

Flood wave hits Missezula Lake

This boat sits on a lawn covered with rock and wood debris after the flood at Missezula Lake.

*- Flood alert is not over
- snowpack is still deep*

An obstruction in Summers Creek diverted water, debris, mud and rocks through the residential area at Missezula Lake, 32 km. north of Princeton. An evacuation advisory was issued by Princeton RCMP Sgt. Warren Dosko at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 22, as high water inundated the community. Approximately 45 residents were assisted in leaving their homes, and many found accommodation through emergency social services assistance from an office set up in the Elks Hall in Princeton.

Crews and heavy equipment worked through the night to clear the creek, and by 5:00 a.m. Thursday had re-established the flow of the creek into its original channel and were shoring up the banks of the creek.

Power service was out for a day, and drinking water was contaminated. Extensive damage was done to the water system. A drinking water advisory remains in place, but residents returned to their homes on May 23 as clean-up continued.

Rock and debris cause damage
Although roads are cleared and power is restored, a lot of homeowners face a colossal mess, either removing tons of rock and debris from their lawns or tons of mud from their basements. Some basements contained over a metre of mud!

Fortunately, nobody was injured in the flood.

Summers Creek continues to run far above normal levels, and a lot of wood debris continues to move down the creek. In one location, during the worst of the high water, it piled up at a bridge and threatened to remove the bridge. Summers Creek Road was damaged in many locations as the creek overflowed onto the road.

Judge, lawyers marks sad day in court

As Provincial Court prepared to recess in Princeton last Thursday, Princeton lawyer Stan Turner rose to address the court.

Noting the historic significance of the final court session in Princeton, Turner remarked on his personal history of serving in the Princeton courtroom since May, 1968.

"It's a sad day for myself and the community," Turner said.

He recalled appearing before a magistrate, Supreme Court judges, County Court judge, as well as Provincial Court judges.

"We have been fortunate to have a very competent judiciary here," Turner said.

Turner thanked all of the clerks, registrars, Crown Counsels, and sheriffs who served in Princeton.

Turner expressed regrets about the Princeton courtroom closure, and said, "I am hopeful this won't be the last time I appear in this courtroom.

Robert Wicks, a Princeton lawyer who has served his clients in Princeton's courtroom for 12 years, said Turner had spoken correctly in his praise for the people who have served the judicial system in Princeton. He remarked on how difficult times had become with fewer court days and thanked all of the people for their efforts.

Peter Kennedy, a lawyer from Hope who appeared in Princeton on a regular basis in Family Court, spoke of how long court services have been available in Princeton, from a time when lawyers walked to Princeton from Hope to the Princeton courthouse.

Kennedy said, "The system is supposed to be for the people."

He talked about all of the people who attended court in Princeton through the years.

"Lots of characters came to this building, all of them came through the front door," Kennedy commented, and went on to note how this had an equalizing effect.

He added his praise, and went on to quote, "Justice must not only be done, it must be seen to be done."

He regretted the loss for Princeton people of "seeing justice done".

Federal Crown Counsel spoke briefly on how he will miss coming to Princeton, a "warm community." He noted the distance to Penticton would have an impact on people, and hoped court would return to Princeton.

Council says "yes" to run next election

At the May 21 Town Council meeting, the News Leader polled members of Council to find out whether or not they would be running in the November 2002 civic elections. All answered "yes", even Councillor Dan Sulentic, who was initially reluctant to make a commitment.

Civic elections are held every three years, and include voting for Town Council, Regional Director and school trustees.

Make the people's choice!

You can vote on the Youth Ambassador candidate you like the best.

This year, the Youth Ambassador Committee has picked a novel way to raise funds for the candidates - the People's Choice Award! Here's how it works: you drop a loonie or toonie in a can bearing the photo of the candidate of your choice. On June 28, at the Youth Ambassador coronation, which will be held at the arena, the money in each can will be counted. The candidate who raises the most money will receive the People's Choice Award.

This fundraiser will not affect the choices the judges make, as the judges work on a point-scoring system developed for selection of Princeton Youth Ambassadors during several different events.

The cans will be available at Speech Night, May 30, and Talent Night, June 13, as well as at the coronation.

The fundraiser cans will also be located at sponsor's offices and at other locations.

The money raised through the People's Choice Award will go toward Princeton Youth Ambassador Memorial Bursary Fund. This fund provides a bursary awarded in memory of Michelle Webster and Katie Norman to a student graduating from Princeton Secondary School.

Adams reports to Council

The Economic Development Association of BC held a conference in Merritt on April 29. Paul Adams was sent as a delegate on behalf of Town Council. Adams reported to Council in depth at the May 20 Council meeting.

Adams prefaced his report by saying the conference was a good opportunity to network with people from other small communities. Adams said it is crucial from a community standpoint to learn the economic development strategies of other communities.

Adams gave an excellent report, with a great deal of pertinent information. He outlined what speakers had said, such as the lack of reliability of resource-based industry. One of the speakers had emphasized the importance of the hospitality industry in driving the economy. This speaker, Robert Sandford, had urged people to think about what we want the West to be, and how important it is to avoid a compromised environment because foreigners will not travel to see a spoiled natural beauty.

Farid Novin, of the Bank of Canada, will travel to any community free of charge in order to give a presentation about Canada's economy. His forecast was moderately optimistic. However, he Could you volunteer?

Due to government cutbacks of student summer employment grants, Princeton Museum Society was able to obtain funding for just one student this year for only two months. The Society would like to keep the museum open longer, and is manning it with volunteers on weekends. They would like the museum to be open weekdays, but they need more volunteers. If you can spare a few hours a week, or even one day a week, to give visitors a tour of the museum, please call Councillor Kathy Clement at 295-3952.

Flood situation may continue from front page....

We may not be finished with flood conditions yet. The upper Similkameen River has not reached its peak and there is a great deal of snow remaining at both mid-elevations and high elevations. Similkameen Valley residents are advised to remain on alert and continue to watch the river. All creeks running into the river are higher than normal, and may not have peaked yet. Continuing mild overnight temperatures, more rain, and higher daytime temperatures may combine to create a rapid melt and bring a lot more water down at once. Authorities continue to monitor water flow. Residents living near rivers are reminded to keep away from riverbanks which may be soft and about to collapse. Children and pets should be kept away from fast-flowing streams. Be aware that water levels underground may rise and low spots may be filling with seepage and be boggy. There is evidence throughout the valley of seepage water in ditches and fields. Health hazards Ken Cooper, Chief Public Health Inspector for the Similkameen area, issued an advisory for residents of Missezula Lake, Summers Creek Road, Tulameen, Coalmont, and all low-lying areas in the Similkameen Valley. If residents have private wells and the area around the well is flooded, or near a rising river, they should boil for 2 minutes all water that is consumed or touches food and food contact surfaces. After high water has receded, the well should be disinfected (contact Public Health for procedure). Septic systems may back up into homes - minimize use of water down the drain. Living spaces that are flooded will need to be disinfected properly and dried thoroughly. Public Health will advise on detailed procedure.

