

Then all hell broke loose

— It began as a vehicle fire and turned into a forest fire

Smoke towers over Princeton Sunday afternoon looking like a volcano erupting.

What started as a fire in a motor home turned into a full-fledged forest fire 25 km. southwest of Princeton on Saturday, August 11. At approximately 4:00 p.m., motorists travelling behind a west-bound motor home alerted the occupants of the motor home to a fire. The driver of the motor home pulled over as the vehicle burst into flame. The family of four was later taken to Princeton General Hospital where they were treated for smoke inhalation.

The fire spread quickly to the west side of the highway, and in a brief time, sparks ignited a fire on the east side of the highway. The situation went from bad to worse in a hurry.

The smoke became so thick, RCMP piloted traffic through the burn area, but finally closed the highway as a safety measure.

Ministry of Forests personnel were deployed to the fire but could not control it despite using four water bombers and attack crews. Forty Forest Service fire fighters, a helicopter, three water trucks and two bulldozers were called in for fire suppression. High temperatures (39 degrees Celsius in Princeton), gusting winds, difficult terrain, and extremely dry conditions combined to spread the fire rapidly. The initial fire was 10 hectares, but expanded to 20 hectares overnight. Crews from the Coastal Fire Centre were called in on Sunday morning.

By Sunday afternoon, as heat, wind and dry conditions continued to challenge fire fighters, the fire spread to 100 hectares. At this point, there were 70 fire fighters at the scene and 10 air tankers were dropping retardant around the edges of the fire. Three helicopters were used to bucket hot spots within the perimeter of the fire while bulldozers and water trucks worked with crews to build a fire guard.

The area north of the highway was behaving in what Forest Service personnel described as "aggressive fire activity" with spot fire flaring outside of the main fire. The fire crossed the Similkameen River and was moving very quickly and suppression crews were hard-pressed to contain the fire.

Highway 3 west of Princeton was closed again, and both east-bound and westbound traffic were re-routed to the Coquihalla Highway.

As Monday morning dawned, the fire had grown to nearly 300 hectares. For residents of the Similkameen Valley, sunrise came through a blanket of smoke drifting east from the fire. Heat and drought are major adversaries in the battle against the fire.

Motorists travelling west should be aware the highway may be closed at any time due to the expanding fire and smoke.

Bikes and ATV's raise citizens' concerns

Town Council dealt with complaints arising from dirt bikers and ATV's using the Trans Canada Trail. Residents in the Similkameen Avenue and Burton Avenue areas, as well as in the downtown area adjacent to the trail, have complaints about noise and dust resulting from motorized vehicles using the trail. People who are walking on the trail have filed complaints about the hazards posed by the bikers and ATV drivers using the trail.

Sgt. Warren Dosko told Council there is little police can do because the trail is regarded as private property. The only time police can apprehend a driver for a violation is if it occurs on a public road or highway. However, police can apprehend anyone causing a noise problem.

Council will spend $7,000 to provide materials for Currie's ranch and Atkinson's property to be fenced off from the airport property. The ranchers will provide the labour. This fencing is necessary to prevent dirt bikes and ATV's from damaging the land north of the airport and spreading weeds onto pasture.

Council supports community justice group

Sgt. Warren Dosko, Officer in Charge of Princeton's RCMP Detachment, spoke to Town Council on August 7 regarding new ways of dealing with repeat offenders.

"Offenders, especially B & E, are a small group that does it. They get caught, they're out again, and they do it again," Sgt. Dosko began.

He sees a lack of an organized group to whom the police can go, such as a community justice group.

"These offenders go to jail and come right back," Sgt. Dosko told Council. "There is nowhere to go to ask what the community wants to happen when the offender is caught."

He explained that, without community input, there is no community pressure on the court system. He told Council the community can set conditions for a person in custody and for when they get out of jail.

"We have a group of people — they're just not going to stop," Sgt. Dosko stated.

He spoke of the need for discipline, and outlined what a community justice group can do. Such a group does not use the traditional court system, it is a justice forum comprised of local citizens, and the offender may opt to go to the group and face them, as well as face the victim of the crime. A trained facilitator runs the meeting like a round table. They talk to the offender, talk about the crime and who was hurt, then decide what to recommend to the police and the court. Sgt. Dosko said he would try to initiate such a group if Council was supportive.

"The person who commits a crime has to know the community cares," he said.

He noted the need for volunteers and training to form a community justice group.

Mayor Randy McLean encouraged Sgt. Dosko to "put something together."

"Steps need to be taken," the mayor said.

Sgt. Dosko suggested he could organize a public meeting and invite trained people to Princeton to speak to the public. Council gave full support to that project. The meeting is expected to take place in September.

Councillor Dan Sulentic (right) presents a gift of a wristwatch to Len Liberatore in appreciation for Len's 25 years of service to the Town of Princeton.

Councillor Lorne Esselink (left) presents a wristwatch to Ken Silovich, a token of appreciation from Council for Silovich's 25 years of service to the Town of Princeton.

Council praises staff

"There is a lot of what we at this table are given credit for that is really due to our crew and staff," Mayor Randy McLean said.

The August 7 Town Council meeting began with presentations of gifts to Len Liberatore and Ken Silovich, for 25 years of service, and to Janelle Cecon and Henry Rykers for 15 years of service.

Both Liberatore and Silovich thanked Town Council, and Silovich said he was proud to work for the Town.

Cecon said, "It's a privilege to work for the Town."

Rykers, last to receive a gift, called for a round of applause for the others, with his thanks for all their hard work.

Nobody opposed zoning changes

A re-zoning hearing took place at Town Hall on August 7 regarding two downtown properties. There was no opposition to the re-zoning, and Council passed third reading of the zoning bylaws pertaining to the properties.

One property is located on Fenchurch Avenue between Vermillion Court and the News Leader. The property is to be re-zoned for an apartment building.

The other property is at the east end of Kenley Avenue. It is the former Similkameen Shotokan Karate building, which will be re-zoned to "institutional" at the request of Living Water Four-square Church.

RDOS weed program makes progress – look for Scott at fair

Local biologist Lisa Scott is coordinating the weed education and control program in Okanagan-Similkameen Regional District (RDOS). Regional District has contributed $10,000 and the provincial Ministry of Agriculture and Food has awarded a $13,000 grant to ensure the weed program for 2001.

Scott will work closely with many stakeholders to ensure that efforts made by agencies responsible for weed control are coordinated so money will be saved and weed management efforts will be effective. Public education is an essential component of the program. Scott will be speaking to clubs and school classes throughout the region later in the year.

