Fair is ready for weekend

Princeton's annual fair is ready to go into high gear this weekend. All the planning is done and Fair Board members will be working hard this week to put the finishing touches on preparations for the gates opening at 9:00 AM this Saturday and Sunday. The Youth Ambassadors have volunteered their time to help at the fair, the Community Band will be playing on Sunday and running a bingo during the weekend.

SVPS/TOTA launch joint project

In a groundbreaking joint initiative, the organizations representing the tourism industry in the Similkameen Valley and the Thompson Okanagan region are launching a pilot project to develop leading-edge tourism materials that will promote travel to the Similkameen and will also serve as a case study demonstrating best practices while developing resources for other communities.

The Similkameen Valley Planning Society (SVPS) has awarded contracts to a group of branding, marketing and website development professionals - co-ordinated by the Thompson Okanagan Tourism Association (TOTA) - to create a compelling new tourism brand, image bank, and website for the Similkameen.

These marketing materials will follow the priorities set out in a new Tourism Action Plan adopted by SVPS in June following a six-month process that received broad input from dozens of stakeholders throughout the Valley. The Action Plan was developed with support from the Community Tourism Foundations program of Tourism BC, part of the provincial Ministry of Jobs, Tourism & Innovation - and the new initiative to implement the Plan is partly supported by $23,000 in matching co-operative marketing funding from Tourism BC's Community Tourism Opportunities program.

Implementation of the Action Plan is being spearheaded by the Tourism Advisory Council (TAC) of SVPS with Thompson Okanagan Tourism's Community Development Specialist, Simone Carlyle-Smith.

This tourism development project is a breakthrough for the Similkameen Valley's tourism industry, which has come together in recent years to identify the essential features that attract visitors to the area. Creation of a co-ordinated brand, image bank, and website will boost the strategic marketing of the beautiful Valley which stretches along Highway 3 from Manning Park to Richter Pass - including the communities of Eastgate, Manning Park, Tulameen, Coalmont, Princeton, Hedley, Keremeos, Olalla, Cawston, Chopaka, and the Upper and Lower Similkameen Indian Bands. Current visitor sites and attractions include Manning Park, Snaza'ist Discovery Centre, Mascot Gold Mine Tour, recreation on the Similkameen River, the Keremeos Grist Mill, hiking and biking the Kettle Valley Rail Trail, the China Ridge Recreation Area, as well ..... continued on Page 18

PXA looks at future

Princeton Exhibition Association (PXA), the management board for the fairgrounds, has advised user groups to make their wish list known for future repairs and/or development at the fairgrounds. The members agreed to have a budget meeting in October to review everybody's wish list and set priorities.

Three more major events will take place at the fairgrounds: the fair this weekend, followed by horse racing next weekend, and the last event will be the Halloween party.

The annual volunteer appreciation dinner will take place in November this year to allow time to include those who help put on the community Halloween party on October 27. The yard sale put on by Jen Bernard was successful in raising $300 for the party, but she will be looking for additional donations from the community.

Flip Of The Coyne

by Spencer Coyne

It is hard not to think about the consequences of our buying habits when you listen to the radio these days. On Country 100.7 there is an announcement that seems to play just about every commercial break for emergency meetings for fruit farmers. It has been a hard year for fruit producers with the crazy weather and now the dumping of cheaper products from the US into our markets. I know when I go shopping I make sure to check the sticker to see where the fruit I buy actually comes from.

When we are blessed to live in a region like ours we should be taking advantage of what it has to offer: Fresh locally grown fruits and vegetables, cheese producers, a couple outstanding regional dairies, meat producers, world class wineries and some great breweries. Why would anyone want to buy something made outside our region? The taste and quality that comes from what is produced in the Thompson Okanagan is easily among the best in the world. When we shop we should think local first, and only if it can't be found locally should we look outside our area.

It takes a conscious decision to not buy an apple from Washington State when there is an apple from BC on the same shelf, but we should be doing just that. When we choose the American apple over the one grown in BC we are putting our domestic fruit industry at risk. If you consider that most of our orchards are situated on some of the most sought after real estate in the province it makes little sense for a farmer to continue farming at a loss when he could subdivide and sell his property and retire. At first you might think "so what if we lose our orchards?" If we lose them now they will be gone forever. Once agricultural land has been turned into residential property it will never be returned. We have seen our tree fruits taken out and turned into vines for wine. We have seen, as urban sprawl has taken over farm land all over the Okanagan and it isn't slowing down, the pressure to expand on these farm lands is not going to stop. The only way to protect our farms is to support the farmer.

Buy their fruit, buy their vegetables and their wares. If we do that we help that farmer pay the wages of the pickers, pay for their insurance, their overhead and other costs associated with farming.

It doesn't take much to support BC farmers. You can make the decision at the local grocery store. Check labels and make the decision to stay away from fruit and vegetables not from BC. On your next trip to Penticton stop at one of the fruit stands in Keremeos and stock up on fruit. Not only will you be getting the freshest product possible you will be getting great prices and the money goes straight to the farmer. Another great way to support local agriculture is to visit the local farmers' market. Princeton has a market every Saturday throughout the growing season where you can get vegetables grown locally. If you aren't at home on the weekend there are great farmers' markets across the Okanagan valley including Penticton where their market closes down a significant part of Main Street every Saturday.

It takes a conscious decision to not buy that tomato from California or Mexico when there is a BC tomato sitting beside it, but it is a decision we should be making. If the grocery store you visit doesn't carry BC produce when it is in season ask them why they don't and ask them to bring it in. Our farmers need our support and our economy needs our money to stay inside our country. Support local agriculture. Shop local.

..... continued from Front Page Bedard says he would like to see more fencing done next year. The roof to the fair buildings where plants are displayed has been repaired and the inside walls have been painted. Volunteer painter was Wayne Hooper, who has always been generous with his time and efforts in helping spruce up the look of the buildings. Cloverdale Paint generously donated the paint for this project. The Junior fair building received a face lift this year, thanks to the Bernard family, who painted the floor and the front of the building. More work on the barns is scheduled for the near future.

New flags have been purchased for the front gate, and will be up in time for the fair.

My Turn

From The ER To The Cemetery

I attended the Inaugural meeting of Princeton Town Council on August 22nd, which was basically a meet and greet with snacks and handshakes. I left before the party part of the agenda was launched, so I think I was there for the important part of the gathering.

Both Mayor Frank Armitage and Councillor Doug Pateman read their Oaths of Office and were officially sworn in as the newest members of Council.

