

Citizens demand Council act on airport

Security breach brings complaints

Aussie meets Posse
see page 10

The Australian National Juniors exchange gifts with the Posse on Sunday afternoon.

For the second time, an unofficial delegation of citizens concerned about the airport attended a Town Council regarding use of the airport. On the first visit, the group asked, during question period, whether the Town would begin removing snow from the runway. They were told "no" due to costs.

On February 17, the complaint about a breach in airport security was an issue. Councillor Kathy Clement said she would like to know what they meant by a breach of security.

One member of the group explained that the Timberline Cruisers had plowed the runway last Wednesday, and nobody had notified air traffic about vehicles on the runway. He added there are often breaches when people are on the runway walking a dog or just going across. In addition, the group was concerned about the possible removal of the steel tower which was actually an airport beacon tower, not a World War II siren tower.

"They think they will hear an aircraft coming, but not if it is behind them. A lot of people have been killed that way," he said.

One of the issues from Council's point of view is the cost of operating an airport that stays open all year. There are no landing fees at Princeton airport.

"It's a free ride for anybody that lands there," said Councillor Ray Jarvis, who has the airport portfolio. "It costs money to maintain an airport."

The discussion ended amicably when Councillor Jarvis suggested all of those concerned about the airport form a committee with him to discuss possible solutions. The group was happy to oblige and Councillor Jarvis had them write names and phone numbers so they can be contacted. A tentative date for a meeting has been set for early March.

Concert needs Town backing

Cheryl Kuhn, with partners Lynn Holland and John Babiak, spoke at the February 17 Town Council meeting to outline how the June weekend concert would shape up.

Kuhn explained their company, called Tokn Productions, has lined up 12 acts for an estimated $140,000, and has an agreement with Ticketmasters to sell tickets for them. However, Tokn Productions needs "bridging" money. Ticketmasters formerly provided this service, but no longer will do it.

Critics carp at Council over local gas pricing

Local people attending the February 17 Town Council meeting launched a complaints session during question period. The subject was, once again, gasoline prices in Princeton. One comment was that it is not good for tourism.

Mayor Keith Olsen said, "What we need is for somebody to bring in a Super Save station."

Councillor Ray Jarvis told the complainants he had read letters from the oil companies and they were "gobbledygook".

One person complained that Councillor Spencer Coyne would not write a letter and told him to write a letter to the oil companies.

Mayor Olsen said everyone should write letters asking why prices in Princeton are higher than in communities just a short distance in either direction.

Bridging money is money used to pay performers before all of the ticket funds come in from Ticketmaster.

Tokn Productions is seeking a contract with the Town of Princeton, and has secured the agreement of Princeton Exhibition Association for use of the fairgrounds. Kuhn said the company is working with a professional production company, staging company and talent agency to put the show together. The fairground has been examined by an expert and is considered a site "leading to success".

In addition to the 12 talent acts from the agency, Tokn Productions is looking at a powwow and casino during the concert days.

Kuhn assured Town Council Tokn Productions has the right insurance in place and there will be no fault to the Town if the event is not successful.

A private company will handle security, Kuhn said.

There will be opportunities for local groups to make money during the concert and there will be opportunities for local youth to earn money.

Council thanked Kuhn for her presentation, and Mayor Keith Olsen noted there have been ongoing discussions with the group. What the group seeks is a three-way contract between Tokn Productions, Town of Princeton, and Princeton Exhibition Association. This contract is in the "draft" stage and will be ratified by the parties as soon as all of the contract conditions meet with agreement by all parties.

Kuhn stated she will be giving Council ongoing reports about further plans for the weekend.

Schools may go to four-day week

School district #58 has a $190,000 (or more) shortfall in the budget, and has to find the money somewhere, somehow. It could mean a four-day week.

At a public meeting held February 19 at Princeton Secondary School, Secretary-Treasurer Bruce Tisdale laid out the entire budget system, and clearly demonstrated how the district found itself in a net loss position. A mere nine people attended, most of whom were trustees or district employees.

An anticipated bonus from the Ministry of Education did not materialize. The $100 million for education was expected to fill the gap along with $50 million previously announced by Victoria, but it was a case of "here today, gone tomorrow". School districts exist in a climate of financial uncertainty, which makes budgeting difficult.

Finance Chair Gordon Swan, a trustee from Merritt, stated, "We don't know what the amounts in the (provincial) budget really mean yet."

Liquor law changes move too fast, Council says

Town Council wants a moratorium on proposed changes to liquor regulations, sales and distribution. The issue was raised at the February 17 Council meeting in response to a resolution presented by the City of Coquitlam.

The resolution notes the government has introduced changes in liquor licensing policies - hours of operation, licensing types and new licenses - affecting planning, zoning and regulatory implications for municipalities. The plan to close government liquor stores and distribution centres and turn all liquor sales over to for-profit companies is like the action in Alberta, where the number of liquor stores tripled and Calgary and Edmonton reported increases in alcohol related crimes, impacts on B.C. communities expecting to pay more for policing costs.

The City of Coquitlam resolution points out there has been no opportunity for public discussion and community input into the proposed changes, yet the changes decrease government revenues while increasing social problems.

In Alberta, consumers pay higher prices and liquor outlet workers earn minimum wage, neither of which do the economy any good.

City of Coquitlam Councillors requested the provincial government provide a commissioner or committee of MLAs to create opportunities for public discussion and community input.

the Minister of Education wants better academic performance from students while providing less money to school districts. This is no temporary situation, as the budget has been frozen for three years. There will be no extra money to cover the increasing costs of electricity, gasoline and natural gas.

The total Education budget for B.C. is $4.861 billion, with $3.79 billion going to school districts. District budgets are based on enrollment at $5,308 per pupil, which is $80 less per pupil. There is an additional amount allocated for special needs students, but this amount is 11 percent short of what the district must spend on special needs students.

The local district spends 75 percent of the budget on instruction, 12 percent on operation and maintenance, 8.6 percent on administration, and three percent on transportation. To put it another way, 89 percent of district money goes out in salaries, wages and employee benefits, and 11 percent is spent on supplies and services (such as utilities).

