

Candidates make their public pitch

An all-candidates forum, hosted by Princeton & District Chamber of Commerce, gave people an opportunity to see and hear their candidates. The forum was held on October 30 at Princeton Secondary School gym, and the approximately 90 citizens who attended deserve credit for their dedication. They sat for three hours on hard metal bleachers in a gym so cold even the candidates complained and put on their winter jackets.

Toastmasters Club provided moderator Gordon Craigie, and timekeeper Maggie Trehearne, who did an excellent job of making the speakers keep up the pace. The six candidates for the three seats on School Board were first to speak. The incumbents, Gordon Comeau and Ken Heuser, talked about the problems facing school districts due to provincial government cutbacks. The others talked about different aspects of being a school trustee. Susan Patry focused on special needs students, Ken Brown looked at it from a parent's perspective, Dina Slowikowski-Campbell and Carol Bertrand, both having been teachers, took a different perspective. All of the trustee candidates showed deep concern about the budget cutbacks.

Princeton joins protest

Some people from Princeton were part of a protest demonstration in Penticton during a visit by Premier Gordon Campbell to that city on the weekend of October 26. The Princeton people were there to protest hospital bed closures, along with two dozen other communities from Interior Health Region. All of them pushed hospital beds carrying signs. Others protested school district cutbacks, school closures, government job losses, and so on. Spencer Coyne, of Princeton, said it was a good citizen rally, but the Premier seemed unmoved.

Golf Club

approves spending on RV site

Gordon Comeau chaired the October 26 annual general meeting of Princeton Golf Club, a much less heated meeting than that of the previous year. There was a good turnout to the meeting, and President Keith Later received an enthusiastic round of applause for his dedication during the past year.

McConnell Voekl presented a review of the finances up to December 31, 2001. There was an instant increase in greens fees due to the expansion of the course to 18 holes. Greens fees increased by 52 percent. At the same time, expenses increased. Capital assets were $1,730,000.

Keith Later gave a financial overview to October 17, 2002, as part of the President's report. Memberships brought in $161,000, greens fees totalled $201,000 and rentals brought in $98,000. Other revenue was $25,500, for a grand total of $486,000. General expenses were down this year, but clubhouse expenses went up due to the purchase of an ice machine. Later said he expected there would be $75,000 in the bank by the end of October, but that money would serve to pay expenses until the course re-opens in spring.

"We can be happy with our progress and proud of our accomplishments," Later concluded. Ian Elko and Rob Fulton were not available to give their reports, so Bob Wicks read them. He noted Fulton was absent due to working at the Pro Shop because of the course remaining open so late this fall.

There will be some changes at the golf course. The club is taking over the driving range, and voted

Stomach flu hits Interior Health Region

Interior Health has issued a warning about a 24 hour stomach flu making the rounds in our region. They advise the best way to protect yourself and your family is to make sure everyone washes their hands frequently each day, particularly while preparing food, before eating, and after going to the washroom.

If you do get sick, the bug will run its course in about one day. Be sure to rest a great deal, sip on water or clear fluids, and stay away from other people, especially seniors and those with chronic illnesses such as diabetes, heart problems, cancer or other debilitating conditions.

This virus will be contagious up to 48 hours after the symptoms are gone, so continue being aware you can still spread the disease, and take precautions.

Some Rodeo Club members wear new hats

Princeton Rodeo Club held their annual general meeting at Town Hall on November 1 with Stan Thompson in the chair. Lynn Willis presented the year end financial statement, which showed the Rodeo Club has a fairly good foundation for the Pro Rodeo to be held in May, 2003. President Thompson gave credit to support of sponsors for the health of the club's bank account, and several members credited good weather, as well.

The election was chaired by Dawn Johnson, and the results are as follows:

President - Stan Thompson,
Vice-President - Ernie Willis,
Directors - Bob Wicks, Terry Wright, Bob Lind, Carol Ruoss, Glen Sellers, Jenny Hunt and Archie Halbert.

Following the elections, President Thompson appointed Lynn Willis Treasurer and Sharon Johnson Secretary.

The club has received CPRA approval for the rodeo, and will submit it with $1,500 added per event, plus tentatively team roping, with $1,500 added.

There was discussion regarding stock contractors, clowns, and promotional activities.

were the last group to speak, and there was a noticeable division in their approach. The three incumbents, Kathy Clement, Lorne Esselink, and Dan Sulentic, talked about what they felt were their top achievements during their years on Council. The challengers voiced different slants on what Princeton needs. There was common agreement that economic development and jobs for young people are a priority.

Candidates for the mayor's seat were incumbent Randy McLean, who has served six years as Mayor of Princeton following many years as Councillor; Keith Olsen, who has served three years as Councillor, and Al Nigul, who has never been on Princeton's Town Council.

McLean's speech related Council's achievements: keeping taxes level for three years, reduced maintenance costs due to upgrading equipment, and building up reserve capital. He pointed to the industrial park as a great achievement by Council, along with upgrades to the water system, Trans Canada Trail, and the construction of the skate park.

Al Nigul talked about putting a traffic light at the intersection by Esso, more equipment at the landfill for recycling, and aggressively addressing economic development.

Keith Olsen Focused on the need to "make growth happen" to be a thriving community. "It's time for thinking outside the box", Olsen said. He added it is time to "get our share of the prosperity of other communities".

When each group of candidates had spoken, they were asked some tough questions, most of which had been submitted in writing before the meeting began, and some from the floor. They were then given an opportunity to make some closing remarks.

Trustee candidates faced questions about school funding, a difficult issue facing all school districts. In his closing remarks, Comeau said, "We must face reality. These are tough times. Like it or not, we have to cut."

Bob Paterson gave a positive report on the Men's Club activities, and noted Bill Montgomery will take over next year.

Tom McLaren reported a good year for Senior Men's Club and said the Senior Open was highly successful, with 124 competing and a long waiting list of those wanting to play.

The election of officers was conducted by Bob Wicks. President Keith Later was returned to office along with Vice-President Gordon Comeau. Jim Emmons is Treasurer and Linda Angstadt was re-elected as Secretary. Continuing Directors are Dinny Mullin, Glenn Weissbach and Gary Sicker. Naturalists study penguins

The next evening program sponsored by Vermilion Forks Field Naturalists will be on the Order of Spheniscidae, more commonly known as penguins. There are 18 species found in the southern hemisphere. All are superb swimmers, many live in the coldest parts of the earth and its oceans.

Bill Merilees will be presenting this talk, illustrated with his outstanding photography.

Bill is one of B.C.'s best-known naturalists. He worked for many years in B.C. Parks. He travels extensively, leading trips to Antarctica, Australia, and Madagascar. He is guest lecturer on board ships which sail under the flag of Society Expeditions.

Everyone is welcome to attend his fascinating presentation on November 11, 7:00 p.m. at the Skills Centre. For more information call 295-7078.

Managing Risk

Very few of us want to take big risks with our money. But avoiding risk when investing can come with a price tag. People who view risk as the potential loss of capital are willing to give up performance for safety and doing so, run the risk of not seeing their money grow sufficiently to meet their needs over the coming years.

