Local industry responds to ER closures

Representatives from 30 local businesses attended a meeting May 15th at Princeton Skills Centre.

The purpose of the 'Princeton Businessman's Meeting' was to discuss concerns over the recent late night closures of the emergency department at Princeton General Hospital.

"The group's discussion was, essentially, centred around safety issues for the workplace," says Solana Allison, President of Save Our Similkameen.

"As Princeton has heavy industry that runs 24/7 shifts, night ER closure were of primary concern."

Local industry leaders including Ledcor, Princeton Co-Gen, Princeton Redi-Mix, FMI Bioenergy, K&M Trucking and the Cattleman's Association were present at the meeting.

"Ivan Low, Copper Mountain Mining Safety Manager, was going to address his safety concerns to the group but was called away," Allison told the News Leader.

"Concerns of Weyerhaeuser and Copper Mountain Mine were also addressed, as the group discussed continued on Page 3

CMMC announces 2012 first quarter results

Copper Mountain Mining Corporation (TSX: CUM) (the "Company" or "Copper Mountain") announced May 14th operating income of $25.9 million for the three months ended March 31, 2012.

Highlights from the First Quarter of 2012 included:

- A total of four copper concentrate shipments were delivered to Japan totalling 29,400 dry metric tonnes of concentrate containing 15.7 million pounds of copper, 5,781 ounces of gold, and 124,546 ounces of silver.
- Total revenues were $71.0 million including pricing adjustments.
- Gross profit was $27.3 million.
- Adjusted earnings were $23.6 million or $0.24 per share².
- Net income for the period was $28.8 million or $0.21 per share¹.

- EBITDA for the period was $37.8 million.

- Site cash costs were US$1.41 per pound of copper sold net of precious metal credits.

- Total costs were US$1.83 per pound of copper sold net of precious metal credits and after all off site charges.

- Provisional pricing for concentrate shipments averaged US$3.73 per pound of copper and the cash margin was US$1.90 per pound sold for the first quarter of 2012.

Jim O'Rourke, President and CEO of Copper Mountain, remarked "a lot has been accomplished over the last three months in all areas of the mine. The concentrator operating time continued to improve throughout the quarter and reached an average of 89.3% availability in March as compared to a budgeted availability of 92%."

O'Rourke continued, "Looking to the second quarter, management's efforts are fully focused on optimizing mill throughput and incrementally increasing the daily tonnage, working towards the design capacity of 35,000 tons per day. Improvements continued in April with concentrator operating time reaching 91.6% and the mill throughput rate averaging 34,670 tonnes per operating day resulting in production of 6.2 million pounds of copper, an increase of 28% over the prior months production. We are very encouraged by the progress in 2012 towards reaching the mill's design capacity on a consistent basis."

PXA tallies work projects

Princeton Exhibition Association (PXA), the volunteer organization that manages the fairgrounds for the Town of Princeton, is very busy these days. As soon as the snow is gone, it is time to prepare for the events scheduled for the grounds.

The PXA met May 15 to review the work projects completed and plan for the upcoming work. President Paul Bedard said the work party on April 29, preparing the grounds for the rodeo, went very well. A lot of clean-up was done.

Jen Bernard and her crew did an excellent job of preparing the concession area for the health inspection. A new freezer, kitchen range, floor mat, coffee maker and counter top were purchased for the concession. The vent and all the older equipment were thoroughly cleaned. The floor and woodwork were painted. President Bedard commended Bernard and her crew for the excellent work they did. It was a tough job.

A wheelchair access was constructed so that persons in wheelchairs or using walkers can access the washrooms.

Equipment repairs are underway. The Rodeo Club did a lot of work on the rodeo arena and corrals prior to the rodeo, but there are many continued on Page 23

Students go to court

Princeton Secondary School students staged a 'mock trial' last week at Princeton Court House. The trial was based on two counts of First Degree Murder contrary to Section 235 (1) of the Canadian Criminal Code. "The students learned the idea that the fundamental principle in our legal system allows the presumed to be innocent until the opposite is proven," explains Law 12 teacher John Kitts. "It is the duty of the prosecution to prove guilt beyond a reasonable doubt." How did they do?

"As a result, the jury found the accused not guilty on both counts," Kitts says. "Students took their roles seriously and provided a great deal of entertainment of all." The 'mock trial' players from Kitts' Law 12 and Mr. Palmer's Socials 11 classes were:
 Judge - Bobby Gibb
 Court Clerk - Kennedy Edwards
 Crown Lawyers - Roya Massoudi and Conner Butler
 Defence Lawyers - Graham Bibby and Devlin Toth
 Sheriffs - Megan Reid and Charlie

Flip Of The Coyne

by Spencer Coyne

My son loves to sing the alphabet song and he also loves harassing his Dad. It's funny how a kid who is just over 2.5 years old can already know how to bug his Dad. I have this little pet peeve: I hate it when people in Canada say "zee" instead of "zed."

Actually, it makes me downright grumpy sometimes especially when you hear an educator say it. I was adamant that when my son was going to learn his alphabet he would learn it the right way with the last letter being Zed. After all we live in Canada. My son knows that this bothers me so every now and then he will use Zee and I will reply Zed and then he will walk around all proud repeating Zee, Zee, Zee.

Zed is just the tip of the iceberg actually; people in Canada have been losing their language more and more with every generation. Take the word lieutenant. If you are French or American the word is pronounced at loo-tenant but if you are British, Canadian or part of the commonwealth it is pronounced as lef-tenant. More and more Canadians are saying loo-tenant because of influence of American pop culture and now you even catch it on Canadian television shows from time to time.

Canadians don't even spell words the Canadian way anymore. Colour is now color, neighbour is neighbor, centre is center, armour is armor just to name a few. Why is it so hard for Canadians to learn how to write and use the Canadian version of a word? I know it must be a little confusing if you never learned that colour is with an "our" but what about the letter Zed? Shouldn't you have learned that in preschool? Are our educators not being taught how to spell or pronounce the words that they are teaching to our kids?

This is a real problem for me. When I was in university one of my professors actually said Zee in a class and I raised my hand and asked what a Zee was. The class laughed but I was serious. I was in a Canadian educational institution I thought that the professor could at least use the correct pronunciation of the letter.

