Mine project continues on schedule

Copper Mountain Mining Corporation (TSX: CUM) (the "Company" or "Copper Mountain") announced May 6th that construction work on the Company's Copper Mountain Project is proceeding on schedule and as planned.

Erection of steel for the concentrator building is underway with the newly purchased 275 ton crane that will also be utilized during operations for maintenance on the primary crusher. Concrete foundations have been completed for the new 5 bay truck shop to accommodate the new 240 ton capacity haul trucks. The contract to supply and erect the truck shop building steel has been let and steel erection is scheduled to start later next month.

To date a total of 16,500 m3 of concrete has been poured, with a majority of the concrete coming from the Company's batch plant located at the mine site.

Police stats show drop in local crime

At the May 3 Town Council meeting, Sgt. Dave Clare presented Princeton Detachment crime statistics for the first quarter of 2010. The numbers look good, signaling a significant drop in some criminal behaviours.

Assaults are down from last year, with five occurring in the rural area and five in town, compared with 13 in town last year during the same period and two in the rural area. Statistics are gathered for First Nations Reserves separately, but there were no crimes reported for First Nations Reserves for the first quarter.

Incidents of mischief were down, and so were incidents of causing a disturbance. There were fewer break-ins at business locations, but the same number of residential break-ins (2).

There was one area of significant increase, and these were vehicle thefts and thefts from vehicles.

Local residents should remember the rules that prevent vehicle theft and never leave any valuables visible in even a locked vehicle.

Sgt. Clare was pleased to report a disruption of the cocaine trade in Princeton. A quantity of cocaine was seized, and two offenders have been charged with possession for the purpose of trafficking. A coordinated action between Princeton and Osoyoos officers resulted in the seizure of 300 marijuana plants and disruption of an organized criminal group out of the Lower Mainland responsible for ripping off marijuana grow operations. Sgt. Clare said tips from the public have helped in the apprehension of persons involved in the drug trade.

Princeton RCMP are working with Town Council to review and revise regulations governing liquor licenses for special occasions. Any group planning to host an event where liquor is to be sold should seek instruction on any recent changes to the regulations, and should apply to the Committee to Approve Events (CAPE) with plenty of lead time in case plans have to be altered.

Princeton RCMP have been actively involved in a crime reduction strategy that keeps track of any person serving a probation or out on bail with specific conditions. Local police are making every effort to ensure such persons are abiding by the conditions on which they were released.

Previously, such persons may have moved to Princeton and local police were unaware of an existing probation or bail condition. Under a new system, local RCMP are advised of such persons living in the Princeton area and now monitor them, particularly for abiding by curfew conditions.

Local RCMP are still seeking volunteer members of the community to work on a Restorative Justice committee. This group would implement a strategy to resolve instances of petty crime in which the victim and perpetrator would participate. The offender must admit guilt and the committee decides how the offender can make amends. Volunteers serving on the committee will be trained in how to proceed. Any person interested in serving the justice system in this capacity should contact Sgt. Clare at the Detachment office during regular business hours.

2010 airshow features 'warbirds'

Now entering its third year, the Princeton Air Show is excited to confirm this year's featured acts for the Saturday July 17 show. Featured, and new to the air show, will be the aerobatics of Bud Granley Airshow's flying Russian built Yaks (Yakovlev) aircraft and two fully restored warbirds a B25D Mitchell Bomber and P51 Mustang fighter from the Historic Flight Foundation out of Washington State.

Bud Granley has been entertaining spectators for 47 years; joining Bud at the Princeton Air show is his son Ross. Together the two of them provide a thrilling aerobatic show that includes opposing roll take offs, knife edges and loops. The B25D Mitchell Bomber and the P51 Mustang are part of the Historic Flight Foundation flying out of Washington State; these are fully restored WW11 warbirds.

The Canadian Museum of Flight from Langley BC will be attending with their vintage WW11 Harvards and a vintage Waco bi-plane. The aircraft, along with the B25 Bomber and P51 Mustang, will combine for a spectacular formation fly-by. The Canadian Air Force has yet to confirm which aircraft will be participating this year. Other confirmed participants will be announced in the coming months.

The 2010 Air show has added a unique element to this year's Air Show with the addition of professional air show announcers Roy Hafeli and Ken Hildebrand of "H2A2 Air Show Announcers." This unique duo have been entering..... continued on Page 3

CFIB - Canadian Federation of Independent Business

British Columbia's business confidence level increased in the last month and is now 3rd highest in the country, as the national index dropped, according to CFIB's latest Business Barometer index. The BC result of 71.1 is above the national index of 66.4. BC's index is the highest it's been since December 2009, when it was 72.2. Despite a small setback in the national index this month, business confidence suggests sustainable economic growth.

Leading the country this month in business confidence are Saskatchewan (index of 74.4) and Newfoundland and Labrador (index of 71.9). Lowest in the country are Manitoba (index of 61.9) and Quebec (index of 62.1).