The district will receive $21,320,343 from Victoria this year, but if all existing services are kept in place, there would be a $1,043,241 shortfall. Staff reductions due to declining enrollment and the closure of Tulameen Elementary will save $390,000, and a decline in janitorial and office hours will save $150,000.

District stakeholders will meet privately to decide what could be done to save costs, and a summary of their decisions will be made public on March 20. The summary will be used to create a budget, which will be final on May 7.

District Superintendent Bob Peacock asked the group, "How do we get creative? Should we go to a four-day week?"

This idea was discussed, as well as other possible models for the school year, such as keeping students in school longer, then having longer vacation periods when the school will be closed.

The challenge now is to find ways to save money.

Paul Huycke, (left) Counsellor for Princeton Drug and Alcohol Counselling Services, gratefully accepts a $500 cheque from Branch #56 of the Royal Canadian Legion, presented by Legion President Bob Paterson. The money will be used to purchase anti-abuse educational materials for youth to be used in local schools and other venues for youth.

Mining likes new Heartland strategy

The Mining Association of B.C. says the Heartland Economic Strategy announced by the provincial government is the "right strategy for B.C."

"The economic and social health of the entire province is dependent on the economic activity that takes place in rural B.C. If rural B.C. is suffering, the whole province suffers," said Gary Livingstone, President and CEO of B.C.'s Mining Association.

The strategy will protect mineral rich lands for potential discovery, Livingstone says. By extending the flow-through share tax credit to match what the federal government is doing, the provincial government encourages people to search for minerals. All of these steps make B.C. more competitive with other mining jurisdictions, which will encourage investors to commit money to mines in B.C.

"Budget breathes new life"

Yale-Lillooet MLA Dave Chutter says the provincial budget brought down last week "has breathed new life into British Columbia".

Chutter stated responsible management of taxpayers' dollars is already paying off, citing the $50 million one-time grant and then the additional $100 million over three years to school districts.

At the same time, Chutter stressed the province has a long way to go before heartland communities are thriving from strong resource economies. "We are determined to put an end to the days when families are forced to move away to find work," says Chutter. "People in this riding are hard-working and they deserve to have job opportunities where they live, not in Alberta where the NDP drove them to. There are signs out there that we are on the right track. An Alberta company is exploring methane gas near the old Similco mine near Princeton and will be there next month creating 30 jobs initially."

Chutter pointed to stimulants such as extending the B.C. mineral exploration tax credit, which has contributed to a quadrupling of exploration since the spring of 2001, for another three years and additional incentives for regional television and film productions.

"We will continue to support resource industries by eliminating red tape and providing a solid transportation network so products can be easily moved from the heartlands to their markets," continued Chutter, "We've committed $225 million to heartland roads and we will continue to listen to the needs of industries so we can help them create jobs."

Tina and Ike show wows curling crowd

Tina and Ike Turner made a guest appearance at the annual Princeton Ladies Open Bonspiel last Friday evening. The bonspiel always features a riotously funny lip synch contest and the crowd loved it.

These gals were afraid to show their itty bitsy bikinis, but they were not above bribing the judges with booze, and the judges, Jim Emmons, Steve Clement and Barry Fraser, were easy to bribe.

Local partners will be on Vicki Gabereau show

Vicki Gabereau will feature a "Good Idea" on her Tuesday show. The good idea is an invention by Troy Esselink and Brett Botcher. The device is an Extended Throttle System for a snowmobile. The device, when attached to a snowmobile, allows the snowmobile to be moved without a driver sitting on it.

The advantages of the Extended Throttle are mainly for loading and unloading snowmobiles. The driver does not have to ride the machine and risk injury. It is equally handy for the person who has difficulty walking.

Esselink and Botcher have worked on the idea for years, and it is now in the process of being patented in both Canada and the U.S.A. The device weighs a little over one kilogram. It is being manufactured now in Penticton.

Esselink and Botcher's company is called Ride Rite Snowmobile Products Inc. and can be found at website Riderite.ca

If you miss the Vicki Gabereau show on February 25, you can see the invention on the Vicki Gabereau website.

Gaining Ground With A Spousal RRSP

One of the most misunderstood and under-used elements of retirement planning is the spousal RRSP. But it can be a good tool to help maximize your after-tax dollars in retirement, splitting a couple's income to avoid one spouse carrying a huge tax burden.

When one married partner earns more than the other it can have significant implications not only in the present but in the future as well. When the couple retires, if the higher income earner has a pension plan as well as a registered retirement savings plan, he or she can end up paying much more in income tax than the spouse who earns less. That's why it makes sense to open a spousal RRSP for the lower income earner. That way, the spouse earning more money can direct his or her RRSP contributions to the plan opened in the spouse's name. The spouse who makes the contribution receives the income tax deduction but when that money is accessed in retirement it is withdrawn by the spouse with the lower income. That means the amount received is taxed at a lower rate, evening out the couple's income. For example, a husband and wife who each generate $50,000 at a 40 percent marginal tax bracket will have more to spend than the couple with only one partner earning $100,000 taxed at 50 percent.

Another benefit of the spousal plan is that contributors over the age of 69 can continue to contribute to a spousal RRSP until the end of the year the planholder turns 69, an advantage when there is an age gap.

There are safeguards in place to make sure spousal plans are not abused. Canada Customs and Revenue Agency guidelines state that any money withdrawn will be taxed at the contributor's income tax rate if contributions were made in the same year or in the two previous years. As with other RRSPs, Canadians are not limited to owning only one spousal RRSP. However, employing a self-directed spousal RRSP will ensure not only convenience in tracking your retirement savings but clarity when looking at the big picture.

Twenty dead cattle were dumped on Chopaka Reserve land. Lower Similkameen Indian Band has contacted the authorities. The Brand Inspector could find no brands or ear tags. The cattle were discovered February 10, and none of the government authorities has done anything – no tissue testing, no DNA, no recommendations for disposal. The Band is concerned the animals are infected and may infect other livestock and wildlife.

Village, KID may form partnership

Village Council has finally received the "terms of reference" from Victoria for a possible partnership with Keremeos Irrigation District (KID). Village Council will meet with the Board of Directors of KID to form a committee to work with Don Sutherland, a consultant who will review the governance issues and make recommendations.

