Tulameen celebrates summer!

Tulameen Days draws a huge crowd

The annual Tulameen Family Fun Days drew more people than ever to enjoy summer fun beside the lake and river. There were people camped in nearly every yard, and on the sandbar in Tulameen River, and at the edge of the river. The sandbar is very large this year, and not much river was left for jumping in and cooling off, but there was enough to keep people happy. The fun began with the cake decorating contest, held Friday night. The cakes were used Saturday in the cake walk, and many youngsters went home with a cake Saturday morning. The cake decorating winners were:

Under age 8:

1. Derek Northway
2. Burke Jurjaks
3. Olivia Shepherd

Coalmont coal may fire power

There could be a coal and wood fired power plant in Coalmont by 2006, if the B.C. government approves. In the July 20 issue of The Province, in the Sunday Money section, Compliance Coal and its activities near Coalmont were the feature article. Compliance Coal has a coal cleaning unit located between Envirogreen's plant and the old Similco mill building west of Princeton. In the article, Jim O'Rourke states Compliance has plans to go into the energy production business, with methane gas exploration and a 48 megawatt facility fired half by its own coal and half by wood waste.

Youth dies in crash

A 15 year old Coquitlam male died Sunday as a result of severe head injuries sustained in a crash seven kilometres west of Manning Park resort on Saturday, August 2. He had been travelling with a 17 year old Maple Ridge male when their SUV hit the ditch. Both were trapped in the vehicle. The driver was taken to Hope hospital and is in stable condition. The vehicle has been impounded. Preliminary investigation indicates the vehicle may have had mechanical problems which caused the accident.

Forest fire stopped

A forest fire was narrowly averted last week when a motor home caught fire near Firday Creek, 25 km. west of Princeton. The fire spread to nearby bushes. Thanks to the response of local firemen, the fire was doused. Fire hazard remains EXTREME.

Burnt-out relief fund

Anyone wishing to donate to the fund to assist burn-out residents of the Barriere, Louis Creek or Falkland fires may do so at any Scotia Ban in Canada. Other goods or services to these families are under the coordination of Red Cross and Emergency Social Services. Watch BC television news for further information.

Fair plans high-cost games

Fun and games are costly, but Fall Fair members agreed to go ahead with a deposit of $3,477 for the mechanical bull, the inflatable playground and Laser Tag. The Laser Tag is like paintball, but players wear a vest which records the number of "hits" on them made by special "laser" guns. This is an expensive game, but loads of fun for youth.

Firemen help pay bills

Princeton's firemen are joining with Fall Fair members to do a fundraiser car wash and bake sale to help pay for the playground games for children so these are free to the kids on site. The car wash and bake sale will take place on Saturday, August 16 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The car wash will be by donation. Fall Fair members have to do the baking. Ron Harkness, owner of Princeton Plaza, has generously offered space in the Plaza parking lot for the event.

Chuckwagons, demolition derby

Chuckwagon and chariot races will return this year, along with mud bog, Tuff Truck, demolition derby and the Monster Truck. Tuff Truck and mud bog events are exhibition events with only 12 participants in each. The demolition derby has commitments from eight participants.

Jeff Johnson is in charge of the mud bog, the Nordquists are in charge of the demolition derby, and Lane Carter is in charge of the Tuff Truck exhibition.

Vendors

Ross Chaston reported he has sent out 25 vendor agreement documents and four vendors have sent their cheques and reserved their spaces. GVRD will do an educational display about the biosolids work they have done in the Princeton area.

Registration times for exhibitors

This year exhibitors will have a break on entry times. On Thursday, September 4, exhibitors may bring non-perishable items to the fair between 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. On Friday, exhibits will be accepted from 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. The 6:00 p.m. closing time for exhibits is firm. People exhibiting livestock may registered the animals on Thursday or Friday, then bring them on Saturday morning, or

Policing costs hit property taxes in 2004

Policing costs will be officially downloaded to B.C. communities on January 1, 2004. This New Year's gift will cost Town of Princeton taxpayers 37.5 cents per $1,000 of assessed value of their home, for an average household cost of $28 per year in property taxes.

Area H residential property and farm property have the same tax. Utilities will pay $1.31, unmanaged forest land will be taxed at $1.50, major industry and light industry will pay 1.275, and business (and "other" will pay $0.91875 per $1,000 assessed value.

Recreational property and non-profit organizations will pay the residential rate.

Taxes will be collected through Town Hall for Princeton residents, and Regional District will bill the Town. Regional District has the responsibility of collecting the policing tax. Council's input into local policing policy is good at this time, but other communities, like Keremeos, would like changes if paying tax.

Helicopters filled Hedley sky Friday

A forest fire very close to Hedley had their sky filled with helicopter activity on Friday morning. The fire broke out shortly after 9:00 a.m. on Stemwinder Mountain a kilometer west of Hedley. Original reports placed it near Mascot Mine buildings, but it was not close at all. Helicopters went to work dumping water on it within 10 minutes after the report was relayed.

Keremeos man dies in crash

The name of the person killed in the plane crash in Keremeos was released last week. He was Greg Hendrickson, age 52, of Keremeos. He was trying to land his small plane near his residence when he snagged a power line and crashed.

Hedley Fun Day

Hedley is having a Fun Day this Saturday featuring a bike parade, games and snacks for kids of all ages at Woodlie Park, and the duck race down 20 Mile Creek. The evening features a baron of beef dinner at the ice rink at $6.00 p.m. followed by a free outdoor dance to the music of the Blackbirds.

they may bring them on Friday evening, providing they remain on site. The Fall Fair is not responsible for care of livestock exhibits.

All exhibits must remain on site for the entire fair, which means no exhibits may be removed until after 3:00 p.m. Sunday. The one exception is the pets brought for the pet show.

Music entertainment

There will be two kinds of musical entertainment at the fair. There will be a "street" stage out near the entrance. Mike Dufus, Kristie-Lee McIvor, Patty Harrower and the Highland Dancers are slated to appear on this stage during the day.

On the Saturday evening of the fair, in the refreshment area, there will be a cover charge for the music of BC/DC, a tribute band to AC/DC. The band will play until late in the evening following a one-hour (6-7 pm) liquor vending hiatus. This area will be the location for the mechanical bull. Contestants planning to enter the bull riding contest may practice during the day. The stage in this area will soon have a new roof, thanks to Jeff Johnson and Nelson Patry.