Driven by the consumer economy and low interest rates, business confidence is highest among businesses in finance, retail, and wholesale. The sectors reporting relatively lower confidence are construction and farming. These sectors may recover mid-year, as this data are not seasonally-adjusted.

Insufficient domestic demand and the shortage of skilled labour remain the main business constraints for BC businesses. Taxation and regulatory costs are their major cost constraints, followed by fuel and energy costs. These trends persist.

The vast majority of BC businesses, 85 per cent, say that the overall state of business is either good or satisfactory. This is up from 79 per cent last month.

Employment remains strong in BC businesses, with 15 percent planning to increase full time employment and only 14 per cent planning to decrease full time employment in the next 3-4 months.

For more information on CFIB's Business Barometer, including all provincial and industry breakdowns please go to: <http://www.cfib-fcei.ca/english/barometer> and www.cfib-fcei.ca/cfib-documents/Canada-BarometerHistory.xls.

Fall Fair plans more yard sales

Fall Fair members hosted a community yard sale on May 1 at the fairgrounds and despite a bitter wind and cold temperatures, many of the people who rented tables asked if the Fall Fair would do it again. At the May 4 Fall Fair meeting, members decided they would go ahead with a monthly community yard sale, encouraging crafters and hobbyists to participate. Those who grow plants for sale, or who want to sell garden produce or home baking, will be encouraged to rent a table for sales.

Members decided on the following dates: June 5, July 10 and August 7 (All are Saturdays). If the weather is too hot, the tables can be set up indoors. The concession will be open for coffee, pop and snacks such as hot dogs, cookies, and so on. Fall Fair members decided the cost of a table should be $10 but those who book both June 5 and July 10 will pay $10 per table for June, but only $5 for July.

A line-up of entertainment was reviewed. There will be plenty of music, hay rides, trick riders, a car show, a fire department tug of war and bucket brigade contest, children's playground, and now the Fall Fair is looking for some old-fashioned entertainment. Some ideas were tossed around and will be worked on.

As there will be three days of fair this year, people bringing exhibits to the fair must bring them on Thursday, August 26 between noon and 7:00 PM. Judging of exhibits will be done Thursday evening, and top exhibitors will be announced on Friday afternoon as part of the opening ceremonies, which will take place at 3:00 PM Friday. Buildings will be open to the public on Friday afternoon from 4:00 PM to 6:00 PM. The concession will be open and there will be entertainment.

A work party to clean up the grounds is planned for Sunday, May 30, at 9:00 AM. Lunch will be provided to the workers. The next meeting of the Fall Fair Association is May 25 at 6:30 PM at the fairgrounds.

Princeton Town Council news

On April 26, Town Council met with representatives of the Overwaitea Foods Group to discuss plans for a new supermarket on Bridge Street. Construction is slated to begin in September with completion in June 2011.

Councillor Marilyn Harkness told Council on May 3 that the rural locum program has been extended to the end of this month. Council is hiring a private recruiter to help find physicians for Princeton. She again asked local residents to make every effort to identify physicians who could possibly be recruited.

Councillor Ray Jarvis reported the airport terminal building is nearly completed and is on budget. The Air Show on July 18 will have more aircraft this year, and he anticipates a bigger crowd at the show.

All of our featured aircraft, along with Air Force and general aviation aircraft are participating in our static displays, providing the public with an up close look at vintage, high performance and general aviation aircraft.

We also look forward to aircraft from the RCMP and Canadian Coast Guard.

In order for spectators to keep up with the latest air show information and news, the Town of Princeton has launched the new website www.princetonairshow.ca.

Wednesday, June 9, is Accessibility Awareness Day. The Princeton Accessibility Committee is hoping to have some local business people in wheelchairs to tour the downtown area.

Princeton Public Library is expected to move to its new location this week. It will be directly opposite Veterans Square.

Deerview water enhancement project should be completed this summer. This will allow for more housing development in that area.

Councillor Frank Armitage commended Council on holding the line on municipal property taxes for another year. The average residential taxpayer will pay just one per cent more for municipal taxes. He expressed appreciation for the great work Council does in putting together the annual budget. Brochures describing the income and expenditures of the Town are now available at Town Hall.

The website provides detailed information on the air show event, bios of the performers, pictures of the participating aircraft and other general air show information. The public can also subscribe to an e-newsletter by visiting the website; the newsletter will keep you alerted of the latest air show news including announcements of additional performers as they become confirmed.

Children's activities, food tents, souvenirs and much more await the public on July 17.

Gates open off of Airport Road at 10:00 AM and admission is by donation. -submitted

Grist Mill hosts Kettle Valley Brakemen

The Kettle Valley Brakemen will give a concert at The Keremeos Grist Mill and Gardens on Fathers' Day, Sunday June 20th.

Mill Operators, Jim and Brenda Millar will open The Keremeos Grist Mill and Gardens on Sunday, May 23rd.

As in 2009, the membership of the Grist Mill Heritage Club will be on hand this year to support the efforts of operators and to bring some extra shine to the local heritage treasure.