There are two options for a

Cut to health emergency service alarms Village Council

The reduction of health emergency services in Keremeos could seriously inconvenience residents in crisis, according to Mayor Walter Despot. There will be no health emergency services during the evening and night hours at South Similkameen Health Centre. Patients in crisis will go to Penticton by ambulance. Mayor Despot expressed some concern about how patients would get back from Penticton.

In addition to patient inconvenience, there is some concern about the ambulance service. Ambulance attendants are supposed to be qualified to Level I, but there is only one person in the Keremeos ambulance service trained to that level, as Keremeos is a training centre for ambulance personnel. Keremeos and Castlegar are the only areas limited to daytime emergency service at local health centres.

change in governance. The first option would see the Village of Keremeos take over KID property within Village boundaries. This would allow the Village to go after infrastructure grants to upgrade the water system. KID is not eligible for these grants. The second option would mean a partnership between the Village of Keremeos and KID. With joint ownership in place, then the entire system would be eligible for the infrastructure grants.

The time frame for progress is as follows: the Village will meet with KID in the next few weeks, hire a consultant by the end of March, and receive recommendations in May.

Village needs more land to expand

Keremeos Village Council will meet this week with the Land Reserve Commission to discuss Village boundaries. Council is looking at changing development cost charges in order to attract economic development and more people to Keremeos. One of the drawbacks for the Village is the lack of land inside Village boundaries which may be developed.

Keremeos has few ways to pay for services other than taxing residents, but with a larger tax base, the cost to individual property owners may go down, or at least remain the same despite provincial government increases in property taxes. In order to expand the tax base (the amount of taxable property within Village boundaries), Village Council must have access to more land.

Tipping fees may raise garbage cost

After an 86 percent increase in tipping fees last year, Keremeos area residents face an additional 110 percent increase this year. Regional District has proposed the increase and it is not written in stone as yet. The reason for the increase in tipping fees is due to off-day dumping being subsidized by others, and the fee must generate a break-even balance. Mayor Walter Despot will report to the public after staff complete their investigation of the fee structure.

In late February, 1975, Similkameen Elementary Secondary School hosted valley championships in basketball. The local team won and went on to the provincials. Does anyone have a photo of this team? The News Leader has received an inquiry from a Keremeos resident who would love to have a copy of this photograph. If you have one, please call the News Leader at 250-295-4149 or 1-888-350-9969. We will then contact the person who wants to share the photo.

BUDGET 2003

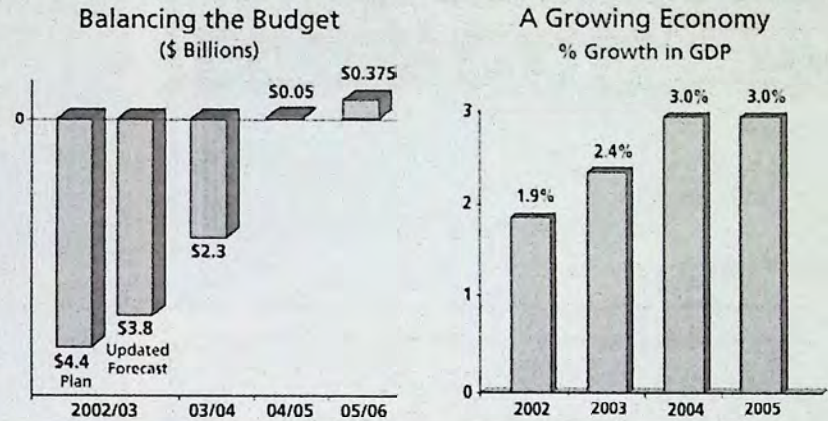

On Track for a Brighter Future

On Target for a Balanced Budget

Last year, the provincial government introduced a three-year plan with three goals: to restore sound fiscal management, revitalize the economy and put patients, students and people in need first.

The plan is working. In 2002-03, every government ministry is forecast to be within its operating budget and the deficit is expected to be $600 million lower than originally planned. The debt is expected to be $3.5 billion lower than anticipated a year ago. The economy has grown at almost three times the rate anticipated by independent forecasters. And administrative and other efficiencies have meant more dollars for patient care and student achievement.

Budget 2003 will strengthen our competitiveness and quality of life while keeping B.C. on track for a balanced budget.

More Resources for Students

Together with health care, education is our government's top priority. That's why, even as enrolments decline, we will maintain the $4.86 billion education budget this year and increase it by $143 million over the next three years, ensuring more money is in the system for every student.

Investing in Patient Care

As part of our government's commitment to put patients first, we increased health spending in 2002-03 by 12 per cent — $1.1 billion — to $10.4 billion.

Changes in Budget 2003 — plus every dollar of the expected $1.3 billion in new, three-year federal health funding — will advance us further toward a sustainable, patient-centred system.

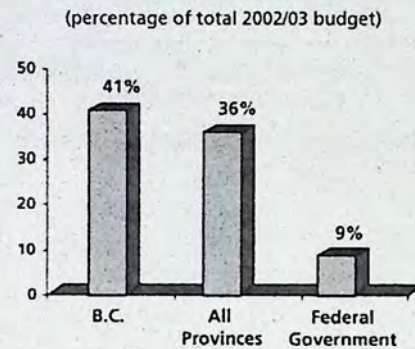

Opening Up Our Heartlands

A modern, effective transportation system and a strong forest industry are key to opening up our heartlands and revitalizing our economy.

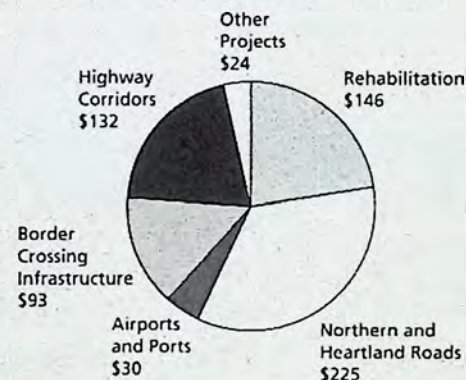

That's why our government has launched a transportation plan, committing $650 million over the next three years and leveraging additional funding from the federal government. This plan will allow for improvements to roads, bridges and border crossings that will benefit all British Columbians — from the Kicking Horse Canyon to the Port of Prince Rupert.