The Mayor had a speech where he pointed out that his top three priorities were "healthcare, doctors and healthcare" which actually means there's only one priority the new Town Council will focus most of their energy on. We've been hearing this for a while and I am glad to see the issue is still considered a top priority.

I've also been following the developments at the Granite Creek Cemetery.

The recent windstorm last week caused some damage at that site with dead pine trees now taking up residence on top of a number of graves rather than providing shade to them.

For some residents in the Coalmont area this is a high priority situation that has been brewing for at least as long as the healthcare issue in Princeton.

Members of the RDOS are scheduled to look at the site later this week and we'll see if they make a public announcement stating that their top three priorities will be "cemetery clean up, removing dead/problem trees from near the cemetery and cemetery clean up," or in other words, looking after the cemetery.

What ties the Princeton and Coalmont issues together is that residents in both communities are doing the work of someone else.

The Ministry of Health/IHA is responsible for the delivery of healthcare services.

The Provincial Government is responsible for the Granite Creek Cemetery as it, and the historic town site is Crown Land.

Do I have to explain the connection to you any further?

What impresses me most about both situations, and many others like them, is that the driving force behind them is private citizens – in most cases volunteering their time and energy – who have taken ownership of these issues.

By taking ownership of these issues residents are fighting for what they believe in and are trying to right a wrong for the benefit of others.

Let's hope that the powers that be will respond favourably to these and other issues identified by Princeton (and area) residents.

A wind storm August 21st knocked trees down in the Granite Creek Cemetery. Coalmont area residents are working to clear the debris and to protect the site from any further damage. - photo submitted

Pine beetle attack hits cemetery

On August 21st a massive dead pine tree fell at the Granite Creek Cemetery, destroying part of a fence and landing across several gravestones. Since the pine beetle swept through the Cemetery about three years ago, volunteer caretakers Diane and Bob Sterne of Coalmont have been pleading with the RDOS, through Director Brad Hope, to take the initiative and fell the trees before something like this happened.

Over the past 8 years, the Sternes have brought the Cemetery back from a dingy, overgrown disgrace where you could barely see the picket fences surrounding the graves to a bright, open reminder of past times, and wildflowers are now thriving where the sunlight filters through the trees.

Unfortunately, their pleas were unanswered, and only after this damage occurred did RDOS indicate that they have no jurisdiction over the site, and can do nothing to help with a cleanup or to prevent further damage. The site, and the adjacent townsite of Granite Creek, are Crown land, owned by the Provincial Government, and neither are protected by Heritage Status, again despite numerous requests over a period of several years.

Apparently in 2007, at the stroke of a pen (likely from someone who has never visited the area), the Granite Creek Cemetery was declared "Inactive" by Consumer Protection BC, who is responsible for the Cremation/Interment Act. With this status, one must presume it is the intention of the Provincial Government to allow the Cemetery to become overgrown and return to nature unless it is maintained by the families of those interred there. Since the majority no longer live in the area, unless local volunteers step up to the plate, with no Government funding available, it would appear that the Granite Creek Cemetery will face its final indignity.

There is something RDOS can do. They can place the Granite Creek Townsite and Cemetery on their Heritage Registry, along with other sites in Area H like Allenby, Blakeburn, the pictographs on the Old Hedley Road, and many others. This is a necessary first step towards having the Provincial Government give these areas protection as Heritage Sites.

There is also something YOU can do. If you have the expertise and/or equipment to assist in removing the trees threatening the graves in the Cemetery, you can visit, have a look at the problem, and volunteer your services. Perhaps one of the local Forestry companies could consider this?

This Is A Great Town for Big Events

editor@thenewsleader.ca

I have lived in a number of places, cities and small towns, but I have never lived in a town with so many events as there are in Princeton.

We have had, so far this year, a Spirit Festival with a powwow, hockey tournaments, curling bonspiels, an ice skating carnival, cross country skiing events, a week of celebrating the arts, any number of concerts, several plays, two rodeos, horse racing, the annual racing days events at the park, a dinner on the Bridge of Dreams, a number of golf tournaments, weekends of nature walks or rock hounding, and a music festival.

There are five more big events: the annual fair on the long weekend, horse racing on September 8, a community Halloween party on October 28, Remembrance Day and Christmas Light-up.

The way groups get together and put on events is astounding. People who volunteer to put on these events or help with them are not only from Princeton. Many come from surrounding communities and some come from communities further away. People volunteer because they want to join in the fun of these events. These volunteers deserve a lot of praise and far more recognition than they publicly receive.

Much as I would praise all of the efforts of those who provide us with so many things to do in Princeton, I feel I must add that these groups will die if there is not more interest in the work that must be done before the events. These events do not happen by themselves. They take months of planning and some really hard work at the time of the event.

I am speaking from experience. I belong to the Arts Council and the Fair Board, and have involvement with Racing Days and Rodeo Club. We always have a lot of volunteers for our events, but it seems those volunteers run away when the event is over. They tend to forget it is the dedicated volunteers who attend the meetings and do the planning and prep work for the events.

I know people hate to attend meetings, but meetings are where the decisions are made, where the budget is set, and where the foundation is built for the next event. I do not know how it is for every group, but the groups to which I belong are suffering through lack of participation in the planning process and the prep work. I understand, from talking to people in other organizations, they experience the same thing.

Whether it is the fair, Minor Hockey, Minor Ball, the music festival, or the golf or curling clubs, the question of sustainability arises each year.

The lack of people to do the planning poses another threat to the sustainability of these major events.

To do what is needed, and to be a responsible, recognized organization, these groups form a society which is governed by the Society Act of British Columbia. To maintain this status, the organization requires a Board of Directors that takes on the responsibility for managing the money and ensuring that members behave in a responsible manner. Without sufficient people to serve on the Board, the society will cease to function. At that point, it must dispose of all of its money and other assets. To revive the society and restore the event becomes highly unlikely.

What it boils down to is this: if we want to continue these events, we, the people of our community, must be willing to step up, go to the meetings, and make sure the organization is sustained. In the coming months, many organizations will advertise their annual general meeting. This is the time in any organization when it elects a Board of Directors for the coming year, and this is the time when those of us who want to see an event continue to step up and make a commitment.

We have seen an election for Town Council recently. Those who ran for office made a commitment to stay on the job for three years. Yes, things can happen that may change their ability to meet that commitment, but it is rare for a Mayor or Councillor to have to be replaced before the three year term is completed.

These people have taken the responsibility to meet the commitment they made, and as a reporter who has attended Town Council meetings for the past 30 years, I can assure you that the commitment is not taken lightly, and our mayors and councillors work very hard to do what they promised to do.