Artists held a hit show

On May 18 and 19, Princeton Cultural Centre was once again the setting for another most successful art show featuring the work of the Vermilion Artists. More than 80 visitors - local residents, "out-of-towners" and some people from overseas - enjoyed a varied selection of art works. Paintings done in oils, acrylics and watercolor were included, as were drawings, photographs and lino prints.

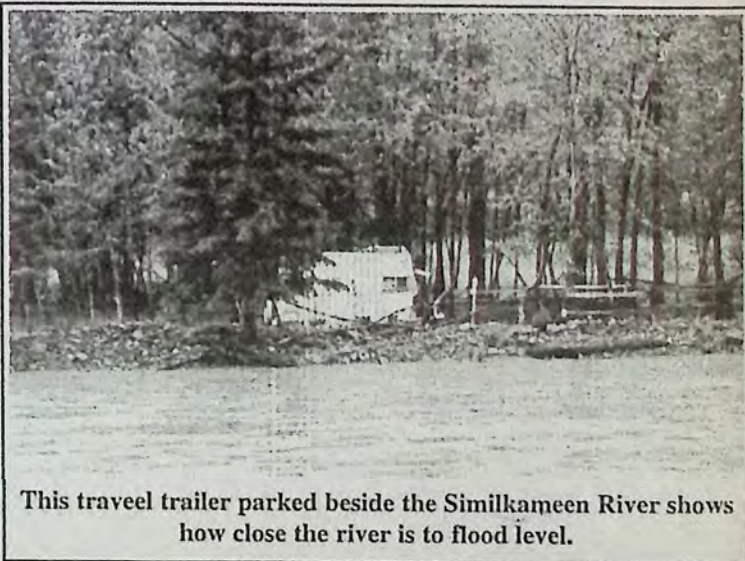

The new showcase featured a delightful selection of hand-built pottery in different colours and textures. During the summer, Vermilion Artists hope to display the work of local artists as many weekends as possible at the Cultural Centre. There will be demonstrations by local artisans. Check this newspaper for further announcements and phone Mary at 295-6778 for further information.

Last day in court from front page

Crown Counsel Philip Seagram began by saying it is a pleasure to come to Princeton.

"It is a coveted position in our office to come here," he said.

He agreed with Kennedy on the need for the community to come out and see justice is done.

Judge G.G. Sinclair, whose term on the bench has been highlighted by his sense of humour and goodwill, responded to the speeches by saying he felt a "deep sense of sadness and melancholy" at the closure of the courtroom in Princeton. He first came to Princeton in 1974, then later as a judge. He thanked all the people who made the system work "and by and large it worked well."

He agreed with Kennedy that there has been an equalizing effect in Princeton.

"I look at myself as just a guy doin' a job," he said, "and I've done it to the best of my ability.... I've enjoyed every day I've spent in Princeton."

Judge Sinclair stated a strong view that the court system should go to the people, and the move to Penticton will cause great difficulty for some people.

He noted the press had always attended court, and informed people about court proceedings.

"It's a good thing people know what goes on here," Judge Sinclair said.

In closing, he commented, "It is a great loss for small communities."

He expressed his personal opinion "it's a step backward."

He hopes things will change.

Adams reports to Council from front page qualified his statements by saying it is no longer possible to make economic predictions in a global situation. Banks now draw both an optimistic and pessimistic outlook. He predicted a two percent growth rate for BC for 2002 and three percent for 2003.

Novin said the most important issue for British Columbia's economic future is settlement of the land claims, as this influences how others see us.

Adams alerted Council to the existence of conferences in which economic development delegates meet with investors looking for a place to invest. He told Council it should be a person from Council who attends with the power to give a commitment.

Mayor Randy McLean thanked

Adams for his report, and said Council would have been spending 90 percent of its time on economic development strategies if it had not been occupied with a lot of other problems, such as keeping the hospital.

"Those problems seem to be out of the way, so now is the time," Mayor McLean said.

Adams told Council they must set a goal, and have a vision, then empower somebody to attend conferences and speak for Council.

Mayor McLean said, "It's important that Council put its nose right in there."

Adams said he sees more new people getting involved in the future of Princeton.

INVESTMENT INSIGHTS

By John Vaccaro Investment Advisor with CIBC Wood Gundy
and Greg Stewart Associate Investment Advisor with CIBC Wood Gundy

PROTECTING YOUR CHILDREN'S FUTURE - PART 1

I can't stress it enough: you need a Will. No ifs, ands or buts about it. And if you have children, there needs to be provisions in that Will that clearly state how you'd like your children to be cared for should both you and your spouse not be around to care for them yourselves. No, it's not something that's easy to talk about, or even think about, however it could be the most important thing you do for your children.

Estate planning may be a little unsettling to think about, but the consequence of dying without a Will and a proper estate plan is far too serious to ignore. Estate planning is an important element of sound financial planning, and having a guardianship plan in place is a critical element in estate planning. A guardianship plan is a detailed, specific framework that provides for your children should something tragic happen.

Your guardianship plan should cover two separate but related issues: determining who is going to care for your children and making financial provisions for the continuing care and upkeep of your children, as well as certain long-term considerations, such as education. Let's talk about each of these points.

CHOOSING A GUARDIAN

Although you may well have someone in mind already, ask yourself some questions before you finalize your decision. First, does your prospective guardian share your child-rearing values? How about your lifestyle values: is their attitude towards religion, education, family, and other issues similar to your own? If you're considering appointing your parents as guardians, are they physically and mentally healthy enough to care for their grandchildren on a full-time basis? Will they continue to be so as your children grow? And if you're considering choosing friends, will your choice create tension between family members?

Unfortunately, there's no quick and easy answer to any of these queries - you'll have to spend some time with your spouse mulling them over carefully before coming to any conclusions. Of course, broadening that conversation to include friends and family should make things easier.

For the second of these two considerations - Financial Considerations - see Protecting Your Children's Future, Part 2 in my next article.

Nothing could be finer than a sunny spring afternoon in the park listening to good music. Above, the Nooks and Crannies were just one of the many bands playing last weekend in Memorial Park.

Music Under the K

Isn't this a fine thing?

Few things in life are as fine as sitting in a park on a sunny day in May and listening to good music. This is what happened in Keremeos during their third annual Music Under the K, and although it takes a lot of work by organizers, those who attend can say they had a great time. It looked like the musicians were having a great time, too. Musicians love to make music and hear applause from a grateful audience, and there was plenty of that going on in Keremeos.