Budget 2003 will keep B.C. on track for a brighter future.

Health Care is Important in B.C.

Understanding whiplash injuries

Whiplash is a general term used to imply a mechanism of injury whereby the body experiences a sudden acceleration or de-acceleration motion. It is the most common injury following car accidents, collisions during sports and falls with activity. In the short term, whiplash is most often associated with pain and stiffness in the area of trauma. Other possible symptoms of whiplash include back pain, headache, dizziness and blurred vision. However, a significant percentage of these injuries can persist to chronic disorders which significantly impact your health.

There is a common belief that the severity of bodily injury is directly associated with the extent of vehicle damage. This assumption is incorrect! In fact, the constant improvement in automotive safety has allowed vehicles to absorb significant force during impact without significant damage. Permanent damage to bumpers systems begins to occur at the 8-15 kph range of collision speeds.

Seat belt book goes home with kids

The latest phase of ICBC's Clicking In seat belt campaign will provide more than 24,500 Kindergarten to Grade 3 students and their families in the Southern Interior the opportunity to learn the key facts about seat belts and booster seats.

The Clicking In Educational Component, which is being distributed to 221 schools, includes a learning guide and a copy of the entertaining new video Clicking In - Our future's riding on it!

With help from the wacky antics of video host Dr. Click and his floppy friend the rubber chicken, children will have fun learning why it is important to always sit in the back seat in the proper vehicle restraint.

In addition to watching the video at school, children will take home a copy of the Clicking In Family Promise, a colourful card designed to encourage the whole family to discuss the importance of seat belts and booster seats and commit to their use.

"We know seat belts save lives and prevent injuries, yet too many people still don't bother to ensure they or their children are properly restrained," points out ICBC's Regional Loss Prevention Manager Geoff Koganow. "The fact is you're twice as likely to survive a crash when you wear a seat belt, and children should be riding in a booster seat until they're eight years old or weigh at least 80 pounds."

According to the latest research on full-scale rear impact crash tests, the threshold for neck injury is approximately 8 kph. Further testing simulating real world rear impact collisions demonstrates the subject's head was subjected to 2 1/2 times the acceleration as the vehicle itself. These factors suggest that relatively low speed collisions can generate significant forces to the head and neck, often beyond the ability of your body to protect itself.

Patients suffering from whiplash report a large variety of symptoms, typically much broader than other neck injuries. Frequently they are not aware of significant injury following the accident, but after a few minutes develop a feeling of discomfort in the neck and some degree of nausea. A feeling of tightness and stiffness gradually ensures and after a few days a broad symptom complex may ensue including limited motion, dizziness, headaches, numbness and tingling in the shoulder or arm and possible visual disturbances.

It is extremely important to seek immediate treatment for all whiplash injuries. Often patients feel at the time of the accident that the trauma is minimal and anticipate it will simply pass after a few days. It is interesting to note that 25 - 50 percent of whiplash injuries fail to resolve completely. The key factor in whiplash resolution is early diagnosis and treatment. Chiropractic is well-positioned for the treatment of whiplash injuries because of extensive understanding of neuromusculoskeletal systems. Treatment often includes chiropractic manipulative therapy, soft tissue management techniques, nutritional supplementation and active exercise performed by the patient. All whiplash cases should be reported and inspected by a medical professional whether it is your medical or chiropractic doctor.

Doctors of chiropractic have the skills and training to effectively relieve the pain and other debilitating symptoms of whiplash by restoring your full range of motion, re-aligning your spine, and increasing the strength and flexibility of your neck muscles. If you experience the symptoms of a whiplash injury in a rear-end auto accident, even low speed collisions, seek treatment immediately, no matter how minimal the pain. Don't wait for the symptoms to go away: by avoiding treatment, you will only prolong your recovery and lower your quality of life.

Living past 100

Don't commit suicide yet!

March is one of the two months when most suicides occur. People seem to grow tired and disheartened from the winter months and finally throw in the towel in March. (This is over-simplifying, but you get the idea.) Serious depression, a feeling of hopelessness, and a desire to escape the pain of living seem to be motivating factors.

There is a connection between dietary deficiencies and depression. First, it is no secret the more Swedes and Russians commit suicide than other groups. The long winters take their toll and people suffer from lack of sunlight. We depend on sunlight to help our bodies absorb calcium and calcium is essential in maintaining a positive outlook.

Without going into a long explanation of how brain chemicals work, we know there are certain deficiencies which may manifest as depression. A lack of B vitamins, vitamin C and the mineral selenium help make us feel in a better mood.

Women who take oral contraceptives or hormone replacement therapy are at risk of causing vitamin B6 levels to decline. This vitamin is found in leafy greens (like spinach and chard), fish, poultry and whole grains.

Depressed people are generally deficient in folate (folic acid). Spinach, beans, chickpeas provide the needed folate, but you would have to eat an awful lot to reach the daily recommended dosage, and you would have to eat a lot every day! You might want a folic acid supplement.

In Wales, where the levels of selenium in the soil are very low (as in the Similkameen Valley), doctors at University College gave a daily dose of 100 mcg to their patients and noted a marked improvement in their patient's moods in five weeks. Selenium is found in tuna, whole grains and mushrooms.

If you are overweight, it may be a signal you are deficient in the nutrients listed above. To feel good, most people (mostly women) will fill up on carbohydrates such as breads, pasta, sweets, etc. If you crave carbohydrates, and feel in a better mood after eating these calorie-packed foods, you are heading for obesity. Instead, switch to spinach, chicken, chard, chickpeas, beans, oranges, strawberries, and whole grains.

The lip synch contest included Stompin' Tom's group from Penticton doing "The Good Ol' Hockey Game". The crowd at the Ladies Open Bonspiel Friday evening sang along. The bonspiel drew 24 teams from a wide variety of towns. It was a great success. Winners will be published next week.

Skaters plan "country" carnival

All 44 skaters in Princeton Figure Skating Club are busy redying themselves for another carnival show. For 29 years, the skaters in the club have been entertaining Princeton. This year, the theme is "Country Skatin' Round-up".

