Sno-X looks at March race

Timberline Cruisers waited until Saturday to make their final decision on whether to proceed with their original plan to hold snowmobile races in Princeton. They waited for snow to fall, but the little that fell was inadequate to their needs, and the January 26/27 event has been postponed.

BC Snowmobile Association has given Timberline Cruisers alternate dates in early March. If there are snowfalls of 25 cm or more, the club will stockpile the snow for the March dates.

If no races can be held this year, the loss to the club will be in the range of $2,000 to $4,000. They could anticipate entries from 75 to 100 racers, particularly this year, as Princeton was given the opportunity to host the first races of the season.

Victoria approves smoking regulations

The B.C. government has approved a new workplace smoking regulation which gives greater freedom of choice to individuals. The new regulation comes into effect on May 1, 2002.

Hospitality workers have the right to refuse to enter smoking rooms. Employees must give their consent to work in a smoking room and are protected from discrimination if they refuse.

Employee work stations cannot be located in a smoking room.

Workers can enter the smoking room intermittently to perform their duties but cannot work more than 20 per cent of their shift in a smoking room.

Hospitality and gaming establishments that choose to allow smoking on their premises must have separate rooms for smoking and non-smoking customers. Smoking rooms must be structurally separate and can be no more than 45 per cent of total floor space in hospitality settings and 65 per cent in bingo halls.

Hospital stays, court goes

— New guidelines for hospitals assures future for Princeton General

Princeton General Hospital is not about to close. It will be around for awhile yet due to guidelines for hospitals under the new Interior Health Authority. The policy states any small hospital more than 45 minutes from a major hospital will remain in place. Similkameen Health Administrator Marilyn Harkness made it very clear to members of the Community Health Advisory Committee at their January 15 meeting.

The question to be resolved now is what role Princeton General Hospital will play under Interior Health Authority. Harkness said there may be a decision to close the operating room, especially if surgery is seen as a major cost to the hospital due to expensive equipment being required. At the same time, she said there is no reason why the operating room could not be used for private surgery as long as it did not have a negative impact on the hospital budget.

The roles of all hospitals within Interior Health Authority are going to be defined in the near future. For more health information, see page 8.

Local author praises residential school

Dorothy McIvor was tired of hearing all the bad things about residential schools. Well into her eighties, she decided to write a book in praise of a residential school.

Residential schools for native children have become notorious for abusing the children, so it is a rare book published in praise of one of these schools. Dorothy Matheson McIvor was born and raised on a Fraser Valley Indian Reserve and attended a residential school. She became disgusted with all the publicity given to the abuses, and has written a book about "her" residential school, which she remembers with fondness and pride. She attended Coqualeetza Residential School located near Sardis, B.C.

McIvor's book, simply titled Coqualeetza, has been long-awaited by McIvor's family and friends. It was published just in time for her nintieth birthday, and is a testimony to caring Methodist Church officials and teachers, as well as those people in the community and government who actively supported the school and its programs.

Dorothy McIvor remembers the broad spectrum of training students received, from training in how to sew, type, cook, bake, serve meals for girls, to mechanics, carpentry, boat-building and farming for boys. This was done in conjunction with maintaining the school, as the school had farmland which produced food for the school. A great deal of emphasis was placed on cleanliness and good health as well as on being a good student. In addition, students had a great music program.

McIvor was outstanding in track and field, and won inter-school races. She played the violin, too. These were part of school activities.

In addition to all of the education meant to adapt students to a European invasion of their native land, the people who founded and ran the school had a profound respect for the native culture, arts. Continued on page 2 .....

Otter Valley Fish and Game elects executive

Otter Valley Fish and Game Club held the annual general meeting after a well-attended potluck supper at the clubhouse in Tulameen. The supper was delicious, enjoyed by 31 adults and several children.

Ron White was elected President, with Myra Brewer as First Vice-President and Rod Carlson as Second Vice-President. Gloria Ashley is Secretary and Loreita Young is Treasurer. Directors are Trina Adams, Ron Young, Judy Robinson, Bill Ayers and Dave Parolin.

The next major event of the club is the Big Buck dinner in February, followed by the annual banquet on March 23.

Government closes Forestry office and court

Government employees are calling January 17 "Black Thursday", and it was a bad day for Princeton, too. There will be no Provincial Court in Princeton after May 31, 2002. The court registry will be closed permanently beginning June 1. The Ministry of the Attorney General is going to find ways for people to file documents, perhaps by fax, and pay fines by credit cards. There is no definite plan in place.

RCMP Sgt. Warren Dosko told the News Leader the closure of the registry office and local court will be an inconvenience, and additional travel to Penticton will undoubtedly increase costs for the RCMP detachment office.

Rod de Boice, Manager of Merritt Forest District, told the News Leader that last Thursday was "an emotional day" as 35 per cent of district staff is to be reduced. There are 60 employees now, and 15 to 20 positions will be cut.

Princeton Field Office is slated for closure between April 2003 and December 2003. Princeton's field office is one of six on the chopping block, along with 11 district offices and three of six regional offices.

The News Leader asked de Boice how the work would be done after such a large cut in staff.

"There are many things the Forest Service will no longer be responsible for," he said.

Recreation sites and trails are going to other agencies or privatization. People who have been working at forestry campsites have been told the positions no longer exist. Continued on page 3 .....

Hedley "Cat Lady" helps SPCA raise funds

Mary Berekoff, of Hedley, has been known for years as "The Cat Lady". Berekoff has cared for abandoned cats and dogs. People drop them on her doorstep, and she cares for them as best she can.

Last December, Berekoff had some serious health problems, and had help from Dianne McKeown, Shelter Manager for South Okanagan Similkameen Branch of BC SPCA.

McKeown says, "Mary is a petite senior lady who loves animals. If an animal was abandoned, sick or if in need of a home, Mary became its saviour. She has become a small humane shelter. She medicates, feeds and gives shelter and love to these orphaned animals."

When Berekoff became ill, SPCA came to the rescue.

"Dianne took over as SPCA manager in September. Since then there has been no killing of animals. The shelter is nice and clean. The staff is superb - kind and courteous. Dogs and cats are well take care of. Christmas 2001, Dianne had every dog and cat fostered out, including a hamster. The shelter was empty."

A group of dedicated vlunteers have been undergoing training for the past year to be ready to search for lost persons. Twice a month this group meets to udnergo training in several areas to prepare them for searching. This includes survival training, map and compass, first aid, communications, use of ropes and other disciplines relating to searches.

The group operates closely with the RCMP, who act as incident commanders. The group itself conducts the physical searching under a search manager. Although the group is from Princeton, it can be called to assist on a search in any area. There were four searches in the Princeton area last year, but they also assisted in other areas, including Kelowna.

