GearUp4CF stops in Princeton

A group of 14 dedicated road cyclists and support volunteers started a 9-day, 1,200-kilometre bike ride from Vancouver to Banff Saturday, June 18th.

The ride, GearUp4CF, is in support of cystic fibrosis (CF) research. Cystic fibrosis is the most common fatal genetic disease in North America and kills more Canadian children and young adults than any other inherited dis-

There is no cure for CF and the gene mutation which causes it is quite common - 1 in 4 people are carriers, but few know anything about it.

Many of the participating riders have seen the devastating effects of this disease first hand and know the battle with CF is harder than climbing the highest mountain. Richard Boase, one of this year's riders, has a son with CF.

Boase and his family have a close connection with the town of Princeton and organizers are very excited to bring the GearUp4CF continued on Page 22

While the name Community Prevention Education Continuum may not mean much to you, evidence presented June 16th in Princeton Legion Hall showed that CPEC has already met with a tremendous amount of success and support in Princeton since it's introduction last November.

In simple terms CPEC is a framework with a simple message: If you want to succeed, you need to be clean and sober. Success stems from the message being repeated consistently through activities and programs offered to school-aged children.

Community stakeholders and supporters gathered last week for a barbeque to celebrate the success of the Princeton CPEC program and to hear how the framework has taken hold in the community.

According to Regional Drugs & Organized Crime Awareness Service Coordinator Cpl. Amelia Hayden, the casual get together served as an important milepost in the lifespan of Princeton CPEC.

"We're here to celebrate the successes and to move it forward."

PSS Principal Sandee Blair spoke of the impact of one program used as part of the CPEC framework an event called CHOICES Day. CHOICES being Choosing Health Over Injury by Caring for Every Student.

The main event on CHOICES Day was a mock accident scene with first responders on site extracting students who were 'acting' as accident victims. The students who visited the accident scene also followed the accident 'victims' into the hospital emergency ward and eventually to the morgue.

Blair said the event was "very impactful" and added, "Our vision and hope is to add two more grades in the next two years" to participate in CHOICES Day.

She added that "we need to change the mind set" related to drug and alcohol use in the community.

Princeton Youth Ambassador Taylor Kostiuk explained, "CPEC gave the Ambassadors a great opportunity to talk to other students."

She viewed the Ambassadors as good role models, which assisted in getting messages across to younger students about making healthy choices. Kostiuk added that at one school they discussed the negative impact of peer pressure as a motivation to push some kids into making bad decisions.

"It also helped us as we know how to connect with them."

Weyerhaeuser Manager Jeff Larsen expressed confidence in the program but added "life is more complicated than when we were kids" and that is a reason why they need more support through such things as CPEC.

Larsen pointed to changing attitudes about drinking and driving as an example of progress.

"Things are changing for our town. The seed's planted in Princeton and I think it'll go beyond that. Every kid deserves our support."

Commander Sgt. Dave Clare stated, "I felt this program would work well in this community. It's worked well in the community and we need to push it forward."

Mayor Randy McLean told the gathering that discussions take place frequently in Council Chambers about what is going on in Princeton in relation to programs used as part of CPEC.

"We're doing a good job of taking care of our kids," he said.

He added that activities that get local youth more actively involved in their community are a positive

"One of the reasons why this works is that it doesn't take a lot of effort if you get a lot of people involved."

Advanced metering

Your views are important to us

FortisBC is seeking public input into its advanced metering project also known as Advanced Metering Infrastructure (AMI) or smart-metering.

Later this year, FortisBC plans to file an application with the B.C. Utilities Commission for AMI. If approved, customers would receive numerous benefits including enhanced customer service and the ability to self-monitor electricity consumption, supporting energy conservation. AMI would also help FortisBC respond more effectively to power outages.

Visit any of the following open houses. Each begins with a presentation at 6 p.m. and FortisBC representatives will be on hand to answer questions.

Local kids raise $$$ for Slave Lake kids

Princeton Secondary School students are amazing and the Textile Class is no exception.

Students in that class banded together and designed aprons they intend to auction off in a fundraiser next week.

The 2011 Fashion for the Fire fashion show is set for Wednesday, June 29th at Princeton Legion. The event will start at 7:00 PM.

The students are fundraising for the children of Slave Lake who lost all their clothing in the recent fires there. They hope to raise funds to help them buy new clothes.

Tickets to the Fashion for the Fire fundraiser are available at Shoppers Drug Mart and at the high school for $5.00 each.

Students are hopeful the community will come out and enjoy a great evening of entertainment and bid on some of the beautiful clothing that they will auction off.

They will not only show off their own sewing talents, they will also fashion and auction lots of clothing donated by local area retailers.

HST Vote Begins THIS Month

As your elected representative, I want to tell you how I voted on the Liberal government's HST: I stood in the Legislature and voted against this regressive 12% HST Tax.

Remember a "YES" vote = "Scrapping the 12% HST Tax" - IF you do not like paying the B.C. Liberal Government's 12% HST Tax and want to abolish, scrap, get rid of, or "EXTINGUISH" it then you will want to vote "YES." A "NO" vote = "Keeping the 12% HST Tax" - If you like paying the 12% HST Tax then you will want to vote "NO."