Scott deals with aggressive plants introduced from Europe and Asia which lack natural enemies and diseases. Often these weeds have attractive flowers, but no value for wildlife or livestock and many of these weeds are poisonous. They pose a significant environmental concern because of their ability to rapidly invade our natural ecosystems, pastures and croplands, choking out desirable plants.

"Weeds can have a huge economic impact on our local land-based industries, such as horticulture, farming, ranching and tourism," Scott says.

Of major concern at this time is Sulphur cinquefoil, which may be the next knapweed. It commonly invades meadows, pastures, grasslands and open forests. The leaves are divided into five to seven hairy leaflets that arise from the woody base and also grow along the stem. It has pale yellow flowers with five heart-shaped petals surrounding a bright yellow center.

"This weed is currently our number one concern. It has the potential to become a very serious problem," Scott advises. "Once established, it can be very difficult to control, therefore early identification and prevention methods are critical."

Scott reminds landowners that weeds are best treated before they go to seed. Mature plants with seeds should be bagged, and taken to the landfill for burial, to prevent further spread. She encourages re-planting or re-seeding disturbed areas, to provide competition and prevent the weeds from moving in.

Lisa Scott will be at the Fall Fair on Saturday, September 8. She invites residents to bring samples of weeds they cannot identify. PLEASE bring as much of the plant as you can, and put it in a sealed bag without some fences in place." Dave Atkinson told Council.

Atkinson said he was fairly certain the group causing problems for the ranchers was the same group causing a problem in town.

Council members made it clear they are not opposed to people enjoying dirt biking or driving ATV's, providing it is done in an appropriate location, and does not pose a hazard to anyone else.

Councillor Kathy Clement (left) presents a gift to Janelle Ceccon in appreciation for her 15 years of service to the Town of Princeton.

Councillor Keith Olsen (right) expresses the appreciation of Town Council for Henry Rykers' 15 years of service to the Town of Princeton, as he presents a gift to Rykers.

Chutter says patients first

Yale-Lillooet MLA Dave Chutter says patient care must come first. He strongly supports the provincial government's decision to end the ongoing health care disputes.

"There are serious problems in our health care system. We know there are structural problems and that's what we are committed to fixing," says Chutter. "But we need to focus on patients and ensure their needs are being met and that begins with an agreement that will ensure patient care is not placed in jeopardy."

"We respect the work our health care professionals do and we want them to be fairly compensated, and that's reflected in the agreement. This deal will make our health care workers, nurses and the paramedics the best paid in Canada. This will provide nurses with a 23.5 percent raise and paramedics will get raises between 5.5 percent and 14.25 percent."

"Our government did not want to legislate an end to the disputes, but allowing them to drag on when the parties were hundreds of millions of dollars apart was not an option either."

"What is important now is for cooler heads to prevail. We need to be working together to begin addressing all of the structural problems afflicting our health care system," Chutter concluded.

RCMP applaud Tulameen

Princeton RCMP congratulate the community of Tulameen for their preparation, organization and running of the annual Tulameen Days.

"All the various events appeared very successful and the police were left to deal with only very minor isolated issues," Sgt. Warren Dosko stated.

During the four days of the August long weekend, there were 43 liquor seizures, and 36 persons were charged under the liquor act, the majority for consuming liquor in a public place.

There were a number of motor vehicle infractions: 28 persons were issued warnings and 10 persons were issued violation tickets, of which two were $575 fines to persons driving motorcycles on the public roadway. Two were charged for driving while prohibited and four were issued 24-hour driving suspensions for driving while having consumed liquor.

There were five incidents of seizing small quantities of a controlled substance.

The RCMP appreciated the hospitality of residents of Tulameen, and the way Tulameen Volunteer Fire Department allowed the police to use their facilities during the weekend.

Council rejects support for land reserve

Deer View and West China Creek Association, a citizens group comprised of residents who live along Snowpatch Road, want a parcel of Crown land reserved as natural grassland. On August 7, Town Council rejected supporting this initiative.

The land in question is District Lot 396, a 100 acre benchland area adjoining Asp Creek Crown land. In their letter to BC Parks, the Association said, "It has not been used for grazing for 30 years or more. It is largely free of invasive weeds. In spring it is carpeted with lupins and in early summer the rare (for this area) bitterroot (Lewisia Rediviva), with its brilliant pink blossoms, clusters around the base of the Ponderosa pines."

The property is in the Agricultural Land Reserve.

Council refused to support the plan. Councillor Dan Sulentic made the motion to deny support based on the argument that there is subdivision property near the proposed reserve, and when this area is developed it must have higher ground on which to place a reservoir. Further, he did not oppose subdivision.

Dianne Rainer, speaking for the Association, says they will continue to pursue the matter. She maintains the provincial government is preparing the district lot for subdivision because, "They want the cash"

Take it to Town Hall

Councillor Dan Sulentic wants complaints to go to Town Hall, not to the News Leader. At the August 7 Town Council meeting, he referred to letters to the editor published in the News Leader, and stated anyone with complaints about sidewalks, the cemetery or any other matter within the Town of Princeton responsibility, should go to Town Hall and talk to the Administrator instead of writing to the newspaper.

Our sincere thank you to Mayor Randy McLean, Councillor Kathy Clement, Councillor Lorne Esselink, Councillor Keith Olsen, Councillor Danny Sulentic and Clerk-Treasurer Cornie Froese for your gifts and acknowledgement. We were pleased and honoured that you chose to publicly recognize us for our years of service, as employees of the Town of Princeton. We also thank the people and taxpayers of Princeton - for without you - we would not have employment with our Municipality. Also, we extend a big thank you to our co-workers, and as well, all of the former Council's and employees. It takes excellent working relationships to allow us to enjoy our work and to continue to be employed by the Town we have lived in and cared for during some of the best years of our lives. All of us feel very privileged to serve our Town.

Sincerely,

Ken Silovich, Len Liberatore, Henry Rykers and Janelle Ceccon

Looking Through The Books - PART 1

Books on Retirement Planning offer good advice

I was visiting one of our local bookstores the other day - just strolling around looking for a gift for an old friend of mine. Naturally, I gravitated to the "financial" section - it's hard to break old habits. I suppose. To be honest, I was impressed with what I saw; an entire wall full of books on business, economics, and personal finance.

I say impressed because I'm a big believer in education. The way I see it, the more we know about our finances - and how to improve them - the better. But I have to wonder whether all of this information is a little overwhelming; when there's a whole wall of books in front of you, where do you start? This is a particular problem for those looking for some retirement advice - it seems most every financial writer has something important to say on this pressing financial topic.