Population grows

Keremeos Post Office staff have been really busy the past couple of months. A lot of people are moving to and from the Keremeos area, and a lot of address changes have to be made.

The most interesting thing about all these changes is how the numbers work out. There is a net gain of 30 new addresses!

There is no immediate explanation as to why the numbers have increased, but perhaps the work of Similkameen Country in building a community profile has been helpful in attracting new residents.

Stop dogs chasing deer

Cases of dogs chasing wildlife are being reported in many areas of British Columbia this spring.

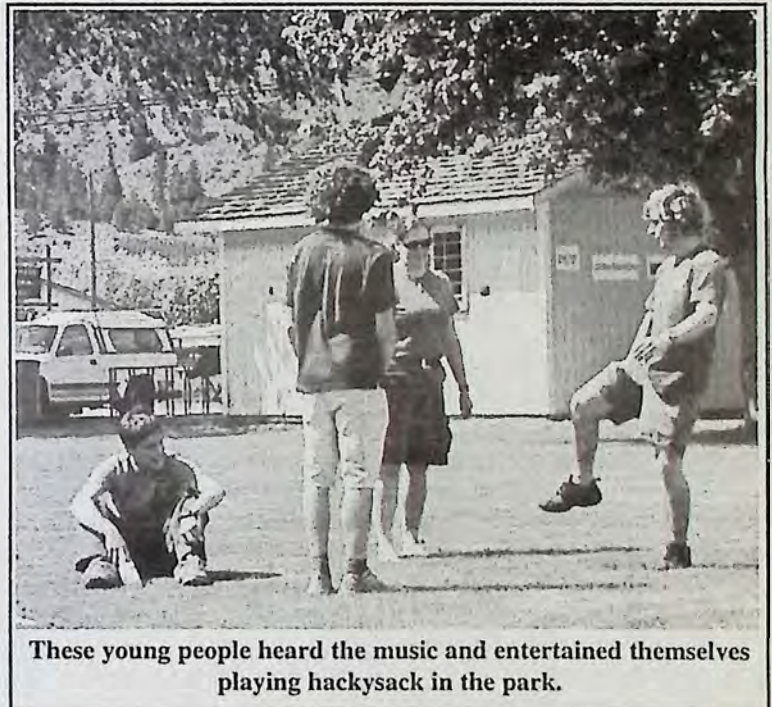

Pet owners are responsible for the actions of their animals. Police and conservation officers can destroy a dog found to be chasing deer or harassing wildlife, and owners can be fined up to $5,000 under the Wildlife Act.

A dog's natural instinct is to chase wildlife. Help protect wildlife - and your pet - by keeping your dog secure when you are not at home, and by taking the time to teach your dog to obey.

A bit of inclement weather on Saturday could not spoil the event. People just moved indoors and went on with making music and having a good time. The weather is always a challenge to any major event and people rise to the challenge and carry on.

Many volunteers are required to host Music Under the K and they do a great job.

These young people heard the music and entertained themselves playing hackysack in the park.

New Similkameen canoes will join trek

The canoes under construction by Lower Similkameen Indian Band, with the help of Katimavik volunteers, are going on a trek.

On Aboriginal Day, June 21, there will be a celebration at Kemasket Park on the Vernon Indian Reserve. The canoes will be launched during the celebration and will travel down Okanagan Lake, through Skaha Lake, Vaseaux Lake and Osoyoos Lake to Oroville, arriving July 4.

A celebration will be held in Oroville on July 5. The canoes will be paraded down Oroville's main street, then there will be a salmon barbecue at Oroville's community park.

There has been some discussion of another Canoe Blessing similar to the enjoyable event held last year at Memorial Park. No decision has been reported.

Princeton Eastern Star joins Keremeos

Princeton's Order of the Eastern Star is ending as a group and members are transferring to Keremeos Eastern Star. The final phase of the transition is in progress and the information was released to the public in Princeton as the Eastern Star member Barbara Milde presented its last bursary at the graduation exercises.

This bear was minding his own business out in his natural environment on Friday afternoon.

Watch out for bears!

Princeton RCMP Cst. Chris Newel and Conservation Officer Al Lay were called to Tulameen Trail in Princeton on May 24 to respond to a complaint of a bear on a deck. A house located at 140 Tulameen Trail had a black bear on the house deck, which was close to an embankment rising in back of the house.

The bear left the deck and climbed the embankment to Wilson subdivision, generating a second complaint. A small but self-important dog challenged the bear vigorously and the bear left. This situation might have ended with the bear turning aggressive, but fortunately, the bear was frightened.

On Sunday morning, residents of Third Bench area spent considerable time observing and reporting what may be the same bear, and at one point, it appeared there was a "bear chase" in progress.

Al Lay advises the public to be on the watch for bears. They are roaming the countryside and will approach any location where the potential for food exists. Residents are urged to take all of the precautions required during the time bears are likely to enter town or approach residences.

Precautions include feeding pets indoors and disposing of garbage the bears may find desirable as food.

If a bear enters your property, do not attempt to chase it away. Contact 295-6143 (Conservation Officer) or 295-6911 (RCMP). Alert children to the possibility of bears being close by, and keep a careful watch over small children.

In the case of a nuisance bear (one which frequents a particular neighbourhood), a trap will be baited and placed in the area and the captured bear will be relocated by the Conservation Officer.

Check ends in charge

Princeton RCMP stopped a vehicle with a burnt-out headlight and this routine safety check turned into something else. On Friday, May 23, the driver proved to have an outstanding warrant from Abbotsford and was arrested as a result.

During their search of the 32 year old Abbotsford man, police found a quantity of marihuana on him, and a search of the vehicle located more marihuana. A total of 219 grams was seized.

The man was released from custody to appear in Pentiction Provincial Court on July 15, 2002.

Princeton receives praise for community support of youth

by Nadine McEwen, Asset Development Co-ordinator

The following is a letter written to me by Keith Pattinson, Boys & Girls Club of British Columbia, Asset Building Initiative, regarding the outstanding community support shown for our young people in Princeton with projects such as the Surviving Your Teens Summit.

Keith Pattinson writes:
"I found the parents on Friday evening at the Adult Forum to be sincere, enthusiastic and obviously committed to giving their children and youth every possible opportunity and advantage they will need to grow to be responsible, respectful and fulfilled adults and contributors to a better society.

"My comments on the morning session with the young people must of necessity be more personal. I can't recall a situation in which conference organizers were faced with a more complex nor difficult challenge. Nor can I remember when I've seen a community so effectively respond to a terrible tragedy with such compassion and sensitivity toward young people who found themselves dealing with the tragic events of the Friday night that preceded the Saturday workshop.