I wish the same spirit of commitment could be generated among more of the people who like to attend the events organized by volunteer Boards of Directors. When I was in the audience of around one hundred people at the music festival, I wondered how many of them had actually taken the time to attend the meetings and do the preliminary work. If people enjoy an event and want it to continue, then they owe it to themselves to become part of ensuring the organization can be sustained and the event continue.

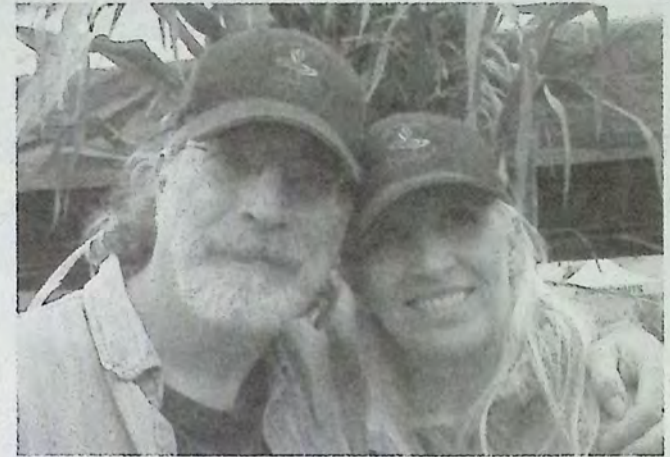

I learned a long time ago if you want to see something happen, then you have to be part of making it happen.

Bridge repair closes Ashnola FSR

Travellers are advised the Ashnola Forest Service Road will be temporarily closed at 39 kilometres from Tuesday, September 4 to Tuesday, September 18, due to a bridge replacement.

The announcement was made August 23rd by Ministry of Forests, Lands and Natural Resource Operations.

Ministry staff will be dismantling an old wooden bridge that is deteriorating and will replace it with a steel girder concrete deck bridge with a longer lifespan.

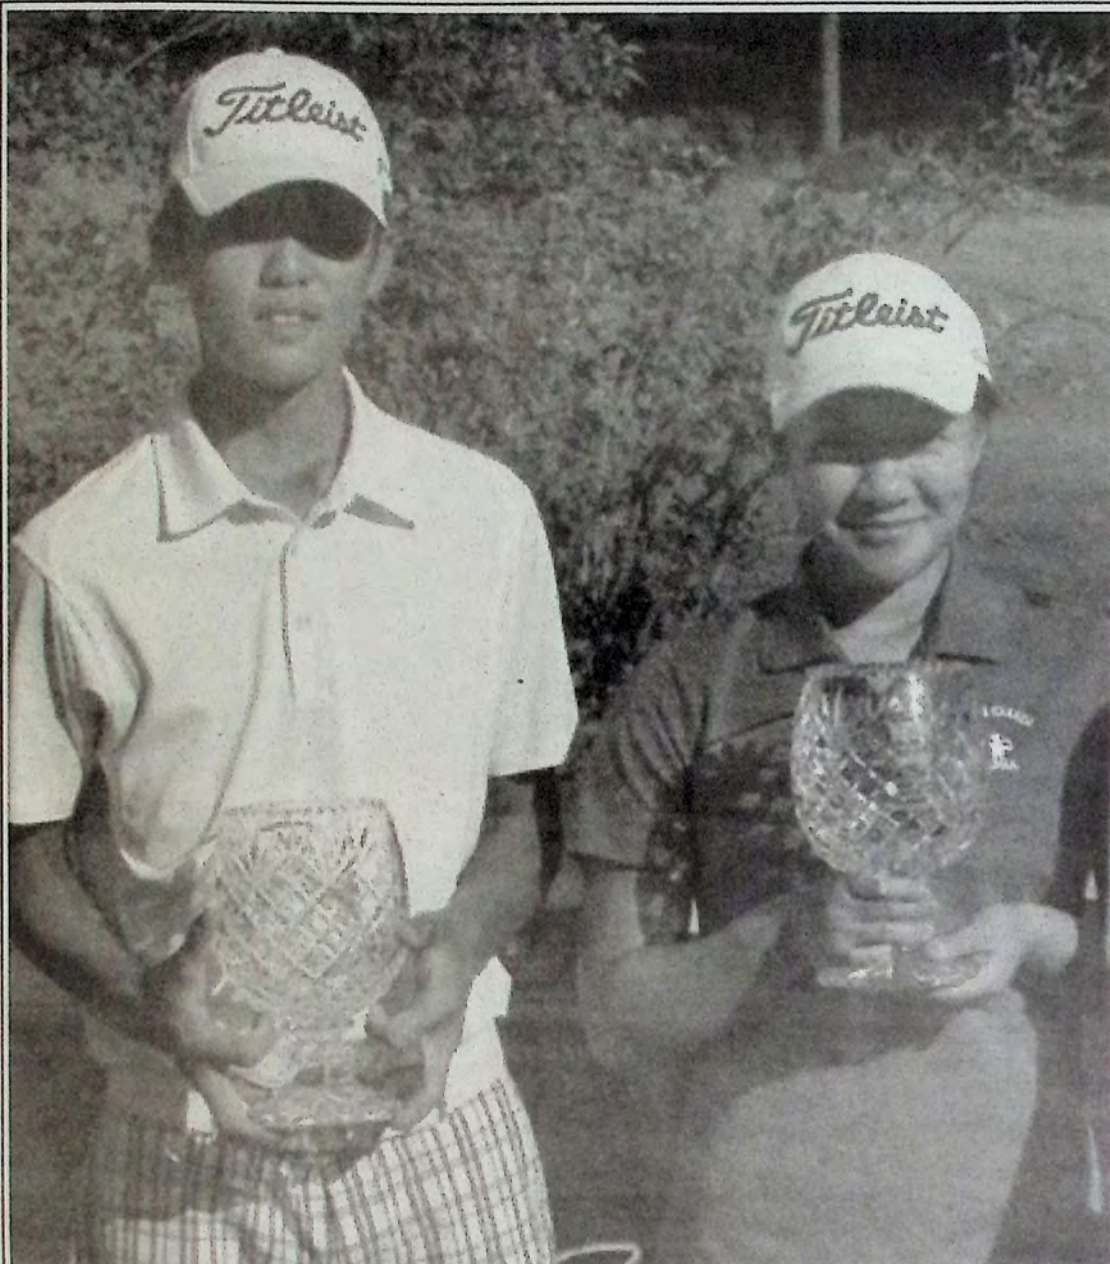

Note the closure is near the end of the forest service road and access to all recreation sites along Ashnola Forest Service Road will not be affected.