Of course, I suppose I really shouldn't be suprized by that. Just read the newspaper, turn on the TV or log on to the Internet and you'll find lots of evidence of how hot a topic retirement planning is these days. But while information is good, there is such a thing as too much of a good thing. So, in an effort to help cut through the clutter, I've gleaned some central points from some volumes I flipped through last weekend and condensed them into five quick "lessons." No matter how different the author's particular approach to the subject, these lessons are the common thread that bind these retirement books. The five quick "lessons" are in PART 2 of Looking Through the Books in the next 'Investment Insight' Article.

Travel writers will visit

Similkameen Country joins writers' tour

by Patty Harrower

Similkameen Country is working with other members of the South Okanagan Similkameen Circle Tour Society (SOS) to sponsor a "Travel Writer's Tour." At the last meeting of the SOS representatives, the membership decided to invite travel writers to our area for a tour. These are people who visit different places and then write articles in their local newspapers and magazines about where they have been. They will come and see the valley, what it looks like and what we have to offer in the South Similkameen.

The writers will fly to Penticton to meet each other on September 23, coming from all over B.C., Saskatchewan, Alberta, Washington, Oregon and California. They will spend their first night in Penticton, beginning their tour there the next morning, after which the writers will have a ride up the lake to Summerland in a houseboat. There, they will be met by a tour guide, see the Summerland sights, then spend the night.

Skills Centre is on local agenda

by Patty Harrower

Similkameen Country wants Keremeos to have a Skills Centre similar to the one located in Princeton, and are working with Human Resources Development Canada (HRDC) to make it happen. The project will be funded through HRDC and will be administered by Similkameen Country, who will be working under a contract that will be renewable yearly. The centre would display job postings, employ counselors to help with resumes and teach clients how to dress for and conduct interviews, preparing them to find a job.

"We are still working on acquiring funding from HRDC," said Ken Randle, Similkameen country project coordinator. "It will be coming, it's just matter of when." Randle hopes the funding will be approved and the centre will be operational by October.

After having breakfast in Summerland, the writers will continue to Peachland, stopping for coffee and a tour.

Next on the agenda will be lunch in Merritt followed by a town tour and a visit of several ranches in the area.

The group will then drive to Princeton for the overnight, resting up for a scheduled fly-in fishing trip in the morning.

After fishing, the writers will arrive in Hedley for their lunch, tour the museum and the town, then head to Keremeos for a guided tour of orchards and packing houses. They are scheduled for a tour of the Grist Mill at approximately 4 p.m. The community of Keremeos will be putting on a "harvest time" supper for the writers, featuring many fruits and vegetables grown locally.

After supper, the writers will drive to Osoyoos for an overnight, and the next day visit golf courses and wineries, ending the day in Oliver.

For the final touring day, the travel writers will breakfast in Oliver before heading up to Trappers Creek, then down to Rock Creek and back to Osoyoos, where they will once again spend the night. The following day the writers will be bussed to Penticton for their departure. The week long tour is scheduled to run from Sunday to Saturday.

The South Okanagan Similkameen Circle Tour Society is a member group made up of representatives of all the towns included in the tour. All pay memberships to the Society and the representatives meet together in one of the member communities on a rotating basis. One of their mandates is to try and come up with ideas to help promote tourism in the B.C. Southern Interior, and the members felt this writers' tour would do just that.

Six run for Council

The race for a seat on Village Council is on in a big way!

Six candidates have entered the race. Their nominations were confirmed on August 10 by Chief Election Officer Cathy Cowan. The candidates are not officially on the ballot until the challenge period ends on August 14. Those who are not challenged, as of August 15, will be on the ballot in the September 15 by-election.

The candidates are: John Bassani,

Tracie Erikson, Gary Gattrell, Ed Minshull, Rick Richardson, and Steve Study.

The candidate who is successful in becoming a Village Councillor will serve two years, until the next round of province-wide municipal elections.

No information is available at this time about these candidates, nor any public forum where candidates may declare their platforms.

Rolly does it again!

Rolly Bilodeau is hosting his third annual Old time Threshing Bee at his farm in Cawston. This event draws a good crowd as Bilodeau and friends demonstrate how grain was threshed in times past - long past. He uses mule power to haul in the bundles of gran, and an old tractor has a huge belt running from it to the thresher, where it provides the power to put the threshing process into motion. The bundles of grain are dropped into the thresher manually. Inside the thresher, the grain is separated from the straw. The straw flies out one large pipe and the grain goes out a different pipe.

In addition to all this great stuff, there is a parade of antique tractors, a concession stand with corn on the cob, and lots of people to talk to about farming in the old days. Look for the sigus east of Keremeos.

Alysha will sing at fair

by Patty Harrower

Alysha Harker, a 14 year old Cawston resident will be one of the featured entertainers at the Princeton and District Fall Fair this year. Harker has been taking voice lessons in opera for eight years, though she loves country music best. She first started singing at age six, after she sang "Itsy Bitsy Spider" at a birthday party for her grandfather. Her parents then phoned voice coach Diane Schmidt in Pentiction and enrolled Alysha. She travels to Pentiction three times a week to attend voice, drama and dance classes.

Harker performs all over B.C. at various fairs and in vocal competitions, and is looking forward to the Princeton fair. "I'm mostly gonna give it all I got, and try to make the crowd happy." One of the numbers planned features a tap dance.

Cawston business donates demolition car

The Car Doctor of Cawston has donated a 1982 Ford LTD to be raffled for the Fall Fair. This car will be entered in the demolition derby, and the winner of the car can drive it in the derby, or select a driver. The car will be "demolition ready" and just needs to be driven into the fray.

In addition to donating the car, Car Doctor has donated the 6 cylinder engine which will be timed while it "blows up." Fall Fair is holding a raffle in which the purchasers of the ticket put down their guess as to how long the engine will last before it blows up. Garnet Woodford had it on display at Tulameen Days, and sold a lot of tickets. (Anyone wanting a chance to guess may buy a ticket at the News Leader. The Editor is having trouble selling them to female friends.)

The Fall Fair is receiving excellent support from the South Similkameen this year.

They saw town through tourists' eyes

by Patty Harrower

The Downtown Revitalization Committee in Keremeos recently sponsored a "walkabout" for local business people to view the village as through the eyes of tourists. There were a few things noted that could be improved. One suggestion was to plant more trees. A very major concern was trucks driving through too fast and the lack of crosswalks at the intersection of 7th Avenue and 7th Street by the IGA, making it a very dangerous corner.