"What I witnessed on Saturday was an ad hoc community response to an immediate crisis among your community's youth which was, without a doubt, one of the most outstanding examples I've ever seen of how a community can rally in support of its young people.

"Princeton should be proud of the way in which youth themselves, members of the conference committee, attending parents, and people like Councillor Kathy Clement demonstrated that in times of real tragedy it is healthy communities that are the response of choice. I saw that on May 4th.

"Princeton's Asset Building Initiative is, above all, about celebrating the capacity of young people to be part of the solution ... not part of the problem ... and I commend the excellent work that your community's Town Council, business community, schools/educators, senior citizens, police officers, service clubs, parents, and above all, young people, have done to place Princeton in the forefront of Asset Development Movement in British Columbia.

"Keep up the good work, Princeton!"

Keith Pattinson.

Princeton & District Child & Youth Committee also received an award from the government of Canada for their commitment to creating a safer community in Canada. The award is signed by The Honourable Martin Cauchon, Minister of Justice Canada and Attorney General of Canada, and The Honourable Lawrence MacAulay, Solicitor General of Canada. This award is for the hard work that Princeton & District CYC Asset Development Initiative and Princeton Youth Action Team put into the Surviving Your Teens Summit held May 3 and 4.

The Summit was sponsored by our community and the government of Canada under the Community Mobilization Program of the National Strategy on Community Safety and Crime Prevention. The National Strategy is committed to supporting communities to develop and implement solutions to problems that contribute to crime and victimization.

The National Strategy is determined to help Canadians build a safer and stronger country for all citizens by focusing on the root causes of crime, and by emphasizing early intervention. Princeton Youth Action Team is in the process of completing the Princeton Youth Action Plan that will focus on intervention, what will help our youth be involved, and what we as adults in the community can do to help our young people develop into healthy individuals.

The Asset Development Initiative in Princeton shows the rest of B.C. that, by building partnerships and including our young people in discussions, we are better able to support our young people in making positive, wise choices.

These kids DARE to make smart choices

Students at John Allison Elementary School and Vermilion Forks Elementary School have taken a 16 week course taught by RCMP Constable Steve Barton. The program, for which Cst. Barton was trained as an instructor, is called Drug Abuse Resistance Education - D.A.R.E.

The program is sponsored by Weyerhaeuser, Princeton Lions Club, Dairy Queen and Town of Princeton. Youngsters learn about drugs, what the drugs do to the human body, what addiction is all about, and how to resist the temptation and peer pressure to use drugs (including alcohol and nicotine).

Mayor Randy McLean attended the John Allison DARE graduation exercises, and asked students if they had fun and if the program was worth taking. They gave a resounding "Yes!" in reply.

"You are now informed young persons," Mayor McLean told them. "All the people in Princeton are very proud of you."

The following day, at Vermilion Forks, Councillor Kathy Clement represented Town Council, and congratulated the graduates of the DARE program on passing, and on the effort they had put into their essays.

Every student taking the program had to write an essay on what they had learned. Councillor Clement told them to keep their essays and read them in the future to remind themselves of what they learned and what they feel is important.

At Vermilion Forks, three students read their essays to everyone. They were Rachel Vinthers, Kenny Bishop and Shawn Hearty.

At John Allison, the students who read their essays to everyone were Katelyn McInroy, Erica McGill and Candace Aguilon.

Each student received a certificate and a special gift, a millennium souvenir metal box containing three millennium stamps and a millennium coin.

Cst. Steve Barton, in red serge, congratulates DARE students.

Hedley O.A.P.O. welcomes new members

by Jean Mackie

Hedley Old Age Pensioners Organization (OAPPO) continues to grow and thrive with new members adding some wonderful ideas and joining in whole-heartedly.

Our Mother's Day Pancake Breakfast was a huge success. With Rick Mackie and Ruth U'Ren manning the grills, we served up more breakfasts than ever recorded! We give a big "thank you" to all who turned out in support of our small club and to the volunteers who worked so hard. We are geared up for a big turn-out on Father's Day, June 16.

The spring flea market and bake sale was also very successful. Maybe next year we will get more sellers out. We thank everyone for their hard work on this one.

Yes, bingo continues every Saturday night. Where would we be without our awesome convenor, Ila Nelson, and those same faithful volunteers?

The club put on a tasty lunch for the volunteers who showed up for the annual cemetery clean-up on May 11. They did a marvelous job on the memorial tea for Corinne.

The OAPPO provincial convention will be held in Quesnel June 17-19. Three lucky Hedley ladies will be attending and plan on lots of good stuff to share with club members when they return.

We remind our members there is a potluck supper the last Sunday of every month at 5:00 p.m. Everyone is welcome so "come on down".

StatsCan tells latest on B.C. agriculture

Statistics Canada Agriculture census data revealed the number of farms in B.C. declined 7.1 per cent between 1996 and 2001. This is the smallest decrease in Canada (national decrease was 10.7 per cent). The number of farms in B.C. is relatively stable. There are more farms now than in 1961.

The southwest district (Fraser Valley lower mainland) had the greatest decline in the number of farms, followed by the Thompson Okanagan.

While the overall number of farms in B.C. declined, their size in terms of area, herd sizes and gross farm receipts has increased. The average B.C. farm was 315 acres in 2001, up 10.1 per cent from 1996. Since 1981, the average farm size has increased 17.1 per cent.

Total farm area in B.C. increased 2.3 per cent since 1996. Cropland rose 9.2 per cent. B.C.'s farmland made up four per cent of the national total, unchanged since 1996.

Farm receipts

B.C.'s total gross farm receipts were almost $2.3 billion in 2000, while operating expenses reached $2.1 billion. In general, expenses rose slightly faster than revenues. Five years earlier, receipts were $1.8 billion and expenses were $1.7 billion.

Over the five-year period, prices farmers received for their products increased by 7.8 per cent, while prices they paid for expenses such as fertilizer and fuel increased 9.8 per cent. Farmers, squeezed by relative increasing costs, had to increase farm productivity to keep the ratio of receipts to expenses favourable.

Farm type

Cattle farms (dairy and beef) are the most common types of farms in B.C., accounting for close to one-quarter of all farms. They are followed by fruit farms (14.5 per cent), horse and pony farms (12.6 per cent) and hay and fodder crop farms with 9.9 per cent. Since 1996, the share of cattle farms increased while the share of fruit farms declined.

Organic farming

For the first time, farmers were able to report on their census forms that they produced certified organic commodities. There were 319 organic farms in B.C. These made up 14 per cent of organic farms in Canada. The predominant certified organic products grown in B.C. were fruit, vegetable or greenhouse products.