The group is ready to go at a moment's notice as being able to respond and start the search immediately may mean the difference between life and death. Recently a search in the Princeton area that had national media coverage started at 1:30 a.m. and the person was found at 4:30 a.m. Given the temperatures, had the search not started until daylight, the outcome may not have been as good.

The Provincial Emergency Program oversees the Search and Rescue group and pays some of their expenses. Participants are not paid, nor are group capital purchases. Often, money is raised in the community to purchase new equipment.

Dave Caughlin, of Princeton, is a trained search manager and oversees the search.

All requests for aid in searching for a missing person must come through the RCMP. The RCMP may utilize the group for urban searches as well, particularly for the very young or old, or to search for evidence.

Crimestoppers Month Police appreciate Crimestoppers's sponsors

January is becoming recognized world-wide as "Crimestoppers Month."

South Okanagan Similkameen

Crimestoppers program covers an area stretching from Manning Park to Midway and the US border to Summerland and all communities in this area. Since its inception in 1992 in this area, Crimestoppers has received 2184 tips, resulting in 395 cases cleared, 437 arrests, and over $1.3 million in stolen property recovered. Crimestoppers is credited with taking over $4.1 million in illicit drugs off the streets.

Crimestoppers is supported by corporations and private citizens.

RCMP Commissioner Giuliano Zaccardelli says Crimestoppers volutneers and their programs are of immense value in providing assistance to countless police departments world-wide.

Zaccardelli says Crimestoppers is a prime example of how communities can partner toward the common goal of reducing crime, and RCMP members have come to rely on Crimestoppers as an important tool in the fight against crime.

crafts and customs. Although the students were not permitted to speak their own languages while at the school, they were encouraged to continue crafts and art of their own culture.

In 1972, the school had become obsolete, but former students of Coqualeetza met once more at a big reunion. McIvor attended, and saw so many of her former classmates and friends, compared notes, and discovered they had made a success of their lives. They returned to their old school with fond memories of the years they spent there. Among them was a Senator, an MLA, business people and professional people, all of First Nations heritage. {McIvor does not use the term "First Nations". Like so many of the older people, she talks of "Indians" and "natives".}

Dorothy McIvor faced many hardships during her long life, and yet made her way through them with grace and dignity. Anyone who knows her respects her and appreciates her fine mind and good attitude. As an example of the kind of education and training she received, McIvor does Coqualeetza proud.

Her book, published by Blue Door Publishing of Williams Lake, B.C., sells for $16.95.

Her publisher is worth quoting: "Dorothy's manuscript was like a breath of unpolluted air - a manifestation of hope that perhaps the bad stories have been over-done, and the good stories have been under-done."

Rodeo Club approves Canada Pro

Princeton Rodeo Club is 99 per cent sure it will host a Canadian Professional Rodeo on May 11 and 12, 2002. This will be the first major rodeo in the national circuit to be held in Princeton. There are a few details to be worked out, but the final approval by Canadian Professional Rodeo Association should be granted this week.

The club plans to seek a lot of sponsorships, and there are sponsors on board already.

At the annual general meeting held Friday, January 18, members discussed work to be completed at the rodeo grounds, the need for excellent directional signs to the grounds, and the need to have a community group take over the concession stand and/or a rodeo dance.

Vice-President Ernie Willis told the group, "We need to get together - this has to be a community event."

The club decided to contact the Canada Day Committee to talk about promoting the rodeo, and George Elliott and Sharon Johnson formed an advertising committee to plan the advertising campaign.

A deal has yet to be made with a stock contractor for the event, but members were assured there will be plenty of approved stock contractors available.

The election of officers was conducted by George Elliott. Stan Thompson was returned as President, with Ernie Willis as Vice-President, Sharon Johnson as Secretary, and Bob Lind, Glen Sellers, Jack Powell, Carol Ruoss, Bob Wicks and Terry Wright as Directors. Nobody would take the position of Treasurer, so it remains unfilled. Members hope to elect a treasurer at the next

Government closes forestry office from front page

There are five positions in the Princeton Field Office. One is currently vacant, and has been deleted. The remaining four personnel may be moved to Merritt or may remain in Princeton. A cost benefit analysis will be done before the decision is made. Lillooet District Office will close and Lillooet Timber Supply Area will be run from Merritt.

The Forest Service is still responsible for compliance and enforcement and range management, as well as selling timber and issuing licenses.

The public will receive a more detailed report of the situation at the Forest District Open House this spring. De Boice intends to continue with these public information "open house" meetings.

BUY. HOLD. AND PROSPER™

Mutual funds are not guaranteed, their values change frequently and past performance may not be repeated. The purchase of mutual funds using borrowed money (i.e. leverage) magnifies the gain or loss on the cash invested. Investors considering a leveraged purchase of mutual funds should be aware that a leveraged purchase involves greater risk than a purchase using personal cash resources only. The extent of that risk will vary depending on the circumstances of the investor and the type of mutual fund purchased. If you borrow money to purchase securities, your responsibility to repay the loan and pay interest as required by its terms remains the same even if the value of the securities purchased declines. Before investing, read the prospectus and speak to a financial advisor. This seminar is sponsored by AIC Limited®/AIC LIMITED.

INVESTMENT INSIGHTS

By John Vaccaro Investment Advisor with CIBC Wood Gundy
and Greg Stewart Associate Investment Advisor with CIBC Wood Gundy

KEEPING YOUR MONEY WORKING - EVEN WHEN YOU'RE RETIRED

Your financial strategy for retirement shouldn't end when you mature your RRSP. The challenge is to keep your money working for you throughout your retirement. There are three major routes you can take when you mature your RRSP, which by law must be by the end of the year you reach 69. You can take the cash, put it in an annuity, or open a Registered Retirement Income Fund (RRIF).

Taking the cash is generally not a good idea and has two major disadvantages. First, it will all be immediately taxable - probably at a high rate. Second, since you won't likely need most of the money immediately, you should keep the majority of it earning for you (the tax sheltered status of the plan will be lost).

You can avoid these problems by utilizing two other RRSP maturity options. You can put your money into an annuity, since the government will not tax your RRSP assets if you do this (the annuity income will be taxable as received). Term-certain annuities specify exactly over how many years the payments will be receivable. Life annuities make payments to you as long as you live, or you or your spouse live under a joint plan. You can also transfer your RRSP funds to a RRIF, without paying tax (RRIF income will be taxable as received). RRIFs are much like RRSPs in that growth within the plans are tax deferred. The major difference is that there is a minimum amount that must be removed from the funds each year.