Volunteers

People are needed to man the gate on both Saturday and Sunday. Daryl and Emmy Posein, and John and Betty Golovin, have volunteered to do a few hours.

A newcomer to Princeton, Shirley Campbell, has volunteered to help with registering exhibits and working in the office.

Tophy Hanna needs volunteers to help with the children's inflatable playground. He needs four people to work from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. If more people volunteer, the time is reduced for each.

The concession stand needs volunteers.

Fairs Association gives grant

An unexpected bit of cash came to the Fall Fair from B.C. Fairs Association, who gave the fair an $800 grant. Every year, the fair is judged by members of the Association Board of Directors. This year, the judge will arrive on Sunday, September 7. The fair is judged on many different items, from cleanliness of the grounds to number of exhibits in various categories, to stage entertainment, agricultural events, the appearance of the entrance, and every aspect of the fair. Local members work hard to meet the judges' expectations.

Future Fall Fair meetings

Fall Fair members like to combine efforts for work parties which must occur during the month prior to the fair. There will be a work party on Sunday, August 24, at 9:00 a.m., with a potluck lunch and meeting. Anyone interested in participating is most welcome. Bring something to eat, work gloves, and plenty of energy. President Jody Woodford said the knapweed is out of control and getting rid of them will be part of the day's project.

Wildlife causes accidents

On Sunday, July 27, at approximately 10:50 p.m., Princeton Emergency Services, Fire, Rescue and RCMP responded to a single vehicle rollover on Highway #3 at Whipsaw bridge. Two people, a 40 year old male from Penticton and a 34 year old female from Westbank, were taken to Princeton General Hospital to be treated for minor injuries.

The driver of the vehicle failed to negotiate the curve before the bridge. RCMP consider speed a major factor in causing the rollover. The driver was charged for driving without due care and attention.

Three other motor vehicle accidents occurred in the Princeton area involving deer or moose.

In an attempt to avoid hitting wildlife in Manning Park, the driver of a tractor trailer unit hit the soft shoulder and overturned in the ditch. The mishap occurred on Tuesday, July 29, at approximately 11:30 p.m.

An off-duty RCMP member from Surrey assisted at the scene with first aid and drove the truck driver to Princeton General Hospital. The trucker was treated for minor injuries and released.

RCMP say wildlife on the highway contributed to the cause of motor vehicle accidents in Princeton in the past two weeks. Motorists are reminded to watch roadsides for wildlife, especially during the evening and night.

Tulameen Days winners

Age 8 and older:

1. Emily Shepherd
2. Emma Hall
3. Sarah Mysynuk

Adult winners:

1. Otter Lake RV (Candace)
2. Jean Gloch
3. Anne Passey

The parade:

The Tulameen Days parade was excellent, as always. The winners were:

Horse: Jerry's Raiders (this was the only entry in this category this year, and they had the honour of leading the parade).

Float:

1. Beach Brats
2. Pirates of the Tulameen

Bikes:

There were lots of entries in this category, but there were a few who won ribbons.

There were loads of kids on bikes in the Tulameen parade. Above, in the background, are Princeton's Youth Ambassadors.

Prizes for bicycles were awarded to Darrin, Michelle and Cole, who tied for first, and to Simone, Steffanie, Kimmy, Liam and Sean, who tied for second place.

Commercial:

Winners in the commercial category put a lot of effort into their entries, and first place went to Snack Attack. Otter Creek Services won second place ribbon. Dean Stinson, the "Dean of Real Estate", won third prize. The Dean threw money instead of candy (he might have won first if he had thrown money at the judges).

One of the features of Tulameen Days is the slow pitch tournament, and ball teams are encouraged to enter the parade. Teams who go to Tulameen year after year have come up with some brilliant concepts for their entries. This year there were a lot of teams tied for various prizes, as the parade judges did not seem able to decide between them.

Ball team parade winners:

Tied for first place: Tumbleweeds, Homegrown, Beer, and Pirates.

Tied for second place: The Groggs, The Greeks Online, Hamburger, and Viagra.

Tied for third place: Grimy Gulch, and 2010 Sin City Olympic team.

Miscellaneous:

These parade entries defied categorizing.

First place went to Surrey Firefighters. There was a tie for second between Flash Pot Magician and Local Yokels. Third place Gorgeous Annie.

The parade was followed by a barbecue lunch and a horse-shoe tournament, as well as the Triathlon awards. Ball games continued through the weekend, and there were activities for children.

The weather was hot by noon, and many people took off outer clothing and headed for the beach. Otter Lake beach was crowded with swimmers and boaters.

Council forgives Thrift Shop property taxes

Following a request from Princeton Hospital Auxiliary, Town Council agreed to forgive the municipal portion of the 2003 taxes for the Thrift Shop property on Vermilion Avenue.

The Hospital Auxiliary submitted a financial statement for 2002 showing their financial position as of December 31 as having $65,999.64 in the bank. Of course, much of this money is reserved for commitments to Princeton General Hospital, but that is not indicated on the statement.

The Auxiliary must pay all other taxes on the property, e.g. school district, hospital district, etc.

Town Council has forgiven municipal taxes on Thrift Shop property for many years, as the money earned goes to purchase equipment for Princeton General Hospital.

Kars Under the K speeds forward

Buzz Henshaw expects at least 150 vehicles at Kars Under the K, set for August 10th.

"It's a car show put together as a fun day for the whole family," he explains.

The event, hosted by Citizens on Patrol, will begin at 7:00am with a pancake breakfast. A beef on a bun lunch will be available starting at 11:00am. The Rusty Nail band from Westbank will provide entertainment at that time.

The pool will be open with free swimming and there will be a beverage garden.

Henshaw is the spark plug driving a 12-member organizing committee which he calls, "a good group of people working together."

This is the second annual Kars Under the K and it promises to be a big event. Cars, trucks, motorcycles, vintage fire engines and tractors will all be on display.

One special attraction is the addition of a monster truck.

"I think the big draw will be the monster truck," Henshaw admits, "It'll be located at the Tourist Booth for visibility."

Local merchants and organizations have shown support in many ways for this years event, which Henshaw says was needed.