Maybe my problem isn't really with the loss of our language but more the loss of our identity as a nation. If you ask people who the head of state of Canada is, you will be surprised how many people will incorrectly tell you the Prime Minister and not the Queen. Maybe my problem really is that Canadians are not being taught about being Canadian. I don't blame our teachers. I doubt they are being taught.

How many of today's generation have parents that know their own nation's history? I find it annoying that Canadians are upset that the Government of Canada is spending money on the War of 1812 anniversary; this event should be treated like Independence Day for Canada if you ask me. After all it is the very event that defined our border and the future of our nation.

Canadians in a few generations will be indistinguishable from Americans if this trend continues. Our children will not use words that we grew up hearing. Heck we don't even use many of those words anymore.

When was the last time you heard a Canadian in his/her thirties say chesterfield instead of couch, or dustbin instead of garbage can? We lose words from our national lexicon regularly and it is a shame. I am just as guilty as everyone else. I don't use chesterfield or dustbin, mainly because no one would understand what I was talking about. I don't have the answer to saving our language but maybe if we all made an attempt to teach our kids Zed not Zee and to spell neighbour and colour with "our" instead of the American or we can slow the tide before our language is lost forever.

One last thing: what ever happened to the word aeroplane?

Local industry responds to ER closures

Allison also says equalization and regional disparities were discussed with regards to IHA and that proposals and volunteers are coming forward to assist.

"For a meeting regarding a crisis situation, it accomplished unification among business and a proactive action plan," Allison says.

The Save Our Hospital Coalition will be hosting a fundraiser June 2nd to assist with costs associated with the operation of the group.

For more information you can stop by the SOHC office at 259 Vermillion Avenue.

The PGH ER reduced late night hours effective May 1st which includes a closure from 12 Midnight to 8:00 AM Monday to Thursday each week until further notice.

IHA says stats from those hours show little activity and have hinted that the closure could be in place for at least a year.

My Turn

Why IHA's Logic Doesn't Make Sense

There's a lot of buzz around town thanks to Interior Health Authority. So much so that it's sort have pushed the upcoming by-election into the background.

I've studied the pretty graphs and charts produced by IHA as a simplified way to explain the reasons behind a reduction in hours at the Princeton Hospital ER.

The brightly coloured graphs are hard to argue against, and I've written about the stats on more than one occasion.

If you look at the numbers, it makes nothing but sense.

IHA states that on average the Princeton ER has a maximum (key word being MAXIMUM) of two patients between the hours of 12 Midnight and 8:00 AM on nights during the middle of the week. Most of those nights they see no one.

I've stated before that from a business standpoint it makes no sense to provide a service that barely anyone uses between those hours, so the smart thing to do is reduce the hours of that service.

That makes perfect sense if we were talking about a business running 24/7 where staff, inventory, utilities, etc. have to be factored into the operating expenses.

Maybe a better illustration is if I owned a 24-hour ice cream shop and I had only one, sometimes two customers mid-week between the hours of 12 Midnight and 8:00 AM, it wouldn't take me long to figure out the best way to stay in business is cut back my hours.

So, this is exactly what IHA has done.

Where the logic falls apart is assuming there won't be any major accidents between those hours.

It's like me deciding not to buy house insurance because I've never had to make a claim, or driving my car uninsured because I think I'm a good enough driver that I'll never get into an accident.

I hope IHA is right in thinking since there's never been a major accident mid-week between the hours of 12 Midnight and 8:00 AM that there probably never will be one.

The problem with that logic is it doesn't make sense.

I insure my house and my car so that if (and it is still just an IF) something bad happens, I'm covered.

Let's hope that when summer traffic starts whizzing by us on Highway 3 and local industry starts to ramp up production in the warmer months that nothing bad happens as I'd really hate to see IHA proven wrong about something they obviously put a great deal of thought into.

Your Turn

MLA Harry Lali Takes IHA To Task In Victoria

Debates of the Legislative Assembly (Hansard)
Estimates: Ministry of Health Committee C
Wednesday, May 16, 2012
Afternoon Sitting

Fraser-Nicola MLA Harry Lali: I'm going to switch to rural health care and rural hospitals. I'd like to ask the minister why the B.C. Liberals are abandoning the health care needs of rural communities like Merritt, Ashcroft, Cache Creek, Lytton, Princeton and all these small rural communities across the province.

For rural health care... I was wondering why it is that this government is not looking after the health care needs of small rural towns and small hospitals or health centres. I named a few communities in my constituency, like Merritt, Ashcroft, Cache Creek, Lytton, Lillooet, Logan Lake, Clinton and Princeton.

Hon. M. de Jong: The member will understand that I disagree and dispute the premise of the question and will endeavour over the course of our discussion to highlight the basis for that disagreement.

I'll begin by talking about one aspect and admittedly one aspect of rural health care, but it is one that I'd suspect many rural British Columbia residents utilize as a benchmark for the provision of health services. That is their access to a physician.

Let's go over some of the facts surrounding physician supply in rural B.C. The concern we had around this was revealed in the fact that we took seriously the observation that in order to attract physicians to rural British Columbia, to northern British Columbia, you probably had to take greater steps to ensure that there was some opportunity to train as a physician in that part of British Columbia.

That gave rise to the northern medical program to actually educate doctors in northern B.C. It's not, admittedly, a cheap or short-term solution but one that we thought particularly warranted, given some of the challenges that communities were facing and based, of course, on the premise that if you're a physician educated in a rural area, you're more likely to stay there.

We are beginning to see the benefits of that strategy. The first cohort of graduates is beginning to practice in B.C., and 40 percent of those who have graduated from the northern medical program and are practicing have set up practice in northern B.C. Now, it is a modest start but one that I believe will reap huge benefits going forward.

The fact that we are training twice as many physicians in British Columbia today as was the case ten or 11 years ago... I will ask, and I'm sure the member will want to offer an opinion. As someone who was there at the time, he is perhaps well positioned to offer an opinion, at least, as to why the province chose during the 1990s not to expand by one the number of physicians we were training here.

There's one thing about demographics. They don't sneak up on you. It was so abundantly clear as to what was going to be taking place. Yet it wasn't until 2002 that concrete steps were taken to address what was clearly emerging to be a physician supply problem.

Now, we took those steps, but the length of time it takes to train a physician, move them through residency programs and have them available to serve communities is lengthy. Only now are those physicians becoming available. Between 2003 and 2009 the number of doctors practicing in rural areas has increased from 1,770 to 2,269 — an almost 30 percent increase.