With a RRIF, you can take out more than the minimum, which is a significant flexibility advantage, although that will mean smaller payments later on (the excess amount is subject to withholding tax. The same RRSP withholding tax rates also apply to the RRIF withdrawals exceeding the minimum amount). For instance, this may allow you to index your payments using inflation estimates, or have larger payments earlier if you don't expect to need the payments later. Upon your death, all remaining RRIF value becomes fully taxable unless rollover or other provisions are applicable. Any remaining RRIF funds can go to your heirs once taxes, if any, have been paid.

The size of the annuity payments are determined, in part, by the interest rate at the time the annuity is set up. However, since RRIFs allow you to control how you invest your money, you can take advantage of different investments depending on the stage of the economic cycle. As well, if you don't take large payments at first, a RRIF may earn considerably more for you over the long run.

To determine whether an annuity or RRIF is better for your retirement, you may want to talk to a Financial Advisor.

*If you turn 69 this year, then you must choose an RRSP maturity option before December 31 of this year.

Bernice Power takes her only break of the day as she supervises the renovation project at Victory Hall, preparing for the transition to the Similkameen Country Employment Access Centre.

Renovations to Victory Hall prepare for Employment Access Centre

In the words of Bernice Power, her job takes "a lot of coordinating."

Power has been contracted to be the On-Site Manager of the renovation project of the old Keremeos Village Office. The six week project will be completed in time for the grand opening of the Similkameen Country Employment Access Centre, set for February 15th.

In addition to the scheduling of the renovation construction, Power's duties include ordering of the five on-site computers, public relations within the community and the organization of all the changes to take place at the facility. She is also responsible for related tasks necessary to complete each step along the way and will ensure a smooth transition and introduction of the resource centre to residents.

While Power admits there has been some confusion as to what the Employment Access Centre is for, she refers to it as, "a comfortable, welcoming setting for anyone who is motivated to seek employment and voice their needs."

Power says it is difficult for many people in a smaller community to travel to a bigger city just to gain access to resource libraries, employment information and computer data banks. This facility will provide all those things in Keremeos.

"The needs of the community will dictate the growth of the facility," which Power points out is being funded by Human Resources Development Canada.

Power, who is originally from Nova Scotia and has only been in Keremeos a few months, states that she is impressed with the number of resources already available in the community and feels the Access Centre will be an asset to Keremeos.

"I have a high interest also in communities having resources available for people who may not otherwise have access to them due to a disability or otherwise."

The Similkameen Country Employment Access Centre has addressed that concern and will have a computer in a separate, private room for individuals who may require special aid in accessing the resources.

With the help of seven Katimavik participants for the past week, Power says the renovations are right on track.

Keremeos RCMP enjoy peace

Sgt. Denis Bauhuis is happy to report there is "no crime to speak of" in Keremeos area this month. The biggest crime was a break-in at a vacant mobile home, where the thief stole two tea bags and a toilet paper roller.

There were two minor vehicle mishaps, and no impaired drivers during the Christmas Counter-Attack road checks.

"Over the years, people learn," says Sgt. Bauhuis.

There is one report going to Crown Counsel regarding a robbery last November, and it is likely charges will be laid soon.

The other item of interest is the re-trial, on appeal, of Terry Arnold, convicted of first degree murder of a teenage girl. Her body was found near Nickel Plate several years ago, and it took a long time to identify her remains, and even longer to apprehend her killer. Arnold's new trial will take place in New Westminster in mid-May.

CHAC looks for Health Fair participants

Keremeos Community Health Advisory Committee meets on Tuesday, January 22, to select a Health Fair convenor and move ahead with plans for the fair. It will be held April 16 at Victory Hall.

Frances Peck, Chair of the committee, says they would like to have the participation of all persons or businesses pertaining to health in the Keremeos area, including those services shared with Princeton.

There is no charge for participation. Each group is expected to set up its own booth but there are tables and chairs available at the hall.

Anyone who would like to participate is asked to call Frances Peck at 499-2324. She will arrange to have the right people get together for detailed planning for the fair.

Keremeos Museum will have one and the Music Under the 'K' Society will share a person with Keremeos Garden Club.

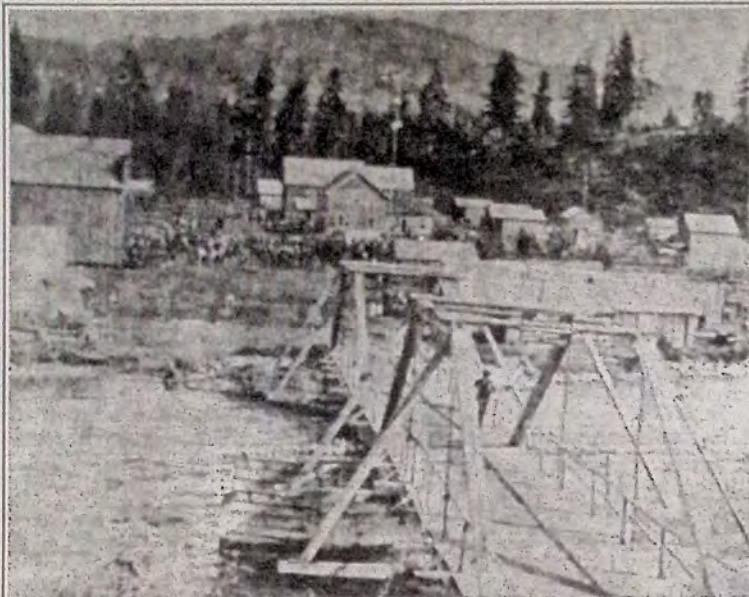

A total of seven 'floaters' have been working on the renovations at the Victory Hall building for the past week before they begin work with other organizations.

Honouring our past – Building our future, as a community

Princeton has faced many disasters, but it has always picked itself up, dusted itself off, and gone on to win. That's our community's spirit, and that's what these special pages are about.

There is a committee in our community that wants to put Princeton back on the map of winners. Cheryl Kuhn, from Rotary Club, chairs this committee, and she is looking for help from everybody, not just organizations, but individuals, to make Canada Day weekend a great celebration. She would like to hear from everybody by January 30. If you are interested in doing something, or have a great idea, then drop in at Larry Stevens' office, 195 Bridge Street, and leave some information about how Cheryl can contact you.

Princeton has always celebrated July 1. Above, a crowd gathered on Bridge Street in 1895 for Dominion Day festivities.

We did it before – we can do it again!

When economic disaster struck Princeton in the early 1960's, the situation was grim. Copper Mountain and Allenby shut down, the brewery shut down, and the sawmill went on strike. People could not pay their mortgages and they lost their homes. Many people left the area. Princeton was officially declared a depressed area, and people felt depressed, too.

In the autumn of 1964, a group of local people met and decided to revive the community with a celebration. They had no money, and no real concept of what they would do. When all of the talking was done, they decided on a celebration with horse racing as the focal point.

