Fair board works on kids fun

The Fair Board met Tuesday, April 28, to continue planning for the fair on September 12 and 13. One of the main items under discussion was entertainment for youngsters. One of the policies of the fair has been to provide kids' entertainment free of charge, if possible. Local businesses and industries make this possible through sponsorships. At other fairs, these days, children are expected to pay for entertainment in addition to the gate admission.

Finding affordable entertainment is always a big concern. No decision has been made yet for this year's kids' entertainment, as more than one company has been contacted.

The Fall Fair campaign for sponsors is now underway. Previous sponsors have been contacted and are as generous as always.

This year, there will be a scarecrow contest once again. There will be two categories: individual and business. Individuals building scarecrows should consider the 50th anniversary of the fair as their theme. Businesses putting in acontinued on Page 20

CMMC announces Q1 financials

Copper Mountain Mining Corporation (TSX: CUM) (the "Company" or "Copper Mountain") announced April 27th revenues of $71.5 million after pricing adjustments and treatment charges for the quarter ended March 31, 2015 from the sale of 21.5 million pounds of copper, 7,600 ounces of gold, and 92,700 ounces of silver.

Jim O'Rourke, President and CEO of Copper Mountain, remarked, "We are very pleased with the increased SAG mill throughput. being achieved with the finer feed from the new $40 million permanent secondary crusher. Mill throughput of 37,780tpd average for the first 22 days of April is a 29% increase in tonnage over the first quarter of last year and 14% improvement over the current quarter. The steady improvements in mill throughput and reduced site operating costs achieved this quarter position the Company well going forward."

O'Rourke continued, "Looking forward, we see the next twelve months as a period of continued optimization to further strengthen our operating base. Production for 2015 will come mainly from the Pit 2 area and therefore we are anticipating higher gold production. We have a strong operating team and I am confident that the mine will meet our production goals."

During the quarter, the company completed four shipments of concentrate containing approximately 21.5 million pounds of copper to Japan for smelting and recorded revenues, net of smelter charges and pricing adjustments, of $71.5 million, realizing a gross profit of $6.7 million. The total cash cost of copper sold for the quarter ended March 31, 2015 were lower than planned at US$1.77 per pound of copper net of gold and silver byproduct credits as a result of cost cutting measures taken at the mine site.

Mining activities continued in the Pit 2 and Pit 3 areas throughout the quarter. Phase 2 of Pit #3 was completed during the quarter and the start of the Phase 3 pushback on the west side of Pit #3 commenced. Mining in Pit #2 area is progressing well and the majority of ore will be supplied from the Pit 2 area for the balance of 2015. Copper head grade for the year is forecasted to be on average 0.33% copper, but because of the higher gold content in the Pit 2 ore the copper equivalent grade is approximately 0.41% copper. The recently installed mine dispatch system continues to be a valuable tool to maximize haulage truck load factors and improve mining efficiencies. During the quarter a total of 14.7 million tonnes of material was mined, including 5.6 million tonnes of ore and 9.1 million tonnes of waste. The mining rate at the end of the period was in the range of 165,000 tonnes per day moved. As a result of cost cutting measures taken early in the quarter site cash costs were lower than planned at US$1.21 per pound of copper after gold and silver by-product credits.

Mill throughput from the concentrator improved approximately 13.5% during the quarter as compared to the first quarter of 2014. During the first quarter of 2015 the SAG mill throughput averaged 33,200 tpd as compared to 29,300 tpd for the first quarter of 2014. The increase in throughput is directly attributable to the installation of the new $40 million secondary crusher that is operating at its designed rate and crushing ore to minus two inches which allows the SAG mill to operate at rates above its designed capacity.