Another thought was to bring the film commission in to make suggestions. Since several movies have been made in the area, bringing more dollars in, it would not be good to make changes that may cause them to make their movies elsewhere.

The Downtown Revitalization Committee wants to know what kinds of changes the people of the Village want to see. A 1974 report said locals wanted Keremeos to remain a small town, but there is a need to have something going on to entice tourists travelling through the Village to stop and spend their dollars. The traffic count through Keremeos for the August long weekend was astounding: 15,871 vehicles were counted driving through the Village. The number was certainly higher than that, as the girls who did the count worked only from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., were busy with other things at times, and not able to arrive at an accurate number.

Thief hits Keremeos Tourist Information Centre

by Patty Harrower

Sometime in the very early hours of Wednesday, August 8 unknown persons broke out the window of the Similkameen Country office and Tourist Information Centre. Entry was gained through the window, and the door opened from the inside to admit accomplices.

The burglars made off with a cash box containing between $80 and $90, a donation box containing some loose change, and keys to the premises. The criminals left no mess other than muddy foot prints.

Personnel at the Tourist Information Centre spent Thursday beefing up security. They are considering installing locking shutters on the windows, and bright lights have been put in all around the building. A new dead-bolt has also been installed.

Preparing children for school

Children go back to school in three weeks. Many parents heave a sigh of relief at the thought, as children may be bored and restless after five weeks out of school. Now is a good time to start preparing them for a successful year at school.

When it comes to readiness for the new school year, most parents think of school supplies, clothing and shoes, but there are some important preparations that have nothing to do with buying things for the children.

A good health regimen is much more important than the things you can buy. Keeping a child healthy makes the child smarter and more able to learn. The fringe benefit for parents is this: healthy children are more likely to be good-natured and easy to live with.

All children need plenty of sleep. As daylight grows shorter, start making the children go to bed earlier and wake them a little earlier. During summer vacation, children often play until dark, then watch some television, and follow the later evenings with sleeping late in the morning. This trend needs to be reversed gradually. Have the children bathe an hour before you want them to be in bed, then feed them a healthy snack, such as milk and cereal, then have them brush their teeth. If they want to watch television, the chances are they will soon be too sleepy to watch for long.

Making breakfast for the children is a good excuse for having them rise earlier. Make breakfast a little more exciting than usual, such as making waffles, pancakes or muffins, or perhaps fruit salad with ice cream! Fresh fruit with cereal is always good at this time of year.

You might want to encourage your children to start looking through their closets and trying on clothing they wore to school last year. Children often grow rapidly during sunny months and grow out of clothing. Any clothing needing repairs or replacement can be set aside. Most children will enjoy sorting through their closets and dresser drawers. This is an opportunity to clean out these areas, but it has an added benefit of preparing them mentally for a new school year.

You might ask them to go through their basic school supplies to find out which can be used for another term. Rulers, erasers, pencils and other basics may not need replacement.

Preparing children for another year at school means putting them back on a reasonably definite schedule. Researchers have found that children who have a daily and weekly routine function much better than those whose home lives are chaotic. Furthermore, children who live by a schedule are actually healthier. A daily routine is reassuring to a child. The younger the child, the more the child needs a routine. Having a routine at home helps them prepare for being at school on time and adapting to the schoolday schedule.

Parents, while checking clothing, shoes, and supplies, should check toothbrushes, hairbrushes, shampoo supplies, and combs. Often, children suddenly discover they have lost, or used up, these supplies and need them for school day schedules.

Summer fun will soon be done. It's time to prepare for school.

Royalty enjoyed B.C. wines

Prince Edward was served some of Canada's finest food and wine, including vintages from B.C.'s Calona Vineyards, while he was in Edmonton to attend the opening ceremonies of the World Championships in Athletics.

Government House head chef Judy Wilson, who prepared a dinner for 500 and a lunch for 100, was looking for a unique wine for those occasions. To narrow down the wine list to three that matched the menu, Wilson met with staff from Edmonton's Westin Hotel where the dinner was held.

"The 1999 Artist Series Chardonnay was a showstopper," Wilson said. "When people took a sip, their eyebrows shot up and they marvelled at the flavour."

It was served at the lunch.

The 2000 Artist Series Gewurztraminer and 1999 Artist Series Cabernet Sauvignon were served at the dinner.

Vegetables and fruit fight cancer and heart disease

Talking about fruit and vegetables is what this column is all about this summer, as a reminder to enjoy the good things grown in our area, and to reap the health benefits from the food we grow. Sometimes we forget the obvious.

Vegetables are great for clearing out the gut. All plants contain insoluble fibre, which acts like a spongy gel in the intestines. This helps soften the stool, preventing constipation and hemorrhoids, and cleaning out cholesterol. You are going to feel better from eating vegetables, even though sometimes you may feel bloated and uncomfortable because you have eaten vegetables. The reason for this feeling is due to a slowdown in the digestive system, making you feel full much longer.

Fruit, especially apples and pears, have a great deal of insoluble fibre. Actually, apples are really good for you, and if you have the means of obtaining cheap apples, preserve applesauce for winter. The pectin in apples is great for your circulatory system, and for your heart.

The fibre in fruit and vegetables help reduce the risk of colon cancer and breast cancer, and help prevent adult onset diabetes.

Higher levels of insoluble fibre is found in peas, beans, wheat bran cereals, dried figs, oatmeal, sweet potatoes, barley, and oranges. These are available all year round, but during the summer months, we need other things, like bioflavonoids, that come with fresh fruit and vegetables. Now is the time to make the most of what we have.

Soluble fibre helps reduce blood cholesterol, thereby improving heart health. Again, apples, peas, beans, oat bran, and oatmeal have the highest levels of soluble fibre. You can take fibre supplements, but if you take too much, you may suffer from a bowel blockage. It is better to eat plenty of vegetables and fruit when you are able.

Drought signs are clear now

If you look at the rivers and lakes in our valley, the evidence of drought is everywhere. At Allison Lake, longtime residents are saying they cannot recall when they saw the lake so low. The public beach, where the water has receded, is clay mud and not an inviting place for swimming. Dry Lake is very low, but still a good place to swim at the beach end. The north end is mostly clay.

Tulameen River is extremely low and trees along the shore are turning yellow and losing leaves. The Similkameen River, at Princeton, is actually a little above its normal level for this time of year, but downstream from Princeton, the lack of water becomes more obvious every day.

Some people have begun watching levels in their wells very carefully, and ration household water as well as restricting sprinkler use.