Architect and Curator, Cuyler Paige, and his Provincial Government staff developed the Grist Mill as a heritage site through the 1990's. Sharon Rempel, an agricultural folklorist and founder of what is widely known as 'Seedy Saturday' developed an orchard and heritage grain stands above the mill site.

The Province remains the owner but the operation of Keremeos Grist Mill is now by private contract, as are other sites such as Hat Creek, Barkerville and Fort Steele.

The present operators come with experience at The Station Railway Museum in Port Moody. Both Jim and Brenda Millar are qualified curators.

In 2009 The Keremeos Grist Mill and Gardens were open on weekends only. This year, they will be open daily from 9:00 AM to 4:00 PM for locals and visitors to enjoy the gardens, the exhibits, the creek, the millworks and delicious baked good and beverages at the Grist Mill Visitors Centre.

Membership in The Grist Mill Heritage Club is $25 per year and entitles members to free admission throughout the season. In 2009, Grist Mill Heritage Club members and friends were on hand to help with the festivities on Canada Day, BC Day and Apple Day.

Keremeos Volunteer Fire Department responded to a call at 12:30 PM Monday, May 3rd of a tree fallen onto a power pole on Highway 3 at Upper Bench Road. The power pole was sheared off about 20-feet from the top as a result of the wind storm that passed through the area. The power pole in the photo above was considered dangerous and the road was closed for part of the afternoon to allow crews to put out the fire after FortisBC disabled power to the site. Power was out in Cawston, Olalla and parts of Keremeos as a result. The highway reopened once repairs were completed by the utility service. Photo: Brenda Engel

A single vehicle fire May 4th closed Highway 3 at Becks Road in Keremeos to all traffic for part of the evening. KVFD crews responded to the call at 5:40 PM and arrived to discover the vehicle completely ablaze. Two occupants of the vehicle were not injured. The fire started in the engine compartment. KVFD also reminds residents to stay clear of downed power lines to prevent serious injury. - photo submitted

RDOS collects large and small bulky items

The Regional District of Okanagan Similkameen, City of Penticton, Towns of Oliver and Osoyoos and the Village of Keremeos will have their annual large and bulky item collection in May. Collection will occur in Oliver, Osoyoos, Keremeos, Okanagan Falls, Twin Lakes and Areas 'A', 'B', 'C' and 'G' starting May 17th. In all of the programs above (except for the Town of Osoyoos) residents can set out a maximum of 2 large or bulky items. This pickup is for items that are too large to be easily transported in a car. Examples include unwanted refrigerators, couches, stoves, washers, dryers, mattresses, box springs, freezers and dressers. Residents within the Town of Osoyoos may place out a maximum of 1 large or bulky item and cannot place out items containing Freon such as refrigerators, freezers and air conditioners. Items must be out at your curb by 7:00 AM on your normal garbage collection day on the scheduled week as indicated above. People are encouraged not to include computers and televisions for this pickup. Instead residents can take them to local free e-waste recycling depots. Televisions and computer monitors placed out in the Bulky Item collection can break making them impossible to recycle and can be a potential safety hazard for workers. Free e-waste depots for televisions and computers are located at J&C Bottle Depot in Penticton, the Osoyoos Bottle Depot and the Campbell Mountain, Oliver and Keremeos Landfills. Another great way to dispose of large and bulky items is to use the RDOS sponsored website www.OkanaganReuses.com. This site allows residents to give away, trade, sell or find items across the Okanagan. Landfills can also take most metal appliances and pure wood furniture free of charge. Charges are applied to items containing Freon such as refrigerators, freezers and air conditioners. Residents can consult their Curbside Garbage and Recycling Calendar for a list of other recycling options, landfill hours and website links or contact the RDOS Solid Waste Department. If you have any questions on residential Curbside Garbage and Recycling please contact the RDOS or your local municipality. The RDOS Solid Waste Department can be contacted at 250.490.4129, toll free 1-877-610-3737 ext. 4129.

Your Doctor Recommends
DR. JILL SLYWKA, Doctors EyeCare

Q. Lately I've noticed small spots in front of my eyes. What are these? Should I be worried?

A. Seeing small spots or "floaters" is a common occurrence for people of all ages. Floaters follow your eye movements and travel back and forth across your vision. They're caused by a change in consistency between your lens and your retina and they can take on various forms: from small dots or threads to the appearance of spiders! There's no treatment available and if anything they're more of an annoyance. Don't worry as they don't usually signify eye disease. If, however, the spots appear with flashes of light, or if you have any other eye condition, like glaucoma, they could be the warning sign of something more serious. I recommend you come in for a consultation, and let me know about any vision or eye health matters that seem out of the ordinary.

Night Driving
DR. JILL SLYWKA, Doctors EyeCare

For some, driving at night becomes a serious challenge. Now that days are getting shorter, distortion and glare will become even greater factors. Headlights and streetlights cause glare, and light from night traffic can make taillights and brake lights hard to differentiate. Aging, smoking, vision problems, and certain diseases will add to the difficulty of night driving.

