Machin

Many of the spiritual laws that govern this earth today came into being after Adam sinned and allowed satan to become the god of this world. Because people do not understand these things they wrongfully accuse God of being the cause of sickness, disease, storms, catastrophes, floods earthquakes, poverty, etc. Even insurance policies call such things "acts of God". Usually people are not "out and out" atheists, or really even agnostics. Atheists say there is not God and agnostics say there may be a God but I sure don't know it. Most people say "I believe there is a God" because they find it hard to believe that everything just happened into being. However, what hinders me from being a christian is what I hear preachers say. They say God is running everything. Well, if He is, He certainly has everything in a mess. It's strange that Jesus set aside these natural laws in order to bless humanity. We don't see Jesus bringing storms, rather we see Him calming the storm. We don't see Him putting sickness on people, rather we see Him healing all manner of diseases and doing good all the time. He, in fact said "He that has seen me has seen the Father (God)" (John 14:9). Now it stands to reason that Jesus wouldn't undo something God had done. No! These things came with the fall, when satan became the god of this world (II Corinthians 4:4). Therefore, if you allow satan to attack you, God will permit it, because satan is still god of this world and we are living in his territory with no protection against him. God did not just move in and destroy satan. However, God devised a plan of salvation which would elevate man back to his former state before the fall. He sent His own Son whom satan could not and did not touch, to consummate that plan. Through Jesus Christ, God redeemed mankind and restored his lost authority to him. By receiving Him as our personal Lord and Saviour, He then becomes our advocate and when we pray, God honours His word. That is why when a believer prays for you, something good is going to happen to you. God is good all the time.

Council is fed up with park vandalism

by Laurel Arnold

KEREMEOS - People enjoying Keremeos parks should beware of broken glass or bottles shoved into grass and broken off to expose jagged edges, dangerous to small children and bare feet. At Keremeos Village Council's Monday, July 5, regular meeting, CAO Eileen Oliver-Bauer said the Village conducts an almost daily clean-up of broken glass in the parks, describing broken glass and vandalism as recurrent problems, especially in Pine Park, and nearby, on the beach just over the dyke. She produced a list of park vandalism, dated from March 1998 to June 1999, containing 35 incidents, about half occurring in July and August of '98.

Vandals have defaced picnic tables and benches, wrecked washrooms, broken sprinkler heads, and damaged the water park in Memorial Park. Only one of several novelty water dispensers remains in the children's water park in Memorial Park.

Bob Stanley, Keremeos Public Works Foreman, says this year there have not been any upturned broken bottles buried in the ground, nor has there been as much broken glass.

Stanley says his Public Works crew built the water park in Memorial Park three summers ago. At that time, novelty water guns were priced at $7,000 each, so the crew built some themselves for a total cost of under $3,000, including time, labour and concrete. Every year since, the water guns have been torn off by vandals. Only a street lamp mushroom remains. As a result of recurring destruction (the last incident was June 5/99) Bob says no more water guns will be installed for the time being. He has, instead, built inground water jets that he says the children seem to be enjoying.

Mayor Stranart commented at Monday's meeting that vandalism tends to go in cycles. He said the last time there was a lot of vandalism the RCMP instituted foot patrols and officers on bicycles at night, and this seemed to have a very good effect.

He said "Vandalism seems to be on the upswing, but first we'd like to be sure of it and take care of it properly."

Council had recently invited Corporal Lindsay to attend its June 21, then its July 5, regular meeting to review with them the steps that could be taken to counter vandalism. Cpl. Lindsay was unable to attend the first meeting, and was transferred to Kamloops before the second one. He advised Council that his successor, Sergeant Dennis Bauhuis, would not be arriving until mid-August, and no one would be taking his place in the meantime. The Keremeos RCMP report that Constable Rick Ekkel is the temporary officer-in-charge until the new sergeant arrives. Council discussed putting vandalism on the agenda when meeting with Sgt. Bauhuis.

Mayor Stranart instructed the CAO to contact the Kelowna RCMP if the Village has another rash of vandalism and needs to consult with police on ways to help prevent it.

Keremeos Council holds regular meetings once a month during the summer. The next will be Monday, August 9.

 maps land for industry

by Laurel Arnold

SIMILKAMEEN - The Agricultural Land Commission (ALC) staff has been working on mapping land within the Keremeos, Cawston and Hedley area that might be suitable for light industrial development, but have found the work to be far more detailed and complicated than they realized, according to Keremeos CAO Eileen Oliver Bauer. She reported to Council's July 5 regular meeting that Mr. Pellett of the ALC had contacted her on June 25 to inform her of their progress.