Trees on dry hillsides are shedding needles and leaves now.

Decreasing water levels have not affected the popular Bromley Rock campsite. The beach is wider and more boulders are exposed, but there is still plenty of water in the swimming hole.

This is the northwest end of Dry Lake. The dark patch at lower left is the water. The whitish patch at far right marks the lake bottom in normal years. Some cottonwoods along the shore are turning yellow and shedding leaves.

100% Locally Owned, and Operated by people in your Neighbourhood“B.C. Bowls for Kids”

A story by George Allen (Youth) and Ray Jarvis (Senior)

The Variety Club of British Columbia is an organization that raises millions of dollars for the handicapped and unfortunate children in this province. Every year the annual telethon on BCTV raises money for these kids through different fund raisers and donations.

Ray Jarvis has been involved in this organization for many years. From 1967 to 1994, Ray worked in the bowling industry managing various alleys around B.C., as well as owning Old Orchard Lanes in Burnaby. He involved his interest in helping children with his love for bowling by setting up a number of fund raisers for the Variety Club of British Columbia. He got together with an executive for the Variety Club and founded the “BC Bowls for Kids”. Sponsored by the Variety Club, bowlers were given pledge forms and were asked to collect donations. For example people could pledge an amount of money for however many points in bowling the bowler could make. Also they had several bowling marathons, one of which lasted for 90 hours. Another local alley joined Old Orchard Lanes in the fund raising and together they made $8,000 in 1987.

Ray retired from the bowling business but he still wanted to help the Variety Club raise money for unfortunate children. The “BC Bowling for Kids” was still going strong, and in 1989 they raised $15,000.00. Over the period of time from 1989 to 1995, the Variety Club raised one million dollars. The club uses this money for helping unfortunate children (generally handicapped) with general needs. The money goes towards things such as electric wheelchairs, operations, prosthetic limbs, etc. They have also raised enough money for over three hundred mini buses with built in ramps to fit the requirements of the handicapped. These buses can be found throughout B.C. helping out in communities.

The Variety Club has helped people for many years, but would not be possible if it weren't for individuals like Ray Jarvis who make the organization work. Ray founded the B.C. Bowls for Kids fund raiser, and the idea is still used today by the proprietors throughout B.C. who own bowling alleys around the province. The average amount raised annually is $100,000.00. They also have special events to make the public aware of their actions. They've had “Celebrity Days” in which Mayors, politicians, Doctors, and other well-known people throughout the communities bowl for fund raising. The idea has been supported with strong enthusiasm and will continue on for years to come.

Look for the Variety Clubs annual “T.V. Telethon” during the months of January and February. Ray was in the bowling business for thirty years, from 1964 till 1994. He currently works at the Princeton Golf Course. He also raises money at the local Legion through various fund raisers and donates a cheque to the Variety Club of British Columbia every year. He will continue to help support the Variety Club however he can. Ray has helped hundreds of children by starting this simple and fun way to raise money. I believe we could all take a lesson from someone like him and become more involved in organizations like this that can help others so much.

New drug fights Crohn's

Health Canada has approved a new drug for the treatment of Crohn's disease, the first significant new therapy for the debilitating disease to hit the Canadian market in more than 20 years.

Infliximab, sold under the brand name Remicade, works by blocking a chemical in the body called TNF-alpha. Overproduction of the highly active chemical leads to inflammation in chronic autoimmune conditions such as Crohn's. Remicade targets and binds to TNF-alpha like a clamp and prevents it from starting the chain reaction that leads to the damaging inflammation of Crohn's disease. Remicade is manufactured by Schering.

Yes, this is rocket science!

Youngsters in the Princeton area will have an opportunity to learn rocket science through the Summer Recreation Rocketry Camp. The camp will be held from August 21 to 24.

For three days, young rocket scientists will learn how rockets work by building rockets. Each participant will build his or her rocket. Youngsters will learn about design, structure and propellants. On the final day, it will be time to launch the rocket to find out whether it will go into orbit or fizzle out. This is an exciting hands-on experience for youth.

The young scientists must be age 11 or older. The cost of Rocketry Camp is $15 per participant. To register, call 295-7222 and ask for Sarah Van Heeswijk.

Call as soon as possible to register, as this is a very popular camp.

Local youngsters will be able to build rockets.

Procedures for attending meetings

By Patty Harrower

In a previous article, I discussed how a quorum was decided upon, and pointed out that anyone who wished an organization's quorum to be larger should attend that organization's meetings.

Some say they do not have time to attend meetings. People make the time to do what is important to them. If you really cannot find time to attend meetings and help to make the decisions in the best interest of your organization, then trust your Board of Directors to do so. That is why you elected them.

"But no one told me about the meeting," is often heard as an excuse for non-attendance. If you wish to attend meetings of any organization, whether you are a member of the organization itself, or an interested person in the general public, it is your own responsibility to get the information you need. Most of the local organizations' meetings are open not only to their own entire membership, but to the general public as well, including media. It is easy to find out when meetings are held.

All registered non-profit organizations are required to put notices in their local newspapers for two weeks prior to any Annual General Meeting. Most local organizations that meet regularly through the year have a set day, time and place that they meet. One organization may meet every second Tuesday and another group, on the last Thursday of each month. At least one newspaper continually runs a community calendar of events listing, among other things, club meetings. Perhaps you can phone someone you know who goes to the meetings. Those who always show up know when and where to meet without being told each time there is a meeting. It's the same time and place every month or two, depending upon the interval that the organization has decided upon.

It is not the responsibility of any of the Directors or Executive in an organization to inform anyone else of a meeting to be held, unless it is necessary to call a special meeting outside the regular time frame. An emergency meeting, to deal with a specific situation that has come up and must be resolved sooner than the next regular meeting, is an example. When that happens, it is usually only the Executive and/or Directors that are notified in any case. Why not notify the entire membership? Most of the time, an emergency meeting is just that - an emergency, and there is no time to inform the entire membership. The only requirement is to make sure that there are enough members present to form a legal quorum.

However, there is a good chance you will be notified of any special meeting, whether you are elected to serve on the Board of Directors or not, IF you make a point of attending most of the regularly scheduled meetings.

How do you, then, determine your quorum, what that minimum number of members present to conduct business, should be? Granted, it would be best if most of the members of any organization attended regular meetings most of the time. If say, 20 members attended meetings regularly out of a membership of 25, a quorum could be set at perhaps 15. That way, whatever business needed to be conducted in any particular meeting could reasonably be expected to be dealt with.