All entrants will receive goodie bags, prizes and trophies will also be awarded.

Raffles and a silent auction will provide spectators with additional entertainment.

More volunteers are needed to help with various chores and if you are interested call 499-7880.

Pepper Festival adds some spice

Sponsorship money is down, but spirits are high going into this years Pepperfest.

Event Coordinator Judy Egli says there is only $3,000 raised so far, but the committee is confident the second annual Similkameen Sizzle will be better than the first.

New events confirmed at a meeting last wednesday include a dinner highlighted by a pig roast, mexican lasagna, stuffed peppers and a pepper salad.

Another new event is a twist on last years Pepper Eating Contest and Guinness World Book of Records attempt.

The committee is looking into designing it's own series of pepper-related stunts along the line of the popular reality show Fear Factor.

A five piece steel band has been contacted to provide entertainment throughout the day and vendor booths will be set up.

There will also be a refreshment garden, childrens games and raffles.

Many corporate sponsors have made commitments to the event, but more are welcome.

Egli says they will accept everything from cash sponsorships to donations of prizes and products.

Volunteers are also needed to help during the Pepperfest. To find out how you can get involved, call Egli at 499-5681.

The second annual Similkameen Sizzle Keremeos Pepper Festival will take place on Saturday, September 20th in Memorial Park.

Close to 20 people are working on the committee to organize this years event.

The next meeting of the group is Wednesday, August 13th at 12 noon. The meeting will take place in the Similkameen Country Employment Centre Boardroom.

Anyone interested in attending is welcome, but are reminded to bring a bag lunch.

Topics to be discussed at the meeting will be advertising and promotion and the Fear Factor contest.

Tyne Driemel of Keremeos greets visitors at Similkameen Country's Tourist InfoCentre. The 18-year old SESS graduate hopes to become an elementary school teacher.

Citizens keep crime rates down

Princeton's Citizens on Patrol (COPS) have had a strong impact on property crimes during their first three years of operation. They began with little in the way of equipment, but with a strong determination to stop the break-ins costing businesses and homeowners so much money.

Night after night

Today, COPS consists of 51 active volunteers from all walks of life. They patrol our streets all hours of the night, and report any suspicious behaviour and any crimes. They work seven days a week and average 300 hours per month on patrol, or 15,600 hours per year.

Working with RCMP

Thanks to the excellent work of Princeton Citizens on Patrol, they have gained the confidence of RCMP and work more closely with the RCMP. COPS now watches for stolen vehicles, do Speed Watch monitoring, work with victim services to do surveillance on individuals who are bound by a restraining order, and assist the RCMP in any way they can at highway accident scenes.

This is unpaid volunteer work, but these volunteers have expenses and need equipment. They depend on donations from local people to cover expenses. Members of COPS do not sit back waiting for handouts. For example, they provide security for the Fall Fair and receive a payment for their services which helps cover expenses.

Are they worth it?

Statistics gathered by Princeton RCMP show a tremendous drop in crime during the past three years. Business break and enter rates are down 72 percent. Residential B & E rates are down 50 percent. Mischief crimes under $5,000 are down 35 percent, theft under $5,000 is down 23 percent, and bicycle theft is down 14 percent.

Most residents of Princeton, youth to elderly, know Citizens on Patrol are out there. These days, volunteers wearing vests which identify them as Citizens on Patrol do foot patrols and check door locks.

Most people measure their luck only by the good things that happen to them. Try measuring luck by the bad things that did not happen, and you know these volunteer Citizens on patrol are worth every nickel spent on them. If you would like to give a donation, send a cheque to COPS at Box 1687.

Ann Jensen searches through old newspapers.

USIB searches the past

A research project has been underway for weeks in the basement at Princeton museum. It began as a project of Upper Similkameen Indian Band (USIB) but diversified into a combined effort as volunteers and paid employees searched through local newspapers dating back to 1900.

The goal of USIB was to copy items of interest concerning First Nations in the Princeton area. Then the project expanded to include information for Nick Mills' project of identifying people who had lived and died in Princeton but were buried elsewhere. Finally, thanks to Ann Jensen's volunteering her time and skills, it expanded to include items of interest for the archives of Hedley and Princeton museums. Jensen has files for Nickel Plate, Mascot Mine, Hedley, Princeton and First Nations.

Brenda Gould, who is supervising the project, says the information is helping the Band reconstruct the social history of First Nations people in Princeton area. This is in addition to the original goal, which was to identify archaeological leads and data. Old census records show 200 or more First Nations people residing Princeton area. There are many links between these people and members of Upper Similkameen Indian Band today. Data collected will help trace those connections. There are old photos showing unidentified First Nations people. The team will take the photos to older folk who may be able to identify the people.

The project moves into its next phase this week with actual field work being done on private property. Gould says property owners who invited the team are really co-operative and encouraging.

The USIB Archaeological Team has until March 31, 2004 to complete the project and make a full report.

Children and parents enjoyed Treasure Planet Swim last Wednesday evening. This was "fun night" at Princeton's pool. The next fun night is Pirates of the Caribbean (see story).

Water is loads of fun all summer

Manager Carol Mack says there are more adults at the swimming pool this year. She is pleased to see more seniors coming out, and she believes it may be the poolside chair lift which encourages more of the older folks to swim. Seniors have their own hour from 1-2 p.m.

Kokanee swimmers compete in Kamloops

Ten members of Kokanee Summer Swim Club competed in Kamloops Regional Swim Meet last weekend, arriving home late Sunday night.

We will have photos and results in next week's News Leader. Competitors were Allandra Noel, Ann Turgeon, Alex Williams, Keaton Brown, Jordan Hilton, Marlow Deiter, Denis Gutierrez-Ogrinc, Fiona Rowe, and Coaches Zack Brown and Katrina Stringer.

Kokanee Swim Club has 42 members, the highest number in the past few years, and 15 members do competitive swimming.

On November 17, the club will end their season with a "fun" meet and awards to follow. They have had a good season.

If you like an early morning swim, and many people do, it is from 6:30 a.m. to 7:30 a.m.

Mack says the pool is busy these days from early morning to late in the evening. Pool rentals for a pool party are available on Saturdays and Sundays. For reservations, call 295-6535.