THE BALLOT QUESTION IS:

"Are you in favour of extinguishing the HST (Harmonized Sales Tax) and reinstating the PST (Provincial Sales Tax) in conjunction with the GST (Goods and Services Tax)?"

Harry Lali, MLA

Ten Reasons Why I am Voting "YES" to Scrap the 12% HST Tax

I will be voting "YES TO SCRAP THE 12% HST TAX" because it is a bad tax for British Columbians and hurts lower and middle-class families. By voting "YES TO SCRAP THE 12% HST TAX" I will also be standing up for the overwhelming will of my constituents who made our Fraser-Nicola Constituency the collector of the second-highest number of signatures per capita on the HST Petition Drive during the summer of 2010.

While they spend millions of your tax dollars on their misleading HST ad campaign here are "Ten Things the Liberal Government Won't Tell You":

1. Liberal Government Deception
During the 2009 Election the Liberal government said the 12% HST was "NOT on our radar." Even Christy Clark did not believe them: "I just don't think it's possible that that could be the case." (CBC News, August 13, 2009) A few weeks after winning the election the government brought in the HST. The people of B.C. justifiably feel betrayed by the Liberal government.

2. 12% HST Tax is a Job-Killer: Hurts Small Business.
This 12% HST will eliminate thousands of jobs in the small business sector, especially in restaurants and pubs across B.C. – the restaurant and food services sector alone expects to lose between 14,000 and 16,000 jobs.

3. 12% HST Tax: Biggest Tax Shift in B.C. History
The 12% HST transfers $1.9 billion in taxes from big corporations (i.e., friends of the Liberal government) and onto the backs of families, consumers and small business.

4. 12% HST Tax Hurts Families: They Pay More
The Liberal government's deceptions cannot conceal the fact many things that had 0% provincial tax are now taxed at 7% more. According to Statistics Canada, the HST costs the average British Columbian family $735 more per year, and that is before purchases of big ticket items such as new homes, renovations and repairs. Other items families will pay 7% more on include realtor and legal fees, used and hybrid cars, energy efficient appliances, restaurant meals, haircuts and hair salons, dry cleaning; school supplies, adult-sized clothes for kids, team sports fees, taxis, telephone and cable bills, bicycles, magazines and newspapers, non-prescription drugs, vitamins, kids' camp, golf course fees, and many, many more.

5. 12% HST Tax Punishes Aboriginal People
The Union of BC Indian Chiefs opposed the unilateral implementation of the punitive 12% HST, saying it will increase the financial burden on First Nations families who are living in poverty or are working poor.

6. 12% HST Tax Creates Winners and Losers
On the one hand, the Liberal government rewarded their friends, the oil & gas companies and big corporations, with a $1.9 billion annual giveaway, while on the other hand, the same government is punishing small business owners, consumers, single mothers, seniors, youth and children, First Nations, and lower and middle class workers who will pay more to make ends meet.

7. Liberal Government Attempting to Buy Your Votes
Premier Clark says she will drop the HST rate to 10% by 2014.....THAT'S THREE YEARS FROM NOW!!!
During her leadership race she said, "We aren't going to be talking about trying to reduce it (the 12% HST rate) by a point or two before the referendum. I mean, I think people will see that as buying them with their own money." Now, the Liberal government is trying to do exactly that....."Buying" your vote "with your own money." The government is spending millions of your tax dollars on misleading ads to save the HST and their own political hides, but has no money for rural hospitals, ambulance coverage, paramedics, or long-term care beds for seniors.

8. Clark to Cut Health and Education to Pay for Promised HST Cut
The Liberal government's 2% HST reduction will cost $2 billion per year, and Premier Clark has suggested making massive cuts to Health Care, Education and Seniors' Care to pay for it. In her own words, Premier Clark said: "Cutting the HST by one point is more than $800 million out of the budget this year and every year after that, $1.6 billion for a two-point cut....because we are going to have a $1.6 billion bigger deficit or we're going to have $1.6 billion fewer heart operations, special needs teachers, school facilities, hospital emergency rooms. I mean, that's where the money comes from ultimately."

9. Ottawa Will Now Set B.C. Taxation Policy
For decades the provinces had successfully fought to gain autonomy over our own Taxation Policy. Due to this "sneaky" deal, this Liberal government has given away B.C.'s sovereignty over taxation. British Columbia used to be able to have tax breaks for things like energy efficient appliances, but now our sales tax will be controlled by Ottawa.

10. Clark and Liberal Government Cannot Be Trusted

Before the 2001 Election, both Campbell and Clark said they would not privatize B.C. Rail and would not cut health care; but after the election they sold B.C. Rail and made massive cuts to health care, closed hospitals, and reduced health services and ambulance coverage. This February, Premier Clark was against how the 12% HST was brought in; but after winning the leadership race she did a complete 'flip-flop' and has become a huge supporter. The B.C. Liberal Government cannot be trusted as they will say anything and do anything to win an election.