Consider this simple example. Twenty years ago, it cost eight cents to mail a letter. Today, it costs 48 cents. There are numerous, more expensive examples, of the impact of inflation and rising prices over the long term, and that means your greatest risk may not be the loss of your capital but the reduction in your buying power.

A fixed rate investment such as a GIC can be quite risky because it may not grow enough to allow you to maintain your standard of living. Mutual funds, on the other hand, offer potentially higher returns and more flexibility, making them the most popular form of investment today.

Only 20 years ago, Canadians could anticipate, on average, seven years of retirement. But today, with many Canadians living longer and retiring earlier, the average length of retirement has jumped to 22 years. If you do not manage risk properly, your investments will not outpace inflation and provide enough for you to retire comfortably.

The key to making the most of your investments involves three long-term strategies:

- Diversification

The success of long-term performance hinges on holding a variety of investments, representing a range of products, investment types and countries.

- Dollar Cost Averaging

Using a dollar-cost averaging approach also helps. By investing a set dollar amount each month, you automatically buy more when the unit price is down, and less when the price is high.

- Investing For The Long Term

Choose a good mutual fund, then stand firm regardless of short-term instability. Rewards come to those investors who are patient.

The key to managing risk is to assess your long term goals with your financial advisor and then selecting a fund family offering a wide variety of investment choices.

Keremeos kids had a wild night

Some Keremeos youth had a wild Halloween night. Despite the presence of four RCMP officers, a number of Citizens on Patrol, and Village maintenance personnel, they managed to light fires in newspaper recycling boxes and the firemen had to be called out. The boxes, owned by Lower Similkameen Community Services to generate revenue for the Meals on Wheels program, will have to be replaced. A couple of garbage receptacles were torn off poles to which they were attached.

The usual pumpkin-smashing activities went on, and fireworks, including some illegal homemade fireworks. According to witnesses, the youths ran from one end of downtown to the other just "raising hell". No major damage was done, and damages were confined to the downtown area, where they left quite a mess. In addition to throwing pumpkins, youths threw lots of eggs, and RCMP officers and cars were "egged".

On the plus side, Keremeos Elks Lodge, with the help of Katimavik volunteers, hosted a successful Haunted House where younger children enjoyed being "spooked".

Candidates for Area B

Joan Bush

Joan Bush has served as a Regional District Director following a by-election after her husband died. She has the time, and has made a point of attending every meeting, as well as serving as Chair on RDOS Hospital Board. She believes she has brought energy and enthusiasm to her position, as well as having established an excellent rapport with RDOS colleagues and provincial government representatives. Having lived in the rural area for many years, and as a longtime resident of the area, she feels she understands the issues.

George Hanson

George Hanson has lived in the Similkameen for three years and is involved in agriculture. He wants to bring more year-round jobs to the area, and to create an industrial park open to industries that would not conflict with ALR policies. He wants to see a local landfill established with a recycling depot attached to it, with recycling revenues going to offset the cost of the landfill. He would like to have an enclosed ice rink for extended skating and hockey in winter and other activities in summer. He believes in open communication.

Candidates for Area

Roger Mayer

Roger Mayer has served on Regional District for 15 years, and has served as Chair. He has resided in the Similkameen since 1964, and is a rancher. During his years as an RDOS Director, he has been involved in a number of committees, including Solid Waste, Regional Parks, and Economic Development. He says he has always been a team player and recognizes that no progress is made without everyone pulling in the same direction. He says he guards the public purse by making sure Area G residents pay the least for the most service.

Robin Lee

With three years experience as mayor, 56 year old Robin Lee has opted for a second term as Mayor of Keremeos, and he is a candidate for Regional District Area G. He chose to run for both positions because he feels he can address concerns that affect both the Village and Area G. He says Area G people often attend Coffee with the Mayor sessions and bring their issues to him. Another issue he wants to address is the ALR problems in and around Keremeos, where no room has been left for other industries. He feels he has developed good ties with the provincial and federal governments.

Similkameen Country hosts a great forum

An all-candidates forum was hosted by Similkameen Country on October 29 in Victory Hall. Approximately 180 people turned out to see and hear candidates running for Village Council, School District and Regional District.

Leah Flor, Chair of Similkameen Country, greeted the audience, then turned control of the meeting to Chuck Bennett, moderator for the evening. She told the News Leader she thought he did an excellent job of it, along with timekeeper Anna Bartlett. There was no heckling, and people listened attentively.

Seventeen candidates (count Robin Lee as two) had three minutes each to speak. Then questions were asked, some from the floor and some prepared. The entire forum lasted two hours.

Feedback to Flor indicated people had appreciated the opportunity to listen and evaluate the message of each candidate. Some people said they had gone to the forum with their minds made up about who they would vote for, and found themselves reconsidering after hearing all the speeches.

Voting takes place on November 16, 2002.

Business after business

Similkameen Country will host "Business after business" at their premises on November 15. The evening of networking begins at 5:30 and goes to 7:30 p.m. All local business people are invited to attend.

At 7:00 p.m., the Katimavik farewell begins. Each member of the Katimavik group will talk about what they have done since arriving in Keremeos, and give their perspective of their experience.

The next major project for Similkameen Country is Christmas Light-Up, which includes a talent show this year.

These two youngsters from Princeton's Kyokushin Karate dojo went to Oliver on October 26 to compete in their first tournament. They discovered they would be in the ring with larger youths. Amy Brewer, left, and Michelle Freeman did very well, according to Sensei Lyle Zimmerman (center). The competition goes by age and weight, and there is no contact. "It's a matter of discipline and control," Zimmerman says.

Remembering war: testimony

The stories of war are tragic, no matter what kind of war it is. For those who survive, whether in the military or as a civilian, the worst scars are on the heart and soul. Here are some of the stories of war heard by the News Leader editor during the past 40 years. The names shall remain anonymous.

"They took nearly everything we had and moved us to barracks in Greenwood." Japanese Canadian recalling World War 2.

"My friend and I were running down the road as the planes strafed. Suddenly, my friend was not there. I looked back, and he was lying in the field by the road. He was only 12 years old." German immigrant to Canada.

"My father made us run away into the country because he knew the soldiers would rape teenage girls." Hungarian immigrant to Canada.

"When the sirens went, I ran home to get my mother. She had gone deaf in the Blitz. We had no time to run to the shelter in the underground (subway). We crouched under a table and prayed. When it was over, we found out a V-2 had made a direct hit into the underground station. Nearly all of our neighbours died there." A Londoner who lived through the Blitz.

"We were rich. Even as a teenager, I did nothing for myself. When the bombing started, the servants ran away and told me and my father to run, too, but my father went crazy. He would not move. Finally, the bombs were falling two streets away, and I ran out. I joined up with some other teenagers and we escaped through the sewers to the country. The partisans found us, and we went with them, and helped them until the war was nearly over. The Russians were coming, and we ran to Austria." A Polish woman who came to Canada. She never again saw her father or her home.