The Ashnola Forest Service Road is located approximately 27 kilometres southwest of Keremeos, and is part of British Columbia's 55,000-kilometre Forest Service road network that provides access to British Columbia's backcountry.

The community information board located outside the Similkameen Country InfoCentre in Keremeos was removed August 22nd. Vandals damaged it to the point that it needs to be shipped out for repair. Similkameen Country is looking at renting a sign board to use in the meantime with hopes of a speedy and affordable repair. *

Almost 100 of BC's low handicap juvenile golfers converged on our town for the provincial championships. They discovered the beauty and challenge of our course. After three days of competitive stroke play, Henry Lee, left, from Swan-e-set Bay Resort Golf Club won the boys title with a 3 under par score. Jake Scarrow and Trevor Lu were even par after 3 days. Janet Zhang, right, was the Girls Champion with an impressive +3 score. Annie Lee finished at +7 despite blistering a course record score of 70 on Day 2. Swan-e-set Bay Resort won the Club Team competition while Zone 4 captured the Team competition thanks to steady golf from Trevor Yu, Kevin Vigna, Chris Crisologo, and Diego San Pedro. After receiving his trophy, Henry Lee took the opportunity to thank Princeton golf members for giving up their course for this competition. He commented on the beauty and challenge of the course and the friendliness of all the members who volunteered. Photo: Sharleen Anderson

Henry Lee and Janet Zhang capture the British Columbia Juvenile Boys' and Girls' Championships at Princeton Golf Club.

Lee, a fourteen year old from Coquitlam and member at Swan-e-set Bay Resort and Country Club, completed a wire-to-wire victory, holding off Vancouver's Trevor Yu and Dewdney's Jake Scarrow by three strokes.

Coming into the day, Lee held a four-stroke lead on the field and admitted he wasn't gunning for any more.

"My game plan for the final round was to keep it steady and shoot even for the day," stated Lee. "I made a bad shot coming into 17 and wasn't able to get up-and-down, then made a double on 18. I was nervous I wasn't going to win but relieved when I did."

By shooting a three-day 213, -3 total (68-71-74), Lee made the Championship closer than it should have been, slightly opening the door for Scarrow and Yu to sneak into the mix before they finished with bogeys on 18 and made Lee's first provincial title official. Scarrow (70-73-73) and Yu (72-72-72) would both shoot 216 totals, good enough for even-par on the Championship.

"I didn't really expect to win coming in. The course was tough because you had to keep it straight and if you miss, you were in trouble," said Lee. "I am just happy to be called the Juvenile champion."

Looking ahead, Lee knows his practice for 2013 is very important.

"My year is done after this tournament. I need to practice harder so that I can come out and repeat as champion."

At fourteen, Lee has the opportunity to play in two more Juvenile Championships until he loses eligibility due to age. No player has ever captured three B.C. Juvenile Boys' Championships.

In the Girls' division, first round leader Janet Zhang, 15 of Richmond, came from behind to top the field and capture her first provincial Championship with a three-day 222, +3 total (73-75-74).

Heading into the day, Zhang sat three-strokes behind Annie Lee, 16 of Surrey, before mounting a sea-saw comeback that saw six birdies, three bogeys and two double bogeys for a final round +1, 74 and four shot victory.

When asked of how it feels to be a Juvenile champion, Zhang was humble.

"I didn't think I even had a chance to win coming into the event so to pull it off feels amazing."

At 16, Zhang wins the Juvenile Championship in her last year of eligibility, something she is very pleased with.

"To be able to call myself a provincial champion is special. I now feel that going into other tournaments, I can place in the top-5. This is going to give me great confidence for next year."

Rounding out the top-3 were course-record holder and second round leader Annie Lee at +7 (75-70-81-226) and Victoria's Naomi Ko at +13 (80-74-78-232).

Both champions had great things to say about the Championship and Princeton GC, especially Zhang.

"This course was playing very difficult all week and British Columbia Golf did an amazing job at hosting this tournament. It was a lot of fun."

Health/Lifestyle News*Flu Prevention Measures Protect Patients

Health authorities in British Columbia are acting on the advice of Dr. Perry Kendall, B.C.'s Provincial Health Officer, and implementing measures to better protect patients and seniors from being exposed to influenza.

Beginning this year, health-care workers who come into contact with patients at publicly funded health-care facilities or in the community, including at long-term-care facilities, will need to get the influenza vaccine, or wear a mask during the flu season.

"Influenza causes more deaths annually than all other vaccine-preventable diseases combined, and hospitalized patients are more vulnerable to complications from influenza than the general population," said Dr. Kendall.

"This policy will protect patients. Putting in place consistent policies to prevent influenza from spreading is the right thing to do from a patient safety perspective."

The policy is in response to low vaccine coverage rates of health-care workers, and is part of comprehensive infection control measures developed by health authorities, acting upon the advice of public-health and patient-safety professionals, in collaboration with the Health Employers Association of BC. Other infection control measures include rapid identification of ill patients, adherence to hand hygiene, cough etiquette, the use of antivirals during outbreaks, and asking staff to stay home when ill.

"Health-care workers and the health-care system have an ethical and professional responsibility to protect vulnerable patients from transmissible diseases," said Dr. Bonnie Henry, director of communicable disease prevention, at the BC Centre for Disease Control.

"Patients should not have to worry that they could get sick from their care provider. Getting vaccinated is the best way to protect patients, as well as health-care workers themselves and their families."

The new policy applies to all health-care workers including health-authority staff, physicians and residents, volunteers, students, contractors and vendors who come into contact with patients.

Each year, health authorities provide the influenza vaccine for free to all workers, volunteers and students who work with patients, and encourage as many get vaccinated as possible. However, vaccination rates have historically been less than 50 per cent.

"This decision has been made by all health authorities, acting upon the advice of the Provincial Health Officer, and ensures we are reducing the risk to our patients to the best of our ability," said Dr. Nigel Murray, president and CEO, Fraser Health.

The influenza vaccine is extremely safe, and is the most effective way to prevent illness from the influenza virus.

Living Past 100*An Apple A Day Is Good For You!

The old adage, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away" has a lot of truth to it. Apples contain a very special substance called pectin, a factor related to good heart health and a good circulatory system. Pectin is a soluble fibre that helps sweep away cholesterol produced in the liver. You do not need to eat a lot of apples every day to achieve the protective results - even one quarter of an apple will improve your cholesterol count.

The fibre in apples works better than other fibres because of the pectin, but there is more to an apple than just the pectin. Apple skins contain quercetin, a compound that has shown effectiveness in preventing cancer by scouring free radicals.