Greenhouses

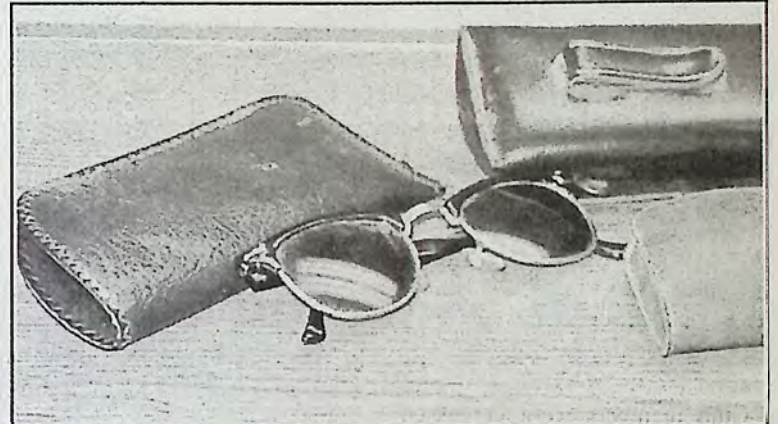

During the years between 1996 and 2001, greenhouse area in B.C. grew from 31 million square feet to 50 million square feet. B.C. ranks second after Ontario in the number of greenhouse operations and total greenhouse area.

Berry growers

more than one-half of Canada's raspberry growing area is in B.C. B.C. has the highest number of operations reporting berries and nuts.

Vineyards

Grape growing land more than doubled in B.C. in the past five years, but apple growing land declined. B.C.'s apple industry produces one-quarter of Canada's total.

Drink tea for your bones

Loss of calcium from your bones is one of the great dangers of aging. People used to think it was a woman's disease, but as people live longer, we become aware bone loss eventually affects men just as much as it affects women.

Researchers in China have discovered that tea prevents bone loss, and may actually contribute to building strong bones. They discovered that people who drank tea on a regular basis did not lose bone density, especially in the spine.

People who drank tea regularly for more than 10 years had better bone density than those who drank tea only once a week or occasionally.

The question of what makes tea drinkers have stronger bones has not been answered, but nutritionists offer a few possible reasons:

1. Tea is a good source of fluoride, a natural substance that slows bone loss (that's why we have fluoride in our toothpaste).
2. Tea is rich in plant compounds called flavonoids, which improve bone density.
3. Tea may influence the way the body uses other minerals that contribute to bone density.

You may drink oolong, black or green tea and have the same beneficial effects. If we ever get summer, you may want to make iced tea. To make it at home, and make a lot, use several teabags in a large pot. Fill with boiling water and allow it to steep for 10 minutes. Then remove the teabags and put the very strong tea into containers for your refrigerator. Add cold water, lemon and sugar to suit your taste. Refrigerate for an hour. You can add ice cubes or not. You will have lots of iced tea during the hot days. Furthermore, you will find this less expensive than buying iced tea mix. If you prefer, buy lemon concentrate or frozen lemonade for your iced tea. The lemonade will add more flavonoids to your drink and therefore give you more good stuff from your iced tea.

There is no information to indicate the same benefits come from iced tea mix.

Driver injured in truck crash

The driver of a tractor trailer unit was seriously injured when he lost control of the rig in a curve, crossed over and struck a rock face on the opposite side of the road. The crash occurred 7 km west of Hedley on Saturday night. Speed is believed to be a factor. The highway was closed for a short time, then re-opened to single lane traffic. Clean-up went on all night.

The 55 year old Vancouver man was taken to Princeton General Hospital, where he remained for the weekend.

Marihuana bust

On May 25, RCMP were doing a routine check for driver's licence and insurance on Bridge Street in Princeton when they detected the odour of marihuana. A search netted 50 grams of marihuana. Two Princeton males face charges of Possession of a Controlled Drug and will appear in court in Penticton on July 15.

Wisdom we need to know

The following collection of humorous observations comes to the News Leader courtesy of our friend in Nevada:

1. Never, under any circumstances, take a sleeping pill and a laxative on the same night.
2. If you had to identify, in one word, the reason why the human race has not achieved, and never will achieve, its full potential, that word would be "meetings".
3. There is a very fine line between "hobby" and "mental illness".
4. People who want to share their religious views with you almost never want you to share yours with them.
5. And when God, who create the entire universe with all of its glories, decides to deliver a message to humanity, He WILL NOT use, as his messenger, a person on cable TV with a bad hairstyle.
6. You should not confuse your career with your life.
7. No matter what happens, somebody will find a way to take it too seriously.
8. When trouble arises and things look bad, there is always one individual who perceives a solution and is willing to take command. Very often, that person is crazy.
9. Nobody cares if you can't dance well. Just get up and dance.
10. Never lick a steak knife.
11. Take out the fortune before you eat the cookie.

12. The most destructive force in the universe is gossip.
13. You will never find anybody who can give you a clear and compelling reason why we observe daylight saving time.
14. You should never say anything to a woman that even remotely suggests you think she's pregnant unless you can see an actual baby emerging from her at that moment.
15. There is a time when you should stop expecting other people to make a big deal about your birthday. That time is age eleven.
16. The one thing that unites all human beings, regardless of age,

- gender, religion, economic status or ethnic background, is that, deep down, we ALL believe we are above-average drivers.
17. The main accomplishment of almost all organized protests is to annoy people who are not in them.
18. A person who is nice to you but rude to the waiter is not a nice person. (This is very important. Pay attention. It never fails.)
19. Your friends love you anyway.
20. Never be afraid to try something new. Remember that a lone amateur built the Ark. A large group of professionals built the Titanic.

We wish you every success!

A crowd came to see the celebrities of the day

The annual commencement ceremonies at Princeton Secondary School is a time to launch young people into their future as well as a time to mark their achievement and help them say good-bye to childhood. The ceremonies began with a show of pictures of class members from babyhood to the present, and were greeted with chuckles and maybe a few tears from sentimental grandparents.

The students entered a gym filled to capacity with well-wishers, dignitaries and bursary or scholarship presenters. The gym was decorated in lots of warm colours, making a nice contrast with their royal blue gowns. Students from The Bridge shared this special day, as they, too, were graduating from secondary school.

The ceremonies officially opened with the singing of O Canada, led by a member of the graduating class, Maria Rikley.

Principal Lawrence Stoochnoff read a message from MLA Dave Chutter, who said "education is the key to the success and prosperity of your community and province."

Stockwell Day, Member of Parliament, spoke to the students, saying, "I know these students will rise to the occasion no matter what they choose. We need you to succeed for the future of our country."

Mayor Randy McLean, a PSS graduate himself, told the students, "This community looks upon you as 'their' graduating class."

He said he believes Princeton does a better job of promoting opportunities for young people than most communities.