Mosey on down to the show on March 8 and git yer fill of our skate-stompin' and line dancin'. Sarsperilla, perty girls, and cowboys will fill yuh with pride for Princeton's own young'uns.

As the season comes to a close for Princeton Figure Skating Club, skaters are receiving rewards for their dedication, practice and skill.

On Wednesday, January 29, 10 skaters in the Canskate and Group programs received their badges. The skills developed include forward and backward skating, turns and edges. The program has seven levels of competence before skaters continue into the Test Stream program now known as "Star Skate".

Skaters in the Star Skate program will attend test days during March where they will be tested on Dance, Skills and Freeskate elements.

Mac Lind PeeWees win play-off opener

On Saturday, February 8, the Flyers traveled to Penticton for the first game of the play-off series. First period was exciting to watch as each team rushed their opponent's net, but the goalies were on task, and no goals were scored.

In second period, Princeton's defenseman, Devin Lilly, put the first marker up for the game. Jayson Johnson scored the a second goal and Joel McEvoy put one in to make it 3-0 for Princeton.

In third period, Jayson Johnson scored Princeton's fourth goal. Goalie Jamie Dunford had his work cut out for him in this period as he first saved a penalty shot and then tried to save his "shut-out" standing. With 2:13 left on the clock, Penticton broke the shut-out and scored.

Final score for the game was 4-1 for Mac Lind's PeeWee Flyers.

Penticton's goalie stopped 26 shots on goal and Princeton's goalie stopped 10 shots. Matt Feiffer was Princeton's Star.

DON'T ADVERTISE!

Don't Advertise!
Just pretend that everyone knows what you have to offer.

Don't Advertise!
Convince yourself that you've been in business so long now that customers will automatically come to you.

Don't Advertise!
Forget that there are new potential customers who would like to do business with you if they were reminded and urged to do so.

Don't Advertise!
Forget that you have to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.

Don't Advertise!
Forget that you have competition trying to attract your customers away from you.

Don't Advertise!
Tell yourself it costs too much to advertise - that you don't get enough out of it.

Don't Advertise!
Overlook the fact that advertising is an investment - not an expense.

Don't Advertise!
Be sure NOT to provide an adequate advertising budget for your business.

Don't Advertise!
Tell yourself that you just don't have the time to spend promoting your business.

Horoscopes

February 25 to March 4

ARIES - This week, and for the next two weeks, you must be cautious about doing anything that would undermine your position. You feel you can do as you please, but others won't see it your way.

TAURUS - News may bring you feelings of anger and depression this week. Friends may not give you the support you expect. Don't let it get you down - the weekend proves you have some good things going on.

GEMINI - You need to talk to people, project your image, and keep abreast of what is going on. This weekend will be a lot of fun, perhaps on the job or with co-workers. Sunday look for romance.

CANCER - Conditions are definitely improving for you this week. Female companions help you overcome problems. One of them may bring you a sudden surprise on the weekend. Blind date proves good.

LEO - Real estate, investments, insurance bring challenges this weekend. Good luck is on your side. Young person may shock you by accident or aggression. Be cautious about partners, friends.

VIRGO - This week is mildly annoying. There are some good thoughts and plans rolling around in your mind regarding romance this weekend, but watch out for a sudden "crush" which needs a second look.

LIBRA - You need to be really cautious this weekend, especially in regard to travel with the family. Events around home may be very upsetting, full of unexpected events. However, health is better.

SCORPIO - Children bring both pleasure and upsets this week, especially on the weekend. Sports could be a lot of fun, if you can find time away from your job. Money picture is still full of challenges.

SAGITTARIUS - Watch out for major problems in travel and communication this weekend. Otherwise, the week looks good. Money picture may bring surprises on the plus side. Do taxes, plan.

CAPRICORN - You are nearly at the end of a very trying period of time. Your energy will increase soon, but this week, you will have to deal with the same old problems. Weekend brings element of luck.

AQUARIUS - Please stay home and do nothing this weekend, as you are a catalyst for uproar. Several elements come together which may make you feel like throwing baby out with the bath water.

PISCES - Finally, you are in your own element and you feel better, but this does not mean the problems disappear, it only means you cope better. Address negative issues around parents, childhood home, family.

REQUEST FOR PROPOSAL
Managing and Maintaining
BC Forest Service
Recreation Sites (campgrounds) and Trails

The Ministry of Forests invites proposals from parties interested in managing and maintaining BC Forest Service recreation sites (campgrounds) and trails under multi-year agreements. Sites and trails with management agreements currently in place or being negotiated are not included in this offer. Proposals should be self-sufficient. The Ministry will arrange for Commercial General Liability insurance for successful Proponents at no cost. The intent is to:

- retain sites and trails in public ownership;
- continue to provide safe, sanitary, rustic public recreation opportunities; and
- build viable partnerships for the management of recreation sites and trails.

Requests for Proposals (RFP) can be obtained from the contact person below. Proposals will be received until (2:00 pm on March 21, 2003) at the address specified in the RFP package. To obtain further information and a copy of the RFP package, contact (Noelle Kekula, Merritt Forest District, phone: 250-378-8400 or 1-800-665-1511, fax: 250-378-8481, e-mail: Noelle.Kekula@gems4.gov.bc.ca)

Why are ads in your community newspaper the most effective?

1. Most people read their community newspaper.
2. People can see newspaper ads any day of the week and all week long.
3. Unlike radio, you do not have to repeat it 10 times a day before people get the message.
4. Unlike television, you do not have to pay high prices and hire actors, graphic artists and film makers – one stop shopping does it all.
5. You can list a lot of products in one advertisement, so shoppers know all of the items you have to offer.

When you advertise in your community newspaper, you pay less and the message lasts longer.

POINTS OF VIEW

OUR VIEW

Sometimes we have to fight

Ten million people in the world have gone out to protest war and demand a peaceful solution to the problems with Iraq. Their actions are commendable, and they undoubtedly have the unspoken support of the majority of people in the world. Nobody likes a war. However, sometimes we have to fight.

During the 1900's, the world developed a new way of looking at boundaries. The century began with a "war" mind-set, in which people took it for granted that a nation with the ability to overtake another nation was within its rights. Any nation wishing to expand its boundaries could go out and fight another nation, and the winner took over. That is what wars were all about.