"My village used to be here, but there is only one house now, and it is new. There is nothing left of my village." An old-timer in France.

"Our whole town resisted when the soldiers came from Germany. Finally, we were taken prisoner. To teach us not to resist, they put bayonets through every baby in the village, then they made prostitutes of all the young women. We got even after awhile. We worked in their mess hall, and we gave them all food poisoning. Many died, but they never knew it was us." A Belgian woman recalling what happened in World War 2.

"They took all of the old ladies of the village and put them in cages and told them to confess their wrongdoings. The old ladies didn't know what they had done wrong, so they did not know what to say. When they said nothing, they were starved." A man whose childhood was spent during the Chinese revolution.

"They herded us into a fenced compound at the airport. They said they would kill all of us if nobody came to get us before midnight. When I saw the lights of the Canadian planes coming to our airport, I blessed every Canadian. We did not know if Idi Amin would kill them, too, and we were still scared, but he let us go because the Canadians came." A Ugandan woman who escaped.

"Our village was beautiful when I was a child. I went back to see it, and there are only piles of rocks now." An Afghan woman.

Soldiers always look much the same, no matter whose army is fighting.

Lest we forget...

The songs we recall from wars

"Lyla, Lyla, haruha korvare" Hebrew song before battle, the oldest known battle song.

"Come fill up my cup and fill up my can, Come saddle my horses and call out my men, Unhook the west port and let us go free, For it's up with the bonnets of bonnie Dundee." Scottish battle song in war with the English.

"Allons enfants de la patrie, le jour de gloire est arrivé" The opening of La Marseillaise, the song of the French Revolution and today's French national anthem.

"And the rockets red glare, the bombs bursting in air, Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there." Words from The Star-spangled Banner, national anthem of the United States from the American Revolution.

"Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord" The opening of the Battle Hymn of the Republic, sung by Union soldiers in the American civil war.

"It's a long way to Tipperary, it's a long way to go." English World War I song for soldiers.

"Over there, over there, the Yanks are coming" Americans going to war in Europe, both World Wars.

"There'll be bluebirds over the white cliffs of Dover tomorrow, when the world is free." English song, Second World War.

"War! What is it it's good for? Absolutely nothing!" Modern rap song about war.

There were no songs for the Gulf War, or for Afghanistan, Rwanda, Bosnia, Bangladesh, Madagascar, or Somalia. There were songs for Israel and songs for Cuba's revolution, and songs for the Nazi soldiers, but today's wars have no songs.

Soldiers no longer go marching off to war with a band playing as they dream of glory on the battlefield.

War is now "the killing field", or "apocalypse now".

Our images of war are no longer of glory. Our collective memories recall children running screaming down a dirt road in Viet Nam, and the grief-stricken father carrying his dead child from the ruins in Beirut, and the planes crashing into the World Trade Towers.

These images are not of glory but of hell.

We need these images to remind us how precious are the days of peace, lest we forget.

John and Eleanor Sinclair did their duty again this year, giving out poppies in return for a donation to the Poppy Fund. This fund helps veterans and their families. The Sinclairs and many other Legion and Ladies Auxiliary members have volunteered year after year to help us remember those who defended what we believe in.

Adventurous personality type:"To live is to dare - the thrill is in the risk!"

If you are a cautious serious type, of a conscientious type, or a devoted type of person, then you want to stay away from the adventurous personality type. They are the polar opposite of you, and will drive you crazy.

You will find the adventurous type among mountain climbers, race car drivers, bungee jumpers, sky divers, rodeo contestants, and anywhere else extreme risk is part of the game.

Do not expect these people to have social concerns about the welfare of others. They never bother with such things. They expect others to be self-reliant and look after themselves.

Adventurous personality types want thrills out of life. They do not settle down well, and they like to be on the move, seeing what is around the next bend in the road. Consequently, they rarely make commitments, and if they do, it is only for the short term of sharing an adventure.

Often, this personality type is described as a "hell-raiser", especially while in their teens. If not actively engaged in sports, they will find mischief to occupy their time. They can be a parent's nightmare, as it is difficult to make them appreciate there are consequences to certain behav-

There is a diabetes
epidemic now

There is a diabetes epidemic in Canada. November is National Diabetes Month, proclaimed to raise public awareness about diabetes. More than two million Canadians have diabetes, and many more may have it and not know it.

Diabetes is a major cause of blindness and amputation. It is a killer disease, and although it can be kept under reasonable control through diet and insulin, it will nevertheless eventually kill those who have it. Insulin is not a cure, it merely extends life.

Among First Nations people, the diabetes rate is three to five times higher than among the rest of the population.

Fat kids

Up to 25 percent of Canadian children are overweight. Canada now has the highest incidence of childhood obesity in the world. Obesity puts kids at high risk for the onset of Type 2 diabetes. The Canadian Pediatric Society blames too much junk food and too little exercise for the high rate of obesity in children. Obese kids could be facing a death sentence from diabetes unless their weight can be kept down and their level of exercise kept up.

iours, and one needs to think of consequences.

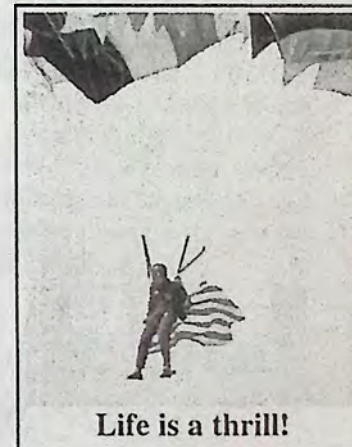

Adventurous types have a lot of confidence in themselves, sometimes too much. They can believe they are right, and no amount of discussion can persuade them otherwise. If it is right for them, by their standards, it is right.

When it comes to persuasion, Adventurous types can persuade almost anyone of anything.

When things do not work out for them, do not expect regrets or guilt. They live in the here and now, and do not waste time rehashing the past. They move on to the next thrill.

You can find adventurous types among Special Forces, guns for hire, at the high stakes tables in casinos, playing the stock market, and in any activity which includes risks and thrills. The bigger the risk, the bigger the thrill.

Adventurous types are not good at planning for the future. They are not naturally inclined to accept any authority but their own. They are not truly courageous, but they are fearless.

Stress for an adventurous type comes from the routine of day to day living. If there are no challenges, if they feel hemmed in, they will be frustrated and will cut loose somehow. They are easily bored, and need jobs where there are always challenges.

Aging is stressful to adventurous types. They want the future to hold the promise of adventure and thrills. These people are sexually adventurous, too, and when sexual prowess fails, they are distraught. As age takes its toll on sight and strength, they will often feel depressed.

However, for most of their lives, the adventurous types of the world are happy-go-lucky thrill-seekers, feeling totally alive and "with it".

A great deal has been written about the influence of family in producing children who like to take risks and who aim for thrills. There is a lot of concern, because their behaviour can lead to criminal activity. Basically, the adventurous type is the perennial teenager, a person who never quite grows up. Being raised in a family with strong principles will help this person avoid crime, but may not prevent their need for the thrill of beating the odds.

Living past 100Keep your ginger up!