- * Wrap celery in aluminum foil and it will last for weeks.
- * Brush beaten egg white over pie crust before baking to yield a beautiful glossy finish.
- * When boiling corn on the cob, add a pinch of sugar to help bring out the corn's natural sweetness.
- * To determine whether an egg is fresh, immerse it in a pan of cool, salted water. If it sinks, it is fresh. If it rises, throw it away.
- * Throbbing headache? Take a lime, cut it in half and rub it on your forehead - throbbing stops!
- * Don't throw out leftover wine - freeze it into ice cubes for future use in casseroles and sauces.
- * If you have a problem opening jars, try using latex dishwashing gloves for a non-slip grip.
- * To remove food stains from your fingers, slice and rub raw potato on the stains and rinse with water.
- * To stop mosquito bites from itching, apply soap to the bite.
- * Use air freshener to clean mirrors. It works well and adds a nice scent.
- * Scotch tape removes most slivers painlessly and easily - just put it over the sliver and pull it off.
- * You can clean a toilet with Alka Selzer! Drop two Alka Selzer tablets into the toilet bowl, wait 20 minutes, brush and flush. The citric acid and effervescent action clean vitreous china. It will do the same for a vase.

ARIES - Your energy levels remain high, and the kind of energy you have this week can be used most effectively for work. This kind of energy demands expression by achieving goals. Focus on future.

TAURUS - You start the week feeling good about what you hear from relatives, but matters dealing with property may be a bit challenging. Home life seems hectic and events will surprise you.

GEMINI - This week starts well, but changes rapidly into a challenging time. Your challenge is to say what you need to say when others oppose your views. You can do this very well on Friday.

CANCER - This week could have been designed just for you. You feel good, your life is busy and good news comes to you. Just one problem exists - you may have to spend more than you planned with less funds.

LEO - Your focus shifts to what you own and what you value. Your partner may surprise you this week with some aggressive action. Children or young people may be a source of stress.

VIRGO - This is a good week for you to attend to details and bring paper work up to date. You can achieve a great deal in this area starting Tuesday, as your mind is very sharp now. The weekend may bring luck.

LIBRA - You might profit from some open honest talk regarding your career, and this is a good time to do it. You have an opportunity to do some self-analysis now. Young people may shock you.

SCORPIO - The week begins with more of the same hectic pace, but by the weekend, you should hear some good news and the pace should become more comfortable. Travel prospects are good.

SAGITTARIUS - The week begins with partnership matters going well. There should be a lot of discussion on the job, and it should be positive for you. An education opportunity may surprise you.

CAPRICORN - Your partner may be very generous this week, and may talk about sharing some resources with you. Discussion regarding travel will be positive. Wednesday could be surprising.

AQUARIUS - A partner or close friend is likely to surprise you this week, or perhaps it is you who is the source of surprising news. In any case, change is in the air, and moves ahead quickly.

PISCES - You begin communicating openly and honestly with a partner of close friend. There may be surprises or shocks connected with health matters. Your mind is in a turmoil. Try to relax this weekend.

*Nothing can ever take away,
 The love a heart holds dear.
 Fond memories linger everyday,
 Remembrance keeps you near.
 If tears could build a stairway,
 And heartaches make a lane,
 We'd walk a path to heaven, to bring you home again.*

A wonderful Wife, Mom, & Nanna.

OUR VIEW

APEC report assures right to protest

The report on the APEC protest in Vancouver, in which RCMP used pepper spray on the crowd, states clearly the right of Canadians to protest peacefully.

There were implications of wrong-doing on the part of the RCMP, but with appreciation for the fact the police must do their job. The report said the police action had violated citizens' rights. There were added implications of political interference from the government which may have set the tone for the way the crowd was handled. The recommendations in the report suggest the political wing distance itself from these situations.

Perhaps, to the average Canadian, the most important thing the report says is that we have a right to peaceful protest. Our Charter of Rights and Freedoms upholds our right to gather together to tell our politicians when we do not like something that is going on. We can object and protest, as long as we do it peacefully.

The protesters in Quebec last spring have complaints about the way they were treated, and the APEC report will set the tone for the report on the Quebec complaints arising from the protest against the World Trade Organization.

There is one question the report does not answer: why were politicians so afraid of citizens speaking out? Knowing how apathetic Canadians are, a logical person would conclude any kind of protest from Canadian citizens should bring politicians to listen to what the citizens are saying. Instead, the citizens were driven away with pepper spray.

We live in a world where deals are being struck between nations using political and financial leverage to sell out benefits citizens want to protect. Our government, and other governments, need protests to see that citizens do not intend to give up medicare and water simply to appease the ambitions of other nations. The APEC report is a strong reminder to everyone that we live in a free country where citizens still have the right to speak their minds.

Tulameen wins congratulations

Dear Editor;

I've said it before and I'll say it again - it takes a community to raise a child! It is a shared vision or responsibility of the entire community to let its young people know that we care about them. It is shown through our actions, commitment to and involvement with youth. It is important to show respect for and confidence in our young people. We should value youth for who they are today, not just for what they are becoming. One community that values its young people and their families is Tulameen.

Princeton & District Child & Young Committee is very proud to recognize the Tulameen Community Club (and its many volunteers) for the fantastic job they do each and every year for the Tulameen Family Fun Days. Each summer the Tulameen community comes together to put on a weekend of family, friends and fun! They host the longest running slopitch tournament in British Columbia's history - some 25 years, have the best water fights during the parade, kids can win many prizes during both the Children's Carnival and kid's games, families come together to enjoy both the barbecue and pancake breakfast, and best of all, everyone has fun!

And what do they do all this for? It's for the kids! All monies raised during Tulameen Family Fun Days goes back to Tulameen community kids and families. Tulameen Community Club has built an outdoor arena, playground at Tulameen School, and BMX track. They organize many kids events such as the very popular Halloween Carnival, Christmas concert, Easter egg hunts, summer day camps and swimming lessons. All the while encouraging the kids and families of Tulameen to come out and have some fun. Tulameen Community Club is this month's Princeton & District Child & Youth Committee's "Outstanding Youth Asset Builder." The time and attention that Tulameen Community Club volunteers dedicate to the young people of their community is a shining example of what "asset building" is all about. Thank you for showing kids you care.