Following World War I, the League of Nations was formed to put an end to international aggression. Every nation was to have a say in what other nations could do. Many nations did not agree. Ambitious politicians and generals wanted to be free to expand territory when and where they pleased. The result was World War II.

By 1945, the world was sick of war, and furthermore, had a weapon so dangerous the rules had to be changed. The United Nations Organization was formed and nearly every nation in the world joined. The idea of international non-aggression was born, and the UN Security Council was put in place to enforce non-aggression. It was soon put to the test in the Korean War.

There have been many wars since, and most of them took the form of civil wars. The UN does not step in until a nation crosses an established boundary or a conflict is seen to threaten a neighbouring nation.

What we have in Iraq is a dictator with ambitions, one who has shown no mercy even to his own people. He has used poison gas to kill people within Iraq who wanted independence. He has no respect for negotiations, and forgets the help he received when he was afraid the Iran crisis would spread to his nation. He has attacked a neighbouring nation to seize their oil resources. Although his efforts were fruitless, and although his nation faced serious international sanctions, the international spy sources say he is developing weapons of mass destruction, notably biological warfare, against which we have almost no defenses. Further, biological warfare could infect his own nation, but that is of little consequence to him.

If he will not cooperate, and will not give up his determination to conquer others, what can we do? Shall we sit here and wait to die, or shall we fight? Sometimes, we have to fight.

YOUR VIEW

What are the Olympic trade-offs?

Dear Editor;

Proponents of the 2010 Winter Olympics claim the Games will provide major economic benefits to British Columbians – so much so that the economic returns would easily justify the costs of staging the Games.

However, neither the Vancouver 2010 Olympic Bid Corporation, nor any of its member partners (Vancouver, Whistler, the provincial and federal governments), have undertaken a systematic economic evaluation of the costs and benefits of the investments and other commitments required to host the Games. Instead, they have cited economic impact studies that grossly exaggerate the benefits and do not properly measure costs.

Economic impact analyses consider all spending as a benefit. They don't differentiate between money spent to build a new hospital, a new sports facility or to dig a hole in the ground. In other words, they don't address the value of what is produced, nor do they consider what is displaced or foregone to provide the goods and services that are purchased (what economists refer to as opportunity costs). That is why government guidelines recommend the use of cost-benefit analyses.

An examination of both the costs and benefits of hosting the Games shows they will not pay for themselves. There is no doubt there will be a net financial cost British Columbians will have to pay, either in higher taxes, increased debt, or further cuts in other government infrastructure or services.

Building on the Auditor General's review of the Bid Book, we believe a realistic price tag for hosting the Games is in the order of $1.2 billion, even taking into account increased tax revenues and the benefit of getting Sea-to-Sky upgrades out of the way sooner than later. If a Richmond/Airport rapid transit line becomes part of the Olympic package, then the overall cost rises to $2 billion.

However, these figures are subject to numerous risks and may be substantially higher – many of the cost and revenue forecasts are preliminary; some of the commitments have not been included in the Games' of related government budgets; and considerable amounts of government support and contributions haven't been explicitly identified or accounted for.

The potential economic development benefits from the Games – cited as $10 billion in economic activity and nearly 250,000 jobs – have been greatly exaggerated. These estimates include the impact of a new Vancouver Trade and Convention Centre, Continued on next page

Citizen objects carvers in Chambers

Dear Editor;

Our Council's recent decision to allow the Woodcarver's group the use of the Town Hall as a display venue is questionable and I was heartened to see the vote was not unanimous.

Is our Town Hall to become a commercial outlet for "user groups" at the taxpayer's expense?

Is our new Council naive enough to believe that there will be no personal sales or monetary gain for the people involved in the exhibition? If there is any remote possibility of financial gain then there should be a cost involved in doing that business.

Princeton has commercial outlets that are required to purchase business licenses and pay municipal taxes for the cost of doing business within our community. These user groups should have to pay an equitable fee to do the same.

This decision by our Town Council has set a precedent, which is ultimately unfair to our local-businesses. It is the local businesses that willingly give back to our community through scholarships, donations and gifts to charities, schools and community service groups for the privilege of doing business in our town.

Sincerely,

J.Rowe.

Princeton.

Current Comment

Three cheers for sports and sponsors

Dawn Johnson, Editor

Our weekends in Princeton are always busy. I am one of those people who attends nearly every event occurring locally, and a few in Keremeos and Hedley. Most are sports events, and I believe we should recognize the value of the hard work done by volunteer organizations who put on these events and the sponsors who donate money for expenses and prizes. The amount of money generated by these groups has not been calculated officially, but local business owners will tell you the events make a difference.

Minor hockey, snowmobile races, and bonspiels attract attention at this time of year, when business is slow, but let's not forget the foot races, ATV's, motor coach events, the rodeo, the Fall Fair, the Canada Day events, the remote controlled aircraft competitions, the golf tournaments, the ball tournaments, Music Under the K, Kars Under the K, the show 'n' shine events, and all of the other things our citizens dream up and carry out successfully.

I hear the complaint, frequently, about some of the "old" clubs and organizations losing members, or not being able to attract younger people. I hear the complaint that they are not involved in the community. At the same time, I see Timberline Cruisers, Minor Hockey Association, Fall Fair, Vermilion 4-Wheelers, the ATV group, and the ball tournament and swim meet people are, for the most part, a mix of older and younger people. Otter Valley Fish & Game is a group attracting families, as is the Fall Fair and Timberline Cruisers.

The difference is obvious: young people join groups where the action is, and they create some really good events for spectators, as well as for our economy.

This is not to say the "old" clubs are not good and beneficial to the community. Certainly, they have been constructive, but they are full of people of an older generation who enjoy a less active lifestyle. In some of the groups, members wear uniforms and do rituals, and that alone turns off the younger generation.

What the dying groups need to do is look at where the young people are and what they are doing. The young people in our communities have no time to waste on rituals and dressing up in uniforms. They work hard at what they do, and they bring us tremendous rewards in the form of generating money for our local economies. This is why the sponsor support goes to these sports groups - the sports groups pay us back tenfold, and they don't receive much public recognition for the contributions they make.