According to Oliver-Bauer, Mr Pellett mentioned that the ALC will be coming to the Keremeos area July 20 and expected to have the mapping and other information to give her at that time. Identification of suitable land for local Light Industrial Development includes such criteria as poor agricultural capability, adjacent land uses, and suitable accessibility.

Pellet asked if Council would like to meet with the Commission on July 20, or wait until the land study is prepared and meet with them then. Council decided to thank the ALC for all the work they have been doing and to meet with them at a later date, once they've had a chance to look at the information the ALC has provided.

Crash
 injures
 cyclist

by Laurel Arnold

KEREMEOS - At about 2:00 p.m. July 5, Keremeos RCMP attended a motor vehicle accident in Keremeos. A male driver from Keremeos was eastbound on 10th Avenue when a young female cyclist lost control of her bike and swerved in front of his vehicle. The cyclist received severe injuries, was taken to the diagnostic centre, then transported to Penticton Hospital. She will be undergoing surgery for a broken leg. The vehicle received about $500 damage. No charges were laid.

July 13 to 20

ARIES - Your week begins with nothing but adversity - home, travel, work, money. Lots of problems crop up and demand to be solved immediately. Take care of your health, drive carefully.

TAURUS - This week should be full of good times for you, and good energy flow. You have very good influences for enjoyment of your home, family and partner.

GEMINI - You may suddenly feel very lazy or out of sorts, and you may even feel sick. You have influences working against you this week for three weeks. Be patient. Stay balanced despite problems.

CANCER - You start the week with high energy of the most positive sort. You may have a problem with daydreaming about other people's lives, or just plain laziness, but that is the nature of your good vibes.

LEO - Be very careful to read the fine print and pay attention to details this week, or things you thought you had done right the first time will have to be done again. Guard against deception.

VIRGO - Life is good this week. Everything falls into place, and life becomes more balanced for you. Take the time to determine why everything is working well now, and try to preserve those conditions.

LIBRA - Your mind is more at ease this week. Be cautious about the written word and agreements with friends. Read the fine print, pay attention to details. Things move ahead, then stand still.

SCORPIO - You continue a positive phase, and it is really nice after the past six months of problems. You experience plenty of interaction with partners. Agreements on the job should be on paper.

SAGITTARIUS - Influences are not as good as they should be, although there is some beneficial influence in your career interests. Expect some kind of major change starting now.

CAPRICORN - The week begins with some adversity of an emotional nature, but there are adequate positive influences to compensate for the problem. Your life is definitely improving, and energy climbs.

AQUARIUS - You experience a week in which problems seem to come out of nowhere. Part of the source of problems is your own lack of attention to details. Make yourself pay attention.

PISCES - The week begins smoothly and you may form a partnership with a woman who provides comfort. Your energy level is climbing and you feel healthier, more ambitious.

Trout Talk

What is a Chironomid?

by John Sandness, Similkameen Valley outdoorsman

Interior fishermen are all talking about chironomids. These are the young of midges. You have heard of midges, I'm sure. Most of us know them. They are the tiny flies that swarm on the lake surface, in thick clouds at times, on mid-summer evenings. I've heard them humming, their millions of wings making that sound. These clouds rise and fall as the insects "dance" in the air. I used to think that they were mosquitoes but, on studying them, found (thankfully, too) that they lacked those nasty "drills" that mosquitoes have.

Another big difference is size. Midges are much smaller than those pesky mosquitoes. In the trout diet, chironomids are the number one food. More chironomids are eaten than any other insect. Most are eaten in the larval stage. Some midge larvae (or chironomids) are blood-red in colour. This is most often the case when these live in oxygen-deficient, muddy-bottomed lakes.

The red colour is due to the oxygen gathering haemoglobin in the bodies of these larvae. We call the red fly we use to imitate them is the Bloodworm. Other chironomids may be black, green or tan coloured. So, when fishing with chironomids, it is useful to have them in these four colours.

Chironomid larvae, like the adults, are small. So keep the patterns you tie, or buy, small - sizes 12 to 18 are good.

As mentioned, mid-summer is chironomid time. Before I caught on to what was happening, those swirls and rises that I saw were very frustrating. I thought they were trout taking insects off the surface of the lakes. I would cast my arm off, tossing Tom Thumb, Mosquito and Mayfly patterns. Very seldom would I get a take! Later I learned that these swirls were actually trout taking chironomids in the pupal stage, just under the surface. If they can escape the fish, and develop their wings on the surface, they become adult midges. Many do, and thus the clouds we see over the water.