Ms. Clark on HST "Double-Talk" and "Public Trust"

When she was a radio show host, Premier Clark had this to say about the HST Tax: "It's an insult to British Columbians for the Government to, first of all, have brought in this [HST] tax in what most of us regard as a very, very sneaky way. And then refuse to bother explaining why they did it properly." (CKNW, July 28, 2010)

In February, when running for Leader of her party, Ms. Clark had this to say as she lectured her leadership opponent, George Abbott: "Double-talk about the HST is the best example of why we need change. When it comes to the HST, the public wants straight answers from a government, not a position that shifts without warning. This is the kind of politics that led to the breakdown in public trust in the first place....This type of double-talk on the HST is damaging to the public trust that government must have to be successful." (Clark's campaign news release, February 20, 2011)

Clearly, Premier Clark and the Liberal government cannot be trusted to keep their word. As Finance Minister Kevin Falcon said during the leadership race, Christy Clark's "ready, fire, aim" approach on the HST is not good for B.C. Clark's reckless decisions, policy flip-flops, and 'off-the-cuff' statements are hurting B.C. families and small businesses.

It's Your Turn to Vote Now.....

In the spring of 2010, over 700,000 British Columbians signed the Anti-HST Petition that resulted in the Referendum vote under way in B.C. My reasons for voting "YES" to scrapping or "extinguishing the 12% HST Tax are stated above. My "YES" vote to end the Liberal government's punitive 12% HST Tax is a vote for more fairness; more support for ordinary families and small businesses; more protection for health care and education; and a vote for real accountability. Now, it is YOUR TURN to vote on the Liberal Government's punitive 12% HST Tax — Vote "YES" to SCRAPPING THE 12% HST Tax, or vote "NO" to KEEPING THE 12% HST Tax. THE DECISION IS YOURS — PLEASE EXERCISE IT!!

Over the past several months, more than 350 teachers in elementary and secondary schools throughout BC's Southern Interior - including 14 South Okanagan and Similkameen area teachers - have shared their classrooms with student teachers from the Faculty of Education at UBC's Okanagan campus.

Student teachers are required to have nine to 13 weeks of practical, in-class experience to obtain teaching certification. Sponsors have opened their classrooms to more than 250 student teachers in the Okanagan-Skaha, Okanagan-Similkameen, Nicola-Similkameen, North Okanagan-Shuswap, Vernon, Central Okanagan districts, as well as schools in Rossland, 100 Mile House, Kamloops, and as far afield as Sooke on Vancouver Island.

"It is in the schools, working with real students and experienced sponsor teachers, that our teacher candidates begin to bring to life education theory," notes Education professor Carol Scarff, Undergraduate Programs Coordinator.

"It is in the classroom that they begin to develop that sense of practical wisdom and ethical knowhow."

The connections between student teachers and their sponsors are arranged by Harold Derksen and Anne MacLean, School Experience Coordinators with the Faculty of

"The practicum is mandatory for certification and relies heavily on the benevolence of sponsor teachers," says MacLean.

"It really is a generous thing they do - we have some sponsor teachers who take students every year or every other year."

The impact of sponsor teachers can be extraordinary, says MacLean.

"Students are different people when they have finished their practicum," she says.

"They have a clearer sense of purpose and an increased passion for making a positive contribution in continued on Page 5 the lives of young learners. It is often during practicum that our student teachers shift from being students to being teachers."

While the practicum is a crucial part of a new teacher's experience, the teachers who sponsor and mentor them usually don't get much recognition.

"Really, they are unsung heroes," Derksen says.

"We call them future shapers they're investing in the next generation of teachers."

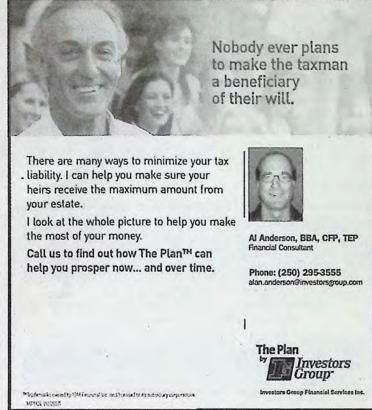

Derksen explains that many professions and trades have apprentice programs where wisdom and knowledge of experience is translated to those with less experience.

"This is especially true in a profession such as teaching," says Derksen. "The vital link between theoretical knowledge and practical knowledge is the sponsor teacher. Student-teacher programs depend on the expertise and wisdom of competent classroom teachers to provide practical experience for teaching apprentices. We have been tremendously fortunate to have such great relationships with so many wonderful sponsors and mentors throughout the province."