Big ideas, no money

Try to visualize this group. They had great ideas, but they had no money, and they had no facilities. They needed a race track, but had no land. Talk about dreamers!

Racing Days Association was started by the Chamber of Commerce and the Village of Princeton. The Village leased a tract of land to the Association, and numerous groups donated their efforts and equipment to build a race track on it.

People bought memberships to begin funding the Association. CIBC carried the membership registration forms and the money was deposited directly into the account.

William "Pinky" Foster (left) drives the first stake to mark off the new track for Racing Days in the spring of 1965. Carl Stenvold, Village Commissioner, and his sons watch. Stenvold was given the job of laying out the race track.

There was a long line-up for pancakes and sausages at the Lions pancake breakfast in Rotary Park, on a gorgeous sunny Saturday. People visited with each other and waited for the duck race to start.

We did it before, we can do it again continued from previous page .....

The races were held on July 16 and 17 on a half-mile track constructed just barely in time for the races. Those who remember the construction of the track will remember carrying buckets full of rocks from the track. Hundreds of people worked on the project - little children and old folks, and all ages in between.

Clubs pitched in to help with every aspect of the celebration. Princeton Light Horse Club, Kinsmen, Elks Lodge and Legion took on a share of the effort, and the fun.

The first Racing Days Princesses were Edna Boulet, Susan Stout and Linda Blackie. The Miss Princeton Racing Days coronation was followed by a public dance. There was a Rock Show (real rocks) scheduled for the weekend, and 11 entertainment booths (games, cotton candy, etc.) were in place. There was a pancake breakfast, an $800 bingo, a band concert and Pony Polo. Skye Blue Lodge donated a pinto pony to be raffled.

The First Racing Days

Going from dream to success!

The first Racing Days was a great success, and the community never looked back. For 36 years, Princeton hosted a Racing Days celebration, which was on Canada Day weekend after the first few years.

During the past 15 - 20 years, Racing Days spirit began to go downhill. In those early years, shops decorated their windows and sometimes their entire storefront, for the weekend. People added events to the first Racing Days, and the Lions Club added a raft race, and more recently, it is a duck race. The enthusiasm for the major event seemed to diminish. There were lots of reasons given for the loss of community spirit. Some said it was because the economy was not good, but the local economy has never been as bad as it was when Racing Days began. Some say it is because everybody involved got older, but there were plenty of young hands to help in the early days, and the older folks helped then, too.

Starting over

Perhaps the worst blow to Princeton's community spirit occurred last year when there were no horse races on Racing Days. Everybody was disappointed. Everybody started to talk about whether or not we should do something different.

Then, the Rotary Club decided to do something good for Princeton on Canada Day weekend, and Cheryl Kuhn chaired a strong committee and started the ball rolling. Their ideas are coming together, involving youth and plenty of action for everyone. Racing Days Association is involved, and so are Princeton Lions Club members, and others have given it support.

All those who are interested have been sent questionnaires asking

SUPPORTING LOCAL COMMUNITY PROJECTS MAY LEAD TO FUN

A reminder from Town Council to show your Community Spirit in any way you can!

People on a roof above Vermillion Avenue watch the Racing Days parade. The street has changed, but the parade goes on.

The exciting end to any horse race is the winner crossing the finish line. This is what draws people back to Princeton Racing Days year after year.

for names and telephone contact numbers, as well as what they would like to do. The committee is hoping to hear from a broad spectrum of the community.

If you think you would like to be part of the fun, we encourage you to make a commitment now, and become part of Canada Day Weekend in Princeton. You could fill out a contact form at Larry Stevens office or at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Can we do it again?

Can we find the community spirit to combine our efforts to create major events?

The creation of Racing Days weekend led to a lot of other events, and made Princeton "the place to be" for fun and for business.

These pages are sponsored by the advertisers. Look at these advertisements and see who has confidence this community can once again attract tourists and industry to build a brighter future for all of us who call this "home".

Paying tribute to builders

Princeton Exhibition Association is compiling a list of all those people who contributed to building and improving the exhibition facility. The list is huge!

It begins with the first executive of Racing Days. The President was Laurie Currie, "Mr. Racing Days". Other executive members were Carl Stenvold, William "Pinky" Foster, Jim Jackson, the late Rudy Kozak and the late Ernie Walsh. The list goes on to include Stan Thompson, Jack Powell, John and Ruby Bey, Jaymie and Dave Atkinson, Ev and Bob Beale, John "Smudge" Rubis, Rotary Club, Legion, Lions Club, Kinsmen, Elks, John Huey, Brad and Linda Carter, Ed Vermette, Fred Heck, George Elliott, Wendell Sellers, Northwood Mills, Weyerhaeuser, Newmont Mines (Similco), Princeton Wood Preservers, Harold Allison family, Bob Lind, and many more! What a community!

CHAC ponders future role

Princeton's Community Health Advisory Committee (CHAC) met January 15 and wondered what the future holds for the committee. Under the new Interior Health Authority, there is no official recognition of the role of the committee. It was formed under the Okanagan Similkameen Health Region, which was dissolved when the new Health Authority was appointed. At the same time, executives in the Interior Health Authority have expressed a desire for community health groups to continue to function and Marilyn Harkness, Similkameen Health Administrator, wants the committees in Princeton and Keremeos to continue to carry out the advisory role. Harkness says she needs the community contact the committee provides.

Maria Sadegur commented, "We have to get ourselves re-organized and decide 'Where are we going?'"

Members received two requests

Berekoff says, in admiration.

These animals included ones Berekoff had taken in, and homes were found for many of Berekoff's animals, including homes for four out of six Labrador/pit bull puppies. Berekoff was in Penticton Hospital, and grateful for the help the SPCA gave her and her animals.

When she was able to, Berekoff took back the animals for whom homes had not been found, and continues to care for them. She receives some donations of pet food to help with the cost of keeping the animals.

The News Leader wrote a story about giving donations to the SPCA pet food hamper at V&S store - now you know where these food donations go!

Berekoff is now a strong supporter of SPCA. She has begun raising funds for a new animal shelter, and is selling raffle tickets for a 1990 Dodge. She was at the Penticton IGA on January 19 and will be at Keremeos IGA on January 26.

"Go see Dianne and staff. See the shelter. You'll be amazed how well it's being run. Kim, Dianne and the rest of the staff and directors are trying to raise money for the new shelter. Let's get behind them and get this shelter built," Berekoff urges. "If I can do it, surely the rest of you can, too. Let's speak for those who cannot speak for themselves."

for funding for a project dealing with parenting. As the projects seemed much the same, and together exceeded the funding available, the requests were tabled pending further consultation with the groups involved. A third request for funding from the Child and Youth Committee is expected soon.