School Trustee Ken Heuser brought best wishes from the School Board and said to the audience, "Before you sits a fine group of young people."

Max Marshall

The students' own choice is the special guest speaker. This class chose Max Marshall, who taught the class for six months when they were in Grade 10. He was honoured to have been chosen, and told them a story about a seed pearl of great value. The message of the story was to use their potential and remember, no matter what may happen in the future, it is never too late to try to achieve a goal.

POINTS OF VIEW

OUR VIEW

School Board may take backward step

The Board of School Trustees of Nicola-Similkameen have not yet made a decision on the future of The Bridge, but students at The Bridge say the decision will be made soon and they are worried. They submitted a petition to the Board, but have had no reply. The Board has not made any public statements nor invited public comments.

The decision the Board must make is whether to remove The Bridge from its present location in the same building as the Community Skills Centre and relocate it into the District Administration office. The reason given for relocation is to save money, because the School District pays rent to the Skills Centre to have The Bridge there. This is not the entire picture. Due to the high enrolment in The Bridge, it brings in money for the school district. The School Board has attempted to rent the District Administration office to earn what it might save.

We can think of a lot of reasons to leave The Bridge where it is. First, the building was designed and constructed to house The Bridge, which is an adult education facility for secondary school completion. It made sense to combine it with the Skills Centre, a federally supported adult training and education facility. It made a lot of sense then, and it still makes a lot of sense. The Skills Centre provides counselling, training courses, job information, job opportunity information, and life skills training to those who need it. Let's face it – students at The Bridge and at the Skills Centre are there because they are either unemployed or may become unemployed if they do not improve education and skills.

The second reason The Bridge should stay where it is makes financial sense. To renovate the Administration Office requires money spent to make it wheelchair accessible (people with disabilities need education, too), add another entrance to the basement in case of fire and to change the wall structure so students are together with their equipment and their teachers – in short, some walls have to be taken out. Then there is the cost of moving a lot of valuable computer equipment and setting it up again. New wiring may be required. Is this the way to save rent money? How much will be saved, considering the space must still be lighted and heated?

Does it make sense to save education dollars this way? If you think not, let your school trustees hear about it, and tell your MLA, Dave Chutter.

This was our year of needless hardship

Dear Editor;

One year into the "New Era", here's a proposition not often heard: none of the BC government's reckless spending cuts need to happen. All the cuts to welfare, health care, education, legal aid, child and youth programs, seniors' programs, long-term care, forestry and environmental programs ... all the layoffs, contracting out and privatization ... all the dismantling of programs, the rolling-back of gains by working people, much of which took generations to win and build ... all the hardship and anxiety that has marked the Liberals' first year in government – none of it had to happen.

The central message out of Victoria since January – the month dramatic spending cuts were announced – has been: "We're sorry, this will be painful, but we have no choice."

Nonsense. Good public policy is always about choices. And yes, Virginia, there is an alternative.

It wasn't supposed to be like this. True, the BC Liberals ran on a promise of "dramatic" tax cuts. No one can dispute that. But they also ran on two key associated promises: first, that tax cuts would generate so much economic growth they would pay for themselves; and second, that the tax cuts would be directed to the bottom two tax brackets (the first $60,000 of income).

Before the May election, a majority of British Columbians came to believe the first of these claims – that tax cuts would pay for themselves – but not anymore. The tax cuts have led to the largest deficits in BC history, and are now driving an unprecedented agenda of program cuts. These spending cuts are merely the other shoe dropping.

The second of these assurances – that the tax cuts would be directed to the bottom two income brackets – evaporated when the government announced its $1.5 billion personal income tax cut on its first full day in office. The three upper-income tax brackets received a larger percentage cut than the bottom two brackets. As a result, upper-income earners are not only saving more in absolute dollars, but also as a share of their income. Incredibly, the 0.4 percent of taxpayers with incomes over $250,000 will receive approximately the same share of the tax cut pie (in total dollars) as the 49 percent of taxpayers with an annual income under $30,000.

The re-making of our province is being justified by the twin false claims that BC's government spending was out of control and that our taxes were among the highest in the country. Neither assertion is supported by the facts.

The notion that we cannot afford our public programs – that BC has been living beyond its means – is simply untrue. Before any of these latest cuts, BC government spending relative to GDP (the size of the economy) was already the third lowest in Canada, and peaked in 1991. BC's public service was already the second smallest in the country (measured as the number of total public sector employees per capita).

Neither does the evidence support the claim that BC taxes were "uncompetitive". Even before last summer's tax cut, the vast majority of British Columbians paid either the second or third lowest taxes in the country. And overall government revenues relative to GDP were already the third lowest in the country.

In combination, the tax and spending cuts will surely result in greater inequality. We are witnessing a straight transfer of income from the poor (who disproportionately benefit from public programs) to the wealthy (who disproportionately benefited from the tax cuts). Moreover, most people's tax cuts are being quickly consumed by escalating medical premiums, pharmaceutical costs, child care costs, user fees and tuition.

Such is the ideological single-mindedness – the economic fundamentalism – of BC's new government. The result of all this is a widespread feeling of betrayal – people don't believe these cuts are what they voted for.

Another way is possible.

We had a circuit court, so why take it away?

Dawn Johnson News Leader Editor and owner

Last Thursday, Princeton and Hedley people went to court in Princeton. From now on, until we can restore this service, local people will go to court in Penticton.

You have probably heard the great announcement stating a circuit court service will replace the loss of courthouses in several communities. What I find truly galling is this: our court has been functioning since April as a circuit court and we are losing it anyway. Since our court registry closed, the judge, clerk, and Crown Counsel have been driving here from Penticton the same as always.

The goal of our current provincial government is to save money and sell off the courthouses. The circuit court replaces the courthouses. I want to know who is going to buy our old courthouse? It is a historic building (looking a mess lately due to improvements) and the courtroom is an antique with wooden benches dating from 80 years ago. The rest of the building, though well-maintained, hardly makes a suitable rental or sale property.

If the building is sold, what happens to the offices occupied by the Conservation Officer, the Government Agent, and the Probation Officer? The Forest Service had a big office complex in the building, but those offices will be empty now that all of the Forest Service people are deployed to Merritt, putting themselves at a greater distance from the bulk of the timber harvest. None of this makes any sense to me.

I have been reporting in our local court for 20 years. Sometimes it is busier than others, but there is always something for the judge to do. There is Family Court, Civil Court, Young Offenders Court, and Criminal Court.

Now, if a local youth is in trouble, the family will have to travel to Penticton. Adult criminals will have to attend court in Penticton. Foster parents will have to attend court in Penticton. Marriage separation agreements will have to be settled in Penticton. Child custody and visiting rights will have to be settled in Penticton.