Here's another interesting number. B.C. has 874 rural residents per GP, according to 2009 statistics from the Society of Rural Physicians of Canada. So 874 rural residents per GP, compared to the Canadian average, which is 1,153. We are dramatically below, in a positive way, the national average.

There are still issues, however. In fact, in some communities there are serious issues around the provision of medical services.

That's why we introduced the rural recruitment incentive fund, for up to $20,000; the rural recruitment contingency fund; a loan forgiveness program for nurses, nurse practitioners, medical residents, doctors. The province will forgive any outstanding B.C. student loan at the rate of 33 1/3 percent per year. After three years one of those medical professionals will have their student loans completely paid off or forgiven as an incentive to get people to practice.

There are, despite that, situations in which we experience shortages of specialists — ER physicians prepared to offer services and be on call for emergency room services. That's why we created an additional fund of $10 million to facilitate additional emergency room coverage in rural areas of British Columbia.

A community like Princeton, for example, can submit a plan to say: "With an extra $100,000, this is how we plan to expand" — or maintain, for that matter — "emergency room coverage." Communities across B.C. have availed themselves of that.

The last thing I'll say by way of introduction to this matter is the government a number of years ago introduced and passed legislation establishing the nurse practitioner, a graduate level training program that provides registered nurses with enhanced training. We now graduate upwards of, I think, 40 or 45 nurse practitioners per year.

ers, and they must pay for the products they order. If nobody buys these products, they go bankrupt.

When I think about how to really affect the rich, I think in terms of banks and interest rates. I am sure every rich person owns bank shares and shares in credit card companies. These are high interest rates. One way to affect the rich is to stop using credit cards. Most of our banking transactions are in the form of plastic. I know plastic is convenient, but we pay a lot for that convenience. If nobody used credit cards, and demanded cash from banks, this would not only save the consumer money and protect the consumer from fraud, it would seriously affect bank operations. Most transactions today are done through computer systems. If we start dealing in cash, we are dealing in real money. This means banks have to have real money on hand in large quantities.

Another way we can impact the rich is to insist our governments not allow so many mergers in which the little guys are taken over by major corporations.

Competition is good for all of us. When the big guys swallow up the little guys, the rich grow richer and there are fewer jobs for the poor.

A third thing we can do is make it clear to our governments that we do not support any war that is not the result of a direct attack on our nation. This affects the rich a great deal, as there is a lot of money made from war. Not only does profiteering occur during war, there is money to be made from the sale of military equipment and rebuilding when the war is over. Banks make it possible for a nation to go to war by lending money for armaments and armies. Banks profit by war. We taxpayers pay the bills for war.

A fourth thing you and I can do to combat the rich is to make ourselves richer by producing more of what we need in our own environment. This means buying from the small producer. The more we buy locally, the more we support our own local economy, the more we enrich ourselves and deny those dollars to the major corporations. Buying closer to home makes good sense.

Finally, invest your money close to home, if you have money to invest. Form small corporations that can achieve what people need within your own community.

These are a few suggestions about how to keep more money and more jobs within your immediate environment.

My last comment is this: if government or marketing boards get in your way, fight them any way you can. The trend shows governments and/or marketing boards can shut down small producers who seem to play by a different set of rules. Support for the small guy means less wealth for the rich and more wealth close to home.

Ministry announced highway improvements

Four projects valued at $13 million will get underway this year, improving safety and travel for residents, visitors and commercial drivers on Highway 3 in the West Kootenay, Similkameen and Upper Fraser Valley.

In the Similkameen, almost 20 kilometres of Highway 3 will be resurfaced between Hedley and Keremeos, and shoulder improvements will also be made.

The total value of the work is estimated at $2.9 million, with a contract awarded to Green Roads Recycling Ltd. of Fernie for the resurfacing.

The Province is also investing $140,000 in projects to improve safety and travel along Highway 3 which will include new web cameras for the DriveBC network at the Highway 3/5 junction near Hope and on Highway 3 at Sunday Summit, to be installed this year.

"Highway 3 provides important access to many southern B.C. communities, as well as to Alberta, Washington, Idaho and Montana. The work we are doing on the corridor this year will improve safety for all those who use Highway 3, and in the process create a large number of family-supporting jobs," stated Minister of Transportation and Infrastructure Blair Leckstrom.

Boundary-Similkameen MLA John Slater added, "Highway 3 is a major route connecting the communities along the southern portion of British Columbia from the Alberta border to Vancouver. These projects will mean increased safety for residents, commuters, tourists and commercial vehicles."

Quick Facts:

- Since 2001, the Province has constructed over 85 projects along the Highway 3 corridor from Hope to the Alberta border to improve safety, mobility and reliability.

- These projects include re-decking or replacing 15 bridges and resurfacing 550 km of highway.

- In the last 10 years, over $200 million has been spent on improvements to Highway 3.

Eastern Star focuses on crib quilts

Being a member of the Order of the Eastern Star is very fulfilling for these members of Similkameen Chapter #78 in Keremeos who are making crib size quilts to be given free of charge to infants and young children at Children's Hospital in Vancouver, plus they get to take them home.

They are also making carry bags for patients at the Kelowna Cancer Centre.

The bags are to hold patients belongings when they go for their treatments. Hats and slippers are also being made for chemo patients.

The group above is shown with a total of 39 quilts and 42 bags ready to deliver.

The Eastern Star collects used stamps as a fundraiser to pay for supplies for cancer dressings which are made by the members and given free of charge to cancer patients. Donations of used stamps are appreciated and can be left at the senior centre in Keremeos or at the Similkameen News Leader in Princeton.

If you have fabric or yarn that you would like to donate to make quilts or would like to join the group making quilts contact Joan at the number below.

The Eastern Star is the largest fraternal organization in the world to which both men and women may belong. The Keremeos chapter is very active holding an annual Oktoberfest, craft and bake sale in December and a Celtic Pie dinner in March.

The chapter supports local projects including high school bursaries and scholarships. They welcome inquiries about new membership. For more information call Joan Guild at 250.499.0239. - submitted

Cawston hosts Thursday Night Jazz Band

The Thursday Night Jazz Band ensemble will entertain at the Cawston Community Hall on Thursday May 31st at 7:30 PM.