The next special event is Pirates of the Caribbean night from 7-9 p.m. on August 20. This sounds like a swashbuckling evening!

Living Past 100

Fat may be a mineral problem!

Nearly all of us experience weight gain as we age. At the same time, most of us suffer bone loss as we age. Recent research shows there may be a link - calcium deficiency.

While some groups are telling us we are going to die from eating "fatty" ice cream, there is something called "the ice cream diet" approved by health professionals!

The basis for the so-called ice cream diet is the understanding of the dual function of calcium in balancing the body's signals to store fat and the opposite signal to break down fat and turn it into energy. Apparently, if a person lacks sufficient calcium, the body stores more fat, and will meet only the most basic of the body's needs for calcium (even stealing it from the bones!) Calcium is important in digesting food, keeping the nervous system healthy and other processes in addition to building bones.

When the body lacks calcium, it keeps right on storing fat, which may be why some people, try as they might, cannot lose the fat accumulation of their older years.

Conversely, when the body has ample calcium, a signal will go out to the cells to release the fat and burn it for energy.

So, we have three adverse things going on that every person over 60 years of age will recognize: extra body fat, bone loss, and lack of energy.

We often watch a group of children playing and wish we could find a way to regain their energy. "If only we could bottle the secret, we could make a fortune!" we say in envy.

Perhaps the secret is in a bottle (or carton or jug). Those children drink at least a litre of milk every day, which is plenty of calcium for their size. We can find calcium in a bottle at a local pharmacy or health food store, in the form of calcium tablets (be sure to take either milk or coral calcium), or we can drink a litre of milk a day, eat ice cream (low fat, such as soft ice cream), drink milkshakes, eat milk puddings, yogurt, milk soups, beans (not green) and put milk sauces on our vegetables. We can fill up on broccoli, too, but nutritionists say milk products are the best sources of calcium.

Police alert business to counterfeit bills

During the past week, Princeton RCMP received three reports of counterfeit $10 bills being passed in the Princeton area.

The bills do not "feel" real, do not have the blue dots embedded in the paper and are smaller than the regular size bills. The serial numbers on the bills are: FEG7229551 and FEE2594151. Counterfeit bills seem to appear more often in the busier summer months than at any other time. Police will be obtaining literature and charts for local businesses to refer to in assisting them to detect counterfeit bills. Police hope to be able to host a training seminar in the autumn to assist business owners in detecting counterfeit bills.

There are still counterfeit $100 bills being passed around town. The serial number of these bills is JJA5686900.

If anyone has any questions about counterfeit bills or suspected counterfeit bills, contact Princeton RCMP at 295-6911 or go to one of the local banks.

Local ranchers meet to express deep concerns

Princeton area ranchers met last week to talk about what they can do about their three biggest worries right now. The first is drought, and there is little they can do about the weather. The impact of more than a month without substantial rain means the production of less hay, higher irrigation costs, and the potential of having to bring the herds home from the range and feed them on fields that should be producing hay for winter feeding.

The second concern related to the amount of feed they are able to produce is the huge grasshopper infestation. There used to be a grasshopper control organization, but it no longer exists. There is a grasshopper control product available from a company on the prairies. It is a sort of mash, and the grasshoppers eat it and die. Ranchers feel it may be too late for this product to be effective.

The third concern is the lack of results in attempts to have the U.S. open the border to Canadian beef. The bovine spongiform encephalopathy (BSE) or "mad cow" scare is going to kill the beef industry if something is not done soon. There was some discussion of ways to put American consumers on the bandwagon to open the border, but there are no firm plans at this time.

Premier Campbell speaks out
Premier Glen Campbell stated last week, "British Columbia has been working aggressively with our federal and provincial counterparts to get the U.S. border open to Canadian beef as quickly as possible. Our ranching community has done an excellent job of establishing the safety of Canadian beef, and to show the world that the quality of our beef is second to none. We've proven our beef is safe. It's critical that the U.S. acknowledges this and opens the border immediately."

Campbell said Agriculture Minister John van Dongen was in California with a representative from Alberta to meet with U.S. representatives and present the facts. There will be a series of regional meetings on BSE, beginning in Kamloops.

INVESTMENT INSIGHTS

By John Vaccaro Investment Advisor with CIBC Wood Gundy
and Greg Stewart Associate Investment Advisor with CIBC Wood Gundy Expertise that's one to one.

A GLOBAL APPROACH TO INVESTING

As world markets become more integrated and as capitalism expands throughout the globe, the opportunity to invest internationally becomes more significant. And because Canada represents less than 3% of the world's equity market capitalization, investors who take advantage of global equities are taking advantage of a set of richer investment opportunities.

Prudent international investing is based on diversification of a portfolio. International markets do not always react in the same direction, or the same proportion as domestic markets. This lack of connection in market events provides the beneficial effects of diversification, similar to asset allocation in the domestic market.

As global investing increases in importance, the opportunities to enhance your returns may continue to grow. The asset mix decisions that you make will involve not only deciding what per cent to allocate among stocks, bonds and cash, but also what per cent to devote to international investments.

Five major factors that could affect the performance of international stocks are:

GEOGRAPHIC AREA - The area of the world the investment comes from (North America, Asia, Latin America, Pacific Rim, etc.)

COUNTRY SELECTION - Analysis has shown that country selection tends to be the major factor in returns on international investments.

ASSET ALLOCATION - The proportion of stocks, bonds or cash will affect portfolio returns as it would in a domestic-only portfolio.

CURRENCY TRANSLATIONS - The exchange rate between the local currency and your domestic currency can vary, potentially enhancing or reducing return on the stock, regardless of the stock's performance in its local market.

STOCK SELECTION - Investors should build toward a diversified portfolio of sound companies and industries poised for prosperity. The selection process is similar to that applied in domestic equities.

Overall, investing globally provides investors with access to some of the world's most profitable industries and companies. To discuss the benefits of investing in foreign equities, talk to a CIBC Wood Gundy Investment Advisor.

Naturalists discover organic farming

by Don Burbidge

While there may other certified organic farms in the Princeton area, the only one of which I am aware is Talus Farm, owned and operated by Paul Wylie and Lauren Hamilton. On Sunday, July 29, members of the Vermilion Forks Field Naturalist Society were treated to a tour of Talus Farm and asked a horde of questions about organic farming in general and their products in particular, mainly garlic and potatoes.