Many people would not recognize a raw ginger roots in the grocery store. They would walk right past this ugly, gnarled root, and pass up one of nature's great medicines.

Ginger is often regarded as merely a spice, something to put in cookies and cakes, but this flavourful root can do more than you can imagine to make you live better and longer.

Ginger comes fresh, crystallized (sugar-dried) and in powder form. The very best results come from fresh ginger, and crystallized is nearly as good, but do not hesitate to use dried ginger, too.

In Denmark, researchers discovered raw ginger will block migraine headaches in most people. If you suffer from migraines, try taking less than half a teaspoon of powdered ginger in hot water, or eat a piece of crystallized ginger, when you feel the onset of a migraine.

To ease the inflammation of arthritis, many people make a tea of three or four slices of raw ginger in one cup of boiling water. You can take this every single day with no side effects! This has proven helpful for both osteoarthritis and rheumatoid arthritis in a majority of sufferers. It does not work for some people, but it is a very nice, spicy tea and is a wonderful boost on a cold winter day.

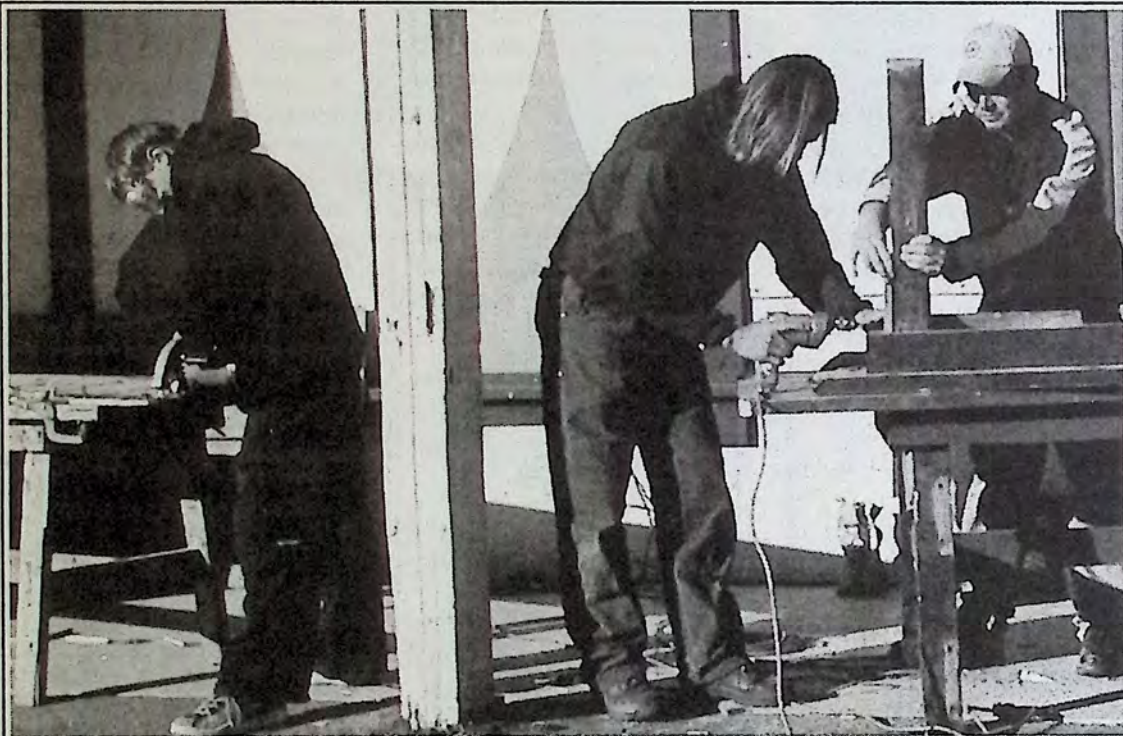

Some people, especially the elderly, worry about blood clots. Ginger helps prevent clotting, and therefore protects against strokes and heart attacks.

Everybody wonders how they can use ginger other than in a tea. Try adding it to carrot cake, or making a date loaf with grated fresh ginger in it along with the dates. Make gingerbread or fruit cake using crystallized ginger. Braise chicken in a broth containing garlic and ginger (delicious!). Chicken and ginger are a great combination long admired by the Chinese. Bake batches of ginger snaps.

You will have to peel a ginger root before you chop it or grate it. In some ways, ginger is like garlic - the finer you cut it, the more you get from it.

Katimavik has been great!

Katimavik youth have been a tremendous help in Princeton. In the photos above, the kind of work they have done at the fairgrounds is shown, and it has meant a great deal to Princeton Exhibition Association and the Fall Fair Association. Randy Brewer finished painting silhouettes for the fair buildings.

In other areas in the community, such as New Beginnings, the schools, the Chamber of Commerce Office, and Vermilion Court, the participation of Katimavik has made life better for a lot of local residents.

During the Spook House at the fire hall, many of the monsters were Katimavik volunteers.

November 15 is the last day this rotation of Katimavik youth will be in Princeton. They will depart for the next community waiting for them. Before they go, please tell them how much you appreciate their contribution.

Ray Jarvis

Ray Jarvis is a senior, semi-retired, and feels he has time to devote to Council matters. He has lived in Princeton six years. His business background was in the lower mainland. He was very active in the Variety Club. Since coming to Princeton, he has been very active in Senior Citizens and the Legion, where he has served as President, and has been a Director on the Board of Community Services. He has no previous experience in municipal government. His primary goal is the creation of an indoor swimming pool, community centre, BMX track and more low-cost housing for the disabled in the downtown area.

Kathy Clement

Kathy Clement is a retired insurance broker who has served six years on Council. Her areas of responsibility have included municipal insurance, museum, health, children and youth, Asset Development and municipal labour. She was a Municipal Insurance Director for three years, and past Director of Okanagan Mainline Municipal Association. Her goals, if elected, are to continue to move the community forward, and continue to do things to benefit youth. She would like to see a BMX track. She would strive to bring jobs to Princeton now that the industrial park is serviced and can be marketed.

Lorne Esselink

Lorne Esselink is age 38 and has an accounting diploma along with computer maintenance and forestry technician certification. He has served on Council for three years. His responsibilities included Fire Department, youth, Vermilion Trails Society, finance and Princeton Community Forest Corporation. His goal is to bring more employment to Princeton "in any way it can be done", either through personal contacts or improvements to facilities, such as building a BMX track. A family man with young children, he sees the need for more opportunities for youth in the community. Esselink was born and raised in Princeton.

Fred Leard

Fred Leard, wants community advancement. He sees it as a by-product of economic development and stability. At age 58, Leard has never held a position in municipal government, but has extensive work experience involving sales and marketing as well as working with the Corrections Branch. On retiring, he moved to Princeton three years ago. If elected, he would focus on contacting people in other locations and persuading them to move to Princeton area. He wants to keep youth in the community with jobs, giving them a reason to stay or a reason to come back after their education. He feels Council has not been doing enough of this.