Car maintenance is important: ensure headlights are clean, properly aimed, and in good working order. Windows that are dirty, pitted, or scratched further distort your vision.

Windshield wipers shouldn't leave streaks and mirrors need to be clean and adjusted. Simple maintenance can make a huge difference in helping you drive at night.

Maintenance of your vision is also important. We will be happy to discuss any of your vision concerns, whether the problem occurs at night or during the day.

Health / Lifestyle News

Does your job make your skin crawl?

(NC)—If so, you're not alone. Experts estimate a whopping 40 per cent of job turnover is due to stress. For people with skin conditions the costs of stress in the workplace can be extremely high, with recent research suggesting that psychological stress can worsen skin disorders.

Stress works in a number of ways on the skin

- Nerves in skin provide a direct neurological connection to emotions. The release of cortisol, one of the main stress hormones, can lead to changes in the skin, often with unfortunate results for the person at risk for certain skin conditions.

- Skin disorders associated with autoimmune reactions, such as psoriasis, can be triggered or made worse by stress.
- Some skin conditions—such as hair pulling, scratching and cutting—are direct behavioural responses to stress.
- Isolation and embarrassment are common responses to skin disorders, causing additional stress

Teens & Tattoos

(NC)—Teens have always tried to walk the line between "fitting in" with their peers and being individuals with their own identities. While fashion and hairstyles have been popular forms of expression, body art and tattoos are the new canvas. It is estimated that over 25 per cent of adults have tattoos—and this number is rising all the time.

3. Some people become allergic to certain ink colours. Red, yellow and blue-green inks contain metals that can cause an allergy, resulting in red, itchy and lumpy skin. If this happens, it is very difficult to control without removing the tattoo.

Says Dr. Charles Lynde, MD, "Many signs of stress go deeper than the skin: high blood pressure, headache, shortness of breath, stiff neck, constipation, back pain and more. We all need to be aware of the telltale signs in the early stages and be prepared to take action to get the relief we need."

Dr. Gordon Searles, MD, advises caution when considering a tattoo. "We need to be mindful," he says, "that a tattoo is much more permanent than a new hairstyle and there can be serious health consequences if it is not done properly."

While tattoos have been around for centuries, and modern techniques have made tattooing safer, Dr. Searles offers one last piece of advice. "Obviously the tattoo is permanent," he says, "so if you are sure this is how you wish to express yourself, be certain the design is what you want. It will be a lot harder and more costly to get it off than it was to get it in the first place."

Dr. Lynde's stress-relieving tips:

- Be self aware – learn to identify your own stress signals
- Beat stress through meditation, yoga or behavioural therapy
- Change things up – take a new job, or ask for less responsibility
- Find something you love – reconnect with an activity you used to love, make time for friends and family
- Connect with others – The Canadian Skin Patient Alliance is there to help. Check out the CSPA magazine, Canadian Skin, in your GP or dermatologist's office or online at www.canadianskin.ca and visit www.skinergy.ca to join a discussion.

Dr. Searles has some advice for anyone of any age considering a tattoo:

1. It is critical that everything that touches your skin is sterile to avoid infections such as hepatitis or HIV. Since tattooing is a bloody procedure, care must be taken to avoid contamination of the ink, the needles, the machine and the artist. While the government does provide standards for tattooing procedures, you must take responsibility in ensuring that your artist follows the rules.

2. The tattoo site needs to be properly cared for after the procedure. The skin remains shredded for about one week, so it needs to be cleansed and dressed properly to avoid infection.

Eat For Lower Blood Pressure

High blood pressure is a condition afflicting young and old. What we eat affects the condition. For example, reducing sodium (salt) intake can help keep blood pressure normal. People can look for low sodium and sodium free on food labels. Some foods, such as soy sauce and potato chips, are best avoided completely, as they contain large amounts of sodium even when the label says "low sodium". Cooking without salt also reduces sodium intake.

There are foods that help reduce blood pressure because these foods relax the blood vessel walls, which is what medication for high blood pressure does. The first of these foods is the banana. It contains high levels of potassium, which contributes to lowering blood pressure. Potatoes do this too, especially if you do not add salt to them.

Calcium helps lower blood pressure. Taking a calcium supplement, or drinking milk and eating plenty of dairy foods, is a good way to keep your calcium levels high and reduce blood pressure.

Foods from the melon family are great for reducing blood pressure. Cantaloupe, honeydew, and especially watermelon, are great foods to keep blood pressure down.

Celery contains a plant chemical compound proven to reduce blood pressure. Eat four stalks of celery a day, every day for a week, and then take a week off and start over the next week. This routine helps reduce blood pressure. Never pig out on celery: it contains a lot of sodium. Just four stalks a day is sufficient.

Figs, prunes and raisins help reduce blood pressure due to higher levels of potassium.

Regardless of how well you eat, exercise is important. One of the best exercises for reducing blood pressure is a long walk, at least three kilometers (1.5 km. each way) every day.