Paul advised at the beginning of the tour that, in order to procure certification for an organic farm, a farmer must prove that no inorganic fertilizers, pesticides or herbicides have been used on the land for a period of three years. Inspections are carried out with care, and tests of the soil and water must be made every three years

Residential care costs will increase

The cost of residential care of the elderly will increase in October. Katherine Whittred, Minister of State for Intermediate, Long Term and Home Care for the B.C. government, made the announcement July 31.

Whittred says more than 83 percent of low income seniors will be either exempted from the increase in daily fees for residential care or will see an increase of $3.00 or less per day. The increases will not affect assisted living residences (such as Vermilion Court). According to Whittred, approximately 72 percent of the low income seniors will see no increase at all, while 11 percent will see only $3.00 per day increase. Residential care operators will notify residents of the new rates.

Starting in January 2004, residential care rates will be linked to the consumer price index and be adjusted annually for all residents. Rates have not been adjusted since 1997.

RCMP seize more drugs in Princeton

Princeton RCMP executed a search warrant on July 29 under the Controlled Drug and Substance Act. They attended at a residence on Second Street in Princeton where they seized a quantity of drugs and drug paraphernalia.

A 32 year old Princeton man was arrested and faces charges of Possession of a Controlled Drug and other Criminal Code offences. Princeton RCMP have not released the name of the man.

after initial certification. Paul gets his fertilizer in the form of turkey manure, in huge trailer trucks from the lower mainland. The fertilizer is rich and has a penetrating odour (that is putting it mildly) but it is free, although the haulage is of substantial cost. The fields at Talus farm are laid out so the crops can be rotated every three years. Each year a third of the acreage sown in vegetables will be planted with potatoes and garlic, a third in fall rye and a third in vetch. The rye and vetch are simply ploughed under to act as green manure. There is also a field of alfalfa and a garden of raspberries, squash, and fruit trees. The turkey poop makes everything grow frantically.

Paul and Lauren sow thirteen different kinds of potatoes, ranging from Red Pontiac, white Norland, Yukon Gold and True Blue, all the colours of the rainbow. To demonstrate, he pulled one stalk of True Blue to display young spuds of a brilliant purple hue, both on the skin and inside. He has machines for planting and digging the potatoes, but none for lifting them from the surface of the soil and putting them in boxes. That must be done by hand, and is hard labour, especially when you harvest 10,000 pounds a season. The potatoes are watered by long black pipes which drip moisture directly into the soil to reduce water loss through evaporation. Conditions for growing potatoes have to be within strict limits to avoid rot and scabs, but otherwise, pests are few along the Similkameen. We did seek out and pick off by hand a few of the brightly coloured larvae and adults of the dreaded Colorado Potato Beetle. They must be kept under control by hand, because no insecticides may be used on an organic farm. So we squashed them brutally.

We saw long rows of Hardneck Garlic drying in a shed. The buds were planted the previous autumn, and were ready to harvest by mid-July. Paul says most people buy the swollen bulb, but a few relish the seeds which form at the end of a long elegant coiled spire called a scape. He says garlic in a field is a pretty good pesticide in itself, as the bugs find it distasteful and tend to keep away.

Paul was happy to answer the torrent of questions from the group, but he did disappoint members who wanted to buy their produce by remarking that virtually all their crop has already been sold, while still in the ground, to various organic stores and shops throughout the province. Gourmet organic vegetables are now so much in demand he can sell anything he produces. All he needs to do now is dig it up and ship it, but in that, of course, lies all the labour.

After the tour, the naturalists took a hike to a canyon with some falls on the property and enjoyed the cool splendour of the canyon walls and the sparkling torrent. We had lunch beside the stream and one hardy soul had a dip. Then we all returned home wiser and refreshed, to relax in the shade as the heat wave continued.

The next Naturalist's hike is a moderate stroll on Baldy Mountain on Saturday, August 9. Call Madelon Schouten at 295-7087.

Courtenay Catlin, age 11, won fastest time in the triathlon.

RECREATION & TV GUIDE

TUESDAY, AUGUST 5 THROUGH MONDAY, AUGUST 11, 2003

The winners of the Mixed relay with a time of 1 hour, 33 minutes and 54 seconds are Jennifer McMullin, Jody Labonville, and Leigh Edwards.

Triathlon was a great success

The fourth annual Tulameen Triathlon drew 21 entries this year for what is a challenging course. It is not as demanding as the official triathlons, but the one kilometre swim, 16 km. bike ride and 9.5 km. run pushed athletes to their limits.

Winners of the Mixed relay were Jennifer McMullin, of Coquitlam, who did the swim, Jody Labonville of Squamish who did the biking, and Leigh Edwards from Whistler who did the run.

Second place went to Richard Moore (swim), Doug Rebglia (bike) and Rod Dixon (run).

In third place was a team which included 11 year old Courtenay Catlin, who was first in to shore after the swim. Her team members were Bonnie Catlin, who did the biking, and Rick Catlin who did the run.

In the singles events, Mike woods was the first man to finish, and Kelley Cook was the first woman.

In addition to prizes won for the competition, participants won merchandise prizes from a draw. A lot of prizes were given out.

The sponsors of this event are Backroads Bike Shop, Ounce of Prevention Health Foods, Princeton Redi-Mix, Princeton Highway Rescue, Penticton

Council tables jerseys again

For the second time, Town Council has tabled the request for a donation toward hockey jerseys for Princeton Minor Hockey. The request came before Council for the second time at the June 21 meeting, and Councillor Kathy Clement asked whether giving them a donation would set a precedent.

Pounders Running Club, Town of Princeton, Highways Department, and Peach City Runners.

This event is coordinated by Carol Esselink, Jim Hardin and Leslie Hassell, who have done a great job since they first developed their idea for this event. A lot of volunteers help with the triathlon, timing, ensuring safety on the highway and in Otter Lake during the swim event.

"Would we have to donate for uniforms for all the ball teams, too?" she asked.

Councillor Ray Jarvis said he would prefer to have a financial statement before making a decision. He wanted to ascertain whether there was hardship.

Council has tabled the matter pending a financial statement.

Recreation is a learning experience

Princeton's Summer Recreation Program focuses on learning experiences for children as well as on fun.