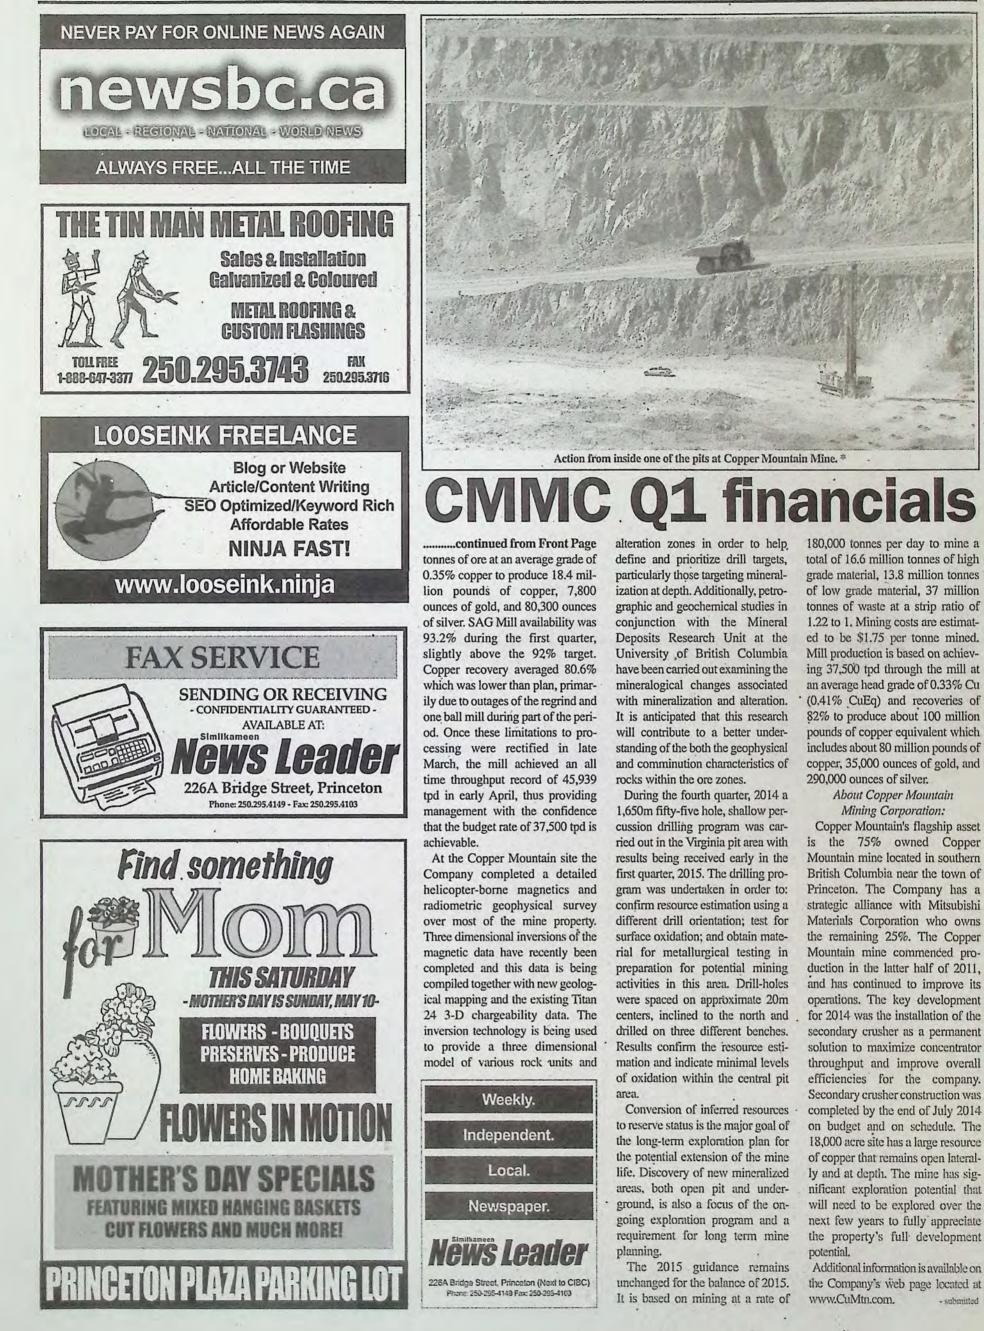

During the quarter the mill processed a total of 2.9 millioncontinued on Page 2

Flip Of The Coyne

by Spencer Coyne

If you haven't been following the Provincial election in Alberta you are missing history in the making. As of the last poll, the New Democrats were leading with 44% and the Wild Rose was in second with 26%. I was pretty skeptical when I first heard that the NDP was gaining support, but with only days until the provincial election I have to wonder if something big isn't happening in Alberta.

In the last provincial election in BC the NDP was going to win but then at the last minute lost it all. Even I saw the writing on the wall with that one. The Alberta election seems to be a little different. On Friday, the federal health minister spoke out against the NDP warning Albertans about looking for an alternative.

If Harper's Conservatives are going to start speaking out against the NDP in a provincial election, you have to wonder just how much the conservative parties have to be concerned about losing Alberta to the NDP. I don't blame Albertans for looking for a new home for their vote. The Conservatives have squandered oil revenues leaving nothing for an economic downturn and now Alberta is economically strapped, having to look for new ways to keep the lights on.

My Albertan friends don't seem upset about having to pay for services for the first time. They are upset that the government wasted money, didn't plan ahead and lied to them. Now they want change, and if that means supporting the NDP, so be it.