Some people drink apple juice thinking the juice will provide the same benefits as the apple, but this is false. The main benefit of the apple comes in the apple skin and pulp.

Apple season is beginning, and apples are plentiful. Many homes have apple trees growing in the yard. Apples can be preserved through canning for pies, or in the form of apple sauce. Apple sauce is often better, as the process calls for cooking the skins along with the pulp, then preserving the whole thing. Crabapples are often preserved whole with cinnamon and cloves, and are a delightful addition to a meal in winter. Whole crabapples can be pickled.

If you have a freezer, you may want to make up apple pie filling, then freeze the cooked filling for later use.

Many varieties of apple last well into winter simply by keeping them in a cool place. A raw apple makes an excellent snack, but many people do not like the taste of apples that have been stored a long time. For these people, baked apples or apple crumble or apple crisp may be the best way to keep them enjoying the benefits of nature's own medicine.

Festival organizers give thanks

by Rika Ruebsaat, President
 Princeton Traditional Music Society

The dust from this year's Princeton Traditional Music Festival is beginning to settle, which gives us the opportunity to thank all those who made the Festival possible. The people and organizations mentioned below demonstrate that the Festival is truly a community event.

One of the things that make the Princeton Traditional Music Festival special is the fact that the musicians perform for free. This year we had fifty performing groups which added up to over 160 individual performers donating their talents to the Festival.

A big thank you to all of you for bringing so much pleasure to the people of Princeton and to all our visitors! We had many visitors who drove long distances to come to the Festival. Every year there are people who happen to be passing through town, discover the Festival and decide to stay on. Many of them now return every year, making Princeton a holiday destination.

Putting on a festival takes lots of planning and organization. The Festival organizing committee began its work in February with bi-monthly meetings. As the Festival approached the workload and number of meetings increased until the week of the Festival, when we were all running around madly trying to get everything done.

Thank you, Jon Bartlett, Festival Coordinator, who chaired all the meetings and with whom the buck stopped. Thank you to John Henry, Stuart James and Derek Winter who were the site managers; to Mary Masiel who coordinated the stage managers as well as taking ownership of many other Festival jobs; to Johanna Nott who found billets for out of town performers and worked with the motels on publicity and ad sales; to Larry Saidman who was our restaurant and food coordinator; to Cheryl Piket, our tireless treasurer who pitched in all weekend; to Ole Juul who designed and maintained the Festival website; to Marjorie Holland who worked tirelessly coordinating all the activities in the Festival office the whole weekend.

All of these people did much more than their job description both before and especially during the Festival. They are a keen and competent crew and it's a pleasure working with them.

The hour-by-hour work of the Festival was done by a host of volunteers. Stage managers Bevan Bartlett, Morgan Bartlett, Kay Bergeron, Virginia Brock, Anne Hughes, Neinke Klaver, Sue Delatour, Mary Mitchell, Elaine Rutherford, Sue Skidmore, Ed Staples, Lynn Wells and Janice Winter kept the stages running smoothly and on time. MCs Mary Armitage, Marion Buechert, Bill

Day, Roger Holdstock, Dan Keeton, Mike Marker, Bob Morgan, Earle Peach, Lyn Pinkerton, Tom Rawson, Larry Saidman, Penny Sidor, Simon Trevelyan, Barry Truter, Ellen

Brook, Carol Forcier, Anne Hughes, Janice Winter and Ambassadors Taylor Gibb and Megan Pateman welcomed and directed performers and answered questions from the public all weekend.

Numerous other volunteers shifted chairs, moved stages and pitched in wherever they were needed. To all of you a big thank you! And a special thanks to all those who billeted out-of-town performers - Kathy Clement, Sue Delatour, Dawn Gardner, Ruth Kavanaugh, Eric Goodfellow, Brad and June Hope, Linda Neumann and Lorraine Stubbins. These people opened their homes to strangers and said goodbye to them as friends. Both the performers being billeted and the Princetonites who put them up had nothing but positive things to say about the experience.

Thank you to Dawn Kastor at the Loonie Bin for baking and donating her delicious buns to feed the performers on Friday evening.

Thank you to St Paul's United Church and the Legion for the use of their cooking pots and to St Paul's for the use of their chairs. Thank you to all the businesses and organizations that purchased ads in the program guide. Thank you to all the restaurants in town that participated in our food voucher program. Thank you to the Princeton Arts Council who sold performers' CDs at the Sunflower Gallery.

The expenses of the Festival were paid for by generous grants from the Town of Princeton, Area H of the RDOS and the Government of Canada through the Department of Canadian Heritage, Building Communities Through Arts and Heritage Program.