Health Unit will not move

Princeton's Health Unit will not move to the hospital, although Mental Health is expected to move from the Health Unit to a room next to the psychiatric observation room. This move is expected in the next two weeks.

There is a possible move in store for community nurses from the Health Unit to the hospital.

The plan for integrated health services is not dead, but the cost of alterations to the hospital to provide space for the Health Unit is too high for the present budget. The plan is postponed.

Harkness told CHAC members the plan to move the Health Unit was proposed to save money. As there are no savings possible by moving the Health Unit, savings will have to be made in other areas, and it will mean the loss of employee positions. She stated there are retirements due soon, and it may be possible to change two part-time positions to one full-time position.

Stress management seminar

Overtime is still a problem due to illness, but the new stress management seminar has received a positive reception from hospital employees, and a report from Sharon Elko indicated the consultant is providing coping mechanisms for stress both on the job and in employees' personal lives. Harkness hopes to see reduction of overtime and improved employee health in the near future.

Optometrist services wanted

CHAC members were asked to support a letter from Princeton Child Care Society requesting an optometrist come to Princeton on a regular basis to conduct eye examinations. The society is concerned because local parents find it difficult to access these services for their children.

There was some discussion of the inconvenience and cost to all local residents. The trip to Penticton is one cost, but for many people, loss of time from their jobs means a loss of income as well as the inconvenience.

Harkness told CHAC members there is a room available in the hospital, and if an optometrist is willing to come once or twice a month, and has portable equipment or is willing to install basic equipment, such an arrangement would be considered beneficial to the community. Members decided to write a letter of support in hopes an optometrist would be encouraged to come to Princeton.

Living past 100

Stop wrinkles and improve body health

Wrinkles on the skin are caused by loss of collagen, a form of fatty cushion just under the skin. The skin is still there, but like a balloon losing air, there is too much skin for the space it needs to cover!

Wrinkles caused by lack of collagen are different from the natural wrinkles that form in young people from laughing, frowning, or a habitual expression. Wrinkles that occur in other places are a sign of lack of collagen and should be a warning signal about body health. If you plan to live to be 100, you need to pay attention to wrinkles, not for looks, but for reduction in collagen.

Collagen occurs in joints, and when it breaks down, the cartilage in the joints begins breaking down, leading to osteoarthritis and the painful condition of bone rubbing against bone.

There are reasons for collagen to break down, and there are ways to prevent this breakdown. First, the collagen breaks down due to poor circulation. Anything which improves circulation will improve your collagen situation. The first thing that comes to mind is exercise, and not just going for a walk. Exercise experts know there is more to the body than the ability to walk. Walking is good for you, but there are other exercises which are just as important. The most important exercises increase flexibility and improve circulation, and at the top of the list of great exercises is stretching. It is important to stretch your body every single day. Although this does not seem to be real exercise, try it sometime. You will find your circulation improves immediately! Stretching is an excellent exercise if you already have arthritis.

Another thing you can do is take hawthorn. This is a pleasant elixir made from berries, so you can take it in a spoon or as a tea. It is an antioxidant that is good for the joints. It protects collagen and slows down the progress of inflammatory diseases such as arthritis. Hawthorn lowers blood cholesterol and is good for your heart, too.

Horoscopes

January 22 to 28, 2002

ARIES - This should be an excellent week for you. You have a great deal of positive energy and the determination to use it to advantage. This situation will last for a month. Line up your projects now.
TAURUS - Challenges this week may worry you. Something you thought was taken care of has to be reviewed and perhaps done again. Your energy increases this weekend. Spend time on plans.
GEMINI - This is a very positive week. You have excellent energy to use for future plans, groups, and achievements. One word of caution: you will be tempted to spend - don't. Conserve resources.
CANCER - Job challenges, real estate, details, and worries come to the front this week and for the next few weeks. Handle your business with common sense and be sure you check all the fine print.
LEO - A partner is in a good mood, and feels romantic. Travel may be a feature of some plans you're making. Hold back on decisions this weekend, and be cautious about plans. Things go backward.
VIRGO - Shared resources are favoured at this time. Action on the job picks up and you will be very busy for the next six weeks. Effort brings rewards. Pay attention to details or you will do work over.
LIBRA - Fun is high on your agenda this week, but that high energy is meant to be used for creative endeavours, not fun and games. Romance may be high on your list of things to do - go for it.
SCORPIO - Take care of essentials this week. Your job, your health, and your family may cause concern. You have a lot of positive energy to be used for employment matters. Keep that as your focus now.
SAGITTARIUS - You are now in a very creative mode. Your home life has stabilized, your energy level is high and very positive. See what creative thinking, new ideas, etc. can be used for benefit.
CAPRICORN - You will be concerned with what you can do with what you value. Partnership matters are favoured, and time at home can be very productive. This is a good time to redecorate or clean house.
AQUARIUS - You will spend some positive times in your own neighbourhood and among friends this week. You have a lot of positive energy you can use to build friendships. Drive carefully.
PISCES - Your financial situation requires some positive planning at this time. Perhaps you could consult an advisor. There may be a strong temptation to gamble or spend. This is not the right time.

Sunday Movies

MORNING

7:00 am WTBS (3) ★★"Look Who's Talking Now" (1993, Comedy) John Travolta. Two dogs trade insults and insights as jealousy threatens Mollie's marriage in this second sequel to the 1989 hit.

9:00 am WTBS (3) ★★"Dennis the Menace Strikes Again" (1998, Comedy) Don Rickles. Dennis stops pestering Mr. Wilson long enough to rescue him from a pair of con artists.

10:00 am WGN (23) ★★"The Love Bug" (1969, Comedy) Dean Jones. A race-car driver and his mechanic take charge of a free-thinking Volkswagen that prefers to take charge of itself.

10:30 am WTBS (3) ★★"Matilda" (1996, Fantasy) Mara Wilson. A girl blessed with telekinetic powers strikes back against her neglectful parents and her school's cruel headmistress.

FOX (23) ★★"Houseguest" (1995, Comedy) Sinbad. A con artist brings normalcy to a dysfunctional family after he assumes the identity of an old friend.

AFTERNOON

12:00 pm FAM (26) "Zenon: Girl of the 21st Century" (1999, Science Fiction) Kirsten Storms. A mischievous youngster who has spent her whole life in space has a lot of adjusting to do on Earth.

WGN (28) ★★"Heavyweights" (1995, Comedy) Tom McGowan. Chubby children descend on a summer camp for the overweight that has just been purchased by a greedy fitness guru. (In Stereo)

12:30 pm WTBS (3) ★★"The Goonies" (1985, Adventure) (PA) Sean Astin. A group of adolescent misfits undertakes a harrowing mission to recover the booty of a notorious 17th-century pirate.