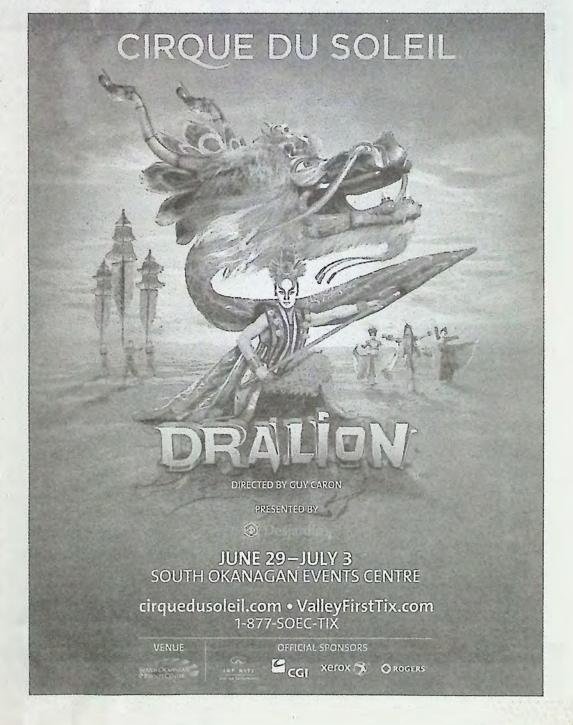

The Faculty of Education offers sponsor teachers UBC library privileges and a discount at the UBC bookstore as a way of acknowledging their hard work. Sponsors also receive a certificate of a limited edition print. And next fall, Derksen and MacLean hope to offer several professional development opportunities for sponsor teachers.

Q: I am interested in colour lenses. Are there only certain prescriptions that can be done in colour? Are they available in disposables? Do they work on dark eyes?

A: Excellent questions! Most prescriptions can be done in colour contact lenses, however there are limitations for some disposables, especially for colour contacts that correct astigmatism. However, many more options for colour are available than ever before. The newer disposable bifocal contact lenses are not available in a colour tint as of yet. There are monthly, two week and daily disposable colour contact lenses available by prescription. Always ask your eye care professional about these contact lenses to make sure that they are fitting properly for your eyes and that they properly correct your prescription. If the colour contact lens is not correctly centered on the eye then the colour portion of the contact lens will be noticeable on the white portion of your eye (looks furnry and is not very comfortable). For opaque lenses (the ones for dark coloured eyes) there is a small pupil hole to look through and if this is not properly centered it will be difficult to see. Colour contact lenses are a lot of fun and add a nice option to everyone's accessories. The disposables make it easy to have a seleca nice option to everyone's accessories. The disposables make it easy to have a selec-tion of coloured lenses along with your clear ones. Each person's own iris colour affects how the colour contact lens will look so always try a trial contact lens first and make sure you like the colour in different lighting conditions before making a final decision.

Help kids overcome a fear of needles

(NC)-Many of us don't like needles. In fact, 10 percent of the population actually have "needle phobia". So imagine what it's like for those who require regular needle injections to treat a chronic illness. Picture what it's like for children who have a natural tendency to fear needles in the first place. Overcoming this fear is essential since their quality of life depends on

Here are some tips offered by Jeff Tuck, a field nurse with EMD Serono, a pharmaceutical company which among other disciplines provides treatments for children with growth hormone deficiencies. In his role, Jeff provides injection support and training to hundreds of parents of children undergoing treatment annually.

· Involve the parent. Not only should parents always be present, they can help to distract the child through conversation.

- · Create a 'safe place'. This may mean choosing a location for the injection that the child is familiar and comfortable with.
- · Distract the child by asking them questions, or through the use of a favourite toy, movie or video game.
- · Make them feel in control. Ask if they would like to lie down; sit on your lap; which arm is best, or what you can do for them during the pro-
- · Let them express themselves. For example, give them permission to shout out loud.
- · Practice. Use toy needles and bandages to explain how injections work and why they keep us healthy. Encourage your child to play doctor on a favourite stuffed animal.
- · Don't let the anxiety build up. The best approach is to inform the child just a few minutes before administering the injection.

· Don't physically restrain them. This increases their anxiety, creates a negative memory and will make all future injections a challenge. · Numb the injection site. An anaesthetic cream or spray can be purchased from most local pharmacies. They numb the skin and dull the

- · Apply an ice pack for 1-2 minutes pre-injection to create a similar effect.
- Reward the child for being brave with a fun band aid or sticker.
- · Use an injection device. Needles have come a long way. By working with children, EMD Serono has developed an automated injection device called "easypod" that is specially designed with a hidden needle to help reduce a child's fear. The device is so easy to use that older children can administer the injection by themselves, which can increase the feeling of control that is so important to overcoming a personal phobia.
- · In extreme cases, where the anxiety persists, it's always recommended to get more advice from your doctor.

"The most important thing is to understand and adapt to your own child's needs," says Tuck. "With empathy, support and a little creativity you can remove the fear and fill your child with courage."

Understanding Hearing Loss

(NC)-Hearing loss can be a tricky thing to understand. It occurs gradually over time and many affected may not even realize they need hearing assistance.

Hearing loss affects more than ten per cent of all Canadians - an estimated 3.5 million people.

When experiencing hearing loss, many facets of everyday life become more difficult. You may feel withdrawn from conversations and have trouble concentrating, being afraid of what you may be missing. You also might be experiencing physical consequences of hearing loss, like tiredness, fatigue, headaches and vertigo.

It's important to get your hearing tested early so you can receive the proper treatment to help you hear your best. Studies show that hearing aid users experience a dramatically increased quality of life as soon as they start using a hearing aid. They have more self-confidence, better relationships with family and colleagues, and experience more independence and security.