The evening of jazz and blues is exceptional as it brings together the talents of fifteen artists who each work regularly with smaller combos in the region and bring themselves together to offer a bigger and more versatile sound.

The Cawston concert is part of the ongoing effort of K Mountain Music Invitational Society to provide expenses for students attending music events like the Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival in Missoula, Montana and to participate in the Summer Music programs at the University of British Columbia.

The May 31st celebration of Jazz and Blues begins as the doors open at 7:00 PM, music from 7:30 to 9:30 with beverages and snacks on hand through the evening. Tickets are available at Cawston Marketplace and Keremeos Pharmacies. - submitted

It looks as if Spring is here! Keremeos Creek is near capacity at Cawston. This stretch of the creek, which runs under Highway 3, is typically bone dry in Summer. *

Robotic Arms Lend A Healing Touch

(NC)—The delicate touch that successfully removed an egg-shaped tumour from Paige Nickason's brain got a helping hand from a world-renowned arm—a robotic arm, that is. The technology that went into developing neuroArm, the world's first robot capable of performing surgery inside magnetic resonance machines, was born from the Canadarm (developed by advanced robotics company MDA for the U.S. Space Shuttle Program), as well as Canadarm2 and Dextre, the Canadian Space Agency's family of space robots performing the heavy-lifting and maintenance on board the International Space Station.

The neuroArm development began with the search for a solution to a surgical dilemma: how to make difficult surgeries easier or impossible surgeries possible. MDA worked with a team led by Dr. Garnette Sutherland at the University of Calgary to develop a highly precise robotic arm that works in conjunction with the advanced imaging capabilities of MRI systems. Surgeons needed to be able to perform surgeries while a patient was inside a magnetic resonance (MRI) machine, which meant designing a robot that was as dexterous as the human hand, but even more precise and tremor-free. Operating inside the MRI also meant it had to be entirely made from non-magnetic materials (for instance, no steel) so that it would not be affected by the magnetic field or adversely affect the MRI's images. The project team developed novel ways to control the robot's movements and give the operator a sense of touch—both essential so that the surgeon can precisely control the robot and can feel what is happening during the surgery.

Since Paige Nickason's surgery in 2008, neuroArm has been used to successfully treat dozens more patients. The technology has since been purchased by IMRIS Inc. a private publicly traded medical device manufacturer based in Winnipeg, Manitoba. MDA and IMRIS are advancing the design to commercialize a two-armed version of the system to allow surgeons to see detailed three-dimensional images of the brain, as well as surgical tools and hand controllers that allow the surgeon to feel tissue and apply pressure when they operate. A clinical trial led by Dr. Sutherland is currently underway at Calgary's Foothills hospital using the first generation of the robot on a group of 120 patients. IMRIS anticipates being in a position to seek regulatory approval for the robot as early as 2012.

MDA is also continuing to apply its space technologies and know-how to medical solutions for life on Earth. The company has partnered with the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto to collaborate on the design and development of an advanced technology solution for paediatric surgery. Dubbed KidsArm, the sophisticated tele-operated surgical system is being specifically designed for operating on small children and babies. KidsArm is intended to be used by surgeons, in conjunction with a high precision real-time imaging technology, to reconnect delicate vessels such as veins, arteries, or intestines.

In collaboration with The Centre for Surgical Invention and Innovation in Hamilton, Ontario, MDA is also developing an advanced platform for use in early detection and treatment of breast cancer. The image-guided autonomous robot will provide increased access, precision and dexterity, resulting in more accurate and less invasive procedures.

Living Past 100

New View Of Your Body

When you think of your body, how do you see it? Is it a machine to you, or do you just see the outside? Do you think about how it works, or do you just become very upset and disappointed when it does not work well? Do you criticize your body, or curse it, as if it were separate from who you are? Do you see your body as the real, essential you, and ignore the relationship between you as a thinker and you as a flesh and blood body?

Different people have different ways of seeing their bodies, but only a few think of the human body as an electronic instrument. Sometimes we hear our brains compared with computers, but few of us think of ourselves as electronic instruments. That is what we are. When all of the electrical circuitry is functioning well, we feel great. When there is a break in the flow of electricity, then one of our parts does not work well or just quits working.

If you doubt your body is electronic, then think about the heart pacemaker. All that little implant does is fire electrical impulses at the heart. The heart responds by beating with each little jolt of electricity. If your body were not an electronic instrument, the pacemaker would not work.

If you have ever been to a foot reflexologist or an acupuncturist, you would know they are simply working on your electrical circuitry. Some specially trained acupuncturists actually hook up an electrical wire system to the needles they insert, and a machine analyzes where electrical blockages are occurring, then the acupuncturist sends electrical impulses to that area to stimulate the circuitry to work properly.

Famous 'miracle' healers have stated they can see the electricity coming from the body and see where it is working. They say they manipulate the body's electrical energy to make it flow better. When the flow is correct, the body heals.

A lot of research has been done into how the body's electrical system works. Perhaps, one day, we will be healed by electricity, not pills. Won't that be fun?

It looks like a real jet but it's actually a radio controlled plane. The Princeton Radio Control Fliers will host their annual jet rally between Friday June 1st and Sunday June 3rd at Princeton Airport. - photo submitted

Annual jet rally comes to airport

by Bart Ramsay, Event Organizer

The Princeton Radio Control Fliers will again be flying real turbine powered radio controlled airplanes at your airport. There are posters and signs around town pointing you to the weekend event. You can attend from Friday June 1st to Sunday June 3rd.

The pilots come from quite a distance to fly at this wonderful site. Pilots have come from as far East as Manitoba and South from Washington State, many stay at Princeton hotels but others camp around the flying area. This event is being run under the Model Aeronautics Association of Canada (MAAC) sanction and insurance.

During the event the Town posts a notice with Transport Canada, NOTAM, to let 'full scale' pilots know that the we will be flying there.

Our club was formed by some serious Jet Turbine Model fliers to be able to fly off of the long hard surface runway of your airport. We also will be holding an event this Fall as well.

We will start setting up on Thursday May 31st but the first day of normal flying will be on the Friday, Saturday is the main day. Many fliers have to leave fairly early on the Sunday in order to get home for work on Monday. On Saturday, around 12 Noon, we line up all of the models on the runway and let spectators get 'up close and personal' with the planes and pilots.