Isn't it amazing how many health cures are basically "eat right and exercise"?

Drugs and deer fill front page

Mike Grgich, left, accepts a $2,500 cheque from Ed Goudreau of Princeton Lions Club. The presentation was made Friday afternoon (May 7, 2004) in front of the Westridge Park, located in Westridge Subdivision. "What's really impressed me," Grgich says, "Is everyone in the neighbourhood has pulled together on this project." There are plans to officially open the park on May long weekend.

The main headline on the front page of the May 11, 2004 Similkameen News Leader screamed out in large blue letters, "Drug round-up" with the secondary headline of "Sgt. Lozinski says RCMP will keep up the pace of drug searches."

The story detailed how Princeton RCMP Sgt. Kurt Lozinski was tackling the local drug problem in a report he gave to Princeton Town Council. At the time local RCMP had executed a total of 35 searches in the fiscal year from April 2003 to April 2004.

"Obviously we have a drug problem and a demand here we have to control," Lozinski was quoted as saying.

A total of close to 3,000 marijuana plants had been seized that year with a single search yielding 1,600 plants alone. Lozinski also noted there had been an undisclosed quantity of packaged cocaine seized in the area.

"It seems like we have more drugs but it's because we're proactive," he told council members.

"Other communities do not do as many searches."

The ongoing aggressive deer problem in Princeton was front and centre this time six years ago. Princeton Town Council met with Conservation Officer Al Lay and discussed the matter.

Council learned there are regulations regarding the feeding of dangerous animals, but deer are not considered dangerous.

"The regulations are for bears and cats, but not deer," Mayor Keith Olsen said.

Council looked at implementing an education program as a possible start to a long transition in moving residents away from feeding or encouraging deer to come near their homes.

"This problem has been building up over a number of years with people feeding," Olsen pointed out.

When a member of the public asked who would be liable in case of injury from a deer, Administrator Cornie Froese stated, "Sue whoever you want."

The Trans-Canada Trail section from Brookmere to Summerland received $1.4-million for upgrades.

The announcement was made by RDOS Area H Director Gerry Logan on May 5, 2004 at a bar-beque hosted by the Similkameen Valley Planning Society.

The money would be spent on culvert inspection and clean out, signage, leveling, trail bypasses, new bridges, five major trailheads, tunnel stabilization and rock scaling.

Logan said it was all part of a plan by Tourism BC to market the trail system to the world.

"We have to be ready here folks," she warned.

"It's a lot of money and we have to educate our residents about the importance of this trail."

VFFN hosts trip to Vaseux Lake

Fine company, good fun, great weather and excellent bird viewing aptly describe the latest field trip of the Vermilion Forks Field Naturalists, who traveled on May 1st to the Vaseux Lake Wildlife Centre, just north of Oliver. Madelon Scouten led the group of ten, who saw or heard 35 different species of birds, including Long-billed curlews, Turkey Vultures, Ring-billed Gulls, a Tundra Swan, a Canyon Wren, an Orange-crowned Warbler and an Osprey.

Wildflowers and other flowering plants were in abundance as well, with a few of the discoveries being Long-leaved Phlox, Antelope-brush, Prickly-pear Cactus and Small-flowered Penstemon.

The group traveled south from Oliver to Osoyoos and home via the Richter Pass, with a side-trip to Nighthawk to successfully find a Sage Thrasher. It was a particularly scenic outing, as the fruit trees in the many orchards were in bloom, and both the Okanagan Valley and the Similkameen Valley are spectacularly green at this time of the year!

VFFN's next field trip will be Saturday, June 12th. Lawrence Stoochnoff will lead a moderate 2 1/2 hour hike from Snowpatch Road to Peterson Bluffs.

The public is welcome to join us for this and most outings. Phone Lawrence at 250.295.7307 for further details and to confirm participation. - submitted by Janis Wright

New Posse executive makes changes

The first regular meeting of the 2010/11 Princeton Posse Junior B Hockey Club took place May 4th at the Posse Lounge beside Princeton Arena.

The Posse financial report showed the club had approximately $6,000 in outstanding bills on the books and additional expenses for ice rentals owing to Princeton Arena.

President John Babiak emphasized the need to fundraise in the off season in order to carry the club through the upcoming hockey year.

The 2010/11 signing authority will be changed to reflect the changes in executive positions and plans are in place to charter the Posse team bus on a couple of upcoming events. The Posse will also split proceeds with Princeton Rotary Club in a charity golf tournament planned for Saturday, June 5th at Princeton Golf Club.

Posse team try outs are scheduled for August 17 to 19 and Head Coach Dale 'Duner' Hladun reported he expects to see between 60 and 100 players registered at a $150 per player fee, which will generate some cashflow for the club.

A motion was made at the meeting which will see a $500 'carding/registration' fee used for each player signed to play the next season as a member of the Posse.