There are various degrees of hearing loss, so it's important to visit your local hearing health professional regularly. Hearing loss can range from mild, where soft noises are not heard, to profound, where only some very loud noises are heard and without a hearing aid, communication is no longer possi-

Luckily, most hearing difficulties are within the mild to moderate range, and there are a variety of new hearing aids available for help. One of the newest innovations is Lyric, an extended wear internal hearing aid that is inserted deep into the ear canal by a hearing health professional, where it sits for up to four months. Called "the contact lens for the ear," Lyric hearing restores natural hearing and, because it can't be seen, it ensures the wearer is comfortable and self-assured.

If you think you may be experiencing some hearing loss, you can visit www.phonak - lyric.com to take an online hearing test.

Europe Bans Herbal Medicines

Herbal medications used for as many as 1,000 years have been banned in most of Europe and will be banned in the United Kingdom next year. The herbs in question include herbal treatments used in Ayurvedic medicine and Traditional Chinese Medicine. Why the ban? These preparations have not been tested for safety.

It is unlikely these herbs will be tested, as the cost of testing, to meet regulatory standards, can be $160,000 per herb. In some of the European countries, herbal preparations containing plants commonly used as foods, will be exempt from the ban. These food herbs include such plants as garlic, sage, rosemary and sweet basil.

At this point, growing banned herbs in your garden is not being policed, but that day may come, as it has in some places in the United States.

Herbalists and practitioners of traditional medicine are wondering just how far the list of banned herbs will extend and how it will impact their ability to treat patients. In some countries, licensed practitioners will still be allowed to prescribe herbal treatments, but in other countries there has been a long delay in licensing due to bureaucratic delays.

The United Kingdom justifies the ban on herbs for safety reasons, although the ban does not apply merely to those herbs deemed unsafe, but to a wide spectrum of herbs.

There has been a lot of opposition expressed to government over this sweeping legislation.

Many people have concerns about just how far the regulations will extend. Others are concerned that herbs on which they feel their health depends will be taken from them.

In Canada, efforts to control herbal preparations and herbal treatments have been met with a lot of opposition from citizens. While there is some concern about safety of self-medication with herbal preparations, there is no major lobby trying to persuade the government to disallow traditional Chinese medicines to be prescribed, nor has there been any legislation to prevent Ayurvedic medicine. However, alternative medicine has been under fire for some time, primarily through lobbying by major pharmaceutical companies.

It was five years ago when Princeton lost one of its dedicated volunteers with the passing of Margaret Stoneberg. Stoneberg spent 57 years in Princeton and was involved in the Old Age Pensioners. Business Professional Women, Chamber of Commerce, Fall Fair Association, Women's Institute, Royal Purple and Rebekahs.

She will be best remembered for her years of work with Princeton & District Museum and Archives and BC Historical Society.

Margaret Stoneberg's legacy to the people of Princeton was the creation of extensive archives, which she built up over many years of private work as a volunteer.

A total of 69 runners participated in the 2006 Coalmont to Princeton road race five years ago with conditions at the time described by organizers as good running weather (16C with a few light rain shows and light winds).

Hans Aabye of Merritt finished first with a time of 1:10:12. Chris Torrie of Vernon was second (1:11:55) and Jack Miller of Cache Creek third (1:16:06).

A total of six local runners ran the course with John Bosomworth leading the Princeton list finishing 19th overall with a time of 1:32:02. John Henry was 29th (1:37:04), Kelley Cook tied at 29th (first Princeton female finisher) with 1:37:04; Gordon Bibby was 38th (1:42:51), Trina Adams 45th (1:48:37) and Bill Lawrence 45th (tie) with a time of 1:48:37.

And School District 58 (Nicola-Similkameen) said good-bye to three dedicated staff members who were recognized as retirees at the annual Retirement and Long Service Celebration June 13, 2006.

They included Darrell Brewer, who retired after 34 years with the district, Jean Haugland (16 years) and Sylvia Adams (15.741 years).

This play is a hoot!

Put together talented actors, comedy dialogue and titillating tunes, and what have you got? You've got I Love You - You're Perfect - Now Change. This play was presented at Riverside Centre on Friday, June 17, and if you missed it last weekend, you can catch it for the next couple of weeks.

Don't take the kids! This is adult entertainment, a bit too racy for the little kids, but the teens will love it.

The play is all about our need for romantic love through all the stages of our lives, but do not think for one minute that there is a serious side to this revealing study. In a series of single acts, the foibles of dating and married couples are the stuff of humour. The humour ranges from chuckles and grins to belly laughs.

WS Leader - Horoscopes

June 22 - 29, 2011

Aries - Your focus shifts to home and family now. You may want to relate to elders and to children, as your family feeling strengthens. Your greatest need now is to create stability and security in your home: this is a challenge.

Taurus - What you want to do now is express yourself to those closest to you - brothers, sisters, neighbours, associates. You want to spend time with them and you want to be heard. Top priority: tend to short trips for business, errands.