This is not good for Penticton's court services, as courtroom time is now at a premium, and Princeton cases are backed up into 2003, with our courtroom just having closed.

There is an added cost to police witnesses who must travel to Penticton and spend half a day or more waiting to give testimony.

There is one thing I want local people to watch and listen for: a building project to expand Penticton courtroom space. If you hear this is going on, then it is time to rise up and yell as loud as you did for the hospital, because our court services were withdrawn to save money, not to spend more in Penticton while local people pay the travel costs to attend court 110 kilometres from our community.

Yours truly,
Seth Klein,
BC Director, Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives.

Needless hardship

Alternatives proposed one workable alternative strategy in a document released last February called Towards a Solutions Budget for BC.

We called on the government to scale-back its tax cuts; keep the tax cut for the bottom two brackets (which the Liberals clearly ran on) but abandon the upper-income and most of the corporate tax cuts delivered by surprise last summer. Some of this money could then be directed toward a modest increase in spending.

This would have a number of positive outcomes. First, it spares us all the unnecessary pain of the spending cuts. Second, it would allow the government to honour our contracts and help the most vulnerable with a $200 million increase to the welfare budget (as one should expect during an economic downturn). And third, because public spending keeps more money in the BC economy than upper-income tax cuts, this Solutions approach would provide four times the job and economic boost that would the Campbell/Collins plan.

Don't believe the message track from Victoria. We can still afford to take better care of each other. There is nothing inevitable about the spending cuts.

by Dave Machin

God is all powerful, therefore His word is all powerful. He can and does back up everything He says. Since He is Creator, His words contain the power to create. You can see that truth born out in the very first three verses of the Bible. You'll notice the Spirit of God was moving before God spoke, but nothing happened until God SAID. Creation did not take place until God released words of faith. Everything in the material creation, everything you can see, touch, taste or smell came into existence as a result of the word of God. That makes God's word the parent substance of all matter. The paper on which this is printed came from a tree that can be traced from tree to seed all the way back to God's word "let it be". In light of that fact, do you think His word still has the power to change this natural physical world? Do you think the word that created your natural physical body still has the power to heal that body? Do you think the word that brought into being all the wealth of this entire earth still has enough power to supply your needs? Of course! God's word is eternal. It is sovereign. It cannot be changed, though people will try to change it by saying it does not mean what it says. But thank God it means exactly what it says, and there is nothing that can or will alter that fact. This material universe, on the other hand, is temporal. It can and does change. If you take something unchangeable and use it to apply pressure to something that is changeable, it is obvious which one will yield - the changeable one. Therefore you can take this word and speak it in faith, personally, as you believe it in your heart it will perform what it was meant to do. The Bible says in Psalm 119:89 that forever God's word is established. God is good, His word is good, and good all the time.

COMBATting CORRUPTION WITH COHERENT CONFRONTATION

This message is designed as a follow up of the last week's warning of a coming crisis with the implementation of the Earth Charter by the Money Masters of the One World Government. In 1995 Premier Ralph Kline was the only Canadian Politician to attend the secret meeting in Switzerland of the cohorts of the Satanic plot to divide the planet into three regions and eliminate the Sovereignty of every Nation. In 1996, Prime Minister Chretien and his inner cabinet joined the Bilderbergers at King City north of Toronto. The Spotlight, Washington, D. C. paper notified the Media on this Continent and published the time and place. Conrad Black chaired the meetings, denied access to the Media but one journalist for the Spotlight gained access as he had done successfully for over 20 years and exposed their covert plot. Chretien has attended the annual meetings since then.

With the corruption of the Politicians and members of the Judicial System in Canada plus the Global Organizations of Freemasonry, the Luciferian Society, the Illuminati the World Bank, IMF, Trilateral Commission, the Council on Foreign Relations, MAI, NATO, the Federation of Earth Assembly, being formed by the Money Masters to create the New World Order to replace the United Nations with their exclusive members. I petitioned the Lord to show me how we can stop those satanic powers from controlling and manipulating the economy, the Banks, the Stock Market and all of the World Leaders.

The answer was most astounding. There were threads hanging from Heaven to Earth as far as the eye could see. They were in a sequence of three colors of Gold, Scarlet and Pure White. I asked, "Lord, what is this?" He said, "This is Righteousness, Holiness and Justice." Knowing the Scriptures, I then asked, "Lord, how do we get that in this corrupt society?" Suddenly the same single strands of Gold, Scarlet and Pure White threads were being woven on the horizontal level into those hanging vertically. It was a beautiful sight. Again, I questioned how we could create something like this with all the evil that is going on Globally. With a powerfully loud voice God said, "I have ordained this from the fountain of the World but it is up to My Children to weave those threads of Righteousness, Holiness and Justice to complete the fabric of society the way I ordained."

I awakened and pondered this vision, realizing that Gold represented more than worldly wealth. It's value is in having a right standing with the Triune God for a righteous defense as a vessel of refined Gold with all the dross removed. Then I noted that the Scarlet thread of Holiness was between Righteousness and Justice. There is a Scarlet thread running through the entire Bible with God's plan of Salvation. For Righteousness to prevail there must be the evidence of the Godly, Just attributes of a Holy God.

Justice is described as a principle and a process which everyone is assured of the things that belong to him or her. Justice reflects a Pure White, transparent characteristic that is integrated with both Righteousness and Holiness. The born again, spirit filled persons that possess a Divine nature and Christ-likeness that provokes a responsibility to abhor evil and do good. We must be coherent activists, engaged in stamping out all evil. We must possess the power of the Holy Spirit to rebuke, reprove and exhort those who call themselves Christians but in word and deed they are so apathetic and complacent in the light of this profound vision. We, the chosen people, worldwide, must coherently be exercising our right for freedom of speech and assembly to safeguard our just society.

Skaha Ford donates car, Legion sponsors

The first official demolition derby car has been donated by Skaha Ford of Pentiction and the Princeton Royal Canadian Legion is going to sponsor it.

Fall Fair members greeted this news with enthusiasm during the May 23 meeting. Fall Fair President Jody Woodford gave the report, along with the news that an anonymous donor paid for the Fall Fair entry to the bed race.

To meet the needs of exhibitors, there is a change in the times set for entering exhibits. On the Thursday before the fair, exhibits may be entered from noon to 8:00 p.m., and the following day, Friday, September 6, exhibits may be entered from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. The fair will begin at 10:00 a.m. Saturday, September 7. Exhibits buildings will be closed at 5:00 p.m. sharp on Saturday and at 3:00 p.m. on Sunday. No exhibits are to be removed before 3:00 p.m. Sunday, including livestock.

The matter of unacceptable exhibits was raised. No needle-work exhibits which are not clean will be accepted. No livestock or pets with evidence of disease will be accepted. The convenor responsible for the exhibits in any class will make the decision.