Olympic Trade-offs

which is not part of the bid, has not been included in Games-related costs, and will proceed regardless of whether or not we host the games.

In addition, the economic impact studies on which those estimates are based incorrectly assume that Games-related spending will not cause any prices to increase and that all of the workers hired would otherwise have been unemployed.

The employment numbers ignore the difference between a 'person year' of employment and a job (a job lasting seven years is counted seven times). Even if we accept the medium employment estimate in the latest impact study, it would be equivalent to some 5,600 on-going full-time jobs over the seven years that the Games are estimated to have an impact. With a $1.2 billion price tag, that's an effective public subsidy of some $220,000 per job. Other studies suggest the employment impact could be closer to 1,500 jobs and therefore the subsidy would be much greater.

Finally, the Games would concentrate their economic benefits in the Lower Mainland and Whistler, where unemployment is relatively low compared to other areas of the province.

To be fair, the Bid Corporation has made extensive commitments to minimize negative social and environmental impacts, while also maximizing opportunities for British Columbians, especially low-income individuals. However, the full cost of these commitments has not been budgeted for. Further, the negative environmental impacts of the development and expansion of facilities and increased accessibility to new sites such as the Callaghan Valley, will be difficult to effectively mitigate.

If there is a justification for hosting the Olympics, it is the benefits

British Columbians will enjoy from hosting and attending the Games and using facilities that remain afterward. The question is whether they are worth the trade-offs. It is a question policy makers and Bid proponents have failed to acknowledge. Dr. Martin Shaffer, Alan Greer and Celine Mauboules, co-authors of Olympic Costs and Benefits, A Cost Benefit Analysis

Heart Food

by Dave Machin

There is a spiritual law all of us would do well to remember. When hard times come they are never as hard as they look. That's important. Hard times are not as hard as they look-unless you are looking in the wrong place, through the wrong eyes, thinking the wrong thoughts and imitating the wrong people. At the onset some problems look absolutely hopeless and insurmountable but with a little changing in your thinking they will paint the wrong pictures in your mind. They will tell you things are worse than they are. They'll tell you that you don't have what it takes to succeed in life, or that the right opportunity won't come to you. However, I'm here to tell you - you can succeed. It doesn't matter how bad the economy is, people who understand money aren't afraid of hard times. In fact, it's selfish people, who are money minded, who actually wish for hard times. Such people made great fortunes during the depression years. They bought up goods at about 10 cents to the dollar and ended up rich while others went broke. As a believer, that is not our motive for prospering during hard times. We want to prosper in order to help others get back on their feet. We want to say, "Hey friend, let me teach you how to prosper. Come on over here to the kingdom of God. Get over here to my house, where no flood or recession or depression will come to tear it down. My house is built on a Rock." If people are sick we can say to them, "Don't let sickness or disease knock your feet out from under you. Come over to my house, it's a healing house. By the power of God we can show you how to be well." That's what the goodness of God is really all about. So how do we change our thinking? Isaiah 55:6-11 tells us we are to take up God's thoughts and His ways. If we want to live the kind of life God has in mind for us, we must exchange our thoughts for His thoughts. We must lay down the things we've picked up through past experiences and instead pick up the wisdom of God and His word. Through God's word we will learn what is really going on in the world and we'll learn His plan for getting us through in victory. The answer to every problem is the WORD OF GOD. Let it change your thinking. Remember; times are not as hard as they look when you look at it from God's viewpoint. God is good, His word is good and good all the time.

Message for a thief

I hope you are proud of yourself. It took a lot of planning, skill, stealth and courage. That kind of act deserves a reward. I made those benches for the enjoyment of the employees of Overwaita, so they could sit and have their breaks and lunches during work (working hard to serve people like you). Maybe you feel you deserve them more than the people who work for a living.

If you have any conscience, please return them so you can be a hero.

Health care costs are lower in Canada

Dear Editor,

In the first half of the last century we did not have health care as a right. As a result many of us suffered through illnesses without seeking medical attention. In the past ten years, the healthcare system that we have taken granted for some time has come under attack from successive governments, federally and provincially. As I see it, if we wish to keep our health care system intact we must act politically. It is not up to me to tell you how to vote; it is necessary for every one to become informed by looking into each political party's constitution--- to read the fine print. Then you may learn how to defend and preserve medicare.

medical procedures while at home.

In the last case that I wish to address at this time, some American citizens have discovered the best of both worlds by establishing Canadian residency, living the good life and times in warmer climes and returning to Canada only as long as necessary to receive medical treatment.

All but the first option put added strain on our health care system. When a Canadian spends health care money in another country (whether it's provided by tax-funded medical insurance or personal cash) that money is gone--- vanished into a foreign economy. When a Canadian receives medical treatment in Canada (yes, even when paid for in tax dollars) there are many benefits. The first and largest benefit is the one that entrepreneurs love to talk about when practicing the 'hard sell'. That is, if a Canadian province sends one million health care dollars to a foreign country, using the multiplier effect, we have lost as much as one hundred million dollars out of our economy. I believe that the Romanow Commission only partially addresses some of the above concerns. No doubt, Romanow had to come down with a package that the Liberals would find palatable and of course, some improvements are better than none. At the present time, health care in Canada represents 9% of our gross national product and everyone is covered whereas the US spends 14% of their GNP in privately delivered care and leaves many millions uninsured. If we, as Canadians, address the abuses inherent in the present system, we can reduce the cost of health care to even lower than 9% of GDP.

Sincerely,
 HP Toews, Princeton

Having spent much more time than I wished in the care of health professionals recently, I can vouch for their genuine interest in the patient's well-being and most, if not all, are motivated more by compassion than remuneration. That said, I have also had time to look around me for abuses to the system. When Canadians move to a warmer climate they have some hard decisions to make regarding health care:

- Some of them opt to move permanently and to adopt the health-care system of their newly adopted homeland
 - In half of the provinces they have the option of taking out heavily subsidized health insurance that will pay for much costlier care in the other country--this option, understandably, is preferred by vacationers.
 - Some retain their Canadian coverage for emergencies and delay non-critical health care procedures until their return.
- In yet another scenario, Canadians live in Canada for six months, spending as little as possible and saving all their loonies for green fees in Arizona---all the while complaining of high taxation and low Canadian dollar--and availing themselves of delayed

Where is the real terrorist?