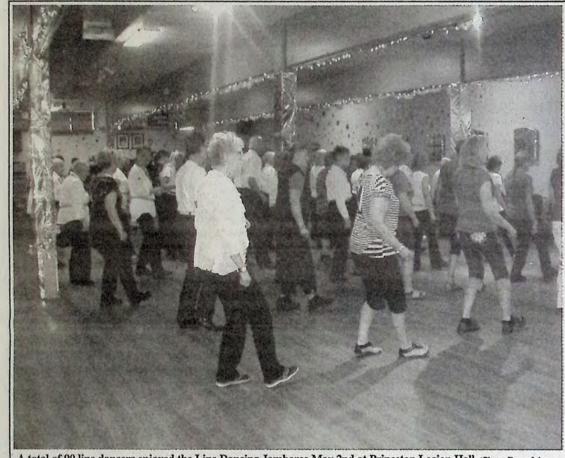

So what does this mean for Canada? The Conservatives seem to think it means that a certain biblical location is about to freeze over. What it really means is that if the NDP wins, it would be at the helm of Canada's economic engine and able to drive domestic policy like never before. If the Alberta NDP take a centre road with oil production, it could make their opposition to pipelines difficult. It could also make it hard for the Federal NDP to argue against the foreign workers program giving Harper ammunition in this fall's election. If the NDP in Alberta balance the budget and put people back to work before the Fall, it could be devastating for Harper. How can he attack the NDP if his base of support is supporting the NDP? Harper can't keep attacking Trudeau only. Eventually Harper will need to go toe to toe with the NDP, and if they win in Alberta on May 5, it could mark the beginning of the end for the Conservative hold on the province.

No matter what happens in Alberta's election, the fact still remains that Alberta is considering change and is becoming tired of its 'go-to' ballot option. Unless the Conservative movement goes back to its fiscally conservative base and back to supporting personal liberties over big brother policies, the entire conservative movement in Canada could be at risk. They talk big in Ottawa about how well Canada was prepared to weather the economic downturn because of their policies while conveniently forgetting the fiscal constraint and control Paul Martin and Chretien had while in power. Albertans are on the front lines of the neo-conservative fiscal policies and have been hit the hardest. No taxes sound great on paper, and like all economic mathematics, you have to pause time to get your piece of the pie. The problem is that time doesn't stand still and eventually, like my old economics professor would say, when prices go up so does production and then eventually it all comes back down. If you only factor in the up and ignore the down it is pretty hard to balance the books and pay for all those services you use. Nothing in this world is free, especially when you live in a capitalist economy. The Conservatives' experiment in Alberta might be coming to an end, and if it does, you can expect a ripple across the country one way or another.

Your Call Cannot Be Completed...

The Coalmont payphone story has been interesting to me.

And lucky for me residents in the area have been kind enough to keep me in the loop with copies of e-mails sent to Telus and larger media outlets.

The part I find interesting is that something I barely paid attention to in the rare times I have been in the Coalmont area is a big issue to those affected by the loss of that form of communication. Oddly enough, it is also the same reason that I see it as a serious problem.

In the world of internet and cell phone technology Coalmont is still under served. Reports indicate that even emergency crews have difficulty transmitting and receiving vital information from the area.

That alone would make me think that Telus needs to rethink their stand about not replacing the payphone. Should a major disaster hit the Coalmont area and communication issues surface I wouldn't want to be on the receiving end of a number of phone calls to the service provider or according to some - the service unprovider.

To their credit, Telus did hint that cell service would eventually creep into Coalmont but I doubt there will be a lot of residents keen on signing up for a three-year contract for something they used to have regular access to for far less of a commitment.

Rogers seems to be planting cell towers in areas around the region to expand their network. Possibly they could see sticking a low power mono pole (like the one in Hedley) as a great public relations move in essence kicking their competitors in the - a-hem - bells and saving the day by leaving a 'free to use' emergency cell phone somewhere sensible in Coalmont to remedy the situation.

What could turn into a major triumph by a corporation choosing to do the right thing has been lost on the emphasis on where the bottom line sits. Who cares what the traffic numbers are on any payphone? What should matter is that the residents of Coalmont can rest easy knowing that they have a link to the outside world the moment they may really need it.

Whether that's in the form of a phone booth or satellite phone link attached to the side of a building at least those customers are being served. I don't care that figures show that the payphone was rarely used (according to Telus). I don't think any of us in business in the downtown core would be willing to turn away a small percentage of our customer base because a paying customer is still a paying customer.

That is a fact I think Telus has forgotten. In the competitive world of phone communication they really aren't the only service available anymore - especially when you add cell phones and internet to the equation.

In today's business atmosphere none of us can afford to turn away any of our customers and based on that I think Telus needs to recalibrate its moral compass.

MP Alex Atamanenko Federal Election 2015

Our Big Chance to Bring Electoral Reform

In the last dozen years eight out of nine commissions or citizen assemblies created by governments in Canada have not only advocated getting rid of our firstpast-the-post (FPTP) electoral system but have recommended adopting MMP, or mixed-member-proportional representation.

In the upcoming 2015 federal election Tom Mulcair is offering Canadians a chance to change the current system by electing an NDP government with a strong mandate to implement MMP. The NDP is the only federal party that has consulted widely across the country to develop a clear way forward that is fully committed to bringing about electoral reform.