And so the cycle goes on! If we fishermen can, by using tiny chironomid larvae and pupae flies, become part of the cycle, we are in for a real treat. I personally enjoy that entry very much! A Kamloops rainbow trout is a terrific fighter and great eating! by using very light leaders and a special "chironomid technique", you can catch a Kamloops. Two- to three-pound test leaders are a must. Patience is another must - probably the most important of the two!

As Chironomids live 95 per cent of the time right in the mud or debris on the bottom of the lake, it makes sense to put your fly right there. Use a sinking line, or sinking tip line, depending on the depth. By slowly fishing these depths, you should catch trout. Chironomids do not move quickly, so retrieve very slowly.

The other five per cent of the time, chironomids rising to the surface cause the trout to move up and feed near the surface - actually, just under the surface. Cast your floating line, not a sinking line, to these feeding fish. Use a fine leader. Put the fly, a chironomid pupa imitation, a few feet to one side of the rise, about three or four feet to the side. You say "which side?", and "why not right on top of the rise?" First, chironomid-feeding trout are moving, often in schools. To cast directly on top of the rise is futile, because the fish is gone. Second, if you have been watching the fish, you will know which side to cast. They leave a trail of rises! Cast ahead of that trail. Let the fly hand on the leader a few inches below the surface. Move it slowly, if at all. Remember, chironomids (and this is especially true with the pupae) are not strong swimmers. SLOW WITH CHIRONOMIDS is the slogan to follow.

It will probably take you, as it did me, some time to "catch on" to fishing the chironomid. But when you do, it will save those trips in mid-summer, on those hot, sultry days in late July and August. Year-round, chironomids are a good bet, too.

Hedley resident and Friends of Similkameen receive watchdog honour

by Laurel Arnold

SIMILKAMEEN - On Monday evening, July 5, Keremeos Council dedicated two Linden trees, recently planted near the corner of Veterans Ave. and 7th St. Keremeos, in the names of Gerry Wilkin of Hedley and the citizen's group "Friends of the Similkameen," honouring their tireless efforts to have Metalex remove illegally dumped slag material from the old Danko Mine site south of Cawston. Mayor J. C. Stranart, Councillors Holley, Heacocks, Evans and Gurevitch, and CAO Oliver-Bauer, attended the dedication along with Wilkin and Friends of the Similkameen members Irene O'Conner, Fergus O'Conner, Chuck Schmidt, Freda Easy, and Lee McFayden.

Wilkin and the Friends of the Similkameen believed that the slag Metalex had begun illegally dumping in 1997 was an ecological and human health risk and was being deposited without authorization. They worked tirelessly to obtain documentation from the Ministry of Environment files. Their efforts were rewarded when the Ministry of the Environment, Lands and Parks ordered Metalex to remove the slag material and to ensure that it had not polluted neighbouring properties.

Wilkin says the cleanup was completed very quickly. Each plaque, with only the recipient's name changed, states: "This tree was planted in 1999 to honour (recipient) for (his, their) contribution towards the removal of illegally dumped toxic slag east of the Village of Keremeos."

Four women disappear

Princeton's population shrinks

During the past 10 weeks, Princeton Weight Watchers have lost the equivalent of four average-size women. The combined weight loss of the 53 members of the newly-formed group is 511 pounds!

Marg Johnson, Princeton Weight Watchers leader, says Weight Watchers is successful due to the program and the educational component, as well as the support of the group.

"It's as easy as 1-2-3," Johnson says.

She knows. She has lost weight through the program, and has maintained that lower weight for a year. Nobody can be eligible to be a Weight Watchers leader without having successfully met a weight loss goal and maintained that level.

"You don't have to starve yourself with our program," Johnson explains. "You can eat whatever you want, and there's no special food to buy."

Members learn to eat sensibly every day. There is a point value given to each food, and a total number of points allocated for each day. As a Weight Watcher member consumes food, the points are subtracted from the day's total point allowance. This gives the member flexibility.

The points system works because the bigger the person at registration time, the more points allowed per day. As the person loses weight, the points decrease a little. This is no crash diet system, this is a system of healthy eating and healthy living.

Every member is entitled to confidentiality. Nobody needs to tell total weight, nor even if weight is gained or lost. Johnson says the happy expressions tell her whether there is a weight loss.

People in the group are of both sexes and all ages.

Johnson says people are really pleased with themselves when they start to achieve their weight loss goals. She sees better skin, more energy, and less pain in knees and legs.

Self-esteem improves with success, and further improves as members discover they can wear clothes they "grew out of" years before. Self-esteem improves with better health and increased energy.