Jaymie Atkinson

Jaymie Atkinson has worked as a teacher and business owner in Princeton since she returned from university. She has not served on Council, but she has worked with Council on the Community Forest Corporation and a number of other projects. She represents Princeton on the Board of Community Futures. If elected, she will develop a process of continuous community planning, pursue community growth, create a plan to use revenue from the community forest, assist youth to develop into future leaders, and take full advantage of Princeton's position as a "gateway" community. Her work as a community volunteer is extensive.

Spencer Coyne

Spencer Coyne was born and raised in Princeton, as were his father and grandfather, and he wants to be able to get married and raise a family here. At age 24, he returned after three years in college. He is running for a seat on Council because "we need to change this town. There's no future here for young people." He wants a strong community plan, and says, "Without a plan, we're not going anywhere." He wants more openness and accountability from Council, and justice from the B.C. government. "We need to put unemployed people to work, provide security for those who are working, and look after our seniors".

Dan Sulentic

Dan Sulentic has lived in Princeton all of his 67 years, and has served on Town Council more than 25 years. He graduated from Princeton Secondary, then took industrial training, working as a heavy duty mechanic in the mine and the sawmill. He has held Council portfolios in recreation, flood control, cemetery, finance and the airport, but his major portfolio has always been the water system, which he has worked hard to upgrade as much as the budget would allow. This year, he realized a longterm dream when the industrial park and fairgrounds received a water supply. Currently, he has put a new roof on the old reservoir.

Lynch Bus Lines Atoms are back in action

It was another busy weekend for Lynch Bus Lines Atoms. They travelled to Penticton on Friday, October 25. It was an exciting game to watch, with both teams making numerous end to end rushes. Colton Williams opened the scoring with a goal 26 seconds into first period. Penticton answered right back 30 seconds later. Princeton scored three more goals in first period, and seemed to be in control. Penticton made an attempt to pull ahead, but when third period rolled around. Princeton took control, finally winning the game 9 to 6.

Point scorers for the game were Colton Williams - 4 goals, 3 assists, Bryce Markin - 3 goals, 1 assist, Levi Johnson - 1 goal, 2 assists, Jonas Montgomery - 1 goal, and Kelsey Campbell making her first game appearance by ending the scoring with an assist. Gage Mitchell was between the pipes.

On Saturday, October 26, the Atoms played yet another Penticton Atoms team. This game was to be decided by whoever could score the most goals. Princeton started off strong, scoring six goals in first period to Penticton's two goals. Princeton then took a 10 to 5 lead into third period. When the game was finally over, Lynch Bus Lines Atoms had won their third straight game. Bryce Markin led the team in points, with 6 goals, 3 assists.

Colton Williams made 5 goals and 4 assists, Levi Johnson - 3 goals, 3 assists, Jonas Montgomery - 3 goals, Keaton Ashley - 1 goal, 1 assist, and Kiel Liberatore received her first assist of the season. It was a great weekend and all the youngsters played their best and as long as they keep doing so, they will keep on winning. Their coaches say, "Great job! Keep up the great work."

On Sunday, The Posse met Revelstoke Grizzlies in the afternoon, with approximately 300 fans in the stands. Grizzlies opened the scoring 1.5 minutes into first period, when John and Eleanor Sinclair's grandson, Scott Sinclair, put the puck past Blake Ledoux. That was as far as they went in that period, as The Posse held them off, but The Posse seemed to have forgotten the name of the game is "Shoot! Shoot! Shoot!" and they missed some opportunities. At the same time, they out-shot the Grizzlies 17- 11.

The Posse was so hot in second period their fans nearly ran out of breath from cheering. Five minutes into second period, they scored on a power play. Three minutes later they went back and scored again, then a scant 14 seconds later, they scored their third goal. Justin Mercier scored the first goal with assists from Matt Chiang and Justin Minnebariet. The second goal was scored by Matt Holte, assisted by Andy Holte and Matt Chiang. Justin Minnebariet scored the third goal, assisted by Bobby Nault and Justin Mercier.

Second period belonged to the Posse, but the Grizzlies did make another point. Third period saw the Grizzlies tie the score, with The Posse holding them off, with a lot of help from goalie Blake Ledoux. The game went into four on four sudden death overtime, and the Grizzlies won.

During the game, the Grizzlies became rougher and rougher, and a lot of fans questioned whether both players in a scuffle should have been sent out, as Posse players did not appear to fight back.

Novice Flyers win at home

Mac's Auto Parts Novice Flyers hosted a game against Merritt Novice Credit Union on Saturday. With a good crowd cheering on both teams, Princeton came out with a winning score of 5-3. First period goals were from Jordan Palumbo, Colby Williams and Craig Leochko, while Merritt answered with only one goal. Second period had goals from Tyler Johnson and Clayton O'Bea and again Merritt came up with their second goal of the game. Only Merritt scored in third period. Jesse Murray played an outstanding game in goal with many great saves. A great effort was made by all team members. Way to go, Novice!

PeeWee Flyers meet Penticton

On Saturday, October 26, Princeton's Mac Lind Logging PeeWee Flyers travelled to the McLaren Arena in Penticton for their first away game.

Penticton was first on the board, but Princeton's Jay Bell quickly retaliated with a goal of his own to tied the score.

In second period, Penticton scored two more goals, but Princeton continued to play their positions and, as a result, Nicholas Yee brought the score for Princeton up one more point.

Third period belonged to Princeton, as Jay bell tied the score, and then Jayson Johnson's goal won the game. The final score was 4-3 for Princeton.

The Princeton team was cheered and encouraged by an enthusiastic crowd, and many of our fans noted how well we "played our positions" and how we "played as a team". Congratulations go to Mac Lind PeeWee Flyers on their first win of the season!

On Sunday, October 27, Mac Lind Logging PeeWee Flyers hosted the Penticton TPS Sports Photography team from Penticton. The game was exciting right from the first face-off Princeton played their positions really well and executed strong plays. First period was scoreless as both teams were strong on defense.

In second period, Penticton tallied the first marker of the game. Jay Bell tied the score for Princeton. Unfortunately, Penticton came back with two more goals in this period.

Once again in third period, Princeton had their game on, as both Cody Ferguson and Nithen Dhaliwal scored a goal. Near the end of the period, Penticton scored another point to make the final score 6-3 for Penticton. Fans felt the game was exciting to watch and much closer than the final score depicted.

APPRECIATION

I would like to convey my sincerest & grateful thanks to; The two ambulance attendants who came to my "rescue" in the early morning hours of Saturday, the 19th of October. They surely gave me the comfort and assurance I needed and certainly the first help so necessary just at that time. Thank you both so much!

Dr. Whittle, Dr. Reid, and everyone in Emergency who gave me all the attention and help I needed. thanks a million!

All the nurses in Intensive Care for their dedication. i was well cared for. Many thanks!

To all the nurses and staff who gave me those needle medications "and all that there kinda stuff". Thanks a bunch!!

And of coarse to Dr. "B", my Doctor, who is the greatest, a great big Thank You!!