Dear Editor:

Who is the Terrorist State? Here are some important facts about biological, chemical and nuclear weapons that everyone should know.

"THE FEDERATION OF AMERICAN SCIENTISTS" website has chronicled the U.S.A. is the "ROGUE STATE", when it comes to ridding the world of biological and chemical weapons.

The Bush administration has refused to abide by the International Treaty of 1972 which was signed by the U.S. administration at that time, banning the use of such weapons.

In the current edition of "Disarmament Diplomacy", Barbara Hatch Rosenberg, chair of The Federation of Scientists Working Group, on biological and chemical weapons blames the proliferation of such weapons on "THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S IMPLACABLE OPPOSITION TO ANY LEGALLY BINDING INSTRUMENT".

Iraq) Hurry now and get the duck tape and plastic sheeting. Boy that's a Hot one.

The Canadian people should begin to think about what that insane gang in the White House led by that UNELECTED PRESIDENT George W. Bush is capable of doing.

If they are not stopped now who will be their next victim? When George W. Bush made the statement 'IF YOU ARE NOT WITH US YOU ARE AGAINST US', that should scare the hell out of us all.

Everyone should be very grateful to the many millions of people throughout the world who demonstrated for Peace on Feb. 15/03 in an effort to save us all from having a catastrophe of incalculable proportions forced upon us by those maniacs in the U.S. administration.

Sincerely,
 Marshall A. Johnson, Princeton

Rails to Trails pilot project will boost Heartland tourism, says Chutter

MLA Dave Chutter is enthusiastic about more funding for Rails to Trails in the Princeton area.

"This project could open up those corridors for hiking, cycling, Nordic skiing and equestrian use," Chutter says.

The provincial government is launching a pilot project with the communities of Penticton and Princeton that will create new tourism opportunities by converting abandoned railway corridors into world-class recreational trails, Premier Gordon Campbell announced today.

"As part of our Heartlands Economic Strategy, we are working to develop new ways to open up economic opportunities for communities," Campbell said at a tourism industry conference in Kamloops. "Rails to Trails is an example of how we can harness our province's exceptional assets to create new growth in tourism and new jobs for our heartlands."

The Ministry of Sustainable Resource Management has identified 2,000 kilometres of abandoned rail corridors across the province that could be converted to trails. Under the pilot project launched last week, the government will work with the regional district of Okanagan Similkameen to develop a management plan for opening up 273 kilometres of rail corridors near Penticton and Princeton, including funding, implementation and maintenance. Tourism BC will be a partner in developing strategic marketing for the Rails to Trails program.

The project was inspired by the success of the Myra Canyon portion of the Kettle Valley rail trail, which has experienced high growth over the past eight years and now attracts 50,000 users per season.

Chutter says the province has a goal to double the tourism industry by the year 2010 and the heartlands will play a major role in accomplishing the goal. He adds the region needs to look to all industries in an effort to create jobs for local people. Chutter says he will work with Okanagan-Similkameen Regional District to make the project work.

Petition opposes means test

A petition is circulating in Princeton opposing a means test for those now covered by Pharmacare. The petition was drawn up by an organization called Seniors on Guard for Medicare, and the B.C. New Democratic Party urges residents to sign the petition.

According to the petition information being circulated among seniors, prescription medicine costs for a single elderly man whose income is $28,000 per year could increase $861 per year. The increase stated for an elderly single woman living on an income of $24,000 per year could be as high as $685 per year.

The letter accompanying the petition states "The BC Liberal plan to introduce income-testing means that 420,000 seniors in BC will pay far more for prescription medicine". It goes on to say Joy McPhail and Jenny Kwan will present the signed petitions to the Legislative Assembly. The letter is signed "Joy McPhail".

Day criticizes feds' budget

Stockwell Day, Member of Parliament for our area, summer up the federal Liberal budget saying "A sloppy surplus means sloppy spending from a sloppy slush fund."

"There was more than enough surplus to finally reward hard-working Canadian families by lowering the GST, personal taxes, and gas taxes," Day said. "However, the finance minister chose, instead, to buy his boss a legacy, and buy himself a leadership launch."

Day pointed to the fact that this budget, which will be the final one under the leadership of Jean Chretien, includes over $17 billion in new spending initiatives over three years, but reduces taxes by just over $2 billion. This represents, Day said, 88 percent for spending versus 12 percent for tax reduction.

Increasing the Child Benefit and Disabled Child Benefit was good, Day says, but increasing CPP from every paycheque and continuing to overcharge on the E.I. payment is not good.

Day liked the increase in defence spending, but says it is only 15 percent of what is needed.

The scant reduction in airline ticket tax did not impress Day, and although more money for health goes to provinces, there is no real health care reform, so he says the problems will stay.

An increase to foreign aid spending did not impress Day, either, because there is no public audit to make sure corrupt dictators don't use aid as their own bankroll.

Day would have liked bigger tax cuts to business immediately.

As for funding the Dominion Radio Observatory in his home riding, Day has no complaints.

Way to go, Posse and Princeton!

by Nadine McEwen, Asset Development Coordinator

Way to go Princeton Posse and Princeton community. The Princeton & District Child & Youth Committee would like to congratulate the Princeton Posse on a great first season. The entire franchise should be proud of what was accomplished this past year.

The players from our town made us proud and the players who came from all over the place were an asset to our community. The management team and Posse organizers worked hard. They should give themselves a big pat on the back for providing our community with a team that gives us pride and great entertainment.

The Princeton community is congratulated for showing the Posse support by attending games, traveling to out of Town games, cheering on the team members, opening your homes to the guys and treating everyone like family. It is a unique and amazing thing to see a community come forward to give financial support to a team. By doing so, you have not only kept our team in our community but kept the momentum going towards community pride. In a community that sometimes talks about negative things, the Princeton Posse have given all of us something to take pride in. Something to talk positively about.

As a committee we congratulate everyone and look forward to supporting a great asset in our community for the upcoming season.