Another exciting event that takes place in the early morning of Tulameen Family Fun Days is the Tulameen Triathlon. This event is a grueling 1 km. swim, 20 km. bike and 10 km. run. It was very encouraging to see so many young participants this year. I would like to congratulate the Young Guns team - Corbin Clement (9 year old swimmer), Clint Cook (10 year old biker) and Clark Esselink (11 year old runner) for their fantastic team finishing time of 2 hours, 7 minutes and 51 seconds. Zack Brown was the fastest swimmer, Nick Cook participated on a mixed team and Michael Duncan completed the entire event on his own. Way to go everyone! It's encouraging to see young people involved such a challenging endeavour. You should all take great pride in what you have accomplished.

Tulameen community is congratulated for its outstanding dedication to family, friends and especially the kids!
Nadine McEwen,
Asset Development Coordinator

Respect for others - or the lack of it!

Dear Editor;

I think everyone has at one time or another, not only in our town but in other towns and cities, noticed the total disrespect for the handicapped parking that they require to do the simple chore of shopping or entering other places of business and residences. It's a shame to see the able take these parking spaces, forcing the handicapped to park a short distance away (short for the able but a long and some times very painful distance for those less fortunate).

Please show some respect now. Heaven forbid that some day you become handicapped and have to park at the far side of the parking lot and struggle in pain just to do the simple chore of shopping.

A lot of offenders are people who really should know better, people who think that because they have a handicapped card in their vehicle that it entitles them to use it, even though the person the card is assigned to is not there. You, of all people, should show respect!
Eric Erickson.

Cloning humans? Why bother?

Dawn Johnson, Editor
Similkameen News Leader

Two doctors spoke out last week on the subject of cloning human beings. They maintain they have the right to clone humans.

I'm not going to argue against cloning on the basis of religion nor even on the basis of some kind of religious concept of morality. I am going to argue against cloning humans on the basis of logic and common sense.

Scientists may feel they have a right to clone humans, but why should they? In exercising that right, who is going to pay the bills for it? I don't want to pay for it, because I am opposed to it, and I don't want my government to pay for it, because they use my money.

Scientists have the right to make nuclear bombs, too, but why should they, and why should any of us have to pay for it? Nobody with any sort of sanity wants nuclear bombs in our world. Having the right to do something does not mean we must do it.

Millions of people on this planet live at starvation levels, and thousands of people die of starvation year after year. Does it make sense to spend millions of dollars on cloning people to make more of us? Would it be more sensible to spend the money to feed the people already here and starving?

Cloning might be necessary if we humans had lost the ability to reproduce, but considering the reproductive skills of human beings, which are much like those of rabbits and lemmings, does it make sense to spend millions of dollars to artificially create humans? Most of us can create more humans cheaply, efficiently and to excess.

One of the qualities of being human is to be uniquely individual. A cloned human will not have that quality. What happens when we meet a clone. Will he be introduced as "the clone of Henry Jones?"

I would think the first people to object to cloning would be the law enforcement agencies. What happens to fingerprint and DNA as evidence when you have five Henry Jones running around? (Of course, this situation would give a whole new interpretation of Henry the Eighth!)

One of the arguments I have heard in favour of cloning is for spare parts. Pardon my common sense, but when you clone a human being, doesn't that being have any human rights? I should think the clone is entitled to keep his parts for his own use.

What happens if a clone can't find a job? Is the clone of Henry Jones entitled to Henry's EI benefits? What if Henry dies? Is his clone entitled to Henry's pension? Why not? He has Henry's DNA and fingerprints.

What if Henry's clone fathers a child? Who is responsible for the child maintenance if the clone won't take responsibility? How do we decide who is actually the father? Come to think of it, suppose Henry's clone doesn't like Henry and bumps him off? Who's going to be able to prove which Henry is dead, or whether Henry can be declared legally dead while any of his clones are alive?

We need to think this through!

Thanks to a local couple for support of the skatepark

Dear Editor;

Several weeks ago, I picked up monies from Bill and Anne, at The Hut, when I was returning empties. The same thing happened this past weekend when I returned more empties. I wound my way to Town Hall this morning to deposit another considerable amount of cash. We all owe Bill and Anne a vote of thanks for what they are doing - they take the monies for refunds, and sell paperback novels, to raise funds, and this is a very gratifying community spirit.

Thanks to both of them from everyone involved in the skatepark project, and encouragement goes to those who have all those empties after Tulameen Days and all the other festivities that went on in this area during the August holiday weekend. Keep it going - we have reached, or almost reached, our goal, but the maintenance and other necessary expenses still have to be covered.

Save your empties and ask Bill and Anne to 'fill up the pot' for the young people. The skatepark would be a welcome addition to the town for our young people, and as soon as possible.

Sincerely,
J.K.,
Princeton

by Dave Machin

Healing and health are for you today. If someone taught you from the time that you were a child that two plus two is three and you grew up believing that lie, it would keep you in bondage all your life. Every time you went to the store you would say, "I want two of these and two of those" and the clerk would grin and answer, "Okay, here's three" and then he'd charge you for four - and you would let him do it because you would not know any better. You would come out all your life one apple short. You would always be paying extra. You would be in captivity to anyone who wanted to cheat you, until some good-hearted person finally took you aside and said "I don't know who taught you that two plus two is three, but it's been costing you a fortune. The truth is that two plus two is four." Do you know what the truth would do for you? It would make you free. Swindlers wouldn't get away with lying to you anymore. They couldn't steal your money by charging you for four and only giving you three. You could go on to greater mathematical truths, but as long as you thought two plus two is three, you couldn't put those things to work for you. They wouldn't function as long as you believed this. So you'd be stuck in that one little place. I know that sounds like a silly example, but the fact is: people believe things in the spiritual realm all the time that are just as silly. You hear them say that we are accident prone, heart attacks run in our family, we all get it. If you keep on believing lies like that, you will end up bound by sickness. Some people believe that God doesn't care for them, or that God did this to my friend or family member, God won't heal me, it's not his will. When the truth of the matter is this: if you will read His word for yourself, you will find out He is good and good all the time. God says, "I know the plans I have for you, plans for peace and not disaster, with a future and a hope." (Jeremiah 29:11) The truth, once you know it, will set you free, and enable you to help free others. God is Good, His word is Good and Good all the time.

Council questions local benefits

Councillor Lorne Esselink attended a meeting of the Innovative Forestry Association, and reported to Town Council on August 7. He said he is skeptical of benefits to Princeton. In his view, Princeton will have to make an effort to ensure people in the Princeton area reap some benefits, because it appeared to him that most of the benefits would go to Merritt.

Mayor Randy McLean stated he wants to see the planning taking place made public. As most of the timber going to Merritt comes from south of Princeton, he feels Princeton area must receive more benefits.