Here are just a few of the many things that are wrong with Canada's current FPTP electoral system:

1) It promotes false majorities in the House of Commons. There is no better example of this than Harper's Stephen current Conservative majority government won with less than 40% of the vote. And, because the Prime Minister has so much executive power embedded in the legislature, he has radically transformed our country by ramming through numerous pieces of legislation that were opposed by 60% of the electorate.

2) It exacerbates a false sense of regional differences. For example, although a full third of Albertans marked their ballots in 2011 for other parties only Conservatives MPs were elected. This result creates an image that the entire province is monolithically Conservative which is clearly untrue.

3) There is a consistent underrepresentation of women in our system.

4) It exacerbates adversarialism and hyper-partisanship rather than co-operation and compromise in legislative activity and government policy.

5) The role of MPs is undermined because voters have to choose, with one vote, the local representative they would like to have representing their constituency, the party they would like to see with the most seats in the House of Commons and, very often, which party leader they prefer.

All of these things, under a properly structured proportional representation system, would be dealt with and result in a more balanced democratic system.

Under the mixed member proportional (MMP) system favoured by the NDP, voters' preferences would be counted in two ways:

a) voters will elect a single MP to represent their constituency as they have always done; and

b) their votes will additionally count as part of the popular vote that determines a proportionate seat total for each party in the House of Commons. By combining a proportional representation of parties in Parliament with the direct election of an MP in each constituency - a party receiving 40% of the vote would gain only 40% of the seats.

This is the system that is being used quite successfully in New Zealand, Scotland and in Germany. These jurisdictions are electing a higher percentage of women and partisanship has decreased while civility, cooperation, and thoughtful debate leading to better policies have become the norm. Because it is rare for any given party to get over 50% of the popular vote (and thus over 50% of the seats) cooperation withcontinued on Page 18

What Is Our Earth Doing?

Dawn Johnson editor@thenewsleader.ca

I follow a few internet sites in which news about our planet's activities are the theme. The past few weeks have brought out some weird events.

First and foremost was the 7.8 earthquake in Nepal where thousands of people were killed. Many people in northern India died from the same quake. That quake shook Bangladesh as well. What you may not know is a second quake, 6.2 on the scale, hit one day later in the same region. It was not an aftershock. Between the two quakes and the numerous aftershocks, Nepal kept on shaking for days.

We keep hearing about the 'big one' on our own coastline. Using the quake in Nepal as an example, we could expect a lot of shaking in our own valley. In fact, the 'big' one' could likely be felt clear out to Calgary. Just a day before the quake in Nepal, there were three quakes in northern Idaho, moderate quakes in the 4 range, but they were felt in Cranbrook and Castlegar. The quakes were at the north end of the Pend d'Oreille lakes. The same day, there was a 6.2 jolt just south of the Queen Charlotte Island chain. The jolt was at the north tip of the Juan de Fuca plate, a skinny plate in the earth's crust that borders our west coast from northern California to the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The same day as the Nepal quake, a new beach rose up out of the sea on a peninsula on the east coast of Hokkaido, the island north of Fukushima. Japanese news media stated the new stretch of land is 1,000 feet long and rose 50 feet in one day, pushing up the former beach. The new beach is quite ugly, full of seabed junk and sea-washed boulders. The odd thing about this rising beach was it was not accompanied by any earthquake in the area, although there have been a number of quakes in the general area during the past few months. Quakes in Japan are common. Geophysicists in Japan stated the rise of the beach front is the result of movement in Earth's crust.

Imagine owning some nice beach front property on our coast and waking up one morning to discover a 17 metre high mound of seabed debris and boulders is now between your sandy beach and the sea! If it could happen in Japan, it could happen here. In 1960, a similar rise in the earth's occurred in the crust Mediterranean area. A 6.1 quake in Morocco and a series of aftershocks left some fishing boats high and dry at shallow water docks. The Mediterranean seabed rose at least a metre, more in some areas. Divers working in the Mediterranean Sea made some interesting archaeological discoveries which had not been visible before. On the coast of Sardinia, an entire Roman town was suddenly only two meters below the surface of the sea. A sea wall was built around it, the water pumped out, and it became a tourist attraction. It is called Nora.

What most people are not aware of is the high number of earthquakes in the Mediterranean for. the past two months. A 6.2 quake east of the island of Crete was followed by a number of aftershocks. However, Crete was just the largest quake during the one week extending from April 19 to April 26. In total, there were 101 quakes in the Mediterranean area during that week, and most of them were strong enough to be felt. No alarms were sounded worldwide, but some earth scientists are keeping a watch on the area.