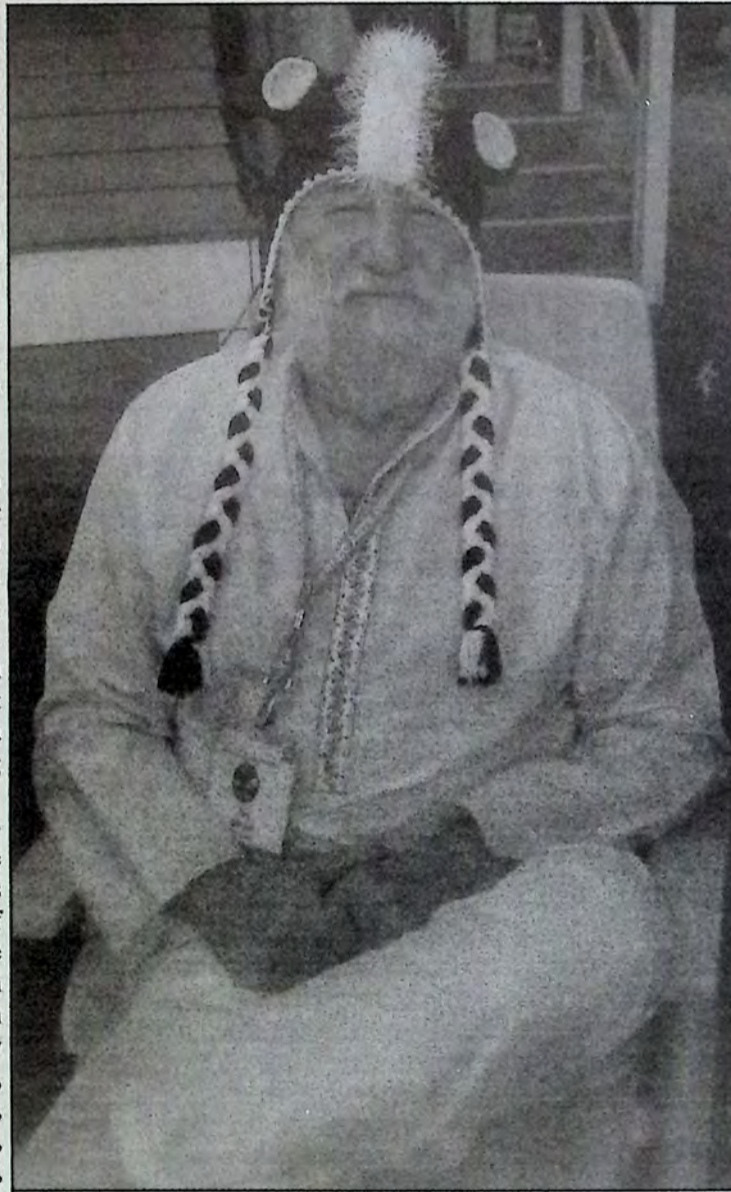

We are also very grateful to all the people attending the Festival who so generously donated money. To all of you a big thank you! The money was used for publicity and office supplies as well as to pay for performers' food and travel expenses. The Town also provided street closures, port-a-potties, garbage bins and the use of Veterans' Square.

We thank the Princeton and District Museum and Archives for the use of their lawn for the Museum Stage, for the use of their electricity for the sound system and for the availability of their washrooms. Thank you to Weyerhaeuser and Valley First Credit Union for the free use of their tents.

The News Leader has been a partner of the Festival since its inception. Every year the editor has generously published a series of articles submitted to him publicizing the Festival. For that we are very grateful.

Lastly, we would like to thank the people of Princeton who have so enthusiastically embraced the Princeton Traditional Music Festival.

Without your support it couldn't happen. If you have any feedback you'd like to share, any suggestions for next year, or if you'd like to get involved or billet a performer next year, please contact us.

ARIES - Work and health should be your main focus now. Doing a good job of your employment, staying healthy and making the most of daily life is important now. Home life needs to be pleasant. If you share resources with anyone, there could be problems about who gets what.

TAURUS - You could be feeling really creative these days. If not, then you may just want to have a good time and could waste an opportunity to do something of lasting value. The urge to spend money, especially the urge to gamble, could have challenges from a partner who speaks out.

GEMINI - Focus on your home and property now. It might be time to redecorate or make pleasing improvements to the appearance of your property. Pay attention to your health, and/or your job, as there could be problems. Stay away from sweets, baked goods, fruit juices. Diet!

CANCER - You would love to just sit back and enjoy peace and pleasure, but this is your last week to do so. Your home and property need work and young people you are attached to could be in need of your help. Use a creative approach, challenge yourself to solve problems now!

LEO - You need to be concerned about what you value, what you own and what you owe. Your home and family need attention, repairs to the physical home and repairs to relationships. Double check home for safety and fire hazards. Solve problems with siblings, neighbours. Work!

VIRGO - Money continues to be a problem, primarily lack of money. Evaluate what you own that could be turned into money. Problems with a sibling can be solved if you do not let ego interfere. Problems may arise in your immediate neighbourhood - disputes, fires, accidents.

LIBRA - Debts may bring you some worries, or problems with income can upset you. Sort out your financial picture. Career seems to be running smoothly, and groups you associate with can be very helpful next week. Transition period begins in home and family - expect changes.

SCORPIO - You are full of energy and ego these days. Make sure ego is used to achieve a goal rather than just to make yourself look good. Direct energy toward achievement or you will arouse opposition. Benefits can come to you through shared resources, banks, investments, insurance.

SAGITTARIUS - Focus on career and achieving career objectives. If you have worries, do not stew, develop a plan of action. Groups you belong to offer no help. Travel with partner can inspire new approaches to life and bring some benefits. Turn worry into creative work.

CAPRICORN - This is a good time to look at where you have been and where you want to go. Do not rely on groups of associates for help, they may be in need of your help now and they may be a burden. Relationships with friends remain good. Smooth out finances, be creative at home.

AQUARIUS - You need to look into your finances now and make sure your insurance is paid up. Double check terms of mortgage or debts to clear them as soon as possible. Activity around your neighbourhood bears watching - could be good or not. Stick to friends for enjoying life.

PISCES - Action is centered around learning, communicating. There may be misunderstandings that need to be cleared up. Be diplomatic. Be very cautious about spending at this time, as unexpected problems can arise. Do not go overboard with home improvements.

Potato Lasagna

(NC)—Tastes like the Italian-style favourite, except that instead of pasta this version uses sliced Ontario Yukon Gold potatoes. A satisfying meal that's quick and easy for kids and parents to prepare.

Adult peels and slices potatoes. Older kids can par-cook potatoes in microwave and cook ground beef. All kids can layer ingredients in baking dish.

- 1 lb. (500 g) lean ground beef
- 1 tsp (5 mL) dried oregano
- 1/2 tsp (3 mL) chopped garlic (pre-chopped from jar or chopped by adult)
- 2 lb. (1 kg) Ontario Yukon Gold potatoes, peeled and thinly sliced
- 1 tbs (15 mL) all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 cups (375 mL) tomato sauce
- 1 1/2 cups (375 mL) cottage cheese
- 1 egg
- 1/3 cup (75 mL) grated Parmesan or Romano cheese (optional)
- 1 cup (4 oz. /100 g) grated Cheddar and mozzarella cheeses

Preheat oven to 400 F (200 C).

In fry pan, cook ground beef on medium heat, breaking up pieces with back of wooden spoon or spatula. Stir in oregano and garlic. Remove from heat. Set aside.

Place sliced potatoes in bottom of 2.5-quart (2.35 L) baking dish. Cover with plastic wrap. Heat on high 8 minutes or until potatoes in middle of dish are tender when pierced with a fork. Use oven mitts when removing cover. Be careful, steam from bowl is hot.

Sprinkle flour on top of potatoes. In a bowl, mix cooked ground beef mixture with tomato sauce and spread over top. In bowl, mix cottage cheese, egg and Parmesan cheese. Spread over tomato sauce layer. Sprinkle grated Cheddar cheeses over cottage cheese layer.