Gemini - Being attractive, being loving, and expressing both as values in your life mean a lot to you now. This would be a good time for a makeover of your personal appearance. Being kind and nurturing toward others is a good goal.

Cancer - This is your best time of year, so make the most of it. Express your essential self to others, reach out to friends and the public through what you have to say. Be conscious of how others see you. Sunday sees big change.

Leo - This is a good time to explore things going on in the back of your mind, things you don't want to talk about with others, or even want to think about most days. You could develop surprising insights this weekend. Meditate.

Virgo - Career can pose hectic challenges for the next month but people are pleasant. Money situation remains tight but will show gradual improvement. Conserve funds. Talk with groups you associate with. Use charm for results.

Libra - Plans made last fall can proceed now or meet dismal failure. You are the key factor and you may feel tired, stressed. Focus on career, talk with those who have experience and expertise, and listen. Travel is not advised for Scorpio - If your romantic goals did not work out, shrug it off and be patient. If romance has come your way, look at what the other is willing to give. This tells what the future may hold. Travel may bring great surprises this weekend.

Sagittarius - Double check your financial position - banking, loans, insurance, taxes. Partner will be helpful but demanding. Plans you developed last winter can go ahead now, but proceed with caution. Sudden change can occur

Capricorn - This is your time to focus on partnerships of all kinds - mate, workmate, friends. Watch out for catching a cold or other respiratory problems. Expect major pleasant surprise this weekend and prepare for change. Enjoy.

Aquarius - Watch out for problems with pets, children or lover. Your health is good and you can do more work than usual. Sibling may bring a big surprise this weekend. Stick to ideals, don't be vague about what you value. Be firm.

Pisces - You might turn into a home improvement fanatic during the next month and challenge yourself and others to achieve your ideal for your home. Try to make your home improvement plans part of a plan to enjoy home more.

June Marks 10th Anniversary of Regulatory Reform in BC

by Laura Jones

June marks the tenth anniversary of regulatory reform in B.C. The provincial government should take a moment to congratulate itself for its achievements in reducing and controlling red tape.

Ten years ago, B.C. was the laughingstock of Canada when it came to

The province was beset with mountains of ridiculous rules such as ones dictating the size of television sets for restaurants or prescribing how many patrons could be in a ski lodge based on the vertical size of the ski hill.

Today, B.C. can lay claim to the longest running, most successful regulatory reforms in Canada's history. Over the past 10 years, B.C. has reduced red tape by more than 40 per cent.

The province has become a model for the rest of Canada and for countries such as Australia and Mexico. which have asked for its advice.

How did B.C. succeed when so many previous attempts in Canada failed? It boils down to some fairly simple ingredients: leadership, measurement and accountability.

Ten years ago, then premier Gordon Campbell set a target to reduce red tape by one-third in three years and ministers were required to get rid of two rules for every new one introduced.

Everything was measured and reported publicly.

When the one-third reduction target was met, a new target of one rule out for every new rule in was set -a target which expires in 2012. The government recognized that without some constraints the gains made getting rid of dumb rules would quickly be lost as new ones were constantly dreamed up.

Dumb rules are a hidden tax on all of us as they make things cost more, spark frustration and waste our time. But complex and unnecessary rules are especially tough on small business owners.

These enterprises are on the front lines of the battle with the bureaucratic language, long wait times and unnecessary hoop-jumping triggered by thousands of rules from multiple levels of governments.

The majority of business owners say red tape takes time away from family, causes significant stress, and reduces productivity and the ability to compete with bigger businesses. Businesses notice and appreciate the work that the B.C. government has done to lighten the load.

But B.C. should not get complacent.

Business owners across this province want the government to build on its impressive record. They want this for the sake of their employees, their families and their own sanity.

The government should:

- Extend its commitment to zero increase in regulation to 2015.

- Develop measures focusing on government customer service to complement existing measures of regulation.

- Appoint a minister of regulatory accountability to ensure the ongoing success of B.C.'s reforms.

- Pass legislation requiring annual reports of regulatory counts and customer service measures.

Where will B.C. be 10 years from now?

Celebrating another decade of achievement or looking back with regret at gains that were quickly lost because the government didn't stay committed?

That's up to Premier Christy Clark. Laura Jones, Sr. Vice-President Research, Economics & Western Canada with the Canadian Federation of Independent Business which represents hundreds of small businesses in the Similkameen Valley including the Similkameen News Leader.

Puzzlo Pago

Challenge

CREATED FOR THE NEWS LEADER BY CARTER BOSWELL

HOW TO PLAY:

Sudoku is a game of logic. There is no math involved.

The object of the game is to fill the grid so that the numbers 1 through 9 appear only once in each row, column and 3 x 3 box. The numbers can appear in any order and Carter has left you some clues below.