Another article I read was about the discovery of a second magma pool under Yellowstone. The known magma chamber under Yellowstone contains enough lava to fill Grand Canyon. This second chamber is under the known chamber and is much larger than the first chamber. Geophysicists at the University of Utah mapped the second chamber and it goes deep into Earth's crust. Not only is it deep and wide, it is a peculiar shape, looking as if it is filling a huge crack in the crust. The geophysicists wonder if it is feeding the top magma pool. known What is about Yellowstone is that it sits at the edge of an earth rift that begins just east of Yellowstone and eventually forms Grand Canyon. The rift was discovered by satellite back in the 1980s when heat emissions from the land under Wyoming were mapped. Until then, nobody suspected a continental rift in North America. I was astonished at another bit of news in the same report about Yellowstone. It seems Yellowstone gives off 45,000 tonnes of carbon dioxide every day. I calculated an annual total of 16, 425,000 tonnes of carbon dioxide emitted from that one volcano. There are 48 erupting volcanoes in the world, spewing all kinds of crap into the atmosphere, and there are just as many volcanoes which are considered low-level, meaning they are giving off fumes all of the time. There are a total of 1,500 active volcanoes worldwide, most of them occasionally emitting fumes. I wonder just how much carbon dioxide these 1,500 volcanoes are putting into our atmosphere in a day?

There are more volcanoes erupting right now than the average 'yearly' total for the entire 20th century.

If there is one area of the world you should stay away from, it is Indonesia. This island chain has had three volcanic eruptions and daily earthquakes, ranging from 3 to 6 on the Richter scale. In one location, an entire city is on the move as a mud volcano keeps spewing mud into the city streets. Residents have to move out and find homes elsewhere. There were three volcanoes erupting in late April and 19 more on alert. People in Indonesia live on the edge every day.

We live on an evolving planet. Earth is doing something every day. We cling to an illusion of control, like the illusion we can control carbon dioxide emissions, but our planet is doing its own thing. All we can do is watch what happens.

Beekeepers of the South Okanagan and Similkameen are asking residents to report bee swarms. Volunteer bee keepers will come to where swarms are located and collect them.

Bees generally swarm in later April or early May but can occasional swarm later in the summer. A bee swarm happens when the queen bee leaves a colony with a large group of worker bees to establish a new colony.

Up to 60% of the bees in the hive, which could total thousands of bees, will leave the old colony all .

at once. Swarming is the natural means of reproduction that in the wild allows for new colonies to be established.

"Seeing a swarm in flight is incredibly impressive," explains Tim Bouwmeester a local bee keeper.

"It is something you will remember for the rest of your life."

Although impressive, a swarm is in not dangerous.

Without larvae to protect the bees will rarely sting. The bees will often form into a large ball on trees or overhangs. This protects the queen and keeps the bees warm until they can find a new home. This is the best time to capture a colony as the bees are often sluggish and easy to handle.

Bouwmeester thinks capturing swarms is best for the bees and homeowners. A new bee colony can cost well over $100 to purchase.

Capturing swarms is an affordable way for beekeepers to get a new colony. Uncaptured swarms can also cause problems for homeowners.

"Bees have been known to find small openings in roofs. If they establish a colony in the roof they can cause a mess and often need to be exterminated. Having bee keepers capture them and take care of them is the best alternative for everyone."

To report a swarm anywhere around Penticton, Summerland, Oliver, Osoyoos or anywhere in the Similkameen Valley you are asked to contact Tim Bouwmeester via e-mail at tim_bouwmeester@yahoo.ca or 250-770-1434 who will then contact a local beekeeper to pick up the swarm. submitted

Steering committee shares meeting details

The Princeton Health Care Steering Committee (PHCSC) held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, April 21 at Princeton General Hospital. The meeting was attended by representatives from the Town of Princeton, Area H (RDOS), health care practitioners, Interior Health, and SOHC.

A report from the Shared Care Committee provided the latest figures on the Princeton Access to Specialists program. Since January 2014, there have been approximately 60 specialist outreach clinics and over 450 patient appointments in association with the project. Specialty areas presently being covered include Cardiology, General Internal Medicine, General Surgery, GP Mental Health and Substance Use, Orthopaedics, Psychiatry, Paediatrics, Nephrology, Respirology, Rheumatology, and Urology, with more specialty areas being explored.

Living Past 100

To be really healthy, you have to analyze what you think about and what effect those thoughts have on your health. A typical example comes from thinking about the loss of a loved one. You feel sad; you feel the need to be comforted, you may even feel lost, as if you don't know what to do next. Your body reacts to the stress of your thoughts. Your immune system is less efficient. You may feel tired, and your muscles may ache. You may not feel like eating.

The connection between the mind and body is well documented these days. Go on the internet and search 'mind body health' and suddenly you have page after page of sites that will tell you how to deal with all kinds of symptoms of ailments caused by what you think.

Do you know you can control pain with your mind? Do you know people who have beaten serious illnesses by deciding they were not going to let the illness beat them? Have you heard of people who made amazing recoveries, actually pulled themselves from death's door, just by deciding they would not die?

There are thousands of stories about people who beat the odds, but many of us have no idea how important their thinking was in helping them beat the odds.