1:00 pm KTLA (27) ★★"Taking Care of Business" (1990, Comedy) James Belushi. An easy-going ex-convict finds the business portfolio of an uptight ad executive and sets himself up in style. (In Stereo)

CITY (29) ★★"Beethoven's 2nd" (1993, Comedy) Charles Grodin. The lovable St. Bernard's new mate is taken away from her family of cuddly puppies by her nasty mistress.

1:40 pm FAM (26) ★★"Zenon: The Zequel" (2001, Science Fiction) Kirsten Storms. The 21st-century girl makes the most of a dull assignment by lending a hand to some homeless aliens. (In Stereo)

2:00 pm WGN (28) ★★"The Mighty Ducks" (1992, Comedy) Emilio Estevez. An arrogant young lawyer is forced to transform a bunch of unruly youths into a championship-caliber hockey team. (In Stereo)

2:30 pm CHBC (4) ★★"Simon Birch" (1998, Comedy-Drama) Ian Michael Smith. A small-town boy and his outcast pint-size pal struggle through the ups and downs of their childhood days.

3:00 pm WTBS (3) ★★"Look Who's Talking" (1989, Comedy) John Travolta. Bruce Willis provides the voice of a baby who offers his opinions on circumstances facing him and his unwed mother.

KTLA (27) ★★"What About Bob?" (1991, Comedy) Bill Murray. A pompous psychiatrist's vacation is disrupted by the arrival of his new patient, a lovable but aggravating neurotic. (In Stereo)

4:00 pm YTV (18) ★★"The Great Muppet Caper" (1981, Comedy) Charles Grodin. In London, Kermit, Fozzie and Gonzo get involved in a major jewel theft and Miss Piggy is wooed by a dashing con man.

5:00 pm WTBS (3) ★★"Sister Act" (1992, Comedy) (PA) Whoopi Goldberg. A Reno lounge singer-turned-murder witness transforms a group of singing nuns into an unconventional convent choir.

KTLA (27) ★★"Houseguest" (1995, Comedy) Sinbad. A con artist brings normalcy to a dysfunctional family after he assumes the identity of an old friend. (In Stereo)

EVENING

6:00 pm CITY (29) ★★"Payback" (1999, Suspense) Mel Gibson. After his wife and partner leave him for dead, a double-crossed thief sets out to collect his share of their last heist.

7:00 pm WTBS (3) ★★"Matilda" (1996, Fantasy) Mara Wilson. A girl blessed with telekinetic powers strikes back against her neglectful parents and her school's cruel headmistress.

KNOW (5) ★★"His Girl Friday" (1940, Comedy) Cary Grant. As she prepares to remarry, a reporter and her editor ex-husband tangle over coverage of a cop-killer's execution.

KXLY (10) ★★"Mouse Hunt" (1997, Comedy) Nathan Lane. Premiere. Two brothers fight to keep their late father's mansion from being taken over by a quick-witted mouse. (In Stereo)

9:00 pm WTBS (3) ★★"Look Who's Talking Now" (1993, Comedy) John Travolta. Two dogs trade insults and insights as jealousy threatens Mollie's marriage in this second sequel to the 1989 hit.

KREM (8) VTV (22) "My Sister's Keeper" (2002, Drama) Kathy Bates. Premiere. A career woman becomes her mentally ill sister's caretaker after their mother's sudden death. (In Stereo)

FAM (26) ★★"The Color Purple" (1985, Drama) Whoopi Goldberg. Based on Alice Walker's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel about 40 years in the tumultuous life of a Southern black woman. (In Stereo)

9:30 pm CITY (29) ★★"Something Wild" (1986, Comedy) Jeff Daniels. A meek Wall Street executive's life is changed forever when a mysterious woman leads him into an outrageous adventure.

11:00 pm WTBS (3) ★★"Dennis the Menace Strikes Again" (1998, Comedy) Don Rickles. Dennis stops pestering Mr. Wilson long enough to rescue him from a pair of con artists.

Pay for service stops public weather service

Our readers will have noticed the absence last week of our Weather Record. We are no longer running this service due to a change in how our local weather station operates. It is not the fault of the people employed at Princeton Weather Station. They are given directions as to what they may, and may not, do without charging a fee. Providing the weather record and forecast is no longer free, and the News Leader does not intend to pay a weekly fee to provide this service. Our costs are high enough.

What has happened, basically, is that weather information is no longer a government service. It is private enterprise. Therefore, the users of the service must pay.

We know the majority of our readers will be able to find the weather forecast on television or hear it on radio.

One of the things we learned, however, is that the workers at the weather station may no longer give any information to callers except the temperature within the current past hour. We know many ranchers and others have depended on our local weather station to give up to the minute briefings during haying season and other times when the weather can adversely affect agriculture.

This is just another erosion of the services we have taken for granted as part of what we get in return for the taxes we pay. The time is coming when, after downloading, downsizing, and privatizing, when we need to know just where our taxes are going. Will we pay less as a result of the government paying out less? So far, there has been no noticeable decline in the level of taxation but we have noticed an increase in fees we pay for this, that and the other. When do our accounts balance?

Food banks do not solve hunger problem

The current decline in financial donations to the Greater Vancouver Food Bank is cause for grave concern for all British Columbia food banks. It has rightly been picked up by the media and the public is being asked to meet the shortfall in food and funds. The moral imperative of the community to support our hungry fellow citizens should go without saying.

At the same time, as a community, we need to understand that behind the food bank issue lies a profound crisis in social policy: the collapse of Canada's social contract, now further imperiled in B.C. by provincial government cutbacks.

Over a twenty year period, food banks here in B.C. and across the country have become an entrenched and institutionalized second tier of Canada's social assistance system. In March 2000 they were nationally feeding 726,902 people a month. In B.C., during the same month, 85 food banks and 170 emergency food agencies assisted 75,987 people with their food needs, of whom nearly forty per cent were children. Since 1984, as the incidence of hunger has grown in B.C., the number of food banks has nearly doubled.

These numbers are astounding in a country as wealthy as Canada and whose federal budget is still in surplus. Yet they are likely an underestimate of the numbers of hungry Canadians. The recent National Health Population Survey (1998/99) reported that over ten per cent of Canadians, or an estimated three million people, were living in food-insecure households. These included people who both worried about not having enough money to buy food and those forced to compromise their diets.

Food banks clearly perform a much-needed and worthwhile charitable function. Yet we mustn't be lulled into thinking they are solving the problem. The sad reality is that food banks run out of food, cannot guarantee nourishing diets, and have to turn people away. The evidence from numerous studies over a fifteen year period indicates that food banking is unable to solve the problem of hunger.