Very sincerely,
 Violet Miller

POINTS OF VIEW

OUR VIEW

We remember the sacrifices of wars

Next Monday, we will gather at the Cenotaph to honour those who made the supreme sacrifice – they gave their lives to protect our lives. Fifty-seven years have passed since World War II ended. Nearly fifty years have passed since the Korean War ended. However, those wars did not end war. Canada has been involved in many minor "conflicts". We have sent people to keep the peace in Gaza, Pakistan, Cyprus, Bosnia, Afghanistan and Kosovo.

Since the end of World War II, more people have died in armed conflict than the number of soldiers killed in World War II. While we have lived in peace, countless civilians have died as a result of armed conflicts within their own nations. We can think of Uganda under Idi Amin, or Rwanda, or the Belgian Congo. There was a costly war in Viet Nam and the Gulf War. There was the Falklands War, and the El Salvador conflict, the civil war in Cuba and armed conflicts in many Central American areas.

As the nature of war changes, and we see increasing numbers of these ethnic conflicts springing to life, we will see changes in the numbers of people we send to war and the kind of training they will need. The veterans fought a style of war which is now obsolete. The wars of the future will likely be smaller but more dangerous as the technology of war grows at an alarming rate.

The veterans and those lost in war, whom we honour each Remembrance Day, gave us breathing space to create a nation of which we can be justifiably proud, for we Canadians are indeed keepers of the peace. This does not mean we can sit back and ignore what is happening in the rest of the world, nor that we should ignore military spending. The aggressive little countries of our world seem hell-bent in their desire to create conflict with anybody who is different from their national image. The nature of war, and the kind of soldiers who do battle, may change, but the new millennium has not brought world brotherhood.

As sad as it is, we will undoubtedly be asked to send soldiers to foreign lands for a long time to come, whether to keep the peace or to defend the peace in which we live. When we remember, let us remember the true cost of war is always in the loss of lives. Every war has demanded a blood sacrifice from both sides

Change of name is possible!

Dear Editor;

If the Bush administration continues its warlike policies throughout the world (i.e. Bush's statement that "you are either with us or against us") and proceeds to threaten various countries with military action unless they submit to U.S. domination, the name of United States of America many change to "Unites Snakes of America" and become a prominent phrase throughout the world.

The present administration in the U.S.A. is headed by the unelected president George W.

Bush who was installed into the presidency by the U.S. Supreme Court by way of a conspiring coup and not by the voters in the U.S.A.

This conspiracy is well-known throughout the world and as a result has discredited the U.S.A. as a democracy fit to advise other countries how to perform their elections, nor to say whom should be the leader of another country and to insist on appointing such a leader who Bush and his bloodthirsty coup conspirators would appoint.

The members of the present U.S. administration have lost all respect for other human beings in the world and are blinded by their lust and greed for power and money. The possibility of promoting the slaughter of millions of human beings (collateral, in their own words) does not at all bother them. Just get the oil and what other plunder they can acquire and steal. That's their objective!

It's time for the truth to be told. Please read the book Stupid White Men by Michael Moore and The Terrorism Trap by Michael Parenti. See your local library.

Sincerely, Marshall Johnson.

Parent tells what hockey is all about

Dear Editor;

This is what hockey is all about: I would like to congratulate the parents of your Atom players. We have played two games against your kids and have unfortunately dominated the game offensively. The inequality of our team and the others in the league has met us with games similar to this. The major difference playing Princeton is we have never come across a more sportsmanlike group of kids and coaches. My son, being one of our stronger players, has had compliments and encouragement from the coaches on his ability and team play. He has also been told by several players on your team that he is a "great player" and told he had a "great game".

Getting early to our game in Princeton on the weekend, my son chatted with a couple of players who were very gracious and supportive. This has been an awesome experience for my son as he and I have been having a moral dilemma about winning teams with such a difference in scores. I hope that, if my son learns nothing else this year, he has already learned what great sportsmanship is.

the coaches and parents need to be recognized for the "skill" they have already taught their players so early in the year. Good luck in the rest of you hockey season – win or lose, your team is already on top.

Regarding fibre supply

Dear Editor;

I sure enjoy your News Leader. By reading the news lately "Princeton Co-Gen opposes fibre board plant". My husband was in a home where they were using wood pellets for heating. He was impressed by how warm the heat was from pellets.

The fibre board plant needs

130,000 metric units. I'm sure there isn't that much supply here in Princeton anymore. Don't fall for a big company.

Being in Princeton over 50 years –

The way the new wars will be fought

Dawn Johnson, Editor

The Gulf War was just the beginning of a revolution in the way wars will be fought in the future. The Gulf War is now somewhat obsolete in both its techniques and technologies. Wars of the future will be smaller, shorter and cheaper – at least if it is fought by the U.S. and its allies.

It is likely future wars will be joint ventures involving several allied nations, and using technology common to all of them. Old alliances are breaking down in relation to Russia, and Russia is forming new alliances with "the west".

Try to picture how these nations will join forces to fight armed conflicts. Visualize tiny remote-controlled aircraft flying one hundred metres above the ground. They are the new surveillance planes. They will be similar to the RC planes we saw at our airport in September. They will transmit data to a satellite, which will relay it to command headquarters.

The next step will be the deployment of Special Forces (training these troops is where most of the money is spent today in the U.S. military budget). These troops will drop from planes hundreds of miles away and will manoeuvre their parachutes using GPS and all of them will drop within a few metres of each other.

Each soldier will be in communication with the rest by a communication headset which also contains a night vision eyepiece. These soldiers will be armed with guns, explosives, "smart" anti-tank and anti-aircraft hand-held missiles, as well as medical supplies, food and water. They will carry enough for one day. Their most important weapon will be a computer which will keep them in touch with headquarters. They will both give and receive messages via satellite. They will carry digital movie cameras that can fit into a pocket and download images into their computer for transmission to headquarters.

As they move through the night, they will destroy targets identified by the tiny reconnaissance planes. By daybreak, air support, probably in the form of stealth helicopters, will eradicate larger targets with smart missiles. By this time, more troops and supplies of all kinds will be dropped, including jeeps, trucks, buildings, food, and any other equipment requested. Planes can now drop up to 30 tonnes by dropping a parachute platform with retro-rockets for a soft landing. Troops will set up their own headquarters, including all kinds of defensive weapons.

That was Day One of the conflict. Day Two will begin the construction of accommodations for prisoners and civilians. There will be a hospital, food supply depot, prison and indoctrination center, and housing for civilians as needed.

The next war will be more like Afghanistan, where the troops go in to help the civilians as well as eradicate the fighters. Future wars by democratic nations will be fought with the idea of showing people how peace can be maintained through good government and tolerance.

Consequently, future wars will include many ages, men and women of all sorts of ethnic and racial origins, and professionals such as child psychologists, teachers, and social workers. They will be in place to change minds and rehabilitate people involved in conflict. They will remain in place for the duration of the occupation.

This is how it will be if the democratic nations go to war. If dictatorships go to war, the scenario will be much different.

Let's say thanks!