In the photo above, these children are learning a number of different practical things they can do with scientific knowledge. The paint they made stayed in a lump until they spread it on paper, when it smoothed out and became real paint. They did bubble art and other interesting things during a two-hour session. It was fun, but they learned a lot.

This week, the first Girls Exploring Trades and Technology (GETT) Camp began. The girls will learn about all kinds of tools and techniques as they construct go-carts. There are two more GETT Camps, one next week and another the following week. There is still time to sign up the pre-teen girls to this interesting course.

Another valuable learning experience is the Babysitter's Training Course. In this course, open to both boys and girls, youngsters learn the essentials of caring for children, being responsible for health and safety of children in their care. The receive a certificate of qualification at the end. Call 295-7222 to register.

Local youth joins Swiss team

Nigel Mack, age 15, has played hockey in Princeton since he was a little tyke. Now, Mack is a member of the Switzerland team at Okanagan Hockey School International Development Tournament. He is in the Bantam division. The team will play together at the hockey school for two weeks. Mack is enjoying the experience, says the food is great, and there are lots of other activities, such as swimming, tubing and seeing Penticton's attractions.

Men's night on the links

by Monty Raine

Hot scores to match the weather were the norm for last Thursday during Men's Night at Princeton Golf Club. Bill Montgomery started with three birdies in a row to eventually come in with a gross 33. Right behind him were John Schneider and Ryan O'Neil who were one back at 34. Schneider's 30 became the unbeatable net score of the night.

Long drives on hole #15 were won by Ryan O'Neil, Guppy Douglas, Dave Brewer and Gordy Comeau. Closest to the pin on hole #3 after two shots was Ryan O'Neil while closest to the pin on hole #7 were Ray Senger, Jean Anctil and Dave Brewer.

Six golfers out of 49 ended up with deuces - Mike Hauschild, Monty Raine, Ray Senger, John Schneider, Jean Anctil and Brent Bowden.

The rest of the results were:

First low gross:
 0-12 - Ryan O'Neil 34
 13-19 - Guppy Douglas 40
 20-up - John Welde 43
 Second Low Gross:
 0-12 - Steve Morgan 36
 13-19 - Jean Anctil
 20 - up - Bud Sadegur 48
 First Low Net:
 0-12 - Bob Wicks 34
 13-19 - Stan Poslowsky 33.5
 20-up - Gerry Kind 35.5
 Second Low Net:
 0-12 - Ray Senger 35
 13-19 - Bill Drake 35
 20-up - Dave Brewer

Horoscopes

August 5 to 12, 2003

- ARIES - As the week begins, you need to be aware you may not have been told the truth by groups you associate with. In another area, do not delude yourself about future plans. Be realistic.
- TAURUS - Activity around your home continues to keep you busy. Be cautious about taking too much for granted. Do some planning for the future. News you hear on Thursday may not be accurate. Check source.
- GEMINI - Activity around home has problems this week. There may be a conflict between what you need to do about home, parents, and career. Be cautious about everything - look for deception.
- CANCER - You may be tense about money or possessions this week, but you are determined to overcome any problems. At this time, you may feel old, even if you are young. This will last two years. Be patient.
- LEO - Money, investments and value occupy much of your thinking now. You may feel a little depressed, or lacking in spiritual dimension. Friends seem vague or unreliable. Take time for self care.
- VIRGO - Your mind is working at top speed these days, but this week you may experience a conflict with a partner or close friend due to things said. Guard your tongue. Family situation changes next week.
- LIBRA - You may experience some inner conflicts and/or health problems this week. Watch out for respiratory infections. Career matters prove difficult or burdensome. Spend time with friends.
- SCORPIO - Your focus is on career now, and your energy levels are good for steady productivity. Family life is full of unexpected events. This week, be realistic about family matters. Plan for family's future.
- SAGITTARIUS - Your public image continues strong, but career matters prove challenging. Career and home demands may result in conflict this week. Planning and scheduling will solve problems.
- CAPRICORN - Financial matters are still favoured, but you are concerned this week with your public image. What can you do to promote yourself? Be creative. Partners are not helpful. Errands demand time.
- AQUARIUS - Interaction with others reaches a peak now. You establish good relationships. Do social things now which will promote friendships. Money is not needed - do things together.
- PISCES - Your concerns shift to travel now, but there may be a conflict with finances. You are busy expressing yourself and making your feelings known. Your energy is good for hard work and determination.

Fire hazard is a case of Dumb and Dumber

An open burning ban was put in place weeks ago. Ten days ago, a campfire ban went into effect. These restrictions were due to the extreme fire hazard as a result of hot dry weather. Did the restrictions stop everybody from burning trash in their back yards or having campfires? No! There are always those who believe the restrictions do not apply to them, or the restrictions are groundless and should not apply to anyone.

In a couple of instances, sparks from backyard burning ignited dry grass in the neighbourhood and burning the neighbour's homes was barely averted. South of the border, a man actually burned down his own house and several acres of forest due to starting a grass fire last week!

This is a real-life case of Dumb and Dumber. Disobeying the restrictions may cost taxpayers a lot of money even if nobody's house burns down, or it may result in the ultimate dumb stunt of burning down one's own home.

Some people hate to be told what to do, and so they go ahead and defy authority without stopping to think of whether there is a good reason to follow instructions. Defying authority is not always a bad thing, but defy it with good reason!

Other cases of Dumb and Dumber occur in regard to water restrictions. There are people who turn on their sprinklers and let them run all day. This is really dumb, as most of the water evaporates. If the rules are to be broken by sprinkling outside the limits, at least have the good sense to keep the sprinklers running all night when the water can soak into the ground.

In fact, in this extremely hot weather, the water restrictions should make it compulsory to sprinkle after sundown and before sun-up.

If we were really clever, we would be like people who live in hot countries – we would get up before daybreak, work until noon, and sleep all afternoon. There is nothing wrong with a siesta in the kind of weather we've been having. It's Dumb to work in the heat, and Dumber to sprinkle or burn.

More Dumb came to our attention as Keremeos attempted to set up an emergency response centre to cope with the fire in the Ashnola. They asked for a telephone for the emergency centre and it took FOUR DAYS to get one! How Dumb is that?