The goal of food banks is to meet emergency food needs as best they can, not to deal with the underlying causes of poverty and hunger. Their dilemma is that the charity they provide is shielding governments from the extent and severity of the problem and allowing attention to be distracted from adequate income, employment and social programs.

At the root has been the withering away of Canada's post World War II social contract based on commitments to full employment/economic growth; universal social programs and an adequate social minimum. The abandonment of this contract has been characterized by the downsizing and downloading of government; cuts to welfare benefits and entitlement; inadequate employment benefits and minimum wages; an increasing reliance on charity and the community to address problems like hunger and homelessness; and the demise of the Canada Assistance Plan in 1996.

Before we can solve the problem of hunger, British Columbians need to determine a new social contract for the province. This will not be achieved by our current government's insistence on pushing through a reform program that will only create greater social inequality and deprivation.

What is needed is a coming together of labour and corporate interests, communities, and the state. Perhaps this is a naive suggestion given the divisive and volatile nature of B.C. politics, but surely it is no one's interest - rich or poor - to permit such widespread hunger to exist.

Sincerely,
Graham Riches,
Professor, University of B.C.

Open letter from Council

To Ted Worthington and Earl Driver, Princeton Crisis Assistance
Dear Sirs;

Council would like to congratulate you and thank you and all the volunteers who participate within the organization. The dedication and time spent in making up and delivering approximately 100 food hampers this past Christmas is truly amazing. The recipients and residents of Princeton are appreciative of the effort the volunteers have made.

Yours truly, Kathy Clement

The past was an undercover job

When Princeton resident John Henry decided to take out some old linoleum from his home, he had no idea he would uncover part of Princeton's past. Under the old floor covering, there were numerous copies of The Vancouver Daily Province. These newspapers were used as a cushion between the linoleum and the floor boards.

The newspapers date back to 1939, which undoubtedly dates the linoleum, too. John and his wife began to look through the old papers, and discovered articles about Princeton. He decided to share them with the News Leader, and we are really pleased he did.

The oldest edition he brought in had nothing to do with Princeton directly, but was a special edition called "Long Live the King". It was a commemorative issue on the occasion of the visit to British Columbia by King George VI and Queen Elizabeth (now known as the Queen Mother). This issue is dated May 27, 1939. It contains wonderful photographs of the king and queen and their two young daughters, Elizabeth and Margaret Rose (now Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret).

This Royal Family was extremely popular with Canadians, and had none of the scandals associated with it as did the king's brother, Edward, or for that matter, the present Royal Family. The special issue had 20 pages, well-supported by big ads!

The next issue, dated January 17, 1940, has front page headlines telling the public that economic warfare was stopping Hitler in his tracks. This news came from "experts" on the subject.

Copper Mountain rescue

At the bottom of the page is a story about a miner rescued at Copper Mountain. Maurice Haggstrom, age 28, was working at the top of a chute (a small tunnel in the underground mine) when the ore suddenly collapsed down the chute carrying Haggstrom with it some 30 feet. He was able to breathe at the bottom, but unable to move.

Rescue workers built a platform and began a bucket brigade, moving the ore a bucket at a time. It took them five hours, and Haggstrom was removed feet first due to the narrowness of the chute. At be given treatment at Copper Mountain by first aid attendant T.H. Bamforth. Then he was taken to Princeton General Hospital where he was treated by Dr. R.J. Wride.

There are those among our readers who will recognize these names, along with Frank Buckle, mine superintendent and R.S. Douglas, mine foreman, who supervised the rescue.

Irwin goes to Banff

On the front page of the February 3, 1940 edition, the headlines read "Bert Irwin wins trip to Dominion Ski Championships at Banff". The article is about how Irwin had his name drawn in a Province contest and "Western Canada slalom and downhill champion won a free trip to Banff".

The article goes on "Irwin, who has been spending his time developing the young skiers of his home town, Princeton, certainly deserves the break."

The article mentions other competitors boarding the "Snow Train", and then goes back to Irwin.

"Joan Cranswick, now at Princeton, wrote to the local ski moguls for permission to compete at the Pacific Northwest slalom and downhill championships at Yakima, Washington, next weekend. A week's coaching under Bert Irwin should have prepared Joan for her first major competition. Besides Joan, the Canadian representation will consist of Daisy Bourdon, last year's winner, and the Irwin boys, Bert and Bill."

Yes, Princeton had ski champions. Back then, Princeton always had plenty of snow on Amber Ski Hill, located above the new back nine of the golf course. The Irwins would appear, in years to come, on the front page of many newspapers, their home town mentioned every time, along with Amber Ski Club.

How's that for a little history?

Heart Food

by Dave Machin

September 11, 2001, was a day of great tragedy in America, but more than that, it also awakened us to the fact that we may not be as safe as we think we are, where we are. If you listen to the news these days, it seems as if there is a great spirit of fear being thrust upon us. However, that is not so surprising, for that is what terrorism is all about. Terrorism is defined as "the planned, organized use of fear as a weapon." The goal of terrorism is to terrify, frighten or cause panic to the point that a person cannot resist yielding to it. Oppression is the spoiling or taking away of a person's goods by terror or by force. It includes taking them away without having any right to them, by working on the ignorance, weakness, or fearfulness of the people/person being oppressed. The concluding thought is that at the heart of all terrorism and oppression is fear. Now, in a time when unthinkable acts of terrorism seem too close to home, all the world is about to see a striking difference between believers and non-believers. Jesus went to great effort to deliver people from all oppression. His approach to dealing with oppression is found in Acts 10:38. God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Spirit and with power, who went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed of the devil. Jesus did not just cope with oppression and terror: He destroyed them. That was His whole reason for coming to earth. The way He destroyed them was by going directly to the core of the problem - the fear of death. Directly or indirectly all fear stems from this fear. Jesus took the power of death away from the holder of it (the devil). The moment anybody receives Jesus as their Lord and Saviour they no longer have to be in subjugation to the spirit of fear, but instead it is replaced with power, love and a sound mind. Does this happen overnight? It can, but normally you replace the fear with promises from God's word and you will be free. It will take a little time. You can choose to listen to all the media reports of death, destruction, chemical warfare and terrorism or you can meditate on God's promises and walk free of fear in every area of your life. God is good, His word is good, and good all the time.

The Ridge View*Optimism and the pretzel?

by Joe Schwarz, local philosopher and humorist

It doesn't matter whether it's our security, our economy or the weather - in our most upside down world, we remain optimistic in this "New Year".

Flamingos, parrots and pelicans will be forming a broad-based parliament with the crows at the landfill because of the unusual global warming. Similarly, you could be given a nip by Alvin, the newly immigrated alligator, while dunking in Otter Lake or the Similkameen River.