Dear Editor;

In a week, it is November 11, Remembrance Day. This is not your usual holiday – you don't go out and consume everything you can get your hands on. It is a day of remembrance and thanks. I feel it is the most important day of the year. It is the day you and I take time to say thanks to all veterans for their sacrifices. It is also a chance to think about the future. Canada is at war now – four of our soldiers were killed this year, soldiers our government sent to defend us! This year, show your thanks by going to Remembrance Day services. It is the least we can do for everything they did for us.

Heart Food

by Dave Machin

In recent months there have been many changes in the United States, which of course have spilled over into our own nation. Some say the day the terrorists struck New York City was the day everything changed. However, there is one thing that didn't change that day. "God did not change." He didn't change then. He isn't changing now, and He won't change tomorrow because He Himself said, "I am the Lord and I change not." In a day where evil men are attacking innocent people without mercy, it's good to know that the Lord is (still) good; for His mercy and loving kindness endure forever. (Psalms 118:1) It's good to know that one of the benefits of our loving God is still this – He heals all your diseases (Psalms 103:3). Some people think that aspect of God has changed. They acknowledge God healed people in the days the Bible was being written, but they don't think He heals today. Think about that for a minute. For that to be true, there would have had to be a time when God changed His mind and said to Himself, "I am tired of being the healer. I've been the healer for thousands of years. I've put up with ungracious, unthankful people and I'm not going to do it anymore. I quit." This, I'm glad to say, did not happen. He called, and still calls Himself the Lord Who heals you. He's never resigned that role. You might think these promises are in the Old Testament and things changed when Jesus came. If they did, Jesus Himself didn't know anything about it, because healing was the hallmark of His ministry. He went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed of the devil, for God was with Him. Healing did not stop when Jesus came. If anything, it increased. If you would take time to read Matthew 4:23 & 24 you will discover He was not selective in His healing. God has not changed. You can search the Bible from cover to cover with an open heart and you will find He is the healer – yesterday, today and forever. God is good, His word is good and good all the time.

Tired of the east on television? You can complain to CRTC

Dear Editor:

Although, in my opinion, CBC Radio ranks second only to universal health care as a tax-funded benefit for all Canadians, it suffers from the same debilitating diseases. Those diseases are a lack of funding and cutbacks initiated by our federal government.

CBC Television cannot really be compared to its radio counterpart. The reason being that the feds, in their willingness to please the private sector have long ago acceded to their friends' wishes by forcing the CBC to spend half their air time in advertising. Let's face reality. CBC television is only another private broadcaster masquerading as the people's television network.

To make my point, allow me to use the CBGCTV schedule of Saturday, October 26 as an example. I shall not complain that it is totally devoted to professional sports – because I am a male who enjoys that type of entertainment. I can however, feel the typical female's ire as she prepares three meals a day and opens her husband's beer so he won't miss a play.

On CBC television, if my stomach does not rebel, I may watch eastern sports teams all day. First, Montreal plays Ottawa, then I may watch Toronto ply Hamilton. Then if I lose my remote and/or my lunch, I may watch the Toronto Maple Leafs play hockey against the New York Rangers. That game will be broadcast all over Canada except for the people of the Atlantic provinces who will watch the Montreal Canadiens playing the Ottawa Senators. At last, at 7:00 p.m., B.C. sports fans will be able to watch a hockey game they can identify with while the prairie provinces are relegated to watching old movies and reruns.

Throughout the Canadian west, this format is repeated week after week, all year:

* Every basketball game the Raptors play can be seen on western TV – when we would rather be watching real Canadian talent such as Steve Nash. Failing that, western university basketball would be more welcome.

* Whether it be the CBC or the Toronto Sports Network, all summer we can watch the Expos and Blue Jays playing substandard baseball when we in the west would rather be watching Larry Walker, a British Columbian – one of the greatest to ever play the game.

* In the west, we can get our fill of Canadian university football on TV but we never see a western university play until the championship game. I could go on, but I believe my point has been made.

I suppose I could sum up this letter by saying that, as a child, we grew up with Hockey Night in Canada on the radio featuring either Montreal, Toronto or both. We in the west thought that might change since we now have our own sports teams.

Ladies and gentlemen, if you are as tired as I am of Toronto's total domination over all Canadian culture both public and private, please let them know, as I will. Complaining to the Western CRTC may have more impact than letting off steam to all the bureaucrats who represent both the public and private sectors and are firmly ensconced in the centre of the univers, oblivious to our plight and perfectly happy in the status quo. The address is below, please use it, then keep it for further reference. The squeaky wheel gets the grease, trust me!

HP Toews.

Candidates were good, the seats were too hard

Dear Editor:

I attended the all candidates forum on Wednesday night, October 30, which was held in the gym at Princeton Secondary School. When I arrived at the school, I went into the gym and was shocked to see the only seats there for the public was cold, hard bleachers.

Now, I don't know whether this was done so as to keep the public awake or was there no one to set up chairs for people to sit on? I heard several comments from people of different ages complaining about having to sit on bleachers and let me tell you when you end up sitting there for three hours it is not fun at all.

On top of the cold hard seats, the was no heat. If this was done to keep us awake, we were not impressed. First of all, we were there to listen to the candidates to see who to vote for. Even though a lot of people knew who they wanted in, they still wanted to hear from the newcomers. Secondly, there was a lot of people who left halfway through due to the fact they were cold and uncomfortable.

The candidates who are running were quite informative when you could hear them, due to the sound system they had to work with. Some of the candidates couldn't even understand the question that was asked of them because the acoustics in the gym are something to be desired.

I would like to thank the Chamber of Commerce for putting on the forum, but I was not impressed with the surroundings and I was particularly not impressed when I saw people sitting on the floor because they at least had something to lean against (like the wall).

The Ridge View of local elections

by Joe Schwarz

Elections come and go, and determine our quality of life. Lucky to live in one of the best parts of the world, we also have a town with good policies by its Council, well-managed, and an excellent maintenance crew, a town that has a heart, as demonstrated by a small "major" event, the New Beginnings tea.

There, in a wonderful setting, the challenged very movingly expressed their heartfelt thanks to the community for its support.

Being human, we can always improve. One of the intriguing news items of late was the possible sale of Coquihalla Highway. Now, are they going to tow it to Whistler or is some Billionaire Bandit from a US corporation going to buy it, bring it home and say to his sweetie, "Look, I bought you your own freeway, now honey, kindly hit the road."

Here's where a determined Council with imagination could step in. Promote the sale of the Hope-Princeton Highway as a pre-used Heritage Highway. It should fetch a tidy sum for both Hope and Princeton and a new freeway from Westgate through Tulameen to Keremeos.

We were very disappointed that the present Council did not establish a toll booth in front of the new Princeton bridge. Not only would we make a mint, but it would have provided employment for many windshield squeegee operators while the traffic was stopped while paying the toll, not to mention the hawking of endless other products.

We were very disappointed Council did not sell the Blue Bridge. Remember the continuous resale of the Brooklyn Bridge? made New York famous. Who would buy it? In Coalmont and Tulameen there is a saying, "All suckers are not in Otter Lake."