Classes for laser-printed photos and digitally manipulated photos will be added for those producing photos by computer.

Jack Thomas and Keith Olsen have some ideas on improving the stock pens. Olsen said he hopes to be able to have Katimavik volunteers assist with this project.

Vendors have been calling Maryanne Woodford for space at the Fall Fair. One of the vendors was from Chilliwack. He heard there was a demolition derby and he wanted to be included.

Doug Grigg reported the Tuff Truck crew has been busy designing the competition track.

Andrew Nordquist has acquired the registered rules for a lawn tractor competition. If there is any interest, the fair will hold a lawn tractor race.

Posters will go out to schools to remind children to save their projects and garden produce for entry into the Junior Fair. The 4-H groups will enter their exhibits into 4-H classes. All other entries, other than livestock and pets, will go into the Junior Fair building. Princeton's Fall Fair is one of very few having a Junior Fair section.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Now they tell us!

Dear Editor:

So now the Nutrifor spread over our mine tailings in the Princeton area is possibly dangerous. In a Province newspaper article on Tuesday, May 21, titled "Study cites fertilizer product as health risk", a UBC study points out that toxins such as dioxins and furans, which can cause cancer, left in the biosolids can be ingested by cattle and accumulate in their tissues and then end up in the human food chain.

Their were many local opponents of the scheme to spread treated human waste from the plants in North Vancouver, Richmond and delta on our local sites. It was argued that there is much more than feces and urine ending up in a toilet bowl and the resulting sludge, changed to the pretty name of Nutrifor after the treatment process, must still contain a concoction of contaminants. After all, if the waste material was totally sterilized, it would have no value.

Of course the so-called expert opinion ruled the roost as usual and now we have a suspect product covering the mine tailings and other reclamation sites. The tailings were an eyesore and dust clouds sometimes filled the air, but have we jumped from the frying pan into the fire?

The town of Princeton has documentation with regard to the Nutrifor agreement with the Greater Vancouver Regional District. Were we duped into believing that this human waste sludge was absolutely safe?

Victims' Service expands

At the Police Victims' Service of B.C. training session in Kamloops last Friday, the participants of Symposium 2002 "Works of Heart" heard some very good news. Funding for Victims' Services has been increased, and 21 new Police Victims' Services units will be put in place in B.C. communities. Any community having four or more members of the police force will have a person, or persons, to provide assistance to victims of crime and motor vehicle accidents.

The Princeton RCMP Detachment has Rosemary Doughty filling that role, and she is called on frequently.

Thank You!

Thank you to the following merchants for their generous donations to our Silent Auction:

Kevin Acres Farm, Garden and Pet Supply, Reichert Sales and Service, Overwaitea Foods, Princeton Post & Rail, Dennis Cook Holdings, Tulameen Adventure Tours, Your Dollar Store With More, Ewart's Home Hardware, Morphy Resaw, Forget-Me-Not Antiques, Princeton Brewing Company, Backroads Bike Shop, Princeton Redi-Mix.

A big THANK YOU also to all bakers who provided goods for our Bake Sale, and contributors to the Plant Sale and Yard Sale!

Tulameen Community Club

Council reviews health, park

Mayor Randy McLean reported on a meeting of the Regional Hospital District Board attended by Chris Mazurkovich, who is a financial officer for the Interior Health Authority. Mazurkovich outlined the capital funding process in which 40 percent of funds for capital projects are paid for through local taxation, and 60 percent from provincial coffers.

Mayor McLean told Council he feels there is still a need for Regional Hospital District input into the process, and if they are maintained, Regional Hospital District Boards can make submissions to Interior

Health Authority. Without the Regional Hospital District, local taxpayers would not have a voice. Most members of the Board agreed to keep it operating, but some members were opposed to local taxation, as it constitutes double taxing for hospital construction projects. However, McLean felt it was better to have a voice in what projects are undertaken, and local taxpayers would be represented by the Regional Hospital District.

Cascade Wilderness

Council discussed the gas pipeline proposal with regard to the Cascade Wilderness area, and wondered if it would be a good idea to look into the pipeline route a little more closely.

After further discussion, Council switched to the proposal to turn the Cascade Wilderness into a Class "A" park. Council has serious objections to this plan and will make a complaint to the proper authorities.

Compliments to Rodeo Club

Members of Council expressed their pleasure in the excellence of the CPRA rodeo held in Princeton. Mayor McLean noted it was like having an extra May long weekend so far as business was concerned.

"The best was the way it looked,"

Mayor McLean said. "It looked like a professional facility."

Council had many compliments for members of Princeton Rodeo Club, for the Rusosses and for the Katimavik volunteers who worked before, during and after the rodeo. Letters were to be sent to the Rodeo Club and Katimavik conveying Council's appreciation for their efforts.

Buy Canadian

A letter from the Village of Kaslo asked for Princeton Council's support in Kaslo's campaign to "buy Canadian". The letter reads, "The impasse reached in softwood lumber negotiations is widely known, and the negative effect of unreasonable tariffs implemented will be felt not only in resource-based communities, but will trickle down through the economy of the Province of British Columbia and be felt by the entire population."

Kaslo said all levels of government should not purchase U.S. products or services.

Council agreed to support Kaslo's initiative and will not buy products made in U.S.A. unless there is no alternative.

Noisy, dusty dirt bikes raise hackles

A resident of the Similkameen Avenue area attended the May 20 meeting of Princeton Town Council to voice his objections to dirt bikes on the Trans Canada Trail. He had appeared before Council last year for the same reason. Although this resident did not stay until the end of the meeting, Councillor Dan Sulentich took up the issue on behalf of all of the residents of the area.

Sulentich pointed out there are to be no dirt bikes on the trail, and there are more this year than there were last year. The bikes are noisy and they raise a lot of dust. He recalled the Town bought barriers for the trail.

Councillor Sulentich wanted the Town to write a letter to Vermilion Trails Society to ask what had been accomplished to prevent the bikes on the trail and to give a date for placement of the barriers.

Local families celebrate Childcare Month

Princeton's professional childcare givers decided to hold an event in recognition of May as Childcare Month. Talented people from Little League Day Camp, Sunshine Centre, Kids Only Daycare and Little Folks Nursery School put their heads together and decided to have a family day with a picnic lunch, games and other activities. Yvonne Price, who operates Little League Day Camp, offered her premises for the event. Parents of the children who attend these various daycare facilities were invited to attend with their children and bring a picnic lunch and refreshments. It worked very well, and the weather cooperated fully. The children enjoyed a wagon ride by Blackmine Outfitters, who took them on a tour of Princeton Castle Resort. Vince Milligan ran a petting zoo full of amiable goats and alpacas.