The Princeton Radio Control Fliers annual jet rally starts Friday June 1st at Princeton Airport. - photo submitted

May 23 - 30, 2012

ARIES - It is very important now that you communicate with people in your immediate environment. In discussions with them, concerns in your life and theirs are coming to a head. A time of conflict, or airing of grievances, will clear the air in the near future. Speak up sanely.

TAURUS - You need to focus on what you own and what you value. Everything else is just stuff, and you may need a time of clearing out. You can make money out of selling what you do not value or need. Beware of doing the opposite: buying more stuff you don't value or need.

GEMINI - This is your time to shine. Some matters concerning home or family may finally reach some kind of settlement or solution in the next two weeks. Do your best to let your true self be acknowledged. Conflicts or repairs related to family and/or home can be achieved soon.

CANCER - This is a time when you can truly benefit from going within and finding your best self. Conflicts or disputes with neighbours can be resolved in the near future. Your health is good, your job runs smoothly at the moment. Don't slack off and don't overindulge.

LEO - Spending time with people you associate with can bring a lot of pleasure, but enjoy their company, enjoy planning, but do not commit any money to a project at this time. Your financial condition will improve in six weeks. Wait. You can be highly inspired by new ideas. Learn.

VIRGO - Your personal goals and demands of your career may conflict at this time. Try to work through it without complaint. Matters will work out in a month or six weeks. Energy continues high. Watch out for ego conflicts with persons in authority or older folks or employers. Silence!

LIBRA - New relationships bring you into contact with people. You can be inspired by people you meet while traveling, or by people whose work you study. You may reach some kind of spiritual awakening, and a woman or women could be involved. Life is unpredictable now.

SCORPIO - Matters related to investments, banking, debts or estates may be of benefit to you now but could be in conflict with your plans for the future. Your health could suddenly improve, and you could suddenly experience pleasant surprises in your employment. You feel happier.

SAGITTARIUS - There is some conflict between what friends or partner want from you, and what your career demands. Try to strike a balance. Plans tend to be disrupted, as demands of your career appear to accelerate. Do what you must do to meet demands, then spend time with friends.

CAPRICORN - Home life is full of surprises, planning seems to go off the rails. Problems arise with debts, banking, investments, insurance. Your health is good, job runs smoothly. Career makes unrelenting demands; you must be steady and patient. Young people bring chance for fun.

AQUARIUS - This is a good time to have fun as long as you behave in a moderate way. Family can be a source of support. Try to resolve debt problems. Actively review all matters related to debt, investments, insurance and estate. Spend pleasurable time with young people, pets.

PISCES - Home is the place where you find pleasure and solace, and this may conflict with demands and/or activities of friends. Speak out in a nice way. You may chafe at the limitations in your financial situation, but be patient: this phase will pass at the end of this year.

Grilled Pizza Plus

(NC)—A tasty spin on a classic dish, this grilled pizza is sure to be a crowd pleaser at your next get-together. Topped with fresh, summery ingredients, this casual, yet elegant favourite works as an appetizer or a meal. More recipes can be found at saputo.ca.

Grilled Pizza with Mozzarellissima, Prosciutto and Peaches

Prep time: 15 minutes / Cooking time: 20 minutes / Serves: 4 to 6

Ingredients:

- 2 lbs (1 kg) store-bought pizza dough
- olive oil, to taste
- 1 fresh peach, cut into quarters
- 1 1/2 cups (375 mL) Saputo Mozzarellissima cheese, shredded
- 6 slices prosciutto
- 1 handful walnuts
- 3/4 cup (175 mL) arugula
- balsamic vinegar (optional)
- salt and freshly ground pepper, to taste

Directions:

1. On a lightly floured surface, roll out the pizza dough and drizzle with olive oil.
2. Brush peach quarters with olive oil and grill on each side for a few minutes.
3. Slide the pizza dough on the barbecue and cook on each side for about 5 minutes, until slightly golden brown.
4. Remove dough from barbecue and top with half of the Mozzarellissima, the prosciutto, the grilled peach quarters and the walnuts. Cover with the remaining cheese.
5. Place on the barbecue, close cover and cook on medium heat for approximately 10 minutes or until the cheese is fully melted. Remove from barbecue and top with arugula and a drizzle of balsamic vinegar. Season with salt and pepper to taste.

Anatomy of a Rock Slide

K Mountain, Keremeos - Photos: Arlene Arlow

Spring is the most active time for rock slides on K Mountain overlooking Keremeos. In this shot taken May 14 at 6:41 PM, a slide heading northeast is making its way down K Mountain to the spot where the rocks will take a turn to the northwest. The first sign of a slide on K Mountain is the sound of rock crashing and grating: it sounds much like skateboards on the cement pad of a skateboard park. Most Keremeos residents are completely oblivious because the slides are only heard by the discerning ear. The visual indicators begin as late as 30 seconds later.

At the spot where sliding debris spills out onto a more gentle slope, the sluffing of K Mountain heads in a northwesterly direction. Notice the plumes of dust rising up above the debris pile at the top centre of the picture. This rather gentle slope of finer crushed rock forms the bottom angle in the "K" of "K Mountain."

At 6:57 PM on May 14th - 16 minutes after a rock slide began - the observer was oblivious to the rock slide of a few moments before. The valley temperature of 33-degrees meant temperatures on the uppermost reaches of K Mountain were climbing, too. In winter, ice on the mountain forms and expands, pushing rock outward. In Spring, when the ice melts, the "glue" holding the rock to the mountain melts, and the rock has no reason to stick around. As snow leaves K Mountain, rock slides can occur two or three days in a row, followed by a few days of inactivity. In this picture, K Mountain is silent once again.

Canada Geese are having a bit of a difficult time these days. Canada Geese mate for life, and if their mate is killed, they simply don't mate thereafter. Combined with their breeding instincts, there is a committed group of humans hunting down their nests in the Okanagan and shaking the eggs so that the eggs do not hatch. It's called "egg addling", and in 2011, contractors addled 1,308 eggs from 274 nests between Vernon and Osoyoos. All in the interests of controlling the goose population which was, until recently, ballooning. Perhaps this goose at the little lake east of Yellow Lake will have a better chance of entering the gene pool.