Bake uncovered 25 to 30 minutes, until cheese is lightly browned and sauce is bubbling at edges. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Around The Similkameen

A lot of pirates filled Princeton's Centennial Pool August 22nd. *

Last week a 'zigzag' trail started to take shape between landings on the zigzag project. *

A closer look at some of the rock work being used to shape a trail between landings. *

Eating contests filled the evening August 22nd at Centennial Pool. *

They may not look nasty now, but soon after this photo was taken everyone walked the plank! *

The top of the zigzag project saw a large concrete frame built last week. *

Landlubbers didn't stand a chance when Princeton's Centennial Pool was taken over by a band of pirates August 22nd. In addition to strange food eating contests, everyone had to walk the plank into the warm pool water. *

SVPS Chair and Keremeos Mayor Manfred Bauer says, "The Similkameen Valley Planning Society is pleased to have this opportunity to work together with Thompson Okanagan Tourism Association. This pilot project will put us at the forefront of tourism development and is further evidence of the benefits of pulling all our resources together for a common goal."

Joan McMurray, Chair of the SVPS Tourism Advisory Council (TAC), adds, "TAC is excited to move forward with our Tourism Strategy for the Similkameen. We are doubly pleased that our key initiatives will be the basis for a pilot project for TOTA's new Regional Tourism Strategy. The Council's focus on behalf of our 90 stakeholders is to showcase the unique features and flavours of the Similkameen as a vibrant destination within the region."

TOTA President & CEO Glenn Mandziuk notes that the project is a major step forward both for Similkameen Valley tourism and for implementation of the new 10-year Regional Tourism Strategy throughout the Thompson Okanagan.

"We are excited that in this project TOTA and SVPS will apply the new Regional Tourism Strategy - which includes the Canadian Tourism Commission's world-class research-based 'Explorer Quotient' (EQ) marketing principles - and will integrate it into the Similkameen Valley's tourism materials," Mandziuk says.

Carlyle-Smith, the senior TOTA staff member who will lead the project team, says, "Using this project as a case study, TOTA will develop many resource materials which it will make available through its website to all tourism organizations in the region. This will help them to incorporate the Regional Strategy and EQ into their tourism planning, branding and marketing."

The Similkameen Valley has a diverse geography ranging from arid valleys to snow-capped mountains. Its landscape supports a vibrant outdoor recreation and nature-based tourism sector. The Valley is equally rich in First Nations heritage as well as western, mining and agricultural history. The warm, sunny climate makes the lower part of the Valley one of the finest fruit, vegetable and wine growing areas in North America, with a high concentration of organic farms.

The Similkameen's Tourism Action Plan, adopted in June, is the first such plan to be developed for all local and regional governments and First Nations in a sub-region in the Thompson Okanagan. It lays out a two-year plan for developing a tourism brand and identity for the entire Similkameen Valley, along with a tourism website and image bank.

Its aim is to promote better strategic development and marketing of tourism and the many destinations throughout the Valley, attract more visitors, encourage them to stop and see the beautiful area and its local attractions, and generally grow the tourism industry and the Valley's economy.

SVPS is a non-profit organization composed of the municipalities of Keremeos and Princeton, Regional District of Okanagan-Similkameen Electoral Areas 'B', 'G', and 'H', and the Lower Similkameen and Upper Similkameen Indian Bands.

TOTA set the detailed requirements for the project, as a start to development of best practices. Work on the six-month project is set to begin immediately focusing on development of an inventory of tourism-related destinations and activities in the Similkameen Valley, a creative new brand for tourism in the area, new photography for an image bank displaying Similkameen tourism attractions and activities, development of website design and content, a proposed online Business Directory, and other supporting materials - including planning for a new Visitor Guide for the Valley. The new tourism brand and website are scheduled to be launched by next March.

The project implementation team includes:

- Simone Carlyle-Smith who has extensive experience in tourism with more than 30 community tourism projects including tourism planning and marketing specializing in branding and implementation of marketing plans, she has taught community tourism and produced community tourism plans for Tourism British Columbia, and currently works as TOTA's Community Development Specialist. Her passion is working directly with community stakeholders to implement tourism plans and providing mentorship to those in tourism management. Carlyle-Smith is also leading the Resource Centre project for TOTA.

- Terra Firma Digital Arts and its creative director Roger Handling have worked on branding and design for many national and international corporations - including BC Hydro, the Royal Bank, Canadian Parks & Wilderness Society, and Amtrak - and has received a number of awards. It has carried out more than 20 major tourism projects for local government and tourism organizations on Vancouver Island, Whistler, the B.C. Interior, Northern B.C., the Fraser Valley and the Sunshine Coast, including complete branding packages with logo development, visitor guides, maps, websites, press kits, image banks and signage.

- PawPrint.network has extensive experience producing both attractive and functional websites for regional, national and international organizations, including many in the tourism sector. It uses a powerful integrated modular system to build custom websites efficiently, and the websites are coded to display across a variety of desktop and mobile devices and are optimized for search engines. The database-driven system is fully integrated, allowing seamless functionality.

- Daren Robinson Photography - Professional photographer Darren Robinson came to the North Okanagan after serving as Executive Director of Tourism Powell River and as an active director for Sunshine Coast Tourism. He has also worked in tourism marketing in Jasper and is currently the executive director of the Enderby & District Chamber of Commerce. Having his Bachelor of Tourism Management degree from Thompson Rivers University and extensive tourism experience provides Robinson a unique position as a photographer. His professional photography work focuses on tourism, portrait and nature photography, and his client list includes: Fairmont Hotels & Resorts; Sunshine Coast Tourism; Vancouver, Coast & Mountains Tourism; Jasper Tourism; and Shuswap Tourism.

- DogLeg Marketing - Owner Kim Lawton has almost 20 years of experience in marketing, communications, public relations and project management. She currently serves as marketing director for the Similkameen Wineries Association and has developed and implemented an energetic marketing plan with the group. Lawton holds a Bachelor of Commerce degree with a specialization in marketing. Her company DogLeg Marketing has a number of tourism clients.

In Loving Memory of Brutus

July 19, 2005 - August 3, 2012

My Beautiful Boy - My Magnificent Man

It will always be the greatest honor of my life to have been a part of your short life. Yes, you were an American Red Nose Pitbull. Admittedly, you were never afraid "To drop the gloves" when you were challenged but, because of your heart and intelligence, your supervision and training, nothing bad ever happened.

It makes me sad to know that just by what you were some people automatically became suspicious, nervous or even afraid of you. These people, sadly, never gave themselves the opportunity to know you as I and all of your many friends in this town came to know you. You were the softest, most loving, caring, curious, fun loving, gentle yet demanding of souls.

You were ultimately faced, too young, with the one thing that is bigger and tougher than you...Lymphoma. A cancer that comes on and progresses very rapidly which gave not one of us the time or resources to fight it.