Some people think the only way to gain health is to think positive thoughts. Others believe they cannot control their thoughts so how can they change what is wrong with them. Both approaches are incorrect. Unless diagnosed with a peculiar disorder that prevents controlling your thoughts, you and nearly everybody you know can decide what to think and what not to think. People who control their thoughts actually decide for themselves what they will think about. People who live well-organized lives, who plan each day, appear to be better able to cope with life's stresses. By making plans, they are focused on the immediate future, and they are focused on action. Even when dealing with emergencies, disasters, or chaotic conditions, these people decide what to focus on. They can handle emergencies, take positive action in disasters, and often create order out of chaos.

If you want to know more about the connection between what you think about and what your thoughts do to your health, there are many websites and many books about this subject. They may give you a lot more to think about and more techniques for making your life healthier. . On February 19, Dr. Ella Monro joined Dr. Brian Forzley and Lisa Needoba to give a presentation on the Access to Specialists program at the 2015 Quality Forum in Vancouver. Organized by the BC Patient Safety and Quality Council, the forum is attended by health care practitioners and administrators from across the province.

Ed Staples and Dr. Ella Monro reported on the newly formed Healthcare Sustainability Society that is raising funds to support the recruitment and retention of doctors for our community.

Marilyn Harkness gave a report on recent developments involving the South Okanagan Healthy Living Coalition. The Coalition is working with the Town Council in their efforts to pass a Smoke Free Outdoor Places bylaw for Princeton. Harkness provided information on the healthy eating initiative and local plans to raise community awareness of the health dangers of over consumption of sugar.

Jennifer Clement was welcomed as the new staff representative on the Steering Committee. Clement is the social worker at Princeton General Hospital.

Crimson Tine farce was great

The Crimson Tine Players did an excellent job of producing and acting an Italian farce in their latest presentation The Servant of Two Masters. Kudoes go to set builder Martin Riel and set painter Grace Truesdell. They made Italy of 400 years ago come to life. Costume manager (and Director) Heather Anderson and seamstress Anne Williams added to the period piece. The costumes were well done.

The evening began with a short sketch featuring the youngest players plus one adult, Pattyann Peal (who later had the role of head waiter at the Italian inn).

This sketch was created for the many youngsters who auditioned for the main play. The short play was about a greedy pet shop owner. It was inspired by Monty Python sketches, and drew a lot of laughter. The young actors were Abbagael Fulton, Nathan Anderson, Delorian Osborne, Ryan Francis, Meagyn Tinney, and Marcus Fulton.

The main play centered around the antics of a devious servant, Truffaldino Battochio, played by Bobby Gibb, who gave it his all, including an impromptu dance performance. The plot incorporates all of the twists of a typical farce, including mistaken identities, undying love, swordplay, and buffoonery. Truffaldino attempts to serve two masters, one of which is actually a mistress played by Taylor Gibb. Isabella Brodie was delightful as Truffaldino's love interest. Shawn Cavanaugh was the father of Victoria Gibb in her role as Clarice Pantalone, who believed she would be forced into a marriage with a man she did not love, while the man she did love, played by Dayton Wales, promised to fight for her. His father, Doctor Lombardi, was out to protect his son's rights, and Dick Bird seemed perfect for the role. Natasha was Brighella Ferdinand Gaviochio, a friend of the family. Jordyn McIvor was priceless as the first porter, and Delorian Gibb as the second overburdened porter. Rui Ferreira de Silva Jr. was believable as the man who killed the brother of his beloved in a sword duel.

The roles were challenging, but the actors did a commendable performance, well supported by Sylvia Bailey (producer), Dawn Gardner (props, stage manager), Dianne Rainer (props designer) Lou Terryberry (prompter) and Guadalupe Gutierrez (make-up artist). Peter Rytkonen did sound and lighting. Paul Huycke was in charge of advertising sales and distribution. Esther Donovan and helpers ran the front of the house and concession. Other helpers were Dave Rainer, David Rowe, and Eli Lee of Princeton Castle Resort, who loaned costumes.

Naturalists improvise in snowy conditions by Janis Wright, VFFN Eight Vermilion Forks Field Naturalists had to quickly form a plan B on Saturday, April 25th, when our route to Barcelo Falls, east of Keremeos, was blocked because of the highway closure. The base of Stemwinder Mountain was within view, so we took the path of

PRINCETON MUSEUM ARCHIVING WORKSHOP SATURDAY MAY 9, 2015 11AM-3PM

Do you have old photos, slides or family documents that you just aren't sure how to properly store and preserve?

Bring your "troubled" documents and photos for assessment

4 hour seminar with a break for lunch

Learn about archival quality techniques, materials, tips and tricks and ensure your memories are not lost! Participants will get a "goodie bag"

$25.00 per person

At the Princeton Museum 167 Vermilion Avenue 250-295-7588 Email: princetonmuseum@gmail.com PRE-REGISTRATION REQUIRED least resistance and drove up to Kilometre 7, where we embarked on a trail to the top of the mountain. This is a similar trek to one we did on snowshoes in the winter, but we managed to take a slightly different route this time.