At the same meeting, a vacancy in the Princeton Forest Service Field Office was the subject of the same sort of annoyance. The vacant position has remained unfilled for some time, and Council's questioning about the vacancy has brought what Council feels is an unsatisfactory response.

Mayor McLean pointed out that 60 percent of the wood cut is in the Princeton area, but the bulk of Forest Service personnel are in Merritt. He noted the waste of money in having Forest Service personnel drive to the Princeton area from Merritt, consuming one hour each way "when they could be living and working here."

Stephen Kurtz (left) is an Auto Travel Counsellor who works for the Canadian Automobile Association in Windsor, Ontario. He and his wife, Sheila (far right) visited Princeton's museum on August 10, and spent some time looking at the museum collection. Museum guide, Jaymie Nesbitt, (center) showed them items of interest. Kurtz asked whether the movie "The Grey Fox" was based on the life of the outlaw Bill Miner who is featured in Princeton Museum. The answer was "Yes!"

Museum welcomes more

Princeton's museum is a big attraction. Between July 27 and August 2, the museum welcomed 214 visitors. From August 3 to August 9, the total number of visitors was 230. Most showed a general interest in the museum. Many were surprised to find such an extensive collection in a museum in a small town.

Jaymie Nesbitt, a student working full-time in the museum, said visitors came from England, Australia, Hong Kong, Switzerland, the Netherlands, France, and New York, with the majority from the Vancouver, B.C. area. A lot of local people visited the museum, many of whom had never visited before.

Between June 29 and August 9, there have been a total of 1,163 visitors to the museum.

Most of the visitors are tourists, and the News Leader was pleased to learn that many arrive with the News Leader tourist guide "Discover the Similkameen" and say they read about the museum in the guide and decided to stop in and take a look. To the News Leader staff, this tells us the advertising works.

Fall Fair lines up attractions

For many people, the vendors at Princeton's Fall Fair are a major attraction. This year, the vendor with the biggest booth is Finning, who will show off their newest logging equipment. Finning is the sponsor of the logger sports demonstration.

Other vendors include a longtime favourite, the couple with all of the interesting items for home and workshop.

Princeton Farm and Feed will have a vending booth, and Bearpaw will be back with jewelry and Gan Noppe with magnetic products. George Elliott will be selling his books.

Princeton's emergency services will have a big booth to accommodate the RCMP, ambulance, fire department and Princeton Highway Rescue crews. They will do educational demonstrations.

Former resident makes news

Former Princeton resident Debbie Johnson made news across B.C. and into Alberta last week. Debbie was assistant manager at Princeton Mohawk service station and now manages a Mohawk station in Kamloops. She made the headlines by being honest and kind.

Matthew Faltin, age 7, was travelling with his family, heading to Vancouver for a holiday. He used the service station restroom and left his wallet there. The wallet was shaped like a black and white puppy with a zippered compartment in the back. It contained $20 he had saved since Christmas.

When the Faltins arrived in Vancouver, they phoned Mohawk and explained the situation.

Debbie Johnson immediately went to look for the wallet and found it behind a toilet. The $20 was gone. Johnson prepared to send it to the Faltin's address in Stettler, Alberta, and put $10 of her own money into it. Another employee, Melissa Muir, added $5 of her own, and the wallet was sent back.

The boy, on receiving the wallet, was told the story of how it had come back to him, and he started to cry. The Faltins wrote to

Johnson and Muir to thank them for their kindness.

Then, somebody told the newspapers, as far away as Calgary, and Johnson and Muir's kindness made headlines.

Johnson was in Princeton last Thursday and her boss, Al Knowles, called the News Leader to tell the story. Johnson had to be called out of the back room to talk to the press. As far as Debbie Johnson is concerned, the whole thing is embarrassing. She sees her action as just "doing the right thing". What she sees as the real story is that there is somebody out there who was "low enough to steal from a child."

Flasher flashes once more

On Thursday, July 26, at approximately 11:48 p.m., a male was observed exposing himself in the 300 block of Tulameen Avenue in Princeton. The male later left the area on foot and may have climbed onto a bicycle part way down the street. The male is described as a Caucasian age 17 to 19. He wore a dark jacket with a hood and light-coloured cargo pants.

Princeton RCMP are requesting anyone with information regarding the identity of this man to contact the RCMP Detachment at 295-6911.

RCMP remind the public such incidents should be reported IMMEDIATELY to the police.

The crane places a "churn" into the first pile. The churn will remove riverbed debris and gradually sink the pile to the bedrock where it will be driven into the rock.

Crane drives first pile in new bridge construction

The first pile has been driven at the site of the new bridge on Highway 3 in Princeton. The new bridge will change the end of Bridge Street in Princeton and will bring traffic along Highway 3 into alignment by eliminating the curve at the east end of the existing bridge.

Bridge Street will be widened, and shortened to accommodate the change in alignment of Highway 3. The new sidewalk to the new bridge will follow the property line of the PetroCan service station, which will be much closer to the highway and the bridge.

This week, large steel pipes, 30 inches in diameter and 40 feet long, will be turned upright and driven into the riverbed to become piles under the new bridge. There will be three sets of five piles abreast under the bridge, set in line with the flow of the river. These will be stabilized with concrete, and will carry the main beams spanning the river.

Last week, the crew created a pond where the first set of piles will be driven. The pond prevents silt from flowing down the river and is a requirement of the Ministry of Environment and Fisheries Branch. Rock debris is cleared away down to the sandstone base of the riverbed, then the piles are driven down into the bedrock. Pile-driving activity will not be continuous, so noise disturbance will be intermittent.

The new bridge will not have overhead beams, offering a wide-open look to the east entrance to Princeton. The bridge will look more like Stirling Creek bridge

Juniors enjoy time for golf

Junior golf will be running every Wednesday for the next two months. This weekly 9-hole competition is open to any junior golfers who have an established handicap. During August the juniors will tee off at 8:30 Wednesday mornings and once school starts the tee time will move to 3:30 p.m. Come out and join in the fun!

The first week's competition was Poker Hand and Fewest Putts. Rylan Mogge won the Poker round with 5 of a kind in 5's, while Vinnie Pontaletta won the putting event with only 13 putts. Low Gross winner was Shaine Clifton with a round of 43. Jake Greening won KP on hole #7 and #8 along with collecting the Birdie pot. Rylan won long drive on #4 while Vinnie won Proximity on the First Hole.

The Junior Club Championship is set for Sunday, September 16, at noon. Any juniors of the Princeton Golf Club who have a handicap are welcome to enter. If you have any questions, ask Dinny Mullin, Sharleen Clifton or you may inquire at the Pro Shop.