Around The Similkameen Valley

Things are sure looking green along the Green Mountain Road. This picture taken May 5th shows Keremeos Creek in the lower right corner. Thanks to extra rock and shale placed strategically at the road's edge in recent years by Argo Road Maintenance, the creek is well within its banks, even with recent runoff and rains. Photo: Arlene Arlow

Joe Stephens of Keremeos (foreground) and friends were in the swing of things at the Twin Lakes Golf Club May 10th. Pierre and Paula Comeau of Keremeos (left and second from right) and Vicki Cartwright from Penticton were waiting quietly: it's rude to talk when a golfer makes a shot. Temperatures are still seasonally chilly, but that doesn't stop an avid Canuck golfer: one simply learns to dress in layers! Photo: Arlene Arlow

News Leader Sudoku 403

by Carter Boswell

HOW TO PLAY:

Sudoku is a game of logic. There is no math involved. The object of the game is to fill the grid so that the numbers 1 through 9 appear only once in each row, column and 3 x 3 box. The numbers can appear in any order and Carter has left you some clues below.

		5	3			7
	2						1
		3	2			4		6
			8		1	2		9
	1						8
3		8	9		2
6		7			3	9
	9						6
		4			6	5

Fraser-Nicola MLA Harry Lali Takes IHA To Task In Victoria

The remaining challenge there, in my view, is to properly deploy those nurse practitioners to address the gaps that still exist in some rural communities where we have not enjoyed success in attracting physicians.

So in one single area — but I would suggest to the member and the committee an area that most people would use as an important benchmark for the attention that is paid to rural health care — I would suggest that the effort speaks for itself, the commitment speaks for itself, and ultimately, the results speak for themselves.

H. Lali: The results do speak for themselves. What we've seen is a wholesale abandonment of health care in rural British Columbia by this government for the last 11 years that they've been in office.

I know the Liberals like to blame doctors, and say: "It's not an issue of finances. It's an issue of doctors not wanting to come to small towns." They like to blame the NDP.

There is not a shortage of doctors in B.C. I mean, money has not been allocated to pay doctors for the ER services at the expense of rural communities like Princeton. Until a year and a half ago, Princeton had at least five locums to call upon for the operation of our ER. Now we have none. At that time, Interior Health Authority made a significant cut to their ER pay. Since that time we have had trouble getting doctors to work in our ER in Princeton. The situation repeats itself in those communities in my riding that I mentioned to the minister earlier.

I would also like to submit that in 2000 there were 22 hospital beds in Princeton. There are six beds there now. In the middle of the night the IHA came and took 14 away. Also, in 2000 we had an operating room in Princeton, a 24/7 emergency room, a nurse to assess your emergency, an intake nurse for registration, a maternity ward, four doctors covering ER, full-time pharmacy, full-time health technicians — X-ray, blood work, etc.

Today in 2012, as I mentioned, there are only six beds; no OR, operating room, in Princeton; unreliable hours; frequent closures instead of a 24/7 emergency room; a pay phone outside the ER, a television monitor to a nurse in Kamloops; no maternity ward; 1.5 doctors; no pharmacy. And as far as full-time health technicians, it's now part-time and dwindling rapidly since the Liberals have taken office.

Initially this government closed the ER in Princeton on Christmas Eve without any consultation or notice. There was no notice available. We had an inappropriate level of nursing staff. Then in February the Interior Health sent out a notice about temporary service changes at the Princeton General and said that due to limited physician availability, there will be times when only the most urgent cases will be seen by the physician on call. They said they were going to reduce the ER operating hours and close the ER on 22 days from midnight to eight AM in February. That was about a week later increased to 25 days that it was closed.

It was suggested that — and I have the IHA communiqué with me: "Patients with less urgent matters will be assessed by our trained nurses, but depending on their condition, may be transferred to a nearby hospital for care or offered appropriate options. If this is the case, it's important to come prepared," it says here. This is the Liberal's IHA communiqué. It says: "If this is the case, it's important to come prepared. Bring your wallet, shoes, clothes, and make arrangements for the return home" when they ship you off to another hospital.

I mean, when people are having an emergency, if they're having a heart attack or folks are involved in a critical accident or they're working in the sawmill. Weyerhaeuser has a sawmill in Princeton. If people are capable of either driving themselves to the hospital in case of an emergency, or if they're totally incapable of doing that and people who are tending to them are going to drive their loved ones or their co-workers to the hospital, the last thing they're thinking is "let's grab the person's wallet, their shoes, their clothes, and make arrangements for their return home."

This is the level to which the B.C. Liberals have reduced public health care in rural communities all throughout the province through their misguided centralization of services into regional hospitals.

Then in April 2012 another communiqué from the IHA. Now it says that "we have developed an interim plan to be put into place May 1, which we believe is the best option for Princeton area residents." So as of May 1, 2012, already now, "the emergency department will be closed between midnight and eight AM four nights a week, Mondays to Thursdays for at least a year or more." It says right here that "it may need to be in place for approximately one year while longer-term solutions are sought."

Again, the Liberals intend to actually install — it's already been installed — a telephone at the hospital entrance so anyone arriving at the hospital will have the ability to call 911. That's the situation that's there right now.

I'd like to ask the minister: is it true that the B.C. Liberals are now planning to close the Princeton ER five nights a week, instead of the four nights in the communiqué, at least for a year or more?

Hon. M. de Jong: Let's assess the situation in and around Princeton General Hospital — a hospital that services, I think, about roughly 5,000 people, not all of them live in Princeton, of course. Although I might point out, far more live in Princeton today than was the case 12 years ago thanks to some additional economic activity that is taking place, which of course is good news for the community.

Here is the situation that the health authority is confronted by. It is delightfully entertaining, as always, to hear the honourable member speak about these matters and decisions as if they were the product of some cold, calculated political level of deliberation. What's disappointing is that he knows that's not true. He knows that's not true, and yet he persists in what I can only surmise to be crass political reasons to suggest that. The Ministry of Health, let alone the Minister of Health, let alone the cabinet have made no such decisions, and it is incorrect for the member to suggest otherwise.

What the Interior Health Authority has done is tried as best it can, in an entirely non-partisan way, to address some challenges that exist. Most of those challenges relate to physician recruitment issues.