Most of the teams in the KIJHL have this fee in place ranging from $400 to $500 per player. That charge alone will give the club over $10,000 before the season begins in September 2010.

Toffee Coffee Caramel Pots de Crème

(NC)—This Mother's Day, create a decadent dessert that Mom will love. This rich and creamy finale will add a special touch to a celebratory meal.

- 4 tsp (20 mL) instant espresso granules
- Pinch salt
- ¾ cup (175 mL) hot water
- 1 bottle (400 mL) Dairyland Toffee Caramel Creama
- 3 tbsp (45 mL) cornstarch
- 1 tbsp (15 mL) cold butter
- lightly sweetened whipped cream (optional)
- chocolate covered coffee beans (optional)

Stir the espresso with the salt in a large heavy saucepan; whisk in water until coffee is dissolved. Whisk Creama with cornstarch until smooth. Add the Creama mixture to the coffee mixture. Set saucepan over medium heat.

Cook, stirring constantly, for 8 to 10 minutes or until mixture comes to a boil and is glossy and thickened. Remove from the heat and stir in the butter.

Divide between eight espresso cups or small dessert dishes. Cover with plastic wrap and cool to room temperature. Chill for up to 2 days. Just before serving, garnish with whipped cream, coffee beans and toffee bits (if using). Makes 8 servings.

My Turn...

The Future Is The Pits

Saturday, May 8th was Princeton Mining Day and probably the biggest event hosted locally as part of the 103rd annual BC Mining Week was the 'Family Day' open house at the Copper Mountain Mine project.

It was a rather fitting place to celebrate when you consider copper was first discovered at the site 122 years ago, and the property has sat dormant for the past 14 of them.

Although there was some confusion over whether or not you had to pre-register to attend and where exactly the shuttle buses were picking passengers up to go to Copper Mountain, it was a massive exercise in public relations.

Hot on the heels of an announcement made by Minister of State for Mining Randy Hawes about how everyone in BC should feel optimistic about the future "when it comes to the mining and minerals industry" it appears that government is taking all the credit for assisting the BC mining industry in "leading the provincial recovery."

Well, that's what politicians do.

The fact remains that we all knew back in 1996 that there was a whole lot more copper buried under the Similco Mine site, but the cost of copper wasn't worth digging for it.

The bottom line was, well, the bottom line just wasn't profitable enough at the time and the interest in copper waned.

Since then, thanks in part to the world of electronics, copper demand skyrocketed as did its value, and the condensed version of the story is that the big chunk of copper below Similco Mine is now attractive again.

Those rocks are so attractive that Japanese interests have jumped on board. In other words, Mitsubishi has a huge appetite for copper and it just so happens we are sitting on a pretty big chunk of it. They want to devour it so badly they bought a 25% interest in the mining company and promised to buy all the copper that company pulls out of the ground estimating that could take about 15 years to do.

It's so nice of the politicians who are slapping each other on the back about the recovery of mining in BC to notice our cute little town these days.

Long story, short. The future of Princeton will be the pits. Well, more accurately one big, monster of a super pit. It'll be so big that the Man on the Moon and the few Martians we haven't already killed with greenhouse gases will look at Earth and recognize Princeton as the place near that huge crater in the planet.

That's the price of progress.

I wonder what the prospectors from the 1880s would say if they saw what their discovery has become.

For some it's the future.

For others it's a big part of the public relations machine used to put a positive spin on the otherwise dismal job of a provincial government with confusing goals.

For most of us it's just another money pit designed to benefit us all.

Carlson says...thanks!

Dear Editor;

The 2010 South Okanagan - Similkameen MS Walk was, by far, the most successful in its history. Not only was the weather gorgeous, MS Walk participants raised over $94,000 for programs, services, and research. Research is the key to finding a cure for Multiple Sclerosis, and there are several advances being made in research, perhaps the most exciting being the CCSVI (chronic cerebrospinal venous insufficiency), an approach well outside conventional MS research theory.

In my fundraising campaigns, I have always asked that contributions be directed towards research.

I have always tried to give everyone; friends, acquaintances, and even people I have never met, an opportunity to say yes. And so many didn't just say yes, with their hearts and their wallets, they shouted YES! A big task is made easier by sharing, and through the generosity of so many people, this year I raised $27,700 of which over $26,500 will be dedicated directly to research.

Every day we move one step closer to a cure for Multiple Sclerosis. I am most appreciative of the generous support I have received in my fundraising efforts. I am blessed and I am humbled.

With all my gratitude,
Ken Carlson, Princeton

Letter To The Editor

Talk about pitching in!

Dear Editor;

On Saturday April 24th, 2010 "Friends of Osprey Lake" held their annual clean up of local roadsides.

The group of 12 area residents started the clean up from Tellier's Fisherman's Cove at 10:00 AM and were finished by 2:30 PM.

They cleaned 28 kilometres of roadway including most side streets from Kathleen Creek, east of Osprey Lake to Shinnish Creek Road west of Chain Lake. The event was held in conjunction with Pitch-In Canada. It encourages people to assist in improving our environment as well as educating others that we can make a difference.