The group meets at the Catholic Church Hall on Wednesday nights at 6:30 p.m. They intend to keep Princeton's population shrinking.

Avoid bee stings for health

by Pam McCluskey, Public Health Nurse, Okanagan Similkameen

It is true that honey bees (fuzzy bodies) and wasps (shiny bodies) ordinarily do not sting unless frightened, bothered, or hurt. These stings are painful and for some, who are allergic, can be very dangerous.

Bees feed on nectar whereas wasps are predators, eating flies caterpillars and other insects.

Most stings are the result of human invasion, whether you are aware of your invasion or not. Wasps are defenders of their nests. Most stings are the result of accidental trapping or pinching of the wasp or bee.

To avoid a nasty sting, never swat at a wasp hovering over and around you. It is better for you to move away and the wasp will eventually leave. However, if you have accidentally disturbed a wasp or bee nest, then the rules change. Protect your face and run. Wasps are generally in their nests in the evening and early morning, a good time to pick fruit. Always watch your step, especially when barefoot. Look before you reach into the berry patch or you may be unpleasantly surprised by your pickings. When handling wet beach towels, remember that wasps are thirsty and are attracted to moisture. Food and smells also attract wasps, so keep garbage lids tight and clean up food spills immediately. Bury fallen fruit and turn your compost regularly.

With practice of the above rules, it is unlikely you will be stung this summer, but should you have a run-in, here is what you should do. If you can see the stinger, flick it off with the edge of a sharp object. You want to avoid squeezing the venom sac. Apply ice and if necessary, take an antihistamine orally. If you have allergic reactions to bee or wasp stings, never leave your anti-kit at home.

Star enjoys official visit

by Eva Mitravitz

Princeton Order of Eastern Star Worthy Matron, Barbara Milde, and Worthy Patron, Norman Cooper, joined with their officers, members and visitors in welcoming Worthy Grand Matron Ann Vossberg and Worthy Grand Patron Robert Simpson on their annual official visit from Grand Chapter of B.C. and Yukon, on June 21.

Visitors from Keremeos, Penticton, Summerland, Merritt, Lillooet and Vancouver Island joined in the evenings' festivities, visiting old friends and meeting new ones.

A report from Grand Chapter

Stamp Convenor, Gladys Pierce, was read during the meeting. The total money realized from our stamp collecting for the year was: $12,635.61.

We have listed here some of the special equipment needed to make treatment procedures more comfortable and the procedures themselves easier on the cancer patients:

- blanket warmer for simulator area, a special applicator to keep patient's blanket warm between procedures - patients undergoing treatment often feel intense cold and this will help to keep them comfortable - $4,003.
- digital photo system (hardware and software) - $5,410
- vacuum assisted core box device with supporting exam table for dedicated ultrasound guided exams - $10,819

- 25" TV/VCR with cart for above - $1,298

- floor-mounted exam light for ENT room - $500

The total for the Vancouver Cancer Centre was $22,030.

Another $11,000 in equipment is on the wish list for Fraser Valley Cancer Centre.

Help us STAMP OUT CANCER by continuing to save your stamps, postcards with stamps left on, envelopes, and computer paper. Please leave your donations at Princeton Light and Power office or call 295-3237 or 295-6427. No stamp donation is too small, and we appreciate all of your efforts on our behalf.

KNOWLEDGE. If knowledge is power, then Re/Max is the most powerful professional ally you can have when it comes to selling or buying a home.

Rebeckah Allen, center, was given a trip to the Jewel concert in Vancouver as a seventeenth birthday present. She and her best friend and singing partner, Katie Adams (left), and Rebeckah's mother, Karen, obtained backstage passes where they met their singing idol, Jewel, at right. Jewel autographed Rebeckah's shirt. It was the thrill of a lifetime for two Princeton girls who like to get together to sing and play Jewel's hits.

Since 1994, CIBC employees throughout B.C. and the Yukon have rallied together to raise funds through corporate and employee contributions for the Children's Miracle Network Telethon benefitting B.C.'s Children's Hospital. This year, $11,248 was raised in CIBC's Crossroads District, which includes Princeton, helping the BC/Yukon region reach a total of $163,360.

"Each year, we set a new goal for B.C.'s Children's Hospital Telethon Campaign. Last year, it was to put our four year donation total over the $1,000,000 mark and we did it! This year, our goal was to help make two extremely important projects become reality," said Janice Shuster, chair of the 1999 campaign. "We really want to thank everyone in Princeton who has helped make this happen."