You are gone now physically, but you live on intensely in our hearts and minds. You are a huge presence still in our lives. Your Aunt Lorna (who is more like your Fairy God Mother) is the greatest, longest and ultimately most loving influence in your short seven years. I cherish the opportunity Aunt Lorna gave us to see you playing freely with your playpal Kona. I know how privileged you felt to have Kona and Aunt Lorna let you be who you really were, sometimes a brat, but mostly the gentle man that was really you. I know this because I always saw how excited you would get when I told you that this was going to be an Aunt Lorna and Kona day! It was always absolutely clear to me how much you loved them both.

Dr Elizabeth Ladyman, Maureen and Laura, Shar and Melissa (Nicola Valley Veterinary Clinic) gave us both extraordinary care. I am so proud of you because you never made any kind of a fuss when it was time for shots or examinations or pills or anything. I am deeply grateful to Dr. Ladyman for the exquisite care and caring she gave you right to the end.

I just want to wrap my arms around your big thick neck and whisper in your soft silky ears what an amazing man you are. Please forgive me Bud that I could not protect you from this one. You know how much I love you. You will always be my Good Boy, my Precious Man.

Back To School!

How to ease back-to-school for your child

(NC)—The sweet scent of summer may still be lingering in the air, but your child's first day of school is fast approaching. Transitioning from the blissfully hazy days of summer to the structure of school days can be a tough one, but it doesn't have to be. Sally Morse, director of creative services for window fashions company, Hunter Douglas, reviews some tips to make back to school preparation easier for both you and your child.

• Establish a schedule

After all those carefree summer days, it's important to incorporate a little more structure into your child's day to ease the back-to-school transition. Begin by slowly adjusting bedtime, wake-up time and eating schedules, so that by the time school starts your child will be accustomed to a routine.

• Involve Your Kids

The more your child feels a part of the back-to-school planning, the more enthusiastic he or she is likely to become. This could include allowing them to help with setting up play dates, shopping for school supplies or buying new outfits for school.

• Goals

Brainstorming a few goals for the school year with your kids is a great way to be involved in their academic career, but also allow them to work toward something on their own. Try discussing one academic goal and one social goal for the semester.

• Study Area

Finding the right space in your home is critical for productive and effective studying. Every child learns differently and retention of information is largely dependent on the environment and mood that he or she is working in. To make an improvement at the window, take a look at the Hunter Douglas Silhouette window shadings, which are now available with a cordless lifting system that make it especially ideal for homes with young children.

Before school begins for your child, get the calendar out and write down events and holidays to look forward to as a family. Those school vacations are not only pertinent to your schedule; your child will enjoy feeling included in the planning of family trips or weekend getaways. For example, mark down a date in late October to go Halloween costume shopping, or anything else that may be meaningful to your child. Although the last days of summer are quickly slipping away, this will remind your child of all the exciting things in store for the fall.

More information is available online at www.hunterdouglas.ca.

Back to school breakfast

(NC)—It's back to school time for the kids, which means getting back into the routine of early mornings, packing lunches and preparing quick and healthy breakfasts. It's especially important for your young ones to eat a well-portioned, nutritious breakfast regularly to promote wellness for their developing brains and growing bodies. You want to send your children to school rested and well-fed to encourage energy and productive learning throughout the day. Incorporating mushrooms into your morning routine provides more of what you need, including essential B-Vitamins, Vitamin D, Fibre and Minerals and less of what you don't need, Fats, Carbohydrates, Sodium, Cholesterol and Sugar. Because of the nutritional content of mushrooms, they are a great choice for keeping hungry kids full without a lot of extra calories. By encouraging ..... continued on Page 22

Smartphone devices becoming a classroom staple

(NC)—Remember when the most high tech gadgets in the classroom consisted of compasses or rulers? A lot has changed in the last several decades, and children and teens now have access to computers, tablets and smartphones to help them learn in-and-out of the classroom while staying connected with family and friends.

Stephanie Lancaster, data girl at Rogers, says that while laptops and tablets will continue to be popular options for students, the latest smartphones are the real hot items this year. She adds that new smartphone models have comparable features to laptops and tablets because of their large, high definition screens, fast LTE network speeds and high-quality cameras.

"Whether students are keeping track of their class schedules, recording class notes or staying in touch with family, the smartphone is one of the core gadgets students want for the new school year," says Lancaster.

Easily sharing content wirelessly to their laptops and computers at home is what students truly love about smartphones, she adds.

When choosing a phone, there are countless features to decide upon such as screen size, weight, content apps, keyboard, and accessories, to name just a few. For students who wish to easily sync with Microsoft Word for note taking or word processing, a Windows Phone – like a Nokia Lumia 900 – is right up their alley.

Some of the popular smartphones for back to school include the HTC One X, Sony Xperia Ion and Samsung Galaxy S III, all of which operate on the Android platform.

Students seeking a smartphone to double as a music player should look for a model like the HTC One X, which comes with Beats Audio Music hardware integration or the Sony Xperia Ion that provides access to Sony Music Unlimited.

To keep family members connected through their devices, Lancaster explains there are shared plans available to simplify billing and save on costs. With a Rogers Family Plan, families can add up to five members to one plan and can share data with unlimited voice and text messaging.

Whether they choose a laptop, tablet or smartphone, kids will be hitting the books and heading back to school with connected gear this fall.

How to pick the perfect PC for your needs

(NC)—Are you in need of a new computer now that you're heading back to school? With so many options out there, it's sometimes hard to know where to begin.

Sure, you can wait for a sweet deal to come along, but how do you know which PC is right for you? Marc Aube, a tech expert with Microsoft Canada says you should ask yourself the following questions to help maximize your PC purchase:

Where will you be using it?

Your school year is going to be hectic enough, so why not make things easier with a super compact machine that you can easily take with you no matter where you're headed? The Toshiba Z830 is not only one of the lightest laptops at less than three pounds, but it packs some serious PC power.

What do you want it to do?

If you'll mostly be using your PC to take notes, write term papers, e-mail or to catch up with friends on social sites, you can afford to go with a lighter weight. The Dell Inspiron 14z is a great choice for students because it's thin and powerful enough to get the job done.. If you think you'll be streaming the occasional movie or playing games online, the Asus Zenbook is also a great option: it's not only incredibly responsive but it has impressive audio that will bring any digital experience to life.

What is your budget?

Budget is always on the mind of a student. You want to make sure you are getting the most bang for your buck, but also want to score a PC that meets your needs. Every student is different, but the great thing is this: There are plenty of stylish ultra-books available no matter what your needs are or your budget restrictions. To make things easier on the bank account, you can inexpensively upgrade to Windows 8 Pro when you purchase a new PC this fall.