The group gathered almost 900 pounds of trash, which filled two pickup trucks. The litter was transported to the landfill by Norm Christman, Jill Pelland and Lynne Adams.

Thank you to them and also we would like to thank all of the volunteers for the great job that they did.

Yours truly,
Terry Tellier, Princeton

Are We Ignoring Solar Energy?

Dawn Johnson
editor@thenewsleader.ca

The recent oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico is an environmental tragedy. We can call it a disaster, a catastrophe, and so on, but we should lay some blame for it on ourselves.

A conversation with an environmentally conscious woman pointed up some interesting facts, reminding me of how culpable we are when it comes to these abuses of our planet. She said it was our ongoing pursuit of oil and natural gas that leads to these kinds of abuses.

She is quite right. We know the pursuit of oil from under the gulf is at the root of the recent oil spill. The drilling platform collapsed due to an explosion on board. Other oil spills have been related to tankers. Drilling in the Arctic holds the potential for even worse environmental disasters. Whatever the obvious cause, we could reduce the oil spills by demanding less oil.

The same is true for natural or methane gas, which do contribute to environmental abuse. There are issues with water and air contamination in the production of gas. Our demand for this gas is behind the damage done.

You might say, "How are we supposed to drive our cars, heat our homes and produce power if we can't turn to natural gas and oil?"

I am as guilty as anyone when it comes to consumption of fossil fuels, so don't get the idea I am taking a high-brow attitude to this issue. I heat my home with natural gas and I drive a vehicle with an internal combustion engine (any other kind is too expensive for me). This does not mean I do not appreciate the fact that burning fossil fuels contributes to a lot of environmental damage.

On the other hand, why are our governments ignoring incentives to use solar power? If I could afford to put solar panels on my home and lock into the electric power grid, I would do it, and I would heat my home and my water by tapping the sun's energy. The key word here is "afford". How many of us can afford the thousands of dollars it takes to put in solar panels and the switching system to lock into the power grid?

Currently, the BC government is looking at constructing the Site C dam on the Peace River. They are talking about a billion dollar expenditure of our tax money. What if, instead of spending money on Site C, they spent money on providing solar panels for every home in British Columbia, and made a law that said all power utilities must link into these homes?

I am not suggesting a free ride for home owners. We could pay for the panels as part of our monthly power bill or through the sale of any excess solar power to the power utility. There would be so much additional electrical power that Site C would not be necessary, and there would be even less demand for oil and gas.

With demand down for oil and gas, the price of those commodities would decline, and that fact may be at the top of the list of why we do not make more use of solar energy. Gas and oil companies have lobbyists who are paid to ensure the gas and oil companies get what they want. I would guess they present a good case for continuing to make money and contributing to government coffers. After all, the permits and taxes these companies pay add up to a tidy sum in government income.

It may be a case of profits and tax income versus caring for air and water and wildlife. I like to think that is it, and not that our legislators are still living in the environmental dark ages. Or could it be that the government coffers light up the dark ages and make them vanish in the minds of our politicians?

News Leader goes mobile

This week Princeton's only locally owned and operated weekly newspaper goes mobile with the launch of yet another website.

"We wanted to find a way to connect with cell phone and mobile device users," explains News Leader Owner/Publisher George Elliott.

"So I put together a basic 'mini issue' of the News Leader at www.thenewsleader.info with shorter versions of a few stories and some photos from the current issue, we then turned it into a mobile issue that can be read by most cell phones and handheld communication devices at www.thenewsleader.mobi."

Elliott is quick to point out the online and mobile versions of the News Leader are not intended to replace the printed product.

"The weekly newspaper will continue to be the anchor in our business, but the online and mobile versions allow us to reach more people giving us better exposure and hopefully planting the Similkameen News Leader into the minds of those who may not normally read our newspaper."

Elliott says the site is currently getting hundreds of hits daily.

Since its inception mid July of 2005, the Princeton Lions donation box at the Princeton Post and Rail firewood pile has netted close to $7,000 enabling countless children with disabilities to have a carefree vacation at Camp Winfield. Camp Winfield is a free summer camp for children and teens with physical and/or mental disabilities.

It is located 22 kilometers north of Kelowna.

Every summer over 800 kids with disabilities attend one of the Lions Camps located in British Columbia.

This provides smiles into what can be a challenging life for these children, not to mention a much needed break for weary parents who are on duty 24/7 the rest of the year.

Copper Mountain project on schedule

The mobile mining fleet is being delivered to site in preparation for preproduction mining activities that are to commence this summer. To date two large Komatsu 375 Dozers are in operation and the process of assembling three 240 ton haul trucks and one WA1200 loader is proceeding. The trucks and the loader are expected to be work ready by the end of May.

Copper Mountain's partner, Mitsubishi Materials Corporation, has been progressing well on the debt financing for the Copper Mountain Project, which is anticipated to close towards the end of the month, with initial draw-down of funds planned for June. The lenders of the project debt include some large Japanese commercial banks and the Export Credit Agency.