CHALLENGE #356 - Rated Medium

		2	1		8
5	6				4	1		2
6		7		4		5		3
	5			2			6	1
8		9	6				2	1
			3		1	8

Recipe #378

Mushroom Foccacia

- 1 lb. pizza dough/frozen bread dough, thawed (500 g)
- 3 tbsp olive oil, divided (45 mL)
- 3/4 lb. fresh Mushrooms, thinly sliced (375 mL) crimini, portabella, shiitake, oyster
- 1 cup thinly sliced red or sweet onion (250 mL)
- 1 1/2 tsp dried oregano or Italian seasoning (7 mL)
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 8 black olives, pitted and sliced (optional)
- coarsely ground black pepper to taste
- 1 tbsp grated Parmesan cheese (15 mL)

Lightly grease a baking sheet and place dough on it; with floured hands press out dough to 11 x 7"(27x17 cm) oval. Brush with 2 tsp (10 mL) of the oil and let rise in warm place* for 45-60 minutes. Meanwhile, heat remaining oil in large skillet; sauté mush-rooms and onions for 4 minutes or until moisture has evaporated; add oregano and garlic, cook I more minute; let cool slightly. With thumb or end of wooden spoon make dimpled surface on foccacia; top with mushroom mixture, pressing lightly into dough. Top with olives if using, black pepper and Parmesan. Bake 400°F (200°C) oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until bottom is lightly browned and crisp. Cool slightly on wire rack. Cut in wedges or slices to serve. Makes 12 pieces

*To create a warm place for dough to rise, turn oven on to 200°F (100°C) for 1 minute; then turn off and place dough in warm oven.

Tips:

- * Prepare your own dough using half whole wheat flour to make it more nutritious.
- * Kalamata or Nicoise olives cured in oil or brine are more flavourful than canned.

Variation

- * Crumble goat cheese on top of baked foccacia and return to warm oven just to melt.
- * Pass herb or spiced flavoured oil to drizzle on as desired.

My Turn

Addiction Free At Last!

I am proud to say I have finally kicked my Coke habit!

Before you start pointing fingers or making assumptions, the Coke I am referring to comes in liquid format and is usually available in plastic bottles or aluminum cans in grocery stores, gas stations and in vending machines located in most public places.

Yes, I have to admit it was not easy but it was a habit that I can trace to a humble beginning.

When I quit drinking alcohol about ten years ago I switched almost immediately to 'near beer' but that really didn't do the job. I was obviously in a state of denial and even asked bartenders and servers to pour my 'near beer' at the bar before bringing it out to me so no one would figure out I had made the switch.

After I decided that wasn't going to work for long I switched to cola. I was up to about a half-dozen cans a day – about the same volume I drank of beer on those really, really important beer drinking days.

Okay, maybe a bit less. I don't remember.

My pop bill was slowly going through the roof, along with my blood pressure. Something had to give so over the years I tried just about every alternative liquid product out there.

Nothing seemed to quench my thirst quite like a frosty cold can of fizzy liquid sugar.

I tried different varieties of cola.

You know, sugar-free, caffeine-free, ozone-free, deposit-free, lump-free and light, whatever that is.

Still I didn't get the same satisfying feeling of a gut full of bubbling liquid so I kept falling back on the old standby.

Then my life suddenly got very busy.

I didn't have time to crack open as many cool ones as I used to. Slowly my daily intake dropped down to a weekly amount. That soon dropped even more.

Maybe I was at a place where I could finally take control of this horrible habit.

I started saying 'no' to offers of a nice cold can of cola.

At first I couldn't believe the word came out of my mouth, but it did and it sounded okay.

The hunt for an alternative was back on.

A couple weeks ago my hunt was over.

I discovered flavoured water and crushed my last pop can. I'm free at last and it feels great.

It's amazing what you can do if you take control of something that's controlling you.

Rancher Likes HST

Dear Editor:

The HST is helping farmers and ranchers.

I have been ranching in BC for 24 years. My family and I run an average-sized ranch with one employee. With our HST savings, I was able to give him a raise, as well as re-invest in our day-to-day operations. The HST has made running a ranch much easier. The HST is more efficient. If the HST were to be replaced with the old PST/GST system, it would be burdensome for us and would increase our expenses.

As Chair of the Finance and Taxation Committee (with the British Columbia Cattlemen's Association), I know the HST is good for BC's agriculture industry. I ask everyone to please do what is

How Nuclear And Cancer Go Together

Dawn Johnson editor@thenewsleader.ca

With the Fukushima Dai Ichi plant in total meltdown and still contaminating the air and the sea, we should acknowledge the connection between radioactivity and cancer. If you scoff, ask your X-ray technician why he or she enters a protective shell while giving you an X-ray. It has something to do with prolonged or repeated exposure and the risk of cancer.

The nuclear industry began with Pierre and Marie Curie, who pioneered work on radioactivity. They worked with Henri Becquerel, whose name is now used for a measurement of radioactivity. Pierre Curie died quite young when he was run down by a carriage in Paris. Marie Curie continued her work and developed radioactive isotopes. All of these people won Nobel prizes for science. Marie Curie died of aplastic anemia from working with radioactive materials. Aplastic anemia occurs when the stem cells of the bone marrow are damaged.

Marie Curie did not know what radiation could do. She worked with no protection. In fact, her working papers are stored in lead lined boxes in Paris, and anyone wishing to review her papers must first don protective gear, because the papers are still dangerously radioactive although she died 80 years ago.