Pastor speaks out on Lang park

Dear Editor;

You struck a chord in me with your editorial on July 29, which I thought was harshly titled Narrow minds do not serve us well. Having lived in Princeton for only four years, I met a fellow named Karl Lang who seemed to have a wonderful passion for actively pro-

Peace Group plans memorial

Dear Editor;

Nuclear weapons were used for the first time on August 6 and 9, 1945. The Japanese cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki were levelled and hundreds of thousands of people were killed. The people of Hiroshima proclaimed on their city's A-Bomb Cenotaph a promise for future generations: "We shall not repeat this evil".

The United States is the only country in the world that has used their "evil" weapons of mass destruction! Physicians for Global Survival (www.pgs.ca) say "the cure is clear – abolish all nuclear weapons". Please join the Penticton Peace Group in our Hiroshima Day Candlelight (bring your own candles) ceremony.

The ceremony begins at 7:00 p.m. on Wednesday, August 6, at the Japanese Garden located behind South Okanagan Art Gallery (Front and Ellis). Look for the blue Penticton Peace Group sign.

Sincerely,
Brigid Kemp, Penticton Peace Group.

moting Princeton and making it a better place to live. His sudden passing last year was a surprise, and perhaps we have not yet realized how great a loss it was to our town.

With respect to the current issue of deciding on whether or not to name a small triangle of land after Karl as a form of a lifetime achievement memorial, "he shouldn't get it" since he was only a resident for five years. However, it is good to give credit where credit is due. Karl embodied a love for his community and a spirit of initiative that too few possess. Not only did he come up with good ideas, but Karl actively did his best to make them a reality. My opinion is that Town Council should somehow honour the community spirit of Karl Lang in naming the park.

In a closing not to our elected Council, it is about time to lose the "old boy" mentality and get into the game by focusing on community development. We all grow and get blessed when we have positive community goals, and we should appreciate people with courage enough to actually do something about reaching them. I say, citizens like Karl should be remembered rather than those who are content to sit and warm the benches he put in place.

Respectfully,
Peter Rytkonen

Paranoia or insanity? reader questions US policy

Dear Editor;

Canadians have heard via our news services of America tightening up security since 911. Rightly so, you say! My own opinion is that Homeland Security would not have been necessitated had it not been for continual American intrusions on Foreign soil. Be that as it may, recent happenings close to home showed us a state of unreasoned fear in that country.

Last week, Canadian firefighters were sent to help fight the Winthrop fire (Ashnola, to us). They were not allowed to cross the border with aerial firefighting equipment but had to be transported by land for security reasons. At the same time, American firefighting helicopters are allowed to cross the border to pick up fire retardant. They are not allowed to land, but have the retardant pumped into their buckets from pumper trucks on the ground.

It makes me wonder whether American has done her homework on this one, after all, we could be pumping biological warfare from those pumper trucks in retaliation for 'Mad Cow' and 'Softwood Lumber'. Paranoia or jus plain insanity?
Sincerely,
HP Toews

Dawn Johnson, Editor

We were talking about the huge numbers of grasshoppers this year.

“It’s never been this bad before,” the woman said.

A man who had lived here 20 years said the same thing.

I believe these people spoke the truth, as far as their experience

How hot and dry is it?

The News Leader takes pleasure in sharing this e-mail with you after the past two weeks.

You know you’re in the Similkameen in July when.....

- * the birds have to use potholders to pull worms out of the ground
- * the trees are whistling for the dogs
- * the best parking space depends on shade, not distance
- * hot water comes out of both taps
- * you can make instant sun tea
- * you learn a seatbelt buckle makes a good branding iron
- * the temperature drops below 30 degrees and you feel a chill
- * you discover it takes only two fingers to steer your car
- * you get sunburned through your car window
- * you burn your hand opening the car door
- * you learn asphalt can be liquid
- * farmers feed chickens crushed ice to keep them from laying boiled eggs
- * potatoes cook in the ground so all you have to do is dig them and add butter and salt, and
- * the cows give evaporated milk.

Everybody follows the Leader!

went. Anyone who has lived here a long time has seen grasshoppers worse. As a bona fide “Princeton oldtimer”, I can speak with some authority on what we have had before.

In 1947, the summer was hot and dry. By mid-August, grasshoppers flourished in multitudes. One afternoon, our haystack looked like a shimmering brown mass. It was completely covered with grasshoppers. Eventually, a crop duster sprayed our farms with DDT and killed most of the hoppers (and some birds, frogs and earthworms!).

Has it ever been so hot and dry? Yes! I have photos from Coulee City in 1994 showing the marina dry as a bone on October 8 (Coulee City depends on water from the Okanagan and Similkameen). That was the year of the Granite Creek fire, two fires near Hedley, and a fire at Allison Lake.

I remember other hot, dry years – 1978, 1970, and 1960 (we travelled across the country in July, and drove all night, sleeping in air conditioned motels during the day). Going back further, I recall one summer, either ‘54 or ‘55, when we had to stop haying and seek shade. The temperature in the shade was 115 degrees Fahrenheit, or 44 degrees Celcius! The temperature hit 45 degrees Celcius in the shade in Keremeos in 1994.

Going back even further, to 1925, when my mother and her father lived in Coalmont, it was so hot and dry the young lodgepole pines bent over, wilted due to lack of water. I have seen that a few times since.

What is different about this year is the lack of water so early in the summer.

Weather history tends to repeat itself, following a pattern too stretched over time and too complex for us to understand completely. We need to look at weather records over hundreds of years to find a pattern, and even then, as when a volcano erupts or an earthquake stirs up the sea, the pattern is temporarily disrupted.

The Mayans predicted weather on the basis of the position of Venus in relation to Earth, but their records are lost, thanks to the priests who ordered their books burned. What we have left is in stone - a circular calendar and a history of Mayan kings. We’ll have to figure out the rest for ourselves.

Environmentalists would have us believe that what we do makes a big impact on our earth, but I wonder if we are really that important. We are like a lot of viruses crawling around the surface of a baseball. How much impact do they make on the space above the ball?