There are three practicing physicians in Princeton. Now, the member has taken some time highlighting to the committee how knowledgeable he is about the circumstances in Princeton, and how that health care community is being, apparently, bled dry of resources. He didn't, by the way, disclose to the committee what those three physicians made in 2010-2011 on a fee-for-service basis. Because presumably, if he is correct and the health care services in Princeton are being bled dry, that would reveal itself in a lack of funding for either that facility or the people that work there.

I can disclose this information to the committee because there's nothing private about it. It's set out in the public accounts. The three physicians working in Princeton in 2010-2011 earned $398,400, $476,420 and $430,800.

So to suggest, somehow, that there is an issue around the funding of the primary caregiver in the guise of the doctor is simply inaccurate and untrue. In fact, the challenge has been to try and attract additional physicians to Princeton, because only two of the three I've mentioned are prepared to provide ER coverage.

In this forum, I would suggest this: It is fair, first of all, for the member to offer criticism of where he believes the government has come up short in its efforts to address the needs of his constituents and, in this case, the people of Princeton. But it sounds like the member has a magical solution that he is simply awaiting the opportunity to implement.

Maybe he does. Maybe in identifying the failure that he has characterized — the failure which, presumably, reveals itself in the inability to attract an additional ER physician to Princeton — he has an answer for that, and it is, he would submit, our failure for not having acted on it.

He has a choice. He has a choice today. He can share that solution with us, with me, and say: "But for the government's unwillingness to do this, we would have solved this problem." I'm interested to hear that. Apparently the member has a solution to the physician recruitment challenge that has plagued Princeton. I'm certainly anxious to hear it. I suspect 5,300 residents in and around Princeton are anxious to hear it. So let's have it.

I may respond by explaining why I think that solution is of limited utility. I may dispute the solution. But the member's submission can only lead to the conclusion that he has the solution. The solution, apparently, does not involve the $200,000 in additional funding that was made available to retain additional ER coverage, the $200,000 that Princeton has decided to make available for additional locum coverage, electronic scheduling and, by the way, the rental of an apartment for $44,000 so that if a locum comes to Princeton, they've got a place to stay.

None of that, admittedly, has been enough to solve the challenge. But if the member wishes to be taken seriously in these deliberations.... Maybe he does; maybe he doesn't. If his purpose is to simply come in and cast some allegations and make some assertions, that's fine. But if he wants to be taken seriously, and he has a proposal for what would be required to address a physician supply problem in Princeton that has admittedly led to some limited closures....

By the way, I don't know where he is getting this material about expanded night time closings of the ER. If he wants me to take that assertion seriously, he should tell me where he got that material from, because I am aware of no such plan. Let's have a productive conversation about where he feels some of the solutions lie. If it's just going to be an exercise in government bad or good, then we can have that conversation too.

H. Lali: I think the minister just likes to hear the sound of his own voice. He's skirting issues in typical Liberal fashion. He's talking about doctors' pay. I never asked the member about doctors' pay, first of all.

Secondly, typical Liberal fashion is to blame others for the problems that they have created and to try to belittle anybody who asks questions on behalf of their constituents and patients that live in Princeton and the area — is to try to belittle and blame others. That's how typically Liberal it is for the minister to be able to do that.

But I will give the minister this much, and I'll use his own words that he's put out there. Princeton is "being bled dry." And the minister.... That's his job as minister, to help solve the problems for people in communities like Princeton and others in other small towns. That's his job. The highly paid folks at the IHA — it's their jobs to find solutions, not to turn around and say to the community, "You tell us how we're going to do this. You tell us," or to the member of the opposition, to say: "You tell us how to do this."

That's what they like to do, to blame others and throw the issue back at them. How typically Liberal that is — not taking any kind of responsibility for the problems that they have created and yet, at the same time, not providing any answers — when it is the minister's job.

And all of the folks that are hired at the IHA — it's their job. They're getting paid $300,000 or $400,000 or $500,000 or $600,000 — whatever it is. It's their job to find those solutions. Otherwise, why are we paying them? Why is the public paying them that much money if they can't find those solutions?

He talks about doctor shortages. It's not just doctors not wanting to come to small communities, or health care professions. There's a reason for that. Health care workers, professionals, the folks that provide health care — doctors included and nurses — spend a lot of money, tens of thousands of dollars, to go and get themselves a university education, so they can come back to communities and practice what they've learned, what they've spent years learning at universities across this nation and across other countries as well.

When those services that they're supposed to deliver are deliberately pulled out by this Liberal government and centralized into the Kelowna's, the Kamloops', the Abbotsford's and the other regional hospitals in British Columbia.... One wonders why those folks want to come to a community where they continued on Page 21

Instead of saying, "Well, it's a doctor shortage...." These problems are created by a deliberate Liberal policy that the minister refuses to take responsibility for and instead tries to push back onto anybody that asks questions on behalf of the communities and to push back onto the communities. That's what the minister is doing.

When these changes were announced a couple of months ago, Princeton was actually given 28-days notice of the ER closure. There was no consultation. It was an arbitrary decision made on the part of the IHA, and letters were presented in front of the community to sign off on. I mean, that's the kind of way that they do things.

I'm asking legitimate questions on behalf of my constituents. In a recent job posting Princeton

General Hospital was called "Princeton Health Center." That's what it said in there. So I'd like to ask the minister: are the B.C. Liberal planning to further degrade health care services at Princeton General and downsize to a clinic — or even to close the hospital in Princeton?

Hon. M. de Jong: Just to cut to the chase on the member's question and I'll try to say this slowly so that not only will the skilled personnel at Hansard be able to record it clearly but even the honourable member won't be able to misconstrue it.

There are no plans to close Princeton. None.

I regret more than the member could possibly know that my invitation to engage him in a constructive conversation about how he believes improvements might alleviate the challenges faced by the folks in Princeton and surrounding area somehow represents an abdication of my responsibility or some other nefarious pact.

If the member believes that a particular service should be returned to Princeton, then presumably, this is the forum where he would make that assertion.

He would, first of all, criticize the minister and the government for the change that has been made and then say: "In my view, the challenges that we face would be alleviated if you were to do the following. Will you?" That's advocacy. That's constructive advocacy on behalf of a constituent or constituents. That's not what the member has done.

So I could go on at length, but I will say this. I don't know how the member construes my statement acknowledging there are challenges at Princeton as somehow representing a blame game. It's an interesting employment of the dialectic on the member's part — that when an individual stands up and acknowledges that there are challenges in a particular area somehow that represents a blame game. And I don't imagine there's anything I can say today to dissuade the member from that approach.