Snow on the ground and trees made for a picturesque trek, and as we began climbing we felt as though we'd stepped back a season and entered a winter wonderland! The morning was cool but we kept warm with the exercise and after 1 1/4 hours we reached the top, where we were enveloped in fog.

Nevertheless, we stayed awhile to relax, eat and drink, and as we watched, the curtains of mist began to part and we were able to enjoy partial views of Mascot Mine across the valley, and extended views of the Similkameen River to the east. Patches of blue sky began to appear and we hoped for sunshine, but instead it began to snow as we headed back down the mountain, and during the last half of our return trip we were beset by a mini blizzard! The 2 1/2 hour outing was great fun, and Rika promises to reschedule the Barcelo Falls field trip in the near future.

Our next field trip will be Saturday, May 9th, when Charlotte Sellers will lead us on a hike to the Cinder Cone. Please phone 250-295-6079 to confirm attendance and meet at Billy's Restaurant parking lot at 9:00 AM.

Our next meeting will be held 7:00 PM on Tuesday, May 12th at Riverside Centre, with guest speaker Rob Marshall, whose topic of interest is "Weyerhaeuser Projects in Princeton." The public is always welcome to attend either field trips or meetings!

Saving Downtown Princeton...

The Plan

Would you like to reduce your overall tax bill? Are you currently saving for a home, cottage, car or vacation? Have you maxed out your RRSP contributions and looking for another way to shelter investment income from tax?

The new Tax-Free Savings Account¹ [TFSA] will help with all of the above, and more. Talk to us today to determine how the TFSA could fit into your overall plan. Save for your goals faster and tax free.

a 2017 maximum contribution of $500 per perfractionarial tanks by GMF narcut for an entries 1 ject. They have given it the awkward title of "Princeton Downtown Rejuvenation Venture" but in reality it is something that has needed to > be done for quite some time. The idea resulted from those regular meetings I have written about here that took place over a year ago when Town Council pooled local business owners and operators together to try to find solutions to the local economy.

> One of the ideas to come out of those meetings was a plan to see local businesses clean up their appearance with the hopes that in following years the program would be expanded to go beyond the downtown business core. It's not a new idea by any means but it is something that we sometimes forget about when those of us in business in the community are too busy trying to conduct business.

There are a lot of things I like about bringing back a business clean up program. I've mentioned it before in this column that clean streets and inviting business storefronts generate interest. The example I have used before is how I look at storefronts when visiting a different community. I am more likely to explore a business that is easy to park near, has an attractive storefront and looks interesting from the front door.

Once inside I am likely to look around (and maybe buy something) if I'm acknowledged by staff, the aisles are not cluttered and difficult to walk down and the overall appearance of the inside of the business is tidy and clean. I figure that if the business owner and staff are happy to see me and treat their business/job as something they like, I should feel that vibe off of them. Also, if they have pride in what they do and the service they provide, it should also show in how the business looks inside and out.

Essentially that is what the "Princeton Downtown Rejuvenation Venture" is all about, but in baby steps. The first step is the designation of April and May by both the Town and Chamber as "Clean-Up Months."

For many of us downtown business owners we rent our location so we are restricted in what cosmetic changes we can do to our storefronts. However, that does not mean we can't take care of some of the outside details. For our business we keep washing our windows, sweeping the sidewalk in front and picking up garbage. These are really not hard for any of us to do and for a visitor it shows we have some pride in our business.

At the very least it is a start and all that is happening here is a 'steal' from the real estate industry where the teaching is that curb appeal can snag a sale. It's the same with customers. Using my example above of what I look for when in a different community, I rarely go into a business that does not attract me by catching my eye.

Let's face it, we all use this time of year to spruce up our yards and living space, why wouldn't that same exercise extend to our businesses and places of work? What we need to remember is that the downtown business clean up is not just to attract out of town business, either. For the majority of us in business in downtown Princeton the bulk of our revenue comes from residents in and around the community. We need to keep them coming back by treating them as we would want to be treating when we are supporting the local economy.

That means that this year's exterior clean up is just the tip of the iceberg. As Spencer mentioned in a recent column of his, programs like the old SuperHost can teach staff in retail locations a lot about providing service that brings customers back in the door. The importance in that is the money spent by repeat customers also provides some indirect job security to the staff working there.

I see the jointly-sponsored Town of Princeton and Chamber of Commerce "Princeton Downtown Rejuvenation Venture" as the start of something great and a fresh new spin on an old idea we are in need of implementing in our community. How does this save downtown Princeton?

Simple.

When you go out of town and to a street lined with businesses you have never seen before what makes you walk down that street and what makes you go into any of the businesses there? More often than not it will have something to do with how that business looks to you from the outside.