There are a total of 150 construction personnel on site, and the Company is now starting to crew up its operating team. Bill Dodds has been appointed Mine General Manager and has joined the Company effective May 1, 2010. Bill brings with him over 25 years of mine operational experience which is an excellent compliment to the very seasoned team already in place.

The overall schedule for the project remains unchanged with preproduction mining expected to start late in the second quarter of 2010, while construction of the processing facilities is on schedule for full production by June 2011 at the rate of 35,000 TPD. -submitted

BC Mining Week involves Princeton project

B.C.'s mining industry is leading the provincial recovery, providing ample reason to celebrate B.C. Mining Week, announced Minister of State for Mining Randy Hawes. The week of May 9 to 15 was officially proclaimed B.C. Mining Week in the legislature last week.

"We have a lot to be optimistic about when it comes to the mining and minerals industry in the province," said Hawes.

"With rising commodity prices, our B.C. metals are in demand and we are responding. Expected mineral tax revenues are on the rise and, despite a difficult economic climate in 2009, we have two new major metal mines under construction, providing jobs and economic opportunities to our rural communities."

Two new major metal mines, Copper Mountain outside Princeton and the New Afton Mine outside Kamloops, are both currently under construction.

Copper Mountain is expected to provide about 200 jobs during the construction and another 250 when the mine is fully operational. At New Afton, up to 550 jobs will be created during construction and 250 when the mine is fully operational. Construction is also set to begin this year at the Mount Milligan mine site, northwest of Prince George.

Overall, B.C.'s mining and minerals sector employs about 28,000 people in more than 50 communities throughout the province, and those numbers are set to grow. Mining Week aims to raise public awareness of the importance of mining and the collaboration between industry, government, First Nations, and communities to promote the industry. The mining and mineral exploration sector helps fund vital social services such as health care and education and supports families across B.C.

"Mining Week, a tradition for the past 103 years, celebrates the role the industry plays in making B.C. a great place to live, work and play.

With major new mines in construction, existing mines expanding and proposed projects nearing final approvals, B.C. is on the cusp of a renaissance in mining," said Pierre Gratton, president and CEO of the Mining Association of BC.

Saturday, May 8th was 'Princeton Mining Day' with celebrations jointly sponsored by the Mining Association of BC, Copper Mountain Mining Corporation, Mining Suppliers Association of BC and the Princeton Chamber of Commerce.

Events planned for the day included a Chamber of Commerce luncheon from 11:30 AM to 1:30 PM at Princeton Golf Club. The luncheon provided business leaders the opportunity to hear about the renaissance of the BC mining industry and what it means to Princeton.

Family Day at Copper Mountain

Miners draw huge crowd

Riverside Theatre was never so full as when The Men of the Deeps came to sing about the lives of coal miners on Friday, May 7.

Mayor Randy McLean introduced the concert with words of praise for the Arts Council and President Del Hall for her "tenacious pursuit" of furthering the arts in Princeton. It took two years of effort to bring The Men of the Deeps to Princeton. The choir of miners was sponsored by Teck Corp., CIM, Wardrop and Copper Mountain Mining. Of course, it was Mining Week in B.C., and The Men of the Deeps was part of the provincial and local recognition of the important role miners have played in B.C. He introduced Jim O'Rourke, President of our local mining corporation, MLA Harry Lali, and other mining dignitaries.

Mayor McLean introduced the miners choir saying, "We welcome The Men of the Deeps as we welcome mining back into our community."

The miners choir is comprised of ran from 1:30 PM to 4:30 PM which saw hundreds of residents shuttled to the Copper Mountain Mining Corporation mine site for tours of the facility, free hot dogs and refreshments and various family activities.

The day wrapped up with an evening reception from 5:30 PM to 8:00 PM at the Snaza'ist Discovery Centre in Hedley. The event celebrated the ties between the mining sector and the Upper Similkameen Indian Band.

Special guests participating in various events during Princeton Mining Day included MABC President Pierre Gratton, Copper Mountain CEO Jim O'Rourke, Minister of State for Mining Randy Hawes, Princeton Mayor Randy McLean and USIB representatives Richard Holmes and Brenda Gould.

more than 20 men including the musicians, but the singers wear the official miner's garb, including a hard hat with a lamp on the front. Each singer has to do more than sing well to be part of the choir: he must have served at least two years underground. The choir has been thrilling crowds for 44 years, and the local audience was no exception.

The songs about coal miners, the mines, and the lives of Cape Breton miners were met with enthusiasm, but this choir does more than just sing. They tell stories behind the songs, and just for fun, in the second half of the concert, they told some jokes about ordinary people and brought laughter into the mix. The laughter was a good balance because some of the stories and songs were about disasters in the mines, and about mines closing and ending the life of a town.

The Men of the Deeps concert was a feather in the cap of Princeton and its Community Arts Council. Riverside Theatre is proving its value to the community.