Heart Food by Dave Machin

The word ‘luck’ is defined as a force that brings good fortune or adversity. We’ve all heard people say “he (or she) sure is lucky” or “they sure have bad luck”. A man named Richard Wiseman did a study about why some people seem to be quote “lucky” and others are not. He and his research colleagues developed a data base of such people and found four Good Luck Principles in the lives of so-called lucky people. First, they maximize chance opportunities, and often act on these chances. Secondly they list to “lucky hunches” and pay attention to their intuition or gut feelings. Thirdly, they expect good fortune to come their way. Lastly, these “lucky ones” turn their bad luck into good. They are the ones who say this situation could have been worse. Well, I am not doubting Mr. Wiseman’s findings, I am wondering how many people leave things in their lives to luck, hoping somehow everything will just work out right for them. Many times we find ourselves in situations where we just don’t know what to do. Here’s a thought for you. Isaiah 48:17 says “I am the Lord your God who teaches you to profit, who leads you in the way you should go.” Notice that He says the way you should go, not the way you have to go. God, who cares for you, does not want you to leave anything in your life to luck. He who knows the beginning from the end has a way for you to go to make your life good, because He is good. God is not a God of luck, he is a God of blessing and wants you to enjoy His blessings, both on this earth and in the life after this one. Please do not leave your eternal destiny up to such a haphazard thing as luck thinking you may just luck out. Eccl. 9:11 says “Time and chance happen to all.” This is your time and now is your chance! If you desire to know more along these lines, don’t hesitate to call and we will be more than glad to talk with you. God is good, His word is good and good all the time. Beth Sellars describes the collage technique she used in her painting. See story below.

Cawston artist moves to Princeton

Beth Sellars, a well-known artist from Cawston, has moved to Princeton on her way to Ontario.

Sellars is originally from Ontario. She moved to Cawston 19 years ago, planning to stay for only three months for the birth of her first grandchild. She has been in the Similkameen Valley ever since.

She was 50 years old, and the Similkameen Valley experience was a turning point in her life. She began to paint. She had always been interested in arts and crafts, but admits she left behind countless unfinished projects. Painting became something else, a passion.

As time went on, she built a studio and gave art lessons. She had numerous shows in the Okanagan Valley and is now showing her work at the Cultural Centre in Princeton.

Sellars will remain in Princeton until September 24. She plans to do a collage workshop (no date set) while here, as collages are her specialty.

Sellars mixes paint, lichens, fossils, rocks, bits of wood, and paper cutouts in her pictures. They are remarkable.

In addition to the collages she is showing, she has a display of what she calls her "historic" pictures of old abandoned cars. For one of these, she received an Award of Merit in the 2003 Art of the Automobile for her painting of an old Chev sedan in a field. It was presented by the Automobile Journalists Association of Canada.

Sellars is moving to Ontario to share a home with relatives in Bracebridge. She does not plan to stay away from the Similkameen forever. She will be back.

Before she makes the big move, she has permission to use the Cultural Centre as her studio and show area. Drop in and see Beth Sellars and her work. You will be impressed.

Council approves Adopt-a-Highway

Following a private meeting with Bill Ross of Fowler Products of Canada, Princeton Town Council approved in principle the Adopt-a-Highway program Ross had outlined.

The program was launched by the B.C. Ministry of Transportation to have private companies do roadside maintenance and enhancement. Adopt-a-Highway is open to volunteer organizations who may wish to do roadside enhancement.

In partnership with the Ministry of Transportation, organizations have the opportunity to "adopt" a section of provincial highway to help carry out or sponsor such activities as mowing weeding, landscape beautification and litter pick-up. The company or volunteer group will be permitted to put up a sign on their section of highway saying their organization maintains the roadside. For example, if the company is Princeton Widgets, it could put up a sign saying "Princeton Widgets maintains this section of Highway 3 roadside" or words to that effect.

Private sponsors may participate by hiring professional contractors to carry out the roadside maintenance and/or enhancement.

The Town of Princeton does some of this sort of thing within town boundaries, and has made no commitment to doing any additional areas.

In addition to keeping the roadside clean, which is a must, flowers may be planted. For volunteers groups, the Minister of Transportation will provide traffic advisory signing, safety information and training, safety vests, trash bags and disposal of filled bags.

The paperwork for signing on to the program involves commitments on both sides, including an insurance policy for $2 million (minimum) taken out by the organization or company adopting the section. Further, there is a substantial list of program conditions.

Any group interested in adopting a section of highway should contact the Ministry district office.

Council forgives Thrift Shop 2003 property taxes

Following a request from Princeton Hospital Auxiliary, Town Council agreed to forgive the municipal portion of the 2003 taxes for the Thrift Shop property on Vermilion Avenue.

The Hospital Auxiliary submitted a financial statement for 2002 showing their financial position as of December 31 as having $65,999.64 in the bank. Of course, much of this money is reserved for commitments to Princeton General Hospital, but that is not indicated on the statement.

The Auxiliary must pay all other taxes on the property, e.g. school district, hospital district, etc.

Town Council has forgiven municipal taxes on Thrift Shop property for many years, as the money earned goes to purchase equipment for Princeton General Hospital.

Churches help develop kid's assets

by Nadine McEwen, Asset Development Coordinator

Princeton's church congregations have come together again this year to host a week-long summer camp. The Son Harvest Country Fair Summer Camp is here for the week of August 11 through August 15. It is free.

Children aged four to 12 are invited to participate in this adventurous summer camp Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at Country Chapel.

This is a wonderful opportunity for Christians and those looking for summer fun to participate in constructive activities, feel valued by their religious community, experience positive adult role models, learn practical life skills, build positive self-esteem and enjoy life in God's family.

Asset building takes many forms and being involved with your congregation is a great stepping stone in developing healthy children and youth. Kids feel that their congregations help them feel better about themselves, they learn to resist pressure to do wrong, and they have opportunities to receive advice and help when needed as well as developing a purpose in life.

Congregations help build a values base and expose children to many more caring adults. A congregation attracts people of all ages with all kinds of skills and interests. Your child can meet other caring adults and mingle with people of their own age who share similar values.

If you and your child are not part of a congregation in Princeton, the Son Harvest Country Fair Summer Camp is a great way to learn more about churches here and be introduced to a variety of people and kids.

Princeton churches work hard at developing children into healthy, caring individuals. They have a strong sense that it does take a community to raise a child.

These youngsters won a blue ribbon for their special entry into the Tulameen Family Fun Days parade. Gorgeous!