Cleaning the exteriors of downtown businesses, whether that's washing windows or sweeping the sidewalk and hosing down the storefront, makés a business look more attractive to customers. Attracting customers keeping downtown business alive.

2015 Youth Ambassador Candidate Victoria Gibb

Victoria Gibb is a 16 year old grade 11 student at PSS. She was born in Prince George and moved to Princeton while still an infant. Recently, Victoria finished her lifeguarding course at our local pool. She enjoys teaching kids of all ages how to swim, and looks forward to continuing to teach water safety. Victoria likes the outdoors; being around plants and animals, and star gazing. She loves the company of others; playing board games and listening to music with them. Victoria's passion is dancing. She is often the first to get up on the dance floor, encouraging others to join her. She loves to see people smile and does her very best to make everyone happy. Victoria's favourite subject in school is Art, especially painting and drawing. She also enjoys Biology, as she likes to learn about the human body and how it works. This interest may lead Victoria to becoming a Mortician. Victoria is very proud to be sponsored by Cooper's Foods. *

Highway Improvements Benefit The Riding

As summer gets closer, those who travel our highways will begin to see more road improvement projects throughout Fraser-Nicola.

These are all part of 'B.C. on the Move,' our government's 10-year plan for the improvement of our province's transportation network.

We don't generally like having our drives interrupted by delays for road-construction crews, but B.C. is no different than anyplace else: most of this kind of work has to be done when the weather is best, and that means late spring, summer and early fall - the prime driving season.

There are several projects in our riding that are either underway, nearing construction or at the tender phase.

Of great interest to everybody in and around Princeton, 5.3 kilometres of Highway 3 from Sunday Summit to Sunday Creek will be widened and realigned to straighten curves and improve sightlines, including four kilometres of new climbing lanes. This federalprovincial project is expected to be completed in the fall of 2017.

Also near Princeton, Highway 3 will be upgraded to three lanes at Saturday Creek, including 2.5metre paved shoulders, with an estimated completion in fall 2016. Elsewhere in the riding:

On the Coquihalla Highway near Merritt, a Variable Speed Limit System will be installed at Ottomite Bridge (Portia Interchange to the former toll plaza). The system includes message signs, road weather information system stations, web cameras, pavement condition and temperature sensors, visibility sensors and variable speed limit signage. Completion is scheduled for next winter.

Near Ashcroft, a 6.1-km section of Highway 1 from the Ashcroft fourlane to the junction of Highway 97C will be resurfaced.

On Highway 1, the Walhachin Bridge re-decking project, to be completed this spring, will return the bridge to full load capacity.

These projects and dozens like them around the province this summer are part of our government's commitment to enhance safety, grow the economy, maintain and replace aging infrastructure, and support trade for B.C.'s resource sectors.

NVIT receives funding

The provincial government has provided the Nicola Valley Institute of Technology with $138,720 for 36 critical trade seats to reduce wait times for students entering an in-demand trade profession.

NVIT's funding will go toward the following programs:

Electrical: 20 Foundation seats Plumbing: 16 Foundation seats

As the Nicola Valley Institute of Technology is not yet an Industry Training Authority designated training provider, these seats will be delivered in partnership with Okanagan College.

"These new seats right here in Merritt mean more students from our region will be able to continue their journey toward a rewarding and well-paying career," Fraser-Nicola MLA Jackie Tegart said. "Working in the trades requires a high level of training and expertise, and I'm proud that this funding will make these new opportunities a reality for students here at home."

NVIT's support is part of a $6.1million initiative to fund 1,429 additional critical trade seats this year in 14 public post-secondary institutions throughout the province and supports B.C.'s Skills for Jobs Blueprint.

Foundation training programs provide students with the basic knowledge and skills needed for entry into a particular occupation. Students receive credit for the first level of apprenticeship training in a specific field by the Industry Training Authority (ITA) upon successful completion.

The Princeton Girl Guides and Brownies went on a sleepover adventure at the Vancouver Aquarium on April 25 and 26. Everyone had an incredible time, stopping in Manning Park, Hope and Stanley Park before embarking on the adventure of a life time - a behind the scenes tour and a sleep along side the Beluga Whale tank. The staff at the Aquarium were incredible and the program ran smoothly. The coordinator, Lora Nield from Summerland, who had been planning the trip for a year, had her Brownie daughter fall very ill a day before the trip, and both were unable to attend. We'd like to thank her very much for her planning and time! On behalf of the Guiding Community of Princeton, we'd like to thank all who bought Girl Guide Cookies and in any way supported our efforts. A very important and huge THANK YOU FROM PRINCETON BROWNIES shout out goes to Butch Kavanaugh! A long-time supporter of the Brownies, Butch single-handedly brought in contributors such as Rotary, Tri-Valley, K&M Trucking, Mac's Auto Parts, Princeton Redi Mix, and other giving individuals.