The first project CIBC's campaign funds will go to is the Safe Start House, a unique 'mobile home' which will travel throughout B.C. focusing on child injury prevention. The second is a portable x-ray unit. In some urgent situations, young patients are too ill to be transported even the short distance from their bed to the Radiology Department at Children's Hospital. Last year alone, over 8,600 portable exams took place.

"The support from Princeton was overwhelming. It gave all of us a real sense of community. When people learned about Safe Start House and the portable x-ray unit, they really pitched in and contributed to our fund-raising activities," commented Vern Dobell, CIBC Branch Manager in Princeton.

Located in Vancouver, B.C.'s

Children's Hospital is the province's only specialized treatment, research and educational health care centre devoted completely to children and it provides service for more than 145,000 patient visits a year from every corner of the province. Sixty-five per cent of those visits come from outside Vancouver.

CIBC is one of Canada's oldest and largest financial institutions. Last year, CIBC donated more than $26 million to charities and non-profit groups, including over $1 million which went directly to communities in B.C. In 1998, CIBC employees raised another $500,000 to add to that total.

Pinewood Pottery hosts family festival

OSPREY LAKE - For a great family fun event this weekend, take a drive out toward Osprey lake.

Pinewood Pottery, located at the 28 km. point on Highway 40 (Osprey Lake Road), will be the site of Art and Music Festival '99. Last year's very successful festival drew over 200 visitors. This year offers even more entertainment and more arts and crafts.

The Osprey Lake community is well-represented among artists and craftspersons. Bear Paw Designs, featuring silversmith work, is done by Monique da Silva. Mark Wong does metal designs. Chris and Scott, of Treeline Logwork Creations, do remarkable things with wood. Paula Pateman, of Pinewood Pottery, will show her work. These Osprey Lake residents are a great addition to the valley's growing number of artists.

Margo and Merylyn are weavers from Princeton. Woodchuck Carvings is the trademark of Charles Casperson of Hedley.

"Black Sheep" is Marlene Chrysler, of Nelson, who creates art on a loom. Eileen Fry is another Nelson resident who brings gems and metal jewelry to the festival. Mark, from Kaleden Stained Glass, creates glass art.

Music lovers will find a superb variety of talented artists at the festival. Ian Hartline, just finishing a stint with coastal cruise ships, plays alto sax, flute and other wind instruments. Tony Farrero will play drums, Robert Forbes-Johnson is bringing his upright bass. Bert Peters will be playing his acoustic guitar, Wendy Watts will play her flute and sing, and Joan Armitage will play dulcimer and guitar.

Princeton Highway Rescue members will be cooking smokies and hot dogs as a fundraiser. This group is not supported by government and welcomes the opportunity to raise some more money for a new rescue truck.

There is a play area for restless youngsters, who are welcome to attend with their parents.

Ogopogo swim meet sees Kokanee swimmers score top points

by Lindsey Kovats

I wish the weather would make up its mind!

In Kelowna this past weekend our 14 swimmers competed against competitive swimmers from Chilliwack, Merritt, Revelstoke, North Delta, Penticton, Lumby, Coquitlam, Salmon Arm and more!

Competition was fair and new swimmers did well. There were even enough swimmers to make three relay teams each day! Wow! The Kokanees are picking up speed in growing back into the full-grown club it once was. We had an enormous number of best times (averaging two per swimmer) and many ribbons!

Kelowna has an indoor pool, therefore we were graciously thankful it was scorching hot outside (it gets so muggy in there!). Overall, the swimmers are exactly where they are supposed to be for times and attitude. Well done, once again, Kokanee swimmers!

Meet results:

Otter Valley Fish and Game President Ron White presents little Tully Adams with a box containing fishing flies. Tully won for first weigh-in and third most fish in the "shiner" competition.

RCMP recover outboard motor

On June 26, Princeton RCMP recovered an older outboard boat motor at Allison Lake. During the past two months, there have been several recent break-ins at local cabins and residences at some of the more populated lakes in the Princeton area.

RCMP have not been able to trace the outboard motor to its rightful owner. They believe that the owner either does not know the motor is missing or has not reported its loss to police. Anyone missing an older outboard motor during the past two months is asked to contact Princeton RCMP to identify the motor.

Otter Valley family camp

The annual Harmon Lake family camp-out, sponsored by Otter Valley Fish and Game Club, is one of the reasons the club is so successful. The camp-out lasted all weekend, and featured fun for people of all ages in a beautiful setting. While dwellers in the valley sweltered in the heat, campers enjoyed temperatures just "pleasantly warm."

There were games for everyone. The following are the winners.
Horseshoes: 1. Katie Adams and Arnie Stadler 2. Marlene Robinson and Matt 3. Cliff Robinson and Trina Adams