We are going to continue to work with the health authority and the folks in Princeton to ensure that the very best service possible is available, that we are attracting the professionals necessary, using all of the means at our disposal.

Again, I implore the member, if he believes that there are mechanisms or means available to government that have not been deployed to assist in that regard, make that case. Make that suggestion. I will undertake to provide as candid a response as possible. It might not be a response he likes, but then the people of Princeton will have the benefit of knowing that as well.

Instead, regrettably, what I've heard is a series of ill-thought-out allegations containing virtually nothing. No, that's an exaggeration — absolutely nothing in the way of constructive contribution to addressing the issue.

Now, I regret honourable Chair, with the committee's indulgence, if we might stand down for....

H. Lali: I've got one quick question — that's it.

The Chair: Member.

H. Lali: Well, you know the minister likes to play with words. The minister likes to put words in other people's mouths that they haven't said. The minister continues to belittle members asking legitimate questions on behalf of their constituents.

I'll make a quick question. I know that folks have asked for a break.

I know that there are figures that the minister cited in terms of pay for doctors in Princeton. I've got a question to the minister regarding administration. Could the minister tell me and tell this House how many people in administration in the IHA are.... I'm going to give him two benchmarks. How many people in the administration in the IHA — and I'm not talking about doctors — are making $200,000 a year or more? And how many people are making $150,000 a year or more in administration?

I ask this question because I know there are facts readily available in terms of pay for doctors, and obviously, the minister ought to have that information available for all those highly paid folks that work in the administration, with the two benchmarks — $150,000 a year or more, $200,000 a year or more.

Hon. M. de Jong: The short answer is yes. It's publicly available now. If the member wants me to compile it for him, — knowing, as I do, how busy he is — I will endeavour do that for him.

I wonder if we might stand down for five minutes.

The Chair: The committee will have a short recess for five minutes.

CMMC first quarter results

The Copper Mountain Mine produced 13.7 million pounds of copper during the quarter ended March 31, 2012. During the quarter, the mine completed four shipments of concentrate containing approximately 15.7 million pounds of copper to Japan for smelting and recorded revenues, net of smelter charges and pricing adjustments, of $71.0 million, realizing a gross profit of $27.3 million.

The total cash cost of copper sold for the three months ended March 31, 2012 was US$1.83 per pound of copper after gold and silver by-product credits. As this is the first quarter of reporting for the mine, there are no comparative numbers. The only comparative number that the Company could use is the 2008 Feasibility Study life of mine cost of $US1.30 per pound of copper after gold and silver by-product credits. Higher costs have resulted from increased consumable unit costs since the date of the 2008 Feasibility Study. The strengthened Canadian dollar has also been an adverse cost contributor.

About Copper Mountain Mining Corporation:

Copper Mountain is a Canadian resource company managed by an experienced team of professionals with a solid track record of exploration and development success. The Company's shares trade on the Toronto Stock Exchange under the symbol "CUM". Copper Mountain owns 75% and Mitsubishi Materials Corporation owns 25% of the Copper Mountain Mine. The 18,000 acre mine site is located 20 km south of the town of Princeton.

The Copper Mountain Mine has a current resource of approximately 5 billion pounds of copper and recently commenced production. Additional information is available on the Company's new web page at www.CuMtn.com.

Improvements to the grandstand must be made. Planning is underway for that project. Completion of the fencing project will begin as soon as an agreement has been made with a contractor.

A new barn rental policy was agreed upon. Short-term renters will pay $5.00 per horse per day. This will not alter the existing rates for regular stall rentals nor for those who rent stalls by the month.

A letter from FortisBC commended the PXA for an outstanding effort in raising awareness through an Earth Day project. As a reward for the effort, FortisBC has awarded the PXA a $1,000 grant toward an upgrade of some part of the electrical system.

Dan Kastor volunteered to work with FortisBC to do an electricity audit of the fairgrounds. Recommendations arising from the audit will be brought before the Board of Directors for consideration.

Fall Fair requested use of the grounds for a Halloween Party project and was granted permission for Saturday, June 16. A lot of goods have been donated to the Fall Fair to be sold, with the proceeds going toward the Halloween Party, which is sponsored by the Fall Fair Association.

The Fall Fair will host a yard sale at the fairgrounds, and everything must go because all the donated goods have filled space in building #1, which will be used for displays during the fair.

A report from a PXA member indicated somebody, parked overnight during the rodeo, started a campfire. The member asked if this was permitted. It is not, as there are to be no open fires within Town limits between April 15 and October 15. Signs will be made and placed in strategic positions to prevent any further campfire activities during that period.

Town adopts new bid policy

The Town of Princeton has adopted a new policy and procedures for purchasing. The new policy, which was adopted at the May 14th strategic planning meeting, includes guidelines regarding tenders and bids. The policy statement is quite lengthy. It is available to the public and can be found on the Town of Princeton website pertaining to municipal administration.

Mining News

Treasure Mountain - Huldra Silver

Huldra Silver Inc. was issued a Mines Act permit May 18th for its Treasure Mountain silver mine, located approximately 29 kilometres east of Hope and 40 kilometres west of Princeton announced Rich Coleman, Minister of Energy and Mines.

The capital cost of this project is estimated at $12 million and will provide 25 full-time jobs in the area. Treasure Mountain is expected to yield 60,000 tonnes per year from an underground silver-lead-zinc mining operation.

The ore from Treasure Mountain will be processed at the Craigmont mine, which operated from 1962 to 1982. Craigmont will receive a permit amendment, and 10 additional jobs will be created at that site.

Mineral exploration and mining are important economic drivers for British Columbia.

The production value of B.C.'s mining industry was approximately $8.6 billion in 2011.

"Treasure Mountain is more positive news for B.C.'s mining industry. This is the fifth new mine permit towards meeting our government's goal of eight new mines and nine expansions by 2015," stated Rich Coleman, Minister of Energy and Mines.

"We are extremely excited by this announcement that will allow the company to move the Treasure Mountain Mine Project forward. Huldra Silver Inc. welcomes the opportunity to become British Columbia's next silver producer," Ryan Sharp, president CEO, Huldra Silver said following the announcement.