Some would argue there would be an ownership dispute between the town and the provincial government, and the cops would be called. Don't worry - possession is 95 percent of ownership. Don't worry they would waste time to bridge the dispute, they're spread so thin they would be run ragged if it were not for the quality of their uniform material.

All candidates running for election are concerned about employment, health care and education. Some things that have a bearing on these costs may be difficult to address, eg. Canada has the highest immigration per capita in the world. Should it be drastically increased. Should we seriously consider becoming the 51st US state? Would there be a softwood problem then?

What bearing does President Bush and Prime Minister Blair (the Lone Ranger and Tonto) obsession with war on Iraq have on us? Should we host the Olympic games? Has Mr. Campbell, like Mr. Bush, not made his case? Mr. Campbell says he is going after the gold but for seniors you wonder if he's after their gold fillings.

A Council may not be able to address these questions completely but they are the first level of organized political power and influence closest to the people. We are extremely fortunate to be able to vote and still more fortunate to have so many qualified people willing to serve and give of their time. Those running who lose have contributed to make our system work and really haven't lost.

PETER'S ACTIVITY # 1

How much electricity do the following appliances use?
 (Check the nameplate. Remember 1 kilowatt = 1,000 watts)

1. Your bedroom light _____ watts (_____ kilowatts)
2. Your bathroom light _____ watts (_____ kilowatts)
3. Your clock radio _____ watts (_____ kilowatts)
4. Your electric toaster _____ watts (_____ kilowatts)

Thanks for joining me and my friend, Professor Meter. We hope you've had fun learning about electricity.

PETER'S ACTIVITY # 2

We know that large cars use more fuel than small cars. Well, it's the same for electrical appliances.

A large appliance, such as a refrigerator, uses more electricity than a small appliance, like an iron.

To calculate the amount of electricity an appliance uses, multiply the wattage by the length of time it operates.

For example: If the light bulb in your bathroom used 100 watts and it is on for 10 hours, it consumes:

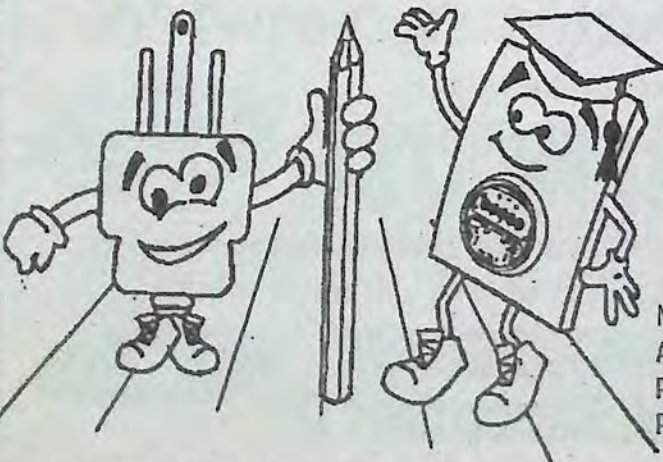

100 watts x 10 hours = 1,000 watt hours of electricity = 1 kilowatt hour (kWh)

1. A 600 watt coffee percolator operating for 1 hour _____ kWh (kilowatt-hours)
2. A 100 watt electric iron operating for 30 minutes _____ kWh (kilowatt-hours)
3. A 200 watt VCR operating for 6 hours _____ kWh (kilowatt-hours)
4. A 100 watt stereo operating for 2 1/2 hours _____ kWh (kilowatt-hours)

Learning the Parliamentary ropes

The News Leader is pleased to present a series of lessons on Parliamentary Procedure, courtesy of Princeton Toastmasters' Club.

Dear Nephew -

Congratulations on being elected President of the Dry Gulch Chamber of Commerce! I'm flattered that you asked me for information on a president's duties and I will help you all I can, but remember - I'm no expert.

First, let's consider the four guiding rules that a chairman must keep in mind:

- 1 - Justice and courtesy for all.
- 2 - Do only one thing at a time.
- 3 - The majority rules.
- 4 - The minority has a right to be heard.

Your aims are to facilitate action, not obstruct it, and to maintain order.

When you know you have a meeting coming up, your duties start before you leave home. Make yourself an agenda - that's another word for program. Leave room for last-minute changes.

A sample agenda might be:

- 1 - Call to order.
- 2 - Minutes of the previous meeting.
- 3 - Treasurer's report.
- 4 - Committee reports.
- 5 - Unfinished business.
- 6 - New business
 - correspondence
 - motions from the floor.
- 7 - Adjournment

Once your meeting is underway, stick to your agenda and don't overlook anything.

Your first hurdle is opening the meeting. Remember, you are in charge. Use your gavel or rap your knuckles and say "The meeting will now come to order." Start within 10 minutes of the stated time, do not delay any longer.

Give a brief, pleasant welcome and then turn to the day's business.

Ask the secretary to read the minutes of the previous meeting, then ask the group "Are there any corrections?" Pause a suitable time (several seconds), then say, If not, the minutes stand approved as read." If there are corrections, the secretary writes them in, and when there seems to be a general agreement, you announce that the minutes are approved as corrected.

Notice: it isn't necessary, unless your club is very formal, or there is a contentious issue, to call for a motion to approve the minutes. That just takes more time, and people get fed up when things take longer than they need to.

Once the minutes are disposed of, immediately go on to the next item, usually the Treasurer's report. This consists of the balance at the previous meeting, receipts and expenses since, and the current balance.

The treasurer often will finish by saying, "I move this report be filed."

She should not say "adopted" - that should be done only when the account books have been properly audited at the time of the Annual Meeting.

This brings up another point - auditors are just members who have been appointed to check the treasurer's books to see that everything is correct. They do not have to be professional accountants.

Enough, I think, for now. Your Aunt Em.

Save $300 and be a model of efficiency.

The Great BC Gas Energy Savings Event is all about saving you money and increasing your efficiency. How? By making it easy for you to upgrade your older model natural gas furnace or boiler to a new high efficiency* model.

Why upgrade? Older model natural gas furnaces and boilers just don't perform like the latest high-efficiency models. A 10-year old furnace with 60% efficiency is only giving you 60 cents worth of heat for every dollar you spend on energy! New high-efficiency systems are up to 96% efficient. Nearly all of the energy they use goes to heating your home. The sooner you upgrade, the sooner you'll start saving money on energy each year.

What's in it for you? Aside from continued savings on heating, you'll get a $300 rebate on your BC Gas bill, courtesy of BC Gas and Natural Resources Canada. On top of this, you can save up to $1,000 with special offers and discounts from leading brand natural gas furnace and boiler manufacturers.

Closing November 30, 2002. This is the day by which your upgrade installation must be completed to qualify. For promotion details, visit bcgas.com or call 1800-561-4427.

*Forced air furnace or boiler rated 90% AFUE (Annual Fuel Utilization Efficiency) or higher, or a condensing combination hot water heating system.

BC Gas promotes Energy Star® qualified natural gas furnaces and boilers that meet or exceed a 90% AFUE energy efficiency rating. The Energy Star mark is administered and promoted in Canada by Natural Resources Canada.