The link between radioactive fallout and cancer was not really recognized until 1979. This came about as a result of lawsuits against the American government for the devastation caused in Utah downwind from the atomic bomb test site. During the 1950s, the American military decided to test nuclear bombs in Nevada. The tests were done only when the wind blew from due west, across what the military considered as land too sparsely populated to worry about the effects of radioactive fallout.

Within that sparsely populated area, there were numerous sheep ranches. After the nuclear bomb testing began, the sheep developed blisters on their skin and lips, and inside their mouths. They had been burnt by the grass they were eating, but nobody wanted to admit, officially, that there was a problem with radioactive fallout. The ranchers were wiped out. The ranchers were not compensated until 1980 because of a massive cover-up.

The worst effects were on children. The study released in 1979 stated, "A significant excess of leukemia deaths occurred in children up to 14 years of age living in Utah between 1959 and 1967. This excess was concentrated in the cohort of children born between 1951 and 1958, and was most pronounced in counties receiving high fallout." There were other effects from the fallout, ranging from stillborn infants to malformed infants to an increased rate of miscarriages and breast cancer. Birth defects are a tragedy even today for people who lived downwind of the test site.

People who developed cancer or lost herds to cancer did not receive compensation until 1990 due to a court decision that protected the government and gave no credence to the link between radioactive fallout and cancer. (For more information, Google nuclear testing - down winders.) The people of Utah had received three times as much fallout as Europe had from Chernobyl. People in the downwind area had their hair fall out, strange tumors, miscarriages, birth defects and immune system disorders, but they were never told the reason at the time. It took 45 years for their plight to be officially recognized.

Later, it was estimated that most of the USA received fallout from the Nevada nuclear bomb testing. It is unknown how many cancers developed as a result of the fallout.

The French atomic bomb testing in the South Pacific exposed people in the islands of Micronesia and the people of Australia to radioactive fallout. Today, Australia has the highest cancer rate in the world, almost double that of Canada. Australia recorded thyroid cancer, miscarriages, and slow bone growth in children as a result of the radioactive fallout.

What is the relationship between the so-called "safe" nuclear power plants and cancer? A German study compared cancer rates in children living near nuclear power plants with children living a long distance from a nuclear power plant. The study involved 5,000 children. Going by an average cancer rate, researchers expected they would find 48 cancer cases and 17 leukemia cases. Instead they found 77 cancer cases (60 percent more) and 37 leukemia cases (117 percent more) among children living within five kilometers of a nuclear power plant. One doctor involved in the study said they had found proof but had not expected such high levels of cancer because the radiation level was so low.

To date, there is no official recognition of cancers that develop in soldiers exposed to the "dirty" weapons used in Bosnia and later in Kuwait in Desert Storm. The military accepted projectiles made from depleted uranium. When these weapons exploded, they spread radioactive particles similar to fallout. Those particles are still in the desert air in Kuwait at rates 20 times higher than normal. British doctors treating veterans who fought in the Gulf War expect the veterans to develop cancers as a result of inhaling the particles, which remain radioactive in the chest up to 20 years.

We need to start asking ourselves why we are so silent about the nuclear industry. It is clearly not a clean nor safe industry at any level. The nuclear industry brings death through contamination of everything it touches.

I have expressed this to a number of friends who I believe are intelligent, but it takes time to get their heads around the idea that nuclear power is a safe source of power. One of the remarks was "We have to have the electricity." Yes, we do, and we could have it if we had a program for every Canadian homeowner to receive a grant to go to solar power. Think of those vast expanses of desert around the world where clouds seldom hide the sun. How much electricity could they produce from the sun? I doubt Canada would launch such a program because Canada is the prime supplier of uranium. In fact, Saskatchewan even brags about how much money comes from uranium sales.

If everyone changed to solar or wind power, we could get rid of nuclear power plants and the threat of contamination. In addition, we would know for sure who had bad intentions toward their neighbours. If they refused to shut down their nuclear power plants and go green, then they would likely be manufacturing nuclear weapons. After all, nuclear weaponry is a by-product of nuclear power plants.

When you hang it all together nuclear power, nuclear weapons, radioactive fallout, cancer - the picture certainly becomes enough to keep you awake at night, doesn't it?

GearUp4CF ride stops in Princeton

Richard and his family have some very close friends living in Princeton.

"We have always looked forward to coming to Princeton. Fly fishing or riding the Kettle Valley Rail (Trans-Canada Trail) to Tulameen or just visiting, we always enjoy our time in the Similkameen."

The cyclists will ride through the Rockies and across BC arriving in Princeton this Friday, June 24th.

A welcoming reception is scheduled to take place at Veterans Square beginning at 5:00 PM. Thomasina's will host a pasta dinner at that time.

The GearUp4CF 2011 ride will come to an end on the weekend when the cyclists arrive at their final stop, BC Children's Hospital in Vancouyer on Sunday, June 26th

Cystic Fibrosis Canada is a national health charity that funds CF research and care. In 2010, the Foundation supported more than 50 research projects which were exploring all aspects of the CF puzzle; from investigating new methods of fighting infection and inflammation in the lungs to finding new therapies that target the basic defect at the cellular level.