Economically, some say the economic engine turned the corner in its spiralling downturn. Others say the economic engine has turned the corner, fallen on its side, resting on the edge of a world-wide abyss of recession and depression.

In B.C.'s case, past government policies now make it the leading candidate for the Argentina of Canada. That is, it's bankrupt, has massive unemployment, followed by protests and, to come, riots and the demise of social services, health care and pensions.

A novel solution given by some - a 20 per cent cut across the board in the cost of goods, services and salaries, coupled with a complete ban on immigration for an indefinite period of time. The idea won't fly - but who does these days?

The myth that money grows on trees has been put to rest by excessive lumber export surcharges and the pine beetle.

Security used to mean safety of your person and a steady job. Since 9/11 in New York, it clearly showed there is a concerted, sophisticated effort to expand the aptly termed "culture of death". Airliners turned into lethal missiles, explosives in shoe heels and in hollow molars in dentures (this idea literally blows your mind!) and imagine a humble pretzel to floor the U.S. president.

Fortunately, Princeton is a safe haven from being hit by a jet - its highest structure is an outhouse atop Darcy Mountain.

However, optimism and human ingenuity will prevail. Take these long line-ups and heavy security, a truly costly exercise. Next time you fly, book a "B" ticket with your friendly Princeton travel agent. No line-ups, no security, a completely different system. No luggage, no shoes, no dentures, in fact, no garb. Once you go through the turnstile, all you require is your bank card. The "Buff" airline is a transparent, non-nonsense, bare-bones operation. Their motto "Whether we make it or not, you go out just as you came in."

Be optimistic - they'll get you there one way or the other.

These people want prosperity

Business people of the Princeton area are in the process of forming an association to promote future prosperity. The members of this group see themselves as a liaison between the Chamber of Commerce and Town Council as well as individuals interested in economic advantage for the Princeton area.

These business people, approximately 30, want to promote Princeton and district, to market Princeton and bring people to the area, either as tourists or investors. Their mission is "to enhance, create opportunities, and promote a better place for business endeavours".

The group plans an open public information meeting at the arena mezzanine on January 30 at 7:00 p.m. They want to hear from a broad spectrum of the community. The group is being formed as a community-driven initiative. They need co-operation of Chamber, Council, Regional District and every citizen of the Princeton area to help make this area more prosperous now and for future generations.

This group does not expect anything from any level of government.

"We have to do it ourselves," says Jim Manion, one of the business people involved. "We have everything we need to make this a good place to do business but we need people to see this is a community going forward."

The three young people above are from the Katimavik group in Princeton. They are working with Princeton and District Community Services Society. On Friday afternoon, they joined the New Beginnings bowling league for a few games. Left to right, they are Kelsey Nelson, Jeremy Allen and Marie-Michele Gagnon.

Land Reserve Commission appointed - changes underway now

The Land Reserve Commission will be restructured to form a new commission with six regional panels appointed by government. There will be three members from each of the six regions and one provincial chair. The new panel members will have backgrounds in relevant fields such as agriculture, local government and business. The Agricultural Land Reserve will continue to be administered through the Land Reserve Commission, which will delegate more decisions to local governments. Delegation agreements will be voluntary and consistent with the provincial interest in maintaining the ALR.

Princeton Youth Action Team plans summit

by Nadine McEwen

Princeton Youth Action Team is a group of committed young people in Princeton who are working on Asset Building Initiatives such as mentoring younger students, hosting movie nights, developing late night activities for youth, and volunteering their time with other organizations.

In April, Princeton Youth Action Team will host a Surviving Your Teens Summit for 60 of Princeton's young people. The Surviving Your Teens Summit will be a two-day event where youth will participate in a variety of workshops such as building leadership skills, positive conflict resolution, drugs and alcohol, youth and senior initiatives, and more. During this summit, our young people will develop asset building activities and crime prevention tactics that will result in the development of the Princeton Youth Action Plan. This Action Plan will be developed by youth for youth and our entire community.

Princeton youth Action Team would like to thank Princeton Light and Power for their generous sponsorship of golf shirts with the PYAT logo on the crest. Princeton & District Asset Building Initiative congratulates John Hall and Sam Costa of Princeton Light and Power for their continuous support of Princeton's young people.

Princeton Youth Action Team strives to ensure that youth always have the opportunity to share their ideas, enthusiasm and spirit. We invite youth from Princeton Secondary and Riverside Intermediate to join our team. If you are interested, please call Nadine at 295-4051 or stop me in the hall at your school to talk about this enthusiastic group of young people.

Victoria cuts business perks

Saying government subsidy programs giving some businesses an unfair advantage over their competitors, Rick Thorpe, Minister of Competition, Science and Enterprise, announced an end to a number of programs. Current signed agreements will be honoured, but no future agreements will be made in these selected areas.

Thorpe warned the next phase will include a review of economic development funding to business organizations, industry sector associations and local or regional development groups.

What is cut?

The following is a list of subsidies which will not be funded:

- * Summer Student Works
- * Shellfish Aquaculture Working Capital Fund
- * Grazing Enhancement Fund
- * Fisheries Development and Diversification (including the one under the former Fisheries Renewal B.C.)
- * Partners in Cooperatives
- * Community Enterprise micro-loans
- * Industrial Incentive Fund
- * Loan guarantees under the Financial Administration Act
- * Fiscal agency loans under the

- Financial Administration Act
- * Small Business Incentive Program
- * First Job in Science and Technology
- * Technology BC
- * Technology Assistance Program
- * Job Protection Commission remissions
- * Prospector Assistance grants
- * Industrial Energy Efficiency Program
- * Renewable Energy Technology Program
- * Job Start
- * Shuswap Lake ferry subsidy
- * Mt. Timothy Ski Hill road maintenance
- * Green Economy Development Fund

Government cuts E-teams

Cutbacks in the Ministry of Water, Land and Air Protection (MoWLAP) include cancellation of E-teams, groups of young people employed on environmental enhancement projects.

Other cuts include no more permitting for low or medium risk waste management sites, no response to low risk human-wildlife conflicts, and privatization of park management.

Rebekah news

by Dorothy Stenvold

Although Sister Marsel was unable to be present at this meeting, the Installation of Officers took place. Sister Stenvold, acting as DDR, installed the officers with the capable assistance of Sister White as Deputy Marshall, and so we are prepared for the coming season.

We missed having Sister Stoneberg with us. She is doing well but still remains in hospital.

How nice to see, and have with us; Sister Commandeur, a former Vermilion Lodge member.

Sister Holt was the winner of our table prize and was delighted with the covered conserve jar and spoon.

A donation was made to the Arthritis Fund. This is a project we always support as so many suffer from this disease.
